Most stylish looking women know simple ways to make last season's things conform to this season's styles. Thousands of them have learned how easily they can transform a dress or blouse, or coat, by the quick magic of home tinting or dyeing. With true, fadeless Diamond Dyes, anyone can do this successfully. The "knowhow" is in the dyes Diamond Dyes don't streak or spot like inferior dyes. New, fashionable tints appear like magic over the out-of-style or faded colors. Tinting with Diamond Dyes is easy as bluing and dyeing takes just a little more time. Only Diamond Dyes produce perfect results. They have been perfected by over 50 years' experience. Insist on them and save disappointment.

TONG WARFARE STARTS AGAIN

Five Chinese Dead and Three Wounded As Result of Pistol Duels.

IN THREE U. S. CITIES.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—(Canadian Press).—Two Chinese, both believed to be members of the Hip Sing Tong, were killed Sunday night by a Chinese who escaped within two hours after the slaying of a third member of the Hip Sing. Police were inclined to the theory that Hip Sing Tongman have been venturing too close to a rival faction's district.

ONE AT WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press).—One Chinese is dead and three are wounded as a result of what is believed to have been an outburst of Tong warfare here Sunday night.

ONE IN PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16.—(Canadian Press).—What police said was a flareup in Tong warfare here cost the life of Lin Sing, 72, late Sunday night. He was shot to death in a pistol duel in the Chinese district.

To break a cold harmlessly and in a hurry try an Aspirin tablet. And for headache. The action of Aspirin is very efficient, too, in cases of neuralgia, neuritis, even rheumatism and lumbago! And there's no after effect; doctors give Aspirin to children—often infants. Whenever there's pain, think of Aspirin. The genuine Aspirin has Bayer on the box and on every tablet. All druggists, with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) indicating Bayer Manufacture. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to ensure the public against imitations, the Tablets will be stamped with their "Bayer Cross" Trademark.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

By MARION

WELL, the Produced in Canada Exhibition is open at last—we have been looking forward to it for a long time. And it is well-worth waiting for.

My expectations in regard to the Women's Section, expressed a few days ago, have been more than realized, but, unfortunately, the good things provided were not taken advantage of to their fullest possibilities yesterday.

Perhaps this is because of the difficulty many found in locating the Women's Section, and I would like to suggest to the managers of the fair that they place several signs throughout the hall directing us to where we should go.

In case they don't, I'm going to tell you that our section is upstairs, in the south west corner room. There are several exhibits in the room and in adjoining rooms, that will be well worth a visit, and twice a day, except Thursday, there are demonstrations and addresses specially for women, delivered by women.

Tomorrow night, in addition to the address, there will be a musical prelude.

* * *

On Thursday, Dr. Edmund King, chief judge of babies at the Canadian National Exhibition, will address the mothers of children entered in the Kiwanis Club competition, and others interested.

On Friday there will be a visit by my contemporary of the Mail and Empire Miss White, known to many as "Bride Broder." Her subject afternoon and evening will be "Woman the Buyer," I am told. Mrs. Muldrew, Soldier's Settlement Board, Ottawa, will add to the program an address on "Our Immediate Problems."

Saturday will disclose a local speaker, in the person of Mrs. Macoun, Campbellford, well known in Women's Institute circles, in two addresses, "Women's Responsibilities of To-Day" and "The Two Great Professions." Mrs. Forbes Allen will speak on "Victorian Women versus Modern Women."

It seems to me that these addresses give us an opportunity to broaden our horizons. It will be recalled that a few days ago I mentioned the need of articulation among women if we are to achieve that advancement we so much desire among our sex. But before that must come the gaining of knowledge, and all of these addresses will add to our store.

Then, too, the exhibits of painted fabrics, gesso work, etc., are very interesting and instructive. One is amazed by the wonderful work done by one-armed and paralyzed veterans.

I do hope that no woman reader will miss the opportunity offered by the Exhibition. It would not only be a great loss to individuals, but a blow to advancement in the way of women's sections, if the special items were not patronized.

Would you like another autumn hat if you could get one for the price of less than a yard of wool jersey? If you would, then be sure to send for this week's circular, which shows a new French turban made of jersey and gives the diagram pattern from which you can quite easily make one for yourself. It is just the thing for motoring, sports or, if made to match your autumn suit, is appropriate for general street wear.

I was delighted yesterday to receive a letter of approbation from Jaeta, society editor of an Ontario metropolitan daily. It is indeed, delightful to know one's work is approved not only by one's neighbors, but by experts in other cities. Thanks Jaeta.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

Flat bows of blue velvet ribbon give a new touch to this nightgown of flesh-colored crepe de chine trimmed with lace.

Never before in the history of the world has so much velvet been used for women's clothes as at present. And the woman who likes to follow obediently in the ways that fashion leads wears some one of the pile fabrics for all occasions. Velvet overblouses for daytime wear, velvet ensembles for formal afternoon occasions, velvet two-piece suits for street wear, velvet negligees, velvet evening gowns, velvet hats and velvet shoes.

The world of fashion seems to have gone velvet mad. The limit of this velvet madness has been reached, I think, in the new nightgowns and chemises made of transparent velvet—but just because I cannot imagine wearing such garments with any sort of comfort or convenience I am not showing a sketch of either. Instead I am showing you a really practical little nightgown of flesh-colored crepe de chine and lace trimmed with blue velvet bows at the shoulders.

Velvet shoulder straps are used on many of the new step-ins, nightgowns and slips. If you don't begrudge the time spent in removing the straps when the garments are washed and cleaning the velvet separately there is no reason why you should not adopt the fashion. A narrow velvet ribbon shoulder strap for an evening slip has a decided advantage over one of ordinary satin because it clings to the material of the frock and does not slip.

A charming new combination I saw the other day was made of pure white crepe de chine trimmed with chocolate-colored alencon lace and from the wide lace inset at the top of the garment there were shoulder straps of chocolate-colored velvet ribbon. A nightgown of distinction was made of white silk voile trimmed with black lace with a belt of black velvet ribbon. French lingerie makers seem to favor lace of a tone darker than the material used for the garment, and lace and net of a deep beige, coffee or chocolate tone are used on both flesh colored and white crepe de chine, silk voile and georgette.

HUBBARD SQUASH

(Contributed by Mrs. D. M., Warsaw.)
Someone in Saturday's Examiner asks how to cook Hubbard Squash. Cut it in halves—a saw may be needed. Scrape out the seeds and surrounding fibres, leaving the firm flesh clean. Invert on a metal pan, bake in an hot oven until the flesh is soft, probably about two hours, the outer shell will be inclined to sink. Remove from oven, turn squash over, use shell as a dish and scrape all the pulp, it will if properly cooked, come off to the shell. Mix in butter, pepper and salt. I like a little rich milk if it seems too dry, or cream may be used instead of butter and milk; reheat in the shell, and turn into a hot dish.

Another method with a small squash is to cut a square three or four inches in one side; scoop out seeds and soft tissue, have cooked giblets, minced, and perhaps a little of the fowl mixed with bread crumbs, butter, pepper, salt, and herbs to taste. Put inside squash, do not have it full, put on the lid, place in the oven, and bake, about two hours.

The half that is not used may be wrapped and cooked later.

Any that is left may be re-heated in the double boiler by adding a little more butter and milk, and makes a nice, hot supper dish.

BRIGHT WINDOW

A rather drab dining room was made quite cheerful by painting a flower pot stand a Chinese lacquer red and all the pots holding greenery the same bright red.

FRESH HUCKLEBERRIES

Cover washed, fresh huckleberries with powdered sugar and sprinkle a little orange juice over them instead of serving with cream. It is a pleasing change.

MEXICAN SQUASH

Cubes of summer squash, par-boiled, are delicious baked in a casserole covered with hot tomato sauce, bread crumbs and a dash of butter.

MARION'S MAIL

Address correspondence to Marion, at The Examiner Office.

"Dear Marion,
I receive your page every day here at my office, and no one knows better than I how hard it is to keep a column interesting. Just thought I'd forget conventionalities and tell you how I really enjoy your work.
You seem to be fortunate in receiving many interesting letters—a word of appreciation helps a lot, I know. I have only been here several months, but am keeping two columns going. I find that making "Heads" for my feature work is a real joy.
So, just remember that your overtime work—which I know you do—is appreciated by another editor each morning.
Good luck,
Jaeta."

Thanks very much, Jaeta; a word of appreciation DOES help! I have often admired your Women's pages, and wondered where you gathered all the news about bridge parties and so on.
I receive a great deal of help from readers—in fact, I am proud to say that my correspondents practically make the page. We hope to branch out soon into two pages—and then I MUST work overtime. It is now 2.30 a.m. as I write this, so I am quite used to it!

"Dear Marion,
I wish to thank you for the splendid help this week. The little wool flowers are just what I require for a sweater I am knitting, and I didn't know where to get instructions until your offer came in.
While I enjoy all your writing, and agree with most, I must disagree with you on smoking among women. I think it's a simply beastly habit for them. Certainly, I would not like to see my daughter smoking.
In our house we have a scrap every evening over the Women's Page since you started it. It is so interesting that we all wish to read it at the same time.
I wish you all kinds of success.
Yours sincerely,
Mrs. W."

I am glad you were so pleased with the help, Mrs. W., and that you like our page. It IS neighborly, isn't it, to see so many women give their hints and recipes?
I'm always glad to receive a letter telling a different viewpoint from mine, and I can quite appreciate your ideas on smoking. You will notice, however, that while I condone this habit among women because it is just a habit, I never sponsor it. There's quite a difference between excusing a thing and advising it.

DO STARS "EAT" METEORS?

Stars grow; and, like all growing things, they need food for fuel. They get their food by consuming meteors with which they collide while hurtling through space.
Such are the fascinating theories advanced in Popular Science Monthly by Dr. Harlow Shapley, of the Harvard University Observatory. Even our own little earth, he says, "swallows" about thirty million shooting stars a day. The sun and other great stars consume enormous numbers.
That is how the stars replenish the energy they expend in radiation, and keep from dying. In one second, says Dr. Shapley, our sun expends 4,000,000 tons of its substance in sending us light and heat; but in that same second a thousand million meteors drop into Old Sol's hungry jaws.

RADIO OVERHAULING

Radios should be overhauled carefully in the autumn to get best results. Battery connections, tubes and ground connections should all be examined and put in shape.

Fresh tomatoes should be used lavishly now. An inexpensive luncheon dish is made of tomatoes stuffed with cottage cheese and chopped green peppers and cucumbers. Serve with parsley French dressing.

"A delicate subject —but these girls must be told"
—a dean of women says

Unfortunately this delicate subject is seldom discussed. Now, a new patented process deodorizes this scientific sanitary pad completely

EVEN among girls who are very frank with each other, there is a question of daintiness, of fastidious personal care that is unfortunately seldom mentioned. Yet many women are unconsciously guilty. At certain times they are seriously offensive to others. With realization comes constant fear and worry.

Today these fears are ended. Science has discovered a way to counteract this offense.

Kotex now completely deodorizes

Kotex has brought a new idea of feminine hygiene to women all over the world. In the past ten years they have learned new comfort, new ease of mind through this sanitary protection. Now, after years of work, a process has been perfected that completely, amazingly ends all odors. In Kotex laboratories the one remaining problem in connection with sanitary pads is solved.

Shaped to fit, too

Because corners of the pad are rounded and tapered, it may be worn without evidence under the most clinging gown. There is none of that conspicuous bulkiness so often associated with old-fashioned methods. And you can adjust the filler, make it thinner, thicker, narrower—to suit your own special needs. It is easily disposed of, no laundering is necessary. A new process makes it softer than ever before.

Buy a box today... 60c for twelve. On sale at all drug, dry goods and departmental stores.

Deodorizes . . . and 4 other important features:

1—Softer gauze ends chafing; pliable filler absorbs as no other substance can;
2—Corners are rounded and tapered; no evidence of sanitary protection under any gown;
3—Deodorizes—safely, thoroughly, by a new and exclusive patented process;
4—Adjust it to your needs; filler may be made thinner, thicker, narrower as required;
and

INFLAMMATION OF THE EYE

Inflammation of the eyeball, termed conjunctivitis, is indicated by a reddish bloodshot appearance, usually accompanied by a discharge from the mucous membranes of the eye and may be caused by several distinct diseases.

The most frequent disease that attacks the eye is acute catarrhal inflammation which causes a bright redness on the surface of the eyeball, with a feeling of pain and dryness, extreme sensitiveness to light and a copious mucus secretion, at first having the consistency of tears. This turns into a glue-like pus as the disease progresses and may even fasten the eyelids together during the night.

This disease frequently follows measles, smallpox, influenza, colds and scarlet fever. Sometimes the disease, instead of being acute is chronic in nature and lasts for a longer time, but usually without as violent symptoms.

A chronic catarrh of the eye may be caused by eye strain, irritation from foreign particles, smoke or other causes. The eye is reddened, but there is not as much supply of mucus present.

Another type of inflammation of the eye, or conjunctivitis is known as trachoma, and is often called granulated eyelids. In this disease, small pus lumps appear on the under surface of the eye-lids. This disease is quite contagious and is usually carried from one person to another by towels or by the hands.

There is another very dangerous type of conjunctivitis that often results in blindness resulting from a gonorrhea infection that may be carried either on towels or the hands. This disease begins very much like the acute conjunctivitis but also causes a pronounced swelling of the front of the eyeball, accompanied by a thick pus discharge. The eyelids are sometimes so greatly enlarged as to be pushed forward entirely concealing the eyeball. There is a severe pain and tenderness accompanied by some fever.

This disease frequently results in blindness, as it may produce a sloughing off of the cornea or front of the eye, and permit the escape of the gelatinous interior of the eyeball. Even if this does not occur, the cornea usually becomes more or less opaque. The disease is very contagious. A sad part is that this disease often occurs in babies about the third day after birth from infection during birth. Practically every nation now requires that the doctor place some weak antiseptic in the baby's eyes as a protection against this occurring.

The simpler types of conjunctivitis can be handled with an acid fruit fast, and the renewed application of cold wet cloths to the eyes.

A person with conjunctivitis should of course be kept away from the possibility of infecting others, and his eyes should be guarded against light until the inflammation has subsided. The gonorrheal type of conjunctivitis is very dangerous, and while a fasting regime accompanied by wet compresses is helpful, it is also necessary that your doctor employ antiseptic measures to overcome this trouble in its early stages before it has an opportunity to destroy the precious eyesight.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Extracting a Wisdom Tooth.

Question: E. C. writes: "I have been having trouble with my wisdom teeth. Is it necessary to have these extracted?"

Answer: I do not advise extracting the wisdom teeth unless they are badly decayed or so far out of their normal position as to injure the jaw or other teeth. The widom tooth is as valuable as any other tooth, and it assists in filling out the jaw. Better get the opinion of more than one dentist.

Prolapsed Stomach.

Question: Mrs. R. D. S. writes: "I am very interested in your health and diet advice, and would like to ask what causes fallen or low stomach and intestines. Is this a serious condition? What can be done for same by diet or exercise?"

Answer: Prolapsus of the stomach and intestines comes from the abdominal muscles being too weak to hold these organs in position. Since man has learned to walk upright it has been found necessary to develop the abdominal muscles to an extraordinary degree, or the abdominal viscera tends to slip down into the lowest part of the pelvis. Exercises, particularly those taken while lying on the back, are a sure cure, but must be persisted in even for months to get complete results. Diet has an effect only as it influences the general health and strength.

Gray Hair.

Question: Mrs. W. F. asks: "Is there any kind of food one should eat that would bring more color to the hair when it is beginning to turn gray?"

Answer: The use of plenty of green vegetables unquestionably has some effect on preventing the graying of hair, but there is no one single food I know of which is a specific to be used in keeping the hair its natural color.

There is a first-rate sign for education and this seems to promise a banner year for colleges.

The seers declare that in the world many young geniuses are now maturing to take the place of the great men and women whose careers are closing.

World events are to require tremendous wisdom and great foresight, it is prophesied, and super men and super women are preparing to meet supreme demands upon humanity.

This should be a lucky sway for making new acquaintances of the opposite sex. Casual or unexpected meetings are most fortunate today.

There is a sign of promise for important letters, provided they do not concern love affairs.

This is an auspicious rule for editors and writers who will have much of importance to publish as the year closes.

After the early morning hours, financial transactions are well directed. Wives may expect generous responses for fall dress expenditures if they make requests under this planetary government.

Heavy rains and unusual fogs may be expected in many parts of the country through the next five weeks. More floods are threatened.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of journeys that bring profit in the coming year. They should succeed in financial matters, but should beware of deception.

Children born on this day probably will be strongly individual and original. These Libra subjects often have too many interests in life and should be taught concentration.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY THINGS ARE NOT AS THEY SEEM

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.

(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

Is a tree a tree?

Of course a tree is a tree. It seems foolish to ask such a question until you try to give reasons. Some of the most obvious things in the world, things that we all take for granted, are the most difficult to explain. Appearances are deceiving. Things are not always as they seem.

What is color? Anyone, even a tiny child who is not color blind can distinguish between red and blue, between yellow and green and the various contrasting shades and tints that run into many thousands. But what is color itself? Is red red? Is it a definite object or the quality of an object?

We are told that color is the effect produced by the difference in the wave lengths of light, that white light is made up of all the colors which may be broken up by a prism into the colors of the rainbow. The rainbow itself is said to be the result of sunlight broken up by the particles of water in the air acting as a prism. Every object is capable of reflecting light waves. The color of any object is determined by the length of the light waves reflected.

And yet color as we know it is anything but wave lengths of light. In other words, color is not what it appears to be.

What is true of color is true of sound and may also be true of everything we see and hear and experience with any or all of our senses. Thus a tree may be in reality something entirely different from what it appears to be.

The German philosophers long ago contended that it is impossible for us to know the thing in itself. The reason is that we can never experience objects directly. The best we may do is to get some impression of it through one or more of our senses. We might see what we call a tree, also feel of it, and possibly taste and smell it but all this does not bring the tree into our minds. All that you can possibly have in your mind is a concept, an idea of the tree. The tree itself can never enter your mind.

Appearances are indeed deceiving and things are not always as they seem. The plainest facts of everyday life are the most difficult to explain. When we try to explain them we feel like the man who said that he knew the answer until he was asked to give it.

LYRICS OF LIFE

OUR OWN

If I could do one thing you thought was good,
If I could say one thing you thought was wise,
I would not care how men misunderstood
If I could find approval in your eyes.
The thing we struggle for is not the prize,
Nor fame nor fortune for ourselves alone:
Although the world may praise us to the skies,
We only want the praises of our own.

The whole world listens when the linnet sings,
Yet not for this the linnet hymns the days.
Above one bough he hovers on his wings,
The linnet does not want the whole world's praise;
'Tis not for this he weaves his perfect tone:
A hundred nests may listen to his lays,
He only wants the answer of his own.

And human hands, whatever they may do,
And human hearts, however they may grieve,
Can suffer fame or failure and come through,
If only there is someone to believe.
For this their deeds they do, their heights achieve,
Not for the many but for one alone.
The only praise they hunger to receive
The oft unspoken praises of their own.

WHY SOME MEN ARE OLD AT 40

You've seen them, of course—on the streets, in the theatres, at work or business—those "men old before their day. Weak, puny, wavering—just a hollow shell of their former selves. Once they were strong, vigorous and manly. Full of vitality. Women used to look back at them on the streets. Now they are old and unmanly long before their time. What's the reason?

Simply that they burned out the real fire too quickly. Perhaps, in some instances, it was no fault of theirs—sickness, sorrow, trouble, overwork may have sapped their vitality. In many instances over-indulgence in the pleasures of life accounts for their sad condition. Is there no hope for these men? Can they never bring back the vital fire of manhood which is their by right?

Listen: There has just been introduced a little, lemon-colored tablet called ERBAC (remember that name—it may mean much to you) that, when taken regularly according to the simple directions goes straight to the CAUSE of many of these troubles. It is not an inexpensive remedy. It costs Two Dollars for a package containing a 20-day supply But scores of people who have used it are enthusiastic in its praise and Bond the druggist has so much confidence in ERBAC that he will guarantee your money back if it doesn't prove exactly what you need. Therefore, if you long for the old-time manly fire, if you sigh for the good old lustihood which once was yours, try ERBAC and note results.

NOTICE: While ERBAC is a perfectly safe and harmless combination of scientific ingredients, it is not meant for children. Women, however, are reporting great benefits.

NEW PERMITS MUCH LARGER

Contain Space For 221 Entries—Made of Cheque Paper.

LAW QUOTED.

TORONTO, Oct. 16.—(Special).—The new liquor permits issued by the Liquor Control Board of Ontario are now off the press and will go on sale October 20th. The latest edition, which will be good from November 1, 1928, until October 31, 1929, differ considerably in make up from those which have been in use.

They have been made in booklet form containing 13 pages for marking the individual purchases. Each page contains 17 squares, so 221 purchase can be made before it will be necessary to replace the book. This will eliminate practically all the duplication as last year's permits were on individual sheets, which had to be replaced after 42 purchases. The 14th and last page in the booklet contains the particulars of the owner, his name, address, etc., and is similar to the face of last year's permit.

The pages of the book have been made of water marked paper similar to that used on bank cheques. Sir Henry Drayton states that this will eliminate all possibility of fraudulent duplicating of the permits which gave the Board occasional difficulty last year. The cover is made of stiff paper to preserve the contents.

On the inside page of the book is an extract from the regulations of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario: "Liquor purchased on a subsisting permit or had or purchased otherwise under the Liquor Control Act may be carried or conveyed by the purchaser from one residence to another or from any place where the same has been lawfully purchased under the said Act or regulations to any place where the same may lawfully be kept provided however, that no such liquor shall be consumed by any person while it is being so conveyed or carried."

On the first page of the book there are several warnings for the advice of the owner. "Liquor must not be drunk during carriage." "Take purchase unopened direct to you home or room in your hotel." "Drinking in motors is strictly prohibited. Punishment fine or imprisonment." "Drunkenness is a serious offence." "This permit is personal to the permittee and is not transferable."

Little ones were thriving on this famous food beverage for nearly 140 years before Canadian confederation.

Genaro Retains Flyweight Championship

IS EASY VICTOR OVER BELANGER IN FAST FIGHT

EXPERIENCE COUNTS.

Genaro Displays More Speed and Piles Up Large Point Margin.

TORONTO, October 16. — Despite the fact that Frenchy Belanger of this city, the former champion, fought a better and more clever battle last night than he did in any of his sensational victories, that carried him to the top of his class a year ago, Frankie Genaro of New York still retains the flyweight crown which he took from the local lad here last February, but in winning the rubber bout between the two the champion also made a better showing than he has ever done in a local ring. The bout, which went the limit of ten rounds, was a fast affair from start to finish, with Genaro displaying the more speed, both afoot and with his hands, and it was this fact, coupled with his greater experience and larger knowledge of ring craft that brought him home in front by a clear cut margin. In the final round, Belanger, realizing that he had to score a knockout to regain the title, became more aggressive and encountered a fair amount of success which leads one to think that perhaps if he had started several rounds earlier, he might have won.

Genaro had a half-pound advantage in the weights, scaling 111½ pounds, and in almost every other department he had just about the same small margin. He had too much experience for Belanger, and at times made the local boy look bad by the ease with which he landed an overhand right to the left eye and ear which jerked up Belanger in his effort to get in close enough to work his shift. Genaro was also the faster of the pair, using a bounding style of attack that enabled him to land his lighter punches and swings to the head and to fall into a clinch before the loser could start one of his heavier punches for the body. The champion's style made the flat-footed Belanger look slower than he really was, and while Frenchy waited for an opening to shoot across his heavy artillery Frankie would slip in and often beat Belanger to the punch.

Changes Style of Attack.

At close quarters Belanger was generally able to land a few stiff punches to the body before his attack was tied up by the title-holder, and Referee Hughes had quite a time prying them apart. Genaro also changed his style of attack, while Belanger's offensive manoeuvres were all of the one kind until he threw caution to the winds in the final round ,but it was a lost cause, as he could not connect with the one punch that would have brought him victory.

On rounds Genaro won by six to one with three, the first, fifth and tenth, being even, but in none of the six did he have a great margin. At times Genaro was a strong attacker, darting in with his quick right overhand swing or a straight left, and getting away before Belanger could counter. In this manner he beat the challenger to the attack and forced him to start his preparations all over again. At other times he let the local boy do the forcing, and was content to jab and swing at the target as it closed in. Then again he would be willing to mix with both hands flying freely, and it was in these exchanges that Belanger held his own the most. In the second round an old cut over Belanger's left eye was opened, and Genaro directed his attack to this spot constantly, shooting fast-travelling rights across the damaged optic or sending in straight left jabs. It was a clever bout that the champion staged, and it had to be to stall off the continual, although rather plodding attacks that the challenger started.

In defeat Belanger was far from disgraced. All the time that Genaro was landing to the head Belanger was working on the body, and he punished the champion considerably, but in most cases he had to pay toll to get in close. Early in the bout Belanger was able to land solidly from his shift, but as the engagement advanced Genaro had this style fairly well solved, and broke it up by beating his opponent to the punch. At times the force of the local lad's attack drove the titleholder to the ropes, but he was exceptionally shifty in evading punishment, and slipped away from dangerous punches that were sent where he had been. Belanger made his name as a fighter and then lost his title when he attempted to outbox Genaro. Last night he was a combination of the fighter of old and a much improved boxer, but the fighter still predominated. Against a less shifty and clever boy than Genaro he would have looked much better, but his slowness was accentuated by the champion's speed with both hands and feet.

PETERSON TO SUBSTITUTE.

NEW YORK, October 16 (Canadian Press). — Big Boy Peterson, of New Orleans, heavyweight, was substituted yesterday for Roberto Roberti, Italian giant, who was scheduled to box Paulino Uscudon ten rounds at Ebbets Field on Wednesday night. Roberti broke two ribs in training. Humbert Fugasy, promoter, will ask sanction of the State Athletic Commission to-day.

Boxing Association May Change Name

VIEWS ON SPORT

Lakefield Indoor Softball League will hold its official opening for the fall season to-night.

Cooney's local team and the Lakefield High School are slated for the first fixture with Bridgenorth and Canada Cement making up the second team of the doubleheader for the night.

* * * * * *

Three teams from here have entered this league with three clubs from Lakefield and the Bridgenorth champions should make the competition very keen.

* * * * * *

Oshawa is bemoaning the defeat suffered by O.C.I. here on Saturday. The Motor City had counted on bringing home six victories over the weekend, successful in four, the interscholastic teams (Juniors lost to Bowmanville) had to lose on that day to spoil an otherwise unbeatable day for the Lakeshorites.

* * * * * *

"If it hadn't been for Oshawa Collegiate Institute, what a day it would have been. Of all the days the Collegiate had to pick to lose out on they had to pick Saturday to spot an otherwise unbeatable day for Oshawa.

* * * * * *

Lindsay was another team in the interscholastic struggle that went down to a rather lopsided defeat on Saturday, losing to the Cobourg aggregation by 19-0 count.

* * * * * * *

The stretch of beach along Lake Ontario used as a playing ground isn't exactly what one would call an ideal rugby field and seemed to cramp to the style of the visitors. Coupled with this the home team seemed to get all the breaks of the game.

* * * * * * *

L.C.I. also suffered a loss in that Laird Gamble was unfortunate enough to have his leg badly bruised in the early stages of the game. It is considered doubtful whether he will appear in uniform again this season.

* * * * * * *

The local team will play in the Scugog town on Saturday and if they repeat the play that was shown here, everything will be serene as far as they are concerned. So far this season Lindsay has won two and lost one so that they will need to win every game in order to keep in the running.

LEADERS BEATEN IN FIRST DIVISION

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 16.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The English League First Division table is presenting a peculiar appearance these days with teams that were in the second division last season crowding out the older clubs and many prominent teams in the bottom half.

Saturday's feature match between Derby County and Manchester City ended in a stalemate, each side scoring a goal. Manchester went ahead first at half time. Well on in the second half, after some fast, even play, Crooks intercepted a pass and equalized.

Blackburn Rovers scored first against Everton through Rigby. Just after the interval Dean put Everton on an even footing, but Puddefoot headed in the winner for the Rovers from Rigby's center.

Burnley took an early lead against Leeds United and held it throughout the first half. Pitton scored in the first five minutes. White equalised with a brilliant header and then Jennings put Leeds ahead, where they stayed till the finish, by scoring on a penalty kick.

Forty-five thousand people saw West Ham United defeat their fellow Londoners, the Arsenal, on the latter's grounds. Earle and Shone scored for the Arsenal and Jones for West Ham from a scramble in the first half. Jones equalized after some clever footwork, while Ruffell got the Hammers' third six minutes from the finish.

Forty thousand witnessed Aston Villa's impressive victory over Bury at Aston. The Villa were four goals ahead at half time. Walker headed in. Then Richardson, in making a clearance, saw the ball cannon against Waring, the Villa's center forward, into the goal. Dorrell and York scored the other two points. York and Waring each scored and finally Porter put the ball through his own goal for the Villa's seventh marker. Chamber scored for Bury.

Bolton Wanderers and Portsmouth battled through the first half of their match on even terms. Butler and Blackmore scored for Bolton and Thackery and Cook for Portsmouth. Blackmore won the match for Bolton with his two goals after the turn round.

Manchester United and Cardiff City were never far apart. There was no score in the first half. Near the finish Johnston scored for Manchester and McLachlan equalized almost immediately afterwards.

The three goals by which the Wednesday blanked Birmingham were scored by Allan. His first tally came from a corner. Leicester's scorers against Sheffield United were Chandled, twice, and Hine. Philipson had Sheffield's goal.

Sunderland were never in much danger from Huddersfield Town. Halliday, Clunas and Hargreaves scored for Sunderland in the first half and Jackson for Huddersfield. Clunas got another from a free kick.

Thirty-eight thousand people jammed themselves into the Stamford Hill grounds for the Chelsea-Clapton Orient "Derby". The Orient went ahead first through Turnbull's goal. After the turn round Wilson equalized and then put Chelsea ahead, where they stayed till the dying moments of the match, when Spence tied up the works again from a penalty.

Walsh got two of Hull City's goals against Reading and McDonald got the other. Haden and Andrews registered Notts County's goals against Oldham Athletic. Littlewood and Mandley scored for Port Vale in the first half against Preston North End and Littlewood added another soon after resumption. For Preston Robson headed in from a corner and Harrison got another goal.

Barnsley and West Bromwich Albion played a fast game. There was no score in the first half. Afterwards Proudfoot and Ashton scored for Barnsley and West Bromwich Albion made no reply. The Albion played one man short for most of the match as Bytheway, their right wing, broke his right leg.

There was no advantage either way between Blackpool and Stoke City in the first half and most of the second. In the last three minutes Hampson and Watson both scored for Blackpool.

Bradford were easy winners over Tottenham Hotspurs. McLean scored for the winners in the first half and afterwards Quantrill, Hawes, and Atherton gave them three more tallies. Osborne netted for the Spurs.

Millwall and Middlesborough met at Millwall before 30,000 spectators. Middlesborough had things much their own way in the first half and got goals through Kennedy from a penalty, and Camsell. Wadsworth scored after the interval for Millwall. Hill, the Millwall back, kicked into his own goal for Middlesborough's third and, as it turned out, winning goal. Landell scored Millwall's second point.

Queen's Park Rangers lost their unbeaten certificate when they were beaten by Walsall by three goals to one.

O. H. A. ANNUAL.

39th Annual Session of Ontario Hockey Association To Be Held On November 17th.

The thirty-ninth annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association will be held in the Temple Building, Richmond and Bay Streets, Toronto, on Saturday, November 17, commencing at 10 o'clock in the morning. Amendments to the constitution will be received up to and including Saturday, November 3, by the secretary, W. A. Hewitt, Daily Star, Toronto.

CROWNS ARE NOT AWARDED

N. B. A. Leaves Bantamweight and Heavyweight Titles Open.

CHAMPIONS RENAMED.

TORONTO, October 16. — Two world's boxing championship thrones are vacant as far as the National Boxing Association which was in annual session here yesterday at the King Edward, is concerned—the bantamweight and the heavyweight. President Tom Donoghue, in a letter of suggestion to the championship committee, recommended every champion named with the exception of the light heavyweight division, where he named Jack Delaney, and in the bantam division, where he named Al Brown champion, while the championship committee left his title vacant.

The championship committee of the National Boxing Association name the following men as the champions in their various divisions:

Flyweight—Frenchy Belanger, of Toronto.
Bantamweight—Open.
Featherweight—Andrew Routis, of France.
Lightweight — Sammy Mandell, of Chicago.
Welterweight—Joe Dundee, of Rockford, Ill.
Middleweight—Mickey Walker, of Jersey City.
Light heavyweight—Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia.
Heavyweight—Open.

Logical contenders for the various classes were named as follows:

Flyweight—Corporal Izzy Schwartz.
Bantamweight—Al Brown, Bushy Graham, Fidel Le Barba.
Featherweight—Benny Bass, Joey Sangor.
Lightweight—Joey Glick.
Welterweight—Jacky Fields.
Middleweight—Rene Los Vos.
Light heavyweight—Jack Delaney, Leo Lomski.
Heavyweight—Tom Heeney, Tommy Loughran, Young Stribling, Johnny Risko, Jack Sharkey, Knute Hansen, and the winner of the contest between Paulino Uzcudun and Roberto Roberti, at New York City on October 17.

It is recommended by this committee to the rules committee that the National Boxing Association strike out all junior championships.

The National Boxing Association severely condemns the practice of present day champions, in their selfish desire to keep their crowns as long as possible, in forcing legitimate contenders to come in above the divisional weight.

Signed—
Walter Liginger, Chairman.
Edward C. Foster, Secretary.
Richard T. Burke.
Thomas A. Murphy.

There was a lively discussion upon the question of changing the name of the National Boxing Association in order to more fully cover affiliated bodies particularly Canada. Allan R. Trimble, of New Jersey, said that if the N.B.A. was to appreciate the major part Canada had taken in the advancement of boxing the name of the association should be changed to the "National Boxing Association of the United States and Canada." The idea met with almost general approval, but some of the other delegates wanted it changed to "The International Boxing Association of North America" or the "National Boxing Association of America." Later it was discovered that such a change in the constitution was illegal except notice of amendment be given fifty days before the annual meeting and sent to the legislation committee for action. The matter was left over and Mr. Trimble will send in the notice of his amendment at the proper time and will be dealt with at the next annual meeting.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE OPENS ON TUESDAY

Three Teams Entered From Peterborough in Lakefield Rink League.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, October 16. — The Softball League opens on Tuesday night in the Rink, with seven teams, three teams from Peterborough are newcomers, and will add new blood to the league. The High School, Cubs, and Canada Cement teams will represent the village, and Bridgenorth, last year's champions, will be welcomed back.

Selwyn and the Muskies are not in, and it is a matter of regret to the fans, for both teams made many friends at these games, and for a couple of seasons Selwyn won the championship. But teams scatter and changes in districts make a great difference. Many of the young men have heard the call of the west and have gone out to the newer provinces where some at least will settle.

The High School and Cooney's team will open the league, and Bridgenorth and the Canada Cement team will play the second game on Tuesday night.

BELLEVILLE TEAM GIVEN CLUB BAGS

Ontario Champions Guests at Banquet Tendered By Citizens.

Belleville Nationals, senior O.B.A. champions, were banqueted by the citizens of their home town on Friday night, and each player presented with a fine club bag. The presentations were made by J. B. Robb, vice-president of the Canadian National Railways, who is himself an old Belleville boy, and the players were introduced by Mayor Duff. Fountain pens and pencils were presented to each of the players by the Kiwanis Club and also a membership in the Y's Men's Club. H. T. McFadden, president of the Central Ontario Baseball League, presented the Central League Trophy.

Bowling
Alley Gossip
By Pin Boy

Two teams in the C.G.E. Engineers' League, Price Setting No. 1 and Industrial Control are running neck and neck in the race for the championship of this group, each having won the first six games and added to their score by having high total pinnage which amounts in all to sixteen points apiece.

With three weeks of their bowling schedule behind them the thirty-odd pin tumblers in the C.G.E. Drafting Room League are hitting their stride in the big league style, while competition is waxing keen between the six teams, namely the Colts, Short Circuits, Cycles, Ohms, Hi-Pots, and the Watts.

Walter Jackson gave the pin boys the most work, piling up a high three score of 614, while behind him J. Lesurf and Hutchinson were close seconds, tying each other with a total of 591 apiece. High single also went to Hutchinson, who rolled 270, but Gran. was right at his heels with 267.

J. Wade set a fast pace for the Fitters Group with a trio of games that totalled 699, while his teammates applied the whitewash brush to the Machine Shop No. 2, winning three straight games by over 900 pins in total score.

The Induction Motor makers duplicated this feat in a merry battle with Machine Shop No. 1, although F. Jones of the losers rolled high three 632, and also high single 221.

A number from Zion also attended anniversary services at the neighboring charge of Stanwood, when Rev. Mr. Archer of Havelock was the speaker for the day.

A largely attended "shower" was held at the home of Mr and Mrs. Nathan Atkinson, Crow Bay, on Friday evening in honor of their daughter, Eva, who recently became the bride of Mr. Harold Spencer of Campbellford.

KING EDWARD 3; PRINCE OF WALES 0

Excellent Brand of Scientific Code By Local School Boys —Two Well Balanced Teams.

Last year's soccer school champions, Prince of Wales, went down to defeat yesterday afternoon when King Edward trounced them to the tune of three goals to nothing in a good game of the soccer code. Early in the second half, King Edward team got a smart goal that was followed by two more. The winners played the long swinging pass tactics that was very profitable while the losers indulged in close dribbling. King Edward school are awaiting the winner of section "A".

FIRST HALF

Prince of Wales won the toss and decided to kick into the west-end goal. Exchanges were even in the opening stages with the half-backs allowing no freedom with the ball. Even the tackling being of the robust nature that was accomplished by the legitimate shoulder on mid-field play which resulted in the full backs having ample time to clear their charge. While the respective backs would do likewise when hard pressed. On one occasion, Dunkerley dribbled his way through the defence to deliver a stinging shot that the King Edward custodian handled cleverly, to be upset illegally by on-rushing forward. From the free kick, the winners beat away to the other end where interesting tussles ensued for a while until Menzies relieved with a header, then Gatfield sending his wing men down into the other territory where a scrimmage prevailed without any result. Both goal-keepers had busy sessions before the half time period. Half time: King Edward 0, Prince of Wales 0.

HALF TIME.

The second moiety started at a fast pace through the efforts of Prince of Wales forwards. They indulged in too much close dribbling to be profitable that was responded with long swinging passes by the winning forwards. Price, at centre half, being a worker all the time and never failed to see that his men in front of him had the opportunity to accept his pass, if not, he punted upfield to harass the opposing full backs that stood up well, until Watkins gained the verdict against them in the flag corner and steadying himself centred accurately to Johnstone who touched the ball through for the opening goal. From the centre kick, the King Edward boys went back again to quickly deceive the Prince of Wales goal-keeper when Price sent a lightning drive from twenty yards out to get the second goal. No matter what the losers tried to do they failed to grasp the chances presented to them, in fact, Price never left Dunkerley alone and watched that he never got a chance to score. Five minutes before full time, a surprise goal was sprung on the west end team when Mackness tapped a beautiful centre past the custodian, from the foot of Watkin's who made the opening. Full time: King Edward 3, Prince of Wales 0.

Soccer Notes

A special meeting of the local executive will be held to-night in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms at eight o'clock. Arrangements will have to be made for the game on Saturday afternoon.

King Edward school are waiting the winners of section "A" which is composed of Queen Alexandra, Central and King George. Last year, Prince of Wales won the championship, year previous, Queen Alexandra, and the first season, Central. 1927 finalist were Prince of Wales versus Central.

In all probability Deloro will face the Canadian General next Saturday afternoon in the final of the Peck Soccer Cup. All local soccer fans should not miss witnessing this game.

J. Bruce Walker, Canadian director of European Immigration, with headquarters in London, has been appointed Canadian representative on the International Council of the Football Association.

Toronto West End team are the Canadian junior champions. They defeated the Windsor Chemicals two goals to one.

At a meeting of the Deloro Amateur Athletic Association held on Thursday evening the application of the Deloro Football Club for affiliation with the Association was readily granted. Mr. John Hart was appointed manager and Messrs. W. Savage, A. V. Yates and R. D. Murray were chosen as committee. A dance in aid of the funds of the Club, held in Deloro Hall on Wednesday evening drew a goodly attendance. The Royal Blue Jackets Orchestra of Marmora furnished the music.

VALUABLE PLAYERS TO BE CHOSEN SOON

Three From Each League Seem To Lead For This Honor.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(Canadian Press).—The juries are out in the cases of the most valuable players in the American and National Leagues and soon the verdicts will be returned. Three in each league seem to be leading in the advance calculations.

Waite Hoyt of the New York Americans was a big factor in the Yankee drive to the pennant. His teammates, Ruth and Gehrig, are not eligible because they have already been accorded the honor. Other favored candidates are Harry Manush, of the St. Louis Browns, only a point out of the batting leadership, and Lefty Grove, star pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics.

In the National League Freddy Lindstrom of the Giants, Jim Bottomley of the Cardinals, and Hughie Crits of the Reds, all infielders, have figured in the discussion.

MANY PLAYERS ON NEW TEAMS

All Clubs Seem Strong As Rugby Season Gets Under Way.

WELL BALANCED.

TORONTO, Oct. 16 — (Canadian Press).—Girding themselves for the fall campaign, gridiron giants wherever rugby football is played in the Dominion have commenced play in the various leagues in operation.

The game has a new development this year in the formation of an inter-provincial football union in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, similar to the inter-provincial union of the East. Regina and Moose Jaw are the Saskatchewan representatives, with two Winnipeg teams, Tigers and St. John's, carrying Manitoba colors. Junior and intermediate teams will be fostered by the senior clubs.

The code of the East has made rapid progress, too, at the Pacific coast since its adoption there, and it is believed it will eventually reach the Atlantic where English rugby is still played in preference to Canadian football.

Not in many years have so many promising youngsters reported for training with teams in the inter-provincial, inter-collegiate and Ontario unions, the senior leagues in the East. With the wealth of new material to speed up aggregations which find their greatest strength in their veterans, a season of fast, hard-hitting struggles is anticipated.

The three unions opened their schedules on the same date, October 6. In the college circuit, University of Toronto met Queen's University at Kingston. Toronto and Ottawa were the home teams in the inter-provincial on opening day, Hamilton playing Argos and Montreal A.A.A. meeting the Senators.

University of Toronto "Orphans" inaugurated Ontario union football at Kitchener, which, with Sarnia joined the league this year. Camp Borden played Hamilton Tigers in the other O.R.F.U. fixture on October 6.

Although this year's campaign will witness the appearance of many new faces in senior ranks, few of the stars of last year's teams will be missing. The most notable exception is Harry "Red" Batstone, peer of backfield men, who is debarred from playing for Queen's University by the four-year rule in the inter-collegiate union.

Leadley Retiring.

"Pep" Leadley, who partnered with Batstone on Queen's backfield and won three Dominion championships consecutively for the Tricolor, has announced that he will not don his moleskins again, but Hamilton Tigers, for whom he played part of last season's schedule, expect him to yield to the lure of the game and lead them to another inter-provincial championship.

As in other years, there is no outstanding favorite at this time to capture the Dominion championship. Balmy Beach, which swept through the Ontario union schedule last year and sprang a sensational upset in the Dominion final by defeating Hamilbrightest stars, "Red" Moore, "Scotty" Gawkell and "Yip" Foster, and cannot be favored more than several other teams. Moore will play with Montreal in the inter-provincial union and Cawkell and Foster turned profesaional to play hockey in the Canadian-American League last year. If "Pep" Leadly returns to the game and the Bengals keep the remainder of their championship team intact, Hamilton, with the crafty Mike Rodden piloting them again, may scatter all opposition and gain the Dominion title which slipped out of their grasp when the cyclonic "Red" Moore led the Beachers against them.

But even without "Peerless Pep" the Tigertown griders are formidable. Besides the flock of youngsters who turn out every year at the Tiger camp, they have "Cap" Fear of last year's team, Brian Timmis, mammoth wingman, Ernie Cox, veteran snapback, Timmy Languay, Bert Gibb and Jack Baker. Ray Boadway, formerly with Argonauts, who is trying for the quarterback proposition, and "Huck" Welch, are two newcomers who will materially strengthen the inter-provincial champions.

Montreal is evidently sincere in its assertion that the M.A.A.A. team has finished being a doormat for the other teams in the I.R.F.U. and is out to win the title. This year they have the sensational "Red" Moore whose performance against Tigers in the Hamilton-Balmy Beach Dominion final last year was nothing short of marvellous. His playing then equalled the exhibition Joe Miller, of Ottawa, gave in the final against Varsity the preceding year, and Joe's thrilling play will go down in football history.

"Beano" Wright, former Queen's rearguard star, will probably partner Moore on the backfield and the combination should carry the Winged Wheelers far in the championship race. Dr. Cliff Howard, another former Tricolor star, is a likely candidate for the middle wing position on the Montreal team. These new players, together with Sheppard, Dr. Curly Taylor, "Pean" and Johnny Bennett, Clarry Booth and Harrison, give the team which has long occupied the cellar position in the inter-provincial standing a real chance to reach the top this year.

Senators Strengthened.

After losing out last year to Hamilton, Ottawa Senators expect to recover this year the glory they once had as double winners of the Dominion crown. Although they have lost Harry Kehoe and Bert McInenly, utility backfield men, and Smith, a smart middle wing, the capital crew will be strengthened by the return of several stars. Harold Starr, considered by many the smartest flying wing in Canada, will be back this year as strong as ever. Injuries kept him off the team last season. It is reported Vincent "Trish" Monohan, who formerly played for Ottawa but has been with Queens for the past two seasons, will return to the Senators' fold, as "Chubby" Dunne has done. Star, Monohan and Dunne on an Ottawa wing line would make it hard to beat.

No one has come up to displace Joe Bubman, veteran kicking half, and he will be back at the old stand. Two other veterans, Charlie Conneli and Eddie Emerson, will perform on the secondary defence as they have done for years. Don Young, elongated flying wing, has been late in reporting for practice, but it is expect ed he will eventually turn out. Charlie Lynch will again call the signals for the Senators. Dave McCann, who piloted Ottawa to their two Dominion championships, has retired and Walter Gilhooley will coach the Bytown boys this fall.

Argonauts expected Dave Harding, Camp Borden coach and kicking half, to join their squad, but the aviator will again be with the airmen and the Toronto team must content themselves with the many candidates they have in training. Coach Frank Knight has "Peewee" Chantler, diminutive half, hard at work, with Hank Sinclair, Bert Bradley, Pug Irwin, Joe Wright and Tommy Barrett, as well as many others, and expects to turn out an aggregation that will dodge the ill-luck that has hounded the Double Blue this long while.

McGill are as good as ever, but Queens "look the class" of the inter-collegiate union again. Toronto Varsity has lost most of its stars of last year and must form a team from youngsters. It will be a hard row to hoe, but Coach Les Blackwell is confident.

Ken Tremain has turned out for practice with McGill, and Little and Ralph St. Germain will probably be back to take the backfield positions. Some of the Red and White's wingmen have graduated, but there are plenty of juniors ready to take their places.

"Red" Gillmour, who starred with Oakwood Collegiate of Toronto, is the find of the year at Queen's. His showing has favorably impressed Coach Carson that he is almost assured of a regular position. "Irish" Monohan is expected to turn up in Kingston any day despite the fact that Ottawa claims he will play there. Fred. Warren, Jimmy Kilgour and Armour Munro all have reached the intensive training stage at Kingston.

Champions Strong.

Even without Moore, Cawkell and Foster, Balmy Beach remain at the top of the heap in the Ontario union. Coach Harry Hobbs has Frank Commins, veteran snap, Ernie Crowhurst, giant line plunger, Alex. Ponton, Ross Robertson, Frank Northam, Charney, Ted Reeve, who has switched from middle to flying wing, Earl Smith and Trimble all working hard to retain the union championship which the Beaches have won so often in the past.

The make-up of the Varsity and Hamilton Tiger teams in the Ontario union is largely a matter of conjecture as all candidates are working out with the senior squads, Sarnia and Kitchener, whose entry has enlarged the league to six teams, have both secured valuable players to form the teams they will enter.

Camp Borden, again under Dave Harding's leadership, will probably provide Balmy Beach with many anxious moments in the league race. Though material will not be any more plentiful at the Camp than in other years, Harding believes the addition of a number of newcomers will make the Flyers a much stronger machine. It is not expected Carr Harris will play as he has been in the north for some time. However, Jerry Ault, Gibb, Johnson, Cameron and Harding himself will all be out again.

PIRACY CHARGE AGAINST GUARD

Canadian Liquor Launch Was Seized While Aground in Canadian Waters.

CREW THREATENED.

PORT COLBORNE, Oct. 16.—(Special).—A move to indict United States coastguards on charges of violation of piracy laws, may be the sequel to the seizure of a Canadian liquor launch, allegedly while in Canadian territorial water near here.

The vessel in question is the Oke and the circumstances surrounding its seizure are now being investigated by the Dominion authorities at Ottawa. It is stated that on October 6th the Oke, after clearing from Bridgeburg, grounded on the "Narrows" five miles north of that port.

It is alleged that a United States coast guard crew attempted to seize the craft while attempts were being made to release her, she being grounded in two feet of water. Witness it is reported, said that a tow line was attached to the launch by the coast guards, which was promptly untied by the captain of the runner, whereupon a coast guard official produced a revolver and threatened to shoot the launch full of holes.

The rum boat was towed away by the coast guards when the runners felt the atmosphere was becoming too warm, and waded to the Canadian shore.

It is alleged that even when they reached the shore threats were made by the guards that they would shoot them.

The report of the seizure of the launch is confirmed by E. B. Hyatt, chief of the customs preventive service of the Dominion Government, who states that evidence regarding similar actions of United States coast guards is being assimilated and would be forwarded to Ottawa where decision will be made as to what action shall be taken relative to the seizures.

THE DUMBELLS 10th Annual Revue WHY WORRY?

Plus CHARMING CANADIAN GIRLS

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND.

GIRLS GALORE IN THE DUMBELLS NOW

For several years Captain Plunkett has been deluged with suggestions that he put three or four ladies into the Dumbells revues to take the place of impersonations. It took him considerable time to make up his mind to alter the policy of an all-male company, but when he finally made the change he did it in full measure. The present Dumbells company is equally divided as to the sexes. Old favorites and young and beautiful girls. The reaction of this innovation upon the public has been one of hearty cheers and sincere commendation. It has insured the Dumbells as a Canadian institution for at least another ten years.

According to the Toronto papers, which devote most of their reviews to the girls, the "old-guard" have taken on a new lease of life. They say that Al. Plunkett was never better than in "Why Worry?" while "Red" Newman is as dynamic as he was in the first years of the show in Canada.

Fred Emney is an old timer in the "girl and music" style of show and works much better with a background of beautiful young girls.

The big vocal hit of the evening is credited to Cameron Geddes, while the finest instrumental contribution is provided by Howard Fogg and his violin.

Captain Plunkett plays a more important part in the festivities than he has for some time. He opens the first act, introduces the girls, sings a patriotic number, reviews his troupe and later on presides at the round-table and piano in the Barracks Room scene where the finest singing ever heard in a Dumbells' show is provided by the soloists and quartette.

AT THE CAPITOL.

A GREAT SHOW AT THE CAPITOL. "THE SHIELD OF HONOR" WHICH HAS BEEN DEDICATED TO THE POLICE OFFICER, IS ONE OF THE BEST MELODRAMAS OF ITS KIND EVER SEEN HERE—LAUREL AND HARDY IN "EARLY TO BED", A SCREAM.

If you are fond of hair-raising melodrama, the kind that keeps you glued to your seats in suspense, don't miss "The Shield of Honor" at the Capitol as it is one of the best pictures of its kind seen here in a long time.

Dan MacDowell, veteran officer, and his son Jack are being honored at the celebration of the addition of the aviation department to the police force. Jack is to be the first flying officer and when Gwen O'Day, beautiful daughter of a wealthy jeweler, christens the plane, Jack is immediately attracted to her and they fall in love. Later O'Day asks Jack to assist him in solving numerous jewel robberies of his customers. Dan MacDowell, in the meantime, has his sixty-fifth birthday and retired from the force but O'Day gives him a night watchman's job in his store. Jack and his father work together on the case and as clues are slowly gathered suspicion falls on Robert Chandler, O'Day's business advisor, who it is later learned is the secret leader of a gang of diamond thieves. Jack eventually traps Chandler with the goods and after many thrilling experiences Gwen and Jack find themselves in each other's arms.

Those funny fellows, Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy, in "Early to Bed" had the audience holding their sides with laughter.

AT THE REGENT.

SENSATIONAL BOOK IS PERFECT ENTERTAINMENT

It has romance, excitement and action that is spurred by a youthful gaiety that is always colorful. And this is the setting provided by B. P. Schulberg in his newest Preferred Picture release, "The Plastic Age," which opened at the Regent Theatre last night. It is a film version of the Percy Marks novel which created such a stir upon its publication a year or so ago.

It is a story of youth in all of its fast moving phases, but it holds just as much interest for the mothers and dads as it does for the rollicking youngsters who are either in college or are on the way there. Also it holds much for those who have no tangible idea of what college is all about. It is not exactly a glorification of American college life, as it has a definite moral to depict, which necessitates the showing a bit of the life that youth is apt to follow when it breaks away from the family hearth for the first time. But it certainly is a glorification of the "spirit" of American college life, than which there is none finer

The story is logical and gripping and it has a dash that is most refreshing. Also it has Clara Bow, that enticing little actress, whose exploits are worth while in any picture in which she appears. Donald Keith, the youth who has lately jumped into the limelight of motion picture audience fancy, has a fine part in the role of Hugh Carver, the hero of the Marks novel.

Mary Alden and Henry B. Walthall give their usual fine performance in the roles of Keith's mother and father. These players are "stable" articles in a motion picture cast. They never miss fire.

Another youth who seems due to romp into public favor is Gilbert Roland, who plays the role of Carl Peters. He has ability and a personality that should carry him to the front ranks in rapid order. All of the cast is excellent, including such players as David Butler, Joan Standing, J. Gordon Edwards, Jr., and Felix Valle.

MIDWAY!

FUN ON THE FARM

It is not often the people of Peterborough have the opportunity to enjoy a midway and at the same time help a local organization by financing its community efforts.

The Midway at Kiwanis Fair is an innovation in the city. There are four rides: merry-go-round, ferris wheel, chairoplane and fun on the farm.

GAMES!

Last night, although the Bingo game was late starting, there were 21 prizes given out, including splendid cushions, electric toasters, nests of kitchen tins, electric curling irons, electric heaters and electric irons. There are offered for three tickets splendid blankets; for five wins, beautiful floor lamps, and for ten wins, a big mantel clock.

The wheels did a rushing business, one man being kept busy carrying prizes of aluminum ware, chocolates, thermos bottles and chinaware.

On the dart game, a new idea, there were many winners, with good prizes, for the small investment of ten cents for three darts.

Huge Fleet of Canoes Escorts Ship Into Entebbe Harbor.

ENTEBBE, Uganda, East Africa, October 15 (Canadian Press). — The Prince of Wale, continuing his goodwill tour through the British African possessions, arrived here yesterday aboard the steamer Clement, which was escorted by a fleet of canoes containing 1,500 natives. The natives had met the Prince a quarter of a mile off shore. The Prince was cheered by huge throngs as he landed.

WOULD STORE AWAY ALL WAR TROPHIES

Southwark Mayor Believes Neither Soldiers Nor Civilians Like Them.

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 16.—(Canadian Press).—The whole question of the fate of war souvenirs presented to municipalities for display in public places after the Great War, is to be raised by Councillor W. F. Castle, J.P., the Mayor of Southwark, at a meeting of the Metropolitan Mayors' Association.

"Eventually," said Councillor Castle, "I hope to enlist the support of every municipality in the country with a view to doing away with these trophies. In various parts of the country, I have noticed, they have been allowed to get into a state of neglect; some of them are practically falling to pieces, and people seem to take little interest in them. There is every indication of a movement to get rid of them altogether.

"That is not only my own impression, I have consulted ex-service men, and found that in most cases they regard them as reminders of unpleasant experiences which they would rather see buried for ever. The majority of other people share their dislike. As for the younger generation, I do not think it is good that they should have their interest awakened in war by the display of these captured guns and munitions. It prejudices the general movement towards a permanent world peace."

In the years immediately following the war many thousands of these trophies were distributed to practically every borough in the country. They were allotted conspicuous sites on village greens, facing town halls, and in the case of Bloomsbury — immediately behind the British Museum.

Many of them have since been sold as scrap iron, and some have been summarily dumped into rivers. The War Office disowns them, and the municipal authority, in a great number of cases, wants to be rid of them but fears offending ex-service sentiment. The London Observer suggests the decision be left, in each case, to the local branch of the British Legion. "That would seem the likeliest way out of the difficulty," the newspaper says. "If the ex-servicemen said, we don't want them, it is hardly likely that anyone else would, particularly as most districts have their war memorial proper to remind them of the sacrificial element of war."

PRODUCTION COST HIGH IN AUSTRALIA

Tariff Board's Report Urges Remedy—Markets Abroad.

CANBERRA, Australia, Oct. 16. — (Canadian Press).—The high costs of production, which are one of Australia's most serious difficulties, appear to have been maintained, says the annual report of the Tariff Board, which says that a lower standard of living is the only alternative if they are not reduced. Australia is dependent on overseas markets, where the declining costs have increased the handicap.

The tariff wall, adds the report, is markedly rising. In 1908 there were only eight items with ad valorem duties of 40 per cent. or more. In the present tariff there are 259 such items. In the manufacturing industries much of the high cost of production is due to over-capitalization, high wages, short hours and restriction of output. Requests for increased wages and better conditions of labor are not always based on sound principles. There is an apparent need for co-operation between the authorities fixing wages and those fixing the farmers' tariff. No doubt the tariff also has some influence on the high costs of production by making possible the maintenance of a high standard of living.

The coal industry is an example of industries unprotected by customs duties which, nevertheless, reflect unusually high production costs. Its position is lamentable. In 13 years the price has risen frm $2.75 to $5.00 a ton, and exports have diminished in the ratio of 21 to 8. The effect of the high price of coal on the cost of production in other industries cannot be overlooked. Another contributing cause is the high freights on the Australian coast. Many manufacturers produce commodities at a reasonable cost, but the charges for distribution makes the selling prices unreasonable high.

The maintenance of high costs of production and distribution is alarming and demands co-operative effort to discover a remedy, the report continues. Productivity must be the basis of all wages. If the joint efforts of employers and employees fail it is worthy of consideration whether the Government should not fix the general maximum limit of tariff assistance which it is economically sound to give any industry, leaving the employers and employees to adjust the cost of production to a basis which allows successful competition with imported goods. Unless the costs of production can be reduced there is no alternative but to reduce the standard of living, which would be highly undesirable, the report concludes.

Leaders Make Advances During Active Session

TORONTO, October 16 (Canadian Press). — Substantial advances in Brazilian and International Nickel were the features of an active session of the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. Brazilian sold up 2 5-8 to 62 7-8 at noon, after passing 63, while International Nickel firmed three points at 149. Page Hersey strengthened 2¾ at 113½. Another active leader of the listed section, Massey-Harris, softened a quarter point at 51. Tamblyns was the strong spot on the curb with a gain of three and a half at 39½. British Columbia Packers sold up two at 25½, and Northern Bakeries, with a heavy turnover, improved a quarter point at 42¾ at noon. Of the oils, British American at 41 1-8 and Beacon at 23 were fractionally higher. Service Stations firmed a point at 50. A slight advance was also shown in Seagrams, but Walkers softened fractionally at 70 3-8.

Overseas Quotations Strengthen Wheat Market

CHICAGO, October 16 (Canadian Press)—Unexpected strength of wheat quotations at Liverpool, together with reports of better demand abroad, led to higher prices early to-day in the wheat market here. Meanwhile, unwelcome wet weather in the corn belt gave firmness to corn values. Opening unchanged to 5-8 up, Chicago wheat later showed gains all around but then reacted somewhat. Corn started at ¼ to 5-8 advance, and afterward eased back a little. Oats were firm.

Heavy Trading Affects List Price of Leaders

TORONTO, October 16 (Canadian Press).—With heavy trading throughout the list, prices declined on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange to-day Malartic was a leader and with sales of 287,900 shares, sold down to 1.00 to recover to 1.05 for a net decline of 15. Noranda slipped off 65 to 46.85, and Sudbury Basin was down 30 at 5.40. On small turnover, Hudson Bay dropped twenty to 18.05, and Abana declined eight to 4.15, while Wright Hargreaves dropped nine to 2.50. The strongest issue of the morning was Amulet, which, despite a heavy turnover, advanced 45 to 3.25. Hollinger was firm at 7.75, and Teck Hughes advanced ten to 8.60. Tough Oakes experienced heavy trading and suffered a drop of one and a half to 17.

Mond Nickel at 33.50 was up 25, and Pend Oreille was up ten at 11.95. Sherritt Gordon advanced 5 to 6.15; Central Manitoba was up four at 84, and Mandy advanced three to 1.65.

Strong Gains Registered Call Money Is Up

NEW YORK, October 16 (Canadian Press).—Spured on by recapitalization and favorable dividend rumors, the Stock Market continued its move to higher ground to-day on a large volume of buying. More than two score issues, including General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Union Carbide and National Cash Register, attained record high prices, gains ranging from one to nearly 10 points.

Call money renewed at seven and a half per cent, but lowering of the rate to six is expected by bankers within the next few days. To-day's temporary stringency was attributed to semi-weekly adjustment of the banks' positions at the Federal Reserve Bank. Time money was more freely offered at seven per cent.

Proposals for the formation of an oil export association under the Webb Act, coupled with reports that preliminary conferences looking to world curtailment of the production were now under way, brought fresh buying into oil shares.

Mining Briefs

A Special Service to The Examiner

The Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada has done a good deal of surface exploration on the M. and K. group at Ledgate Creek, and has recently started an adit on a lode of silver-gold-copper ore, with the intention of getting underground so that work may be continued throughout the winter.

Astoria-Rouyn shares have enjoyed a good degree of activity on the unlisted market during recent weeks. Some conflicting rumors are heard on the street regarding development at the company's property. One report, which appears to be gaining strength, is to the effect that operations have ceased on the property. The Financial News Bureau is informed, however, by a person who was on the property last week, that at that time development was being carried out. Last year about 1,500,000 shares of Astoria were sold and it is stated that from this amount the treasury realized but $70,000 in cash. Further news will be forthcoming shortly. Another unlisted market favorite is the Canadian Kirkland, and it is reported also that this property is idle.

A break about twenty feet in width which has been traced for about 800 feet, is the object of exploration of the Goldbanks Syndicate, operating in Catherine Township, Ontario. A stringer is said to have been found in this break in which very high values in gold have been traced for over a length of 100 feet. Further work is being carried out.

It is reported that one Sunday recently the Hollinger mill treated 5,000 tons of ore for the 24 hours' grind. This was said to be purely a test run. The report continues, however, that since the date of that capacity performance, the mill has been treating a great deal more ore daily. The policy is looked upon in different lights in the street, but it is said to result in the profitable handling of a large amount of ore which otherwise was of too low a grade to treat with profit.

The attention of traders is now centred upon the Kirkland Lake Gold. Operations are now at a point almost directly under the spot where high values were found on higher levels, and word of the cutting of the vein is expected daily.

Bulk of Silver Shipped from the United States Continues to Go to China and India

Philadelphia.—China and India continue to take the bulk of silver shipped from the United States. In July, exports of silver to China amounted to $3,431,834, compared with $5,360,436 in July, 1927, while exports to India amounted to $1,323,-606 against $726,653 in July, 1927.

For the seven months of 1928 shipments to China amounted to $26,074,-300, against $19,919,686 in corresponding period of 1927, while shipments to India amounting to $14,528,012, against $20,360,676 in the preceding year Exports to China showed an increase of $6,134,614, while exports to India showed a decrease of $5,432,468.

Imports from Mexico in the seven months' period amounted to $26,231,-741, against $20,038,080 in similar period of 1927.

Washington.—Silver imports into India for week ending Oct. 6 totaled 268,000 ounces, according to Commerce Department. London sent 214,-000 ounces, and Durban 52,000 ounces. During preceding week imports totaled 1,756,000 ounces.

Currency in reserve September 29, totalled 1,040,200,000 rupees in silver coin against 1,034,300,000 September 22. Bullion in reserve was 28,600,000 rupees, increase of 1,600,000. Silver stocks on October 9 were estimated at 4,400 bars, increase of 400 bars since September 15.

Tough Oakes

There have been several conflicting rumors noised about the street in the last several days in connection with the affairs of Tough-Oakes-Burnside. One strong rumor is to the effect that a large amount of money is owed in London, and that the mill and mine will shut down in the next two weeks due to lack of capital. Others contend that monies raised last year are sufficient to proceed with the present mine and mill program. At the present time Tough-Oakes are treating about forty tons of 235 ors per day, and have seven drills working underground. Many traders feel that some statement should be issued on the finances of the company, as trading in Tough-Oakes has been very erratic during the last two weeks.

Capital Rouyn

It is reported that a meeting of the directors of Capital Rouyn will be held for the purpose of arranging and deciding upon the installation of a mining plant on the company's properties in the Lake Geneva area. Mineralization on the property was considered to be impressive. The treasury is reported to be in an unusually good position, a balance of $110,000 being on hand.

Calgary Oil Gossip

Officials of the Imperial Oil Co. have announced that Home No. 1 well has struck the limestone formation at a depth of 5,107 feet. Home No. 1 well is one of the most southern well in Turner Valley, being east and a bit south of Advance No. 5, which is drilling on the western edge of the formation.

It was announced also by Imperial Oil officials on Tuesday that tools were being run again in Royalite No. 9 well, with the expectation of increasing that flow. This well is standing at a depth of 5,423 feet and has been given a test during the last two weeks. Considerable gas has been reached in this well for some time, but a quantity of drilling fluid in the hole made the exact amount uncertain. The hole has been cleaned out and a production test completed, followed by the decision to go on to deeper depths.

Dalhousie

L test reports from Dalhousie No. 1 is that it thawed to some extent and got up to around 3,000,000 feet, and now is freezing over again.

REBEKAHS OPEN EUCHRE SEASON

Millbrook Lodge Holds First Social of Fall Season.

SALE OF WORK HELD.

(Examiner Correspondence).

MILLBROOK, Oct. 16.—Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge, No. 176, held its first euchre of the season in the I.O.O.F. Hall on Friday evening, eighteen tables being in use for play. Other attractions in the community the same night, and the unfavorable weather, were contributing factors in keeping many away who otherwise would have been among the guests of the evening.

As usual, when the Rebekahs are hostesses, a thoroughly good time was spent, play ceasing shortly after 11 o'clock and supper being served by the committee in charge

Winners were announced as follows: Miss Clara Bonner and Mr. Russell Smith for first prizes, and Mrs. Harry Ball and Mr. Aubrey Sutton for the consolation.

Music, conversation and dancing for those who wished, finished out the evening happily, the gathering breaking up shortly after midnight.

The Rebekahs will continue their usual course of holding a euchre at intervals throughout the winter months, these gatherings being regarded as among the most enjoyable social events of the season.

Sale of Work.

The women of Saint Thomas' Church held a successful sale of home made baking and candy in the former Byam store on Saturday evening, beginning at 3 o'clock, and continuing until the wares had all been disposed of shortly after the regular tea hour.

Fall flowers were used for decorative purposes, the afternoon tea tables, which had a ready patronage, being centred with marigolds, the yellow and white color scheme being featured throughout.

The counters, laden with bread, buns, pies and cakes, were in charge of Mrs. John Allen, Senior, who was the convenor of the arrangements for the entire sale. Mrs. J. A. Vance, Mrs. L. H. Morton, Mrs. A. J. Fallis, Mrs. J. E. Allen, Mrs. I. Gray and Miss M. B. Turner looked after the guests who came in for afternoon tea, while Miss E. Grandy and Miss Margaret Whyte attended to the younger folk, who took great pleasure from the fish pond.

While the sale held two weeks ago was under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary, the one on Saturday was put on by all the women of the congregation, hence was on a somewhat larger scale, with the fish pond as an added feature for the occasion. Results financially were quite satisfactory, the money raised to be used for local church purposes, the women having a certain definite responsibility to discharge in this fe-

Wedding Bells

NELSON—McCALL.

On Saturday, Oct. 13th, 1923, at Brussels United Church, by Rev. A. J. Mann, assisted by Rev. A. W. Barker, Margaret Edna, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. McCall, to Jonathan B. Nelson, B.S.A., of Peterborough, only son of Mr. and Mrs. George Nelson, Rockwood.

NELSON—McCALL

The United Church at Brussels, Ontario, beautiful with ferns, autumn foliage and flowers, formed the setting for a pretty autumn wedding, when at high noon on Saturday, Margaret Edna McCall, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCall, became the bride of Jonathan B. Nelson, B.S.A., of Peterborough, only son of Mr. and Mrs. George Nelson of Rockwood. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. J. Mann, M. A., of Keswick, assisted by Rev. J. Barker, B.D., the former having officiated at the marriage of the groom's parents.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white satin made with uneven hemline and long sleeves with points falling over the hand. The veil of tulle was caught to the head with a band of chantilly lace and clusters of orange blossoms. White hose and silver slippers completed the costume. She carried a shower bouquet of Madam Butterfly roses and lily of the valley. The bridesmaids were becomingly attired in sleeveless period frocks of taffeta. Miss Leta Smith of Newmarket in green and Miss Florence Malcolm of Galt in yellow. They wore black picture hats and satin slippers and carried yellow chrysanthemums.

Mr. M. R. Staples of Woodstock assisted the groom. The ushers were Mr. James Oakes and Mr. Norton Nelson of Rockwood. Mr. Bob. Malcolm of Galt played the wedding music and during the signing of the register Dr. C. S. Gilbert of Newmarket sang.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Later the bride and groom left for a motor trip to North Bay and Ottawa, the bride travelling in an English green ensemble. The coat of broadcloth was trimmed with oppossum. The matching frock was of crepe satin and the hat of green felt. She wore beige gloves, shoes and hose and carried a green bag. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Nelson will reside at 594 Harvey street, Peterborough.

CHAMBERS—FELL

A quiet, pretty wedding was solemnized by Rev. J. H. Dudgeon at the parsonage of St. James' United Church, at a quarter to three o'clock this afternoon, when Verna Kathryn, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fell, 235 Princess street, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to James Henry Chambers of Detroit, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Chambers of 270 Reid street, Peterborough.

Witnesses to the signing of the register were Miss Gladys Chambers and Mr. Eldridge White of Bailieboro.

The bride wore a lovely gown of dark beige transparent velvet, made with rounded neckline and long sleeves. Graceful half capes fell from each shoulder and the left side of the skirt was draped in an uneven length to the hem. Sunburst tucking made an effective trimming. A hat of the same soft shade of velvet had a rim of gilt tulle, edged with gilt lace, a side trimming of coq feathers and band of gold sequins.

Brown kid slippers with suede insets were worn, and matching silk hose. The bride also wore a string of pearls and the gift of the bridegroom, a gold wrist watch, and carried an arm bouquet of ophelia roses and lily of the valley.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. Chambers and his bride left for Toronto, en route to their home in Detroit, the bride travelling in a smart coat of brown broadcloth with long cuffs and Paquin collar of beaver.

Many handsome and useful gifts from a large circle of friends were received by the young people.

GREAT STRIDES ARE REVIEWED

all our national endeavors. If sometimes the burden seems to press a little harder one way or the other, mutual patience and fairness will provide the needed adjustment to our common advantage. We have been wise in developing diversity of operations giving to our people varied opportunities, and we should view with deep satisfaction all well directed effort in whatever field the work is carried on.

"Since the outbreak of the war, the cash position of our people has been sufficiently easy to enable them to expend $750,000,000 in new automobiles as well as pay for their maintenance. The money spent in these years upon this comparatively new utility and pleasure is $1,000,000, greater than the entire savings bank deposits of all the people in Canada at the outbreak of the war. Canada now ranks third per capita wealth among the nations of the world. The order is, United States, Great Britain, Canada.

"What is the explanation of this remarkable expansion? I venture a few suggestions. The great rise in value of all commodities during the war doubled and at times trebled the returns to all producers of food and raw products. Similarly, the war opened new markets for manufactured goods at extreme values and industrial plants worked to capacity.

"An entirely new business came to Canada, aggregating $1,200,000,000 in the production of munitions of war and sale of commodities, for the British government—every penny of which is being paid by the British taxpayer. There were our own government's expenditure of $2,000,000,000, upon the war, of which an important percentage were in Canada. During the same period of years, United States' capital invested in Canada increased by $3,000,000,000. This great sum found its way into industry, into government securities and into investment in physical properties of which standing timber and pulp wood limits, and mining ventures plays a great part.

Northern Wealth.

"During the years following 1920, when we were fault-finding and protesting about adverse conditions, new forces were at work, new expenditures were being planned and being made upon water power developments, and in the production of electric energy; upon large increases in the production of paper and pulp and upon remarkable mineral developments in Northern Quebec, Northern Ontario, British Columbia and Manitoba, with heavy expenditnures from these districts in the purchase of needed supplies and materials. Illustrative of these activities, investments in power plants and electric energy have increased by $640,000,000; pulp and paper production has increased by $200,000,000 annually.

"Canada's export of newsprint (paper for newspapers) is now probably greater than the export of the rest of the world combined. It is interesting to note that the export in 1890 was $120.00; in 1910, $2,000,000; in 1920 $53,000,000 and in 1926, $114,000,000. The lands bought from the Hudson Bay Company after confederation, now comprising the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and part of British Columbia, for $1,500,000, are producing annually $700,000,000 to $900,000,000 of products of the farm. Canada is the largest wheat exporting country in the world, supplying, in 1926, forty per cent. of the total world exoprts of 800,000,000 bushels. The production of minerals in Canada increased during these fourteen years, $1,000,000,000.

"These developments have registered in increased railway tonnage and in consequence, our investment in the National Railway system has improved in dramatic manner, the operating deficit in 1920 of $32,000,000 becoming in 1926 an operating surplus of $48,000,000. The great private railway corporation tells the same story of increased revenue.

"As to international trade, the aggregate value of Canadian exports and imports has increased since 1914 by $1,200,000,000. Canada now ranks fifth among the nations of the world in international trade.

The Tourist Trade.

"In recent years, a new industry has been established, namely, American tourists, arriving chiefly by automobile. Ottawa advises they spent in Canada in 1926, upwards of $185,000,000 and for the current year the aggregate will probably exceed $200,000,000. I bring to this Made-in-Canada annual exhibition, in Peterborough, these made-in-Canada developments and tender them as exhibits of the cumulative productive power of all our people from all the provinces of this broad Dominion."

GOLF.

All men members of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club are reminded of their Field Day to be held at the Links to-morrow, Wednesday, October 17th, and it is hoped by the committee that there will be a large turnout for this, the wind-up competitive competition for the season.

Players will start out in foursomes, which they may arrange themselves as early in the afternoon as possible. Prizes will be awarded as follows:

To the pair presenting the best net score playing to handicap.

To the single player having the best net score played to handicap.

To the singe player having the best gross score.

Players, of course, will be competing at the same time for the Tombstone Trophy.

Score cards must be kept showing individual gross score of each player, and individual net score of each player when their handicap is deducted. All putts must be played, none to be conceded.

To arrive at your net score for the pairs, take your total gross score, add it to the total gross score of your partner, from this total gross subtract the total handicap of the two players, you and your partner.

Brown (handicap 12) and Smith (handicap 16) are playing together as partners. The total gross score for 18 holes is 170, their total handicap is 28, their total net score is 142.

All scores, except Tombstone Trophy, to be computed for 18 holes. There will be a small entrance fee to cover the expense of prizes. For further information call up any member of the match handicap committee, F. M. Dela Fosse, W. F. Huycke, J. P. Bond, chairman.

The Right Rev. J. F. Sweeny, Lord Bishop of Toronto, will be in the city next Wednesday and address a luncheon meeting of the Peterborough Anglican Laymen's Association at the Empress Hotel at 12.15. Tickets for the dinner are already on sale in the various churches.

IN MEMORIAM

SCULLY.—In loving memory of our dear father and husband, William Edward Scully, who departed this life, October 14, 1920.
Our lips cannot speak how we love him.
Our hearts cannot tell what to say;
God only knows how we miss him
In a home that is lonesome to-day.
Friends may think we have forgotten you,
When at times they see us smile,
But they little know the sorrow
That a smile hides all the while.

IN MEMORIAM.

BROWN.—In proud and loving memory of our dear son, Flight-Lieutenant Percy Llewellyn Brown, R.A.F., (formerly of the Bank of Nova Scotia), who died Oct. 16, 1918, from injuries received in an aeroplane accident while instructing in England.

The pattern of my life is changed,
For time has brought a sorrow.
The pattern must be rearranged
To fit a new to-morrow.
Although my eyes are blind with tears,
Although my hands are weary,
To-morrow's duty still appears,
Although to-day is dreary.
The pattern of my life reminds,
However it may alter,
And I must straighten out the shelns,
With hands that never falter.
A thread was broken yesterday,
A thread I loved so dearly,
But I must brush the tears away,
Look bravely, and see clearly.
The pattern of my life is mine,
A thing that I must finish,
Though time may alter its design,
Its brightness may diminish.
A little kneeling by my bed,
A little hour of grieving,
And now I must take up the thread
Of life, and go on weaving.

CROSSING OCEAN IN MOTH PLANE

Lone Flyer Takes Off To-day

Commander P. C. McDonald, British Aviator, Leaves Harbor Grace.

LITTLE EXPERIENCE.

Had Had Only 80 Hours' Flying When He Arrived in Newfoundland Last Month.

ST. JOHN'S Nfld., Oct. 17—(Canadian Press).—Commander P. C. McDonald, English aviator, took off from Harbor Grace to-day in a moth type airplane in an attempt to fly across the Atlantic Ocean to England.

Flight Commander McDonald arrived from England with Dehaviland Gypsy Moth plane on Sept. 26 with the announced intention of attempting the trans-Atlantic flight from Harbor Grace.

Four days later he said he would take off on October 2 if weather conditions permitted. He made a series of test flights shortly after his arrival by steamer.

McDonald is twenty eight years old. He said that although he had only eighty hours of flying he was confident that he could make the flight alone in the small plane.

Takes Off On "Hunch"

Since his arrival here the young English flyer has been awaiting favorable weather conditions. He had declared that he would not take off until he had a "hunch" that everything was right.

McDonald said the flight was being financed privately. He was assisted in preparing for the flight by A. F. Williams, a mechanic, who accompanied him from England.

Very Small Plane

The plane which he used in his flight was but a midget compared to Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis". Known as an aerial sports car, the Gypsy moth had been secretly preparing at the Stag Lane Aerodrome in London for many weeks for the flights. It has a wing spread of only twenty six feet and when emptied weighs less than 800 pounds.

Extra fuel tanks were fitted to the plane giving it a range of about 35 hours, sufficient for 3,600 miles cruising.

The engine has only eighty to one hundred horsepower compared with Lindbergh's 250. It is a four cylinder air cooled motor. Tests have shown that it can run without trouble for periods of twenty four hours and more.

MANSARD ROOF BEING REMOVED

ONLY A FIRE TRAP.

During the past year or so, there has been a tendency on the part of city property owners to get rid of the old Mansard roof idea and the latest of these to go has been that located on the west part of the Oriental building on Hunter street. Passersby have noticed the temporary canopy erected at the front of Selkirk and Elliott's show rooms, while up above workmen have been busy demolishing that front and side part of the brick wall which supported the old Mansard roof.

The Mansard roof idea became a quite popular one years ago, the walls of a building being continued beyond the upper story to make up what appeared to be an extra story, but which in reality only created an additional fire trap, for the extra space was seldom utilized.

THE WEATHER

Rain—and still more rain. Last night we had about two-thirds of an inch. To be exact .64 of an inch. Many who were caught in the downpour in the evening doubtless thought there was much more. Lowest temperature last night, 61 degrees; highest point yesterday, 64 degrees. The numerous showers here may have proved inconvenient, but in sections of New Ontario, they have been disastrous. Much of the grain is still uncut, and in some cases even the hay crop in still ungathered.—W.P.

CITY WILL CLEAN OUT DRAIN TO RELIEVE DE LAVAL FACTORY

Will Not Abandon Effort To Get Order Compelling Township To Pay Part.

ON PARK STREET.

Blockades Located in Monaghan Stop Flow of Water From City Drain.

Without abating anything from their intention of obtaining a legal order from the Drainage Referee as to the responsibility of the city, the Township of North Monaghan, and other bodies for the upkeep of the Park street drain, the aldermen last night instructed City Engineer Parsons to clear away the brushwood and deepen the ditch in order to prevent the water from backing up into the De Laval plant.

Last night's meeting was called by the chairman of the Board of Works and was attended by W. R. Breyfogle, general manager of the De Laval, and Chairman Harry Gainey and Commissioner Thomas Brown of the Suburban Area Road Commission, which is responsible for the upkeep of Park street below the city limits.

Tile Drain Blocked.

Mr. Breyfogle set out the company's complaint. The ditch is so blocked that it prevents the new tile drain laid by the city from carrying away the water as it should. In fact the sediment is now encroaching into the tiles, and the flow of water is practically stopped. Farther down the drain there are many small trees and bushes, a number of branches have been thrown into the ditch, and a merchant has been in the habit of throwing his vegetable refuse into it. Near the river a cave-in has caused a complete sand blockade into which such water as gets that far disappears.

The conditions are bad enough now, said Mr. Breyfogle, but in the spring the water is backed away up into the heating tunnels of the factory, and twice in recent years the company has had to have new asbestos insulation installed on its

Boxing And Fencing Real Rough In China

SHANGHAI, Oct. 17 (Canadian Press).—Preparations for possible casualties were made to-day when the first national Chinese boxing, fencing and wrestling tournament sponsored by the Government to encourage these sports opened yesterday with 260 entrants.

In view of the fact that in Chinese boxing contestants are permitted to kick or hit their opponents in any part of the body and that genuinely sharp swords and spears are used in fencing, preparations were made to compensate relatives of the contestants who may be killed or seriously injured.

WOMEN'S WORK IS DISCUSSED BY TWO SPEAKERS

Mrs. T. L. Crossley Speaks On "The Business of Being a Club Woman."

"CHANGING TIMES."

Miss Mary McMahon Talks On Changing Place of Women In Business.

Two excellent addresses by women speakers were features of afternoon and evening sessions in the southwest room at the armories, yesterday. Mrs. T. L. Crossley of Toronto, president of the North Toronto Home and School Association and past president of the American Women's Business Club, spoke on "The Business of Being a Club Woman," and Miss Mary McMahon of Toronto gave an address on "Changing Times." Both talks proved intensely interesting to the ladies who formed their audiences and were delivered with charming ease and sincerity.

Mrs. W. R. Morris, who is acting as chairwoman during the week, for the addresses to be delivered in this room every afternoon and evening, introduced both speakers and voiced a vote of thanks at the conclusion of the addresses.

"Club life," said Mrs. Crossley, in her opening sentences, "is becoming a tremendous business because it is a tremendous force. There are millions of club women and thousands of clubs. With the growth and the widening of women's conception of their possible usefulness to themselves, their homes, their communities and their nation, the administration of clubs has become a business; a side business, to be sure, subservient to the major occupation of women, but demanding knowledge of the technique of being a club woman, whether member or officer. Almost all the women of power and character in North American belong to some kind of club. Wouldn't it be stupid of us to fail to draw our energies together and ask ourselves point-blank: 'How can we stop being amateurs and become effective?'

"There are big tasks lying before women, tasks that need the wisdom we get from combined study and such energy as we get from combination of effort. We want homes where the big things are made big and the little things are made little; where children can be well born and joyous and grow up to finer citizenship, and where the family income learns to serve the family interests. We want communities that are extensions of that home. We cannot get these things unless we work together."

Mrs. Crossley went on to speak of the gradual evolution of women's clubs from their inception half a century ago, when they began as self-cultural bodies and stood for progress. "But the old-fashioned club was one of incubation. The typical self-culture club of to-day regards itself as a training school, from which great things are expected. Human culture is a preparation of ourselves to become productive.

"Some danger lies in the power of these clubs of working without much knowledge. 'Nothing is more dangerous than ignorance at work,' said Goethe. The ideal club is a combination of the study club and the service club. Going further, I would say that wholly ideal is the conception of a

CHILDREN'S AID RECEIPTS LARGE

Tag Day Donations and Private Gifts Total $1,493 This Year.

BEQUEST RECEIVED.

There was much that was pleasant to discuss at the meeting of the Peterborough Children's Aid Society, held at four o'clock on Tuesday, in the Council Chamber, City Buildings. For not only had the recent tag day been an unqualified success, but there had been seevral private donations to that fund. A communication also informed the meeting that the sum of $100.00 had been bequeathed to the society in the will of the late James Henderson.

Rev. Dr. Blagrave, president, conducted the meeting, which was over in record time. He it was who especially commended the superintendent, J. Edgar, and Mrs. Newhill and her assistants for the splendid manner in which the tag day had been conducted. In a resolution, the Society expressed its gratitude to the public for a generous response on tag day which, along with a $25.00 cheque from Peterborough Milk Products and $5.00 from J. E. A. Fitzgerald and the Sanitary Ice Company, brought the total to $1,493.13.

Northern Farm Residence Stands Seige; All Windows Broken By Stones And Shot

Bruce Coones a farmer in the Township of Chandos, near the hamlet of Owen Brook, has recently had all the windows in his house broken with stones and bullets. The house bears the marks of war, both on the inside and out. Mr. and Mrs. Coones were in the house when the raids were made, and were forced to seek shelter from the rain of bullets and stones. Not a window or window frame in the house remains intact. The outside looks as if a stone-mason was to commence work on putting in a foundation. Mr. Coones alleges that while he and his wife were in hiding in the house, one of the vandals came to the window, and looking in, grabbed a flower pot and hurled it at them. The marks where the pot struck are to be seen on the door jam. Bullet marks are to be seen on the outside of the house, and Mr. Coones declares they were fired from a neighboring barn.

65 YEARS OF USEFULNESS IN MANY LINES RECALLED

Old Church Recently Used By Garage Was Built By Baptists.

UNDER REV. J. GILMOUR.

Was Next Used By Salvation Army As First Quarters in Peterborough.

With the march of progress, many an old landmark has passed from existence in Peterborough during the past few years, and the latest to go has been that old church on Aylmer street, which in later years has been used as a show room in connection with the Gillespie Garage. Within the past week or so, the old building has been razed to give place to a splendid new brick building that will be a motor show room.

The old building has many interesting associations with the past and through the courtesy of F. H. Dobbin, and reference to the files in the local registry office, many of these have come to light. It was during the year 1837 that the Rev. John Gilmour, connected with the Baptist Church, was sent by the New England Society, an institution having to do with the denomination in the New England States of the American Union, to Upper Canada to take charge of the temporal and spiritual wants of the Indians at Rice Lake and at Curve Lake.

He found time to take an interest in the spiritual needs of the people on the town plot of Peterborough and among the white settlers as well, and during the next two years bought, with his own money, a site for a small building, which was built of wood on ground just north of Murray street and on the east side of Aylmer street. Here those who came together worshipped for several years and as the number grew, larger premises were needed.

Rev. Mr. Gilmour then purchased the lot on which the garage building stood, and a modest church was built, to be afterwards enlarged from time to time. The building cost $1,400.00 when finished. The lot cost £50.

In after years, when the requirements of the congregation outgrew the building, the trustees bought from the Bible Christian body their church on Murray street. This was at the time of the coming together of the Methodist churches and several other denominations, in 1884. They enlarged and improved the building at a cost of over $8,000.00, and eventually erected the new and handsome stone edifice, that on Murray street, with frontage on Confederation Square, which they now use.

Until 1885 when the Salvation Army began operations in Peterborough, the old church building remained unoccupied. The Army leased the premises and carried on its devotional work within its walls. The building was opened for service on April 12, 1885. Meetings and services were continued, a memorable occasion being that of the visit of General Booth, the beloved commander and organizer of the Salvation Army, accompanied by his staff and other men of prominence in the Army. There was a great reception and impressive service.

The Army continued here until its new hall was ready for occupation, during July, 1888. The old church was also used as a Christian Science place of worship before it was put to various uses and purposes, until it came into the hands of George A. Gillespie, and has been used in the course of business as a salesroom and garage. In all these changes the old building has seen nearly sixty-five years of usefulness, and now passes to make room for a more modern structure.

An interesting discovery was made by Contractor Rowan's men as they were tearing down the old building. It was found that the old time wooden pins had been used to hold the

Money No Object In Hornsby Deal

CHICAGO, October 17 (Canadian Press). — If money is any object, Rogers Hornsby will play with the Cubs next season, William Wrigley, principal owner of the Cubs, said to-day.

"If it is money the Boston Nationals want ,we can give it to them, but the trouble is the amount may run in excess of $200,000," Wrigley said.

The hitch in any dealings to bring the Boston second baseman to Chicago, it was indicated by the club owner, most likely would come through the number and calibre of the players the Boston club would demand.

DRIVER PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO LEAVING SCENE

George Ward of Millbrook, Accused As Hit-and-Run Driver.

IN DAVIES ACCIDENT.

Case Adjourned Until Injured Women Are Able To Testify in Court.

George Ward of Millbrook, alleged to be the hit-and-run motorist who struck down Mrs. Ewart W. Davies and her daughter Inez at the intersection of Rubidge and Park streets on Saturday night, October 6 appeared in Police Court this morning before Magistrate O. A. Langley. A plea of not guilty was entered to the charge of failing to return to the scene of the accident and render assistance. The case was laid over for two weeks as the injured persons are not able to attend court. Alex Elliott is defending the accused.

On the night of the accident Mrs. Davies and her daughter were crossing Rubidge street in front of the Canadian General Electric factory when they were knocked down by a motorist driving south on Rubidge street. It was alleged the motorist stopped only for a few seconds and then hastened on. Both women suffered fractured skulls and were removed to the hospital, where they are under the care of Dr. W. D. Scott and Dr. G. R. Scott.

Chief Constable Newhall has been making a check up on the number of motor cars in the city which are operating without the proper lights and the result of this was shown in police court this morning when four pleas of guilty were entered and the maximum fine of $5.00 and costs was imposed on James Outram, Stanley Smallwood, and Thomas Blodgett. A woman got off without the costs as her infraction of the law was not as flagrant as the other three.

William Martin entered a plea of guilty to driving at a greater rate of speed than 20 miles an hour along McDonnell street and was fined $5.00 without costs. Mr. Martin claimed that sickness in the home had kept him late and he was in a hurry to get to work on time.

Issue Delayed Owing To Question of Road and Traffic Costs.

DISCUSS "THIRD DEGREE."

Royal Commission Investigating Police Administration—Question Rule Misinterpreted.

LONDON, Oct. 17 (Canadian Press Cable).—Evidence based on nearly fifty years' experience with the English and Irish police forces was given before the Royal Commission investigating police administration by Sir Leonard Dunning yesterday. Sir Leonard is the Home Office Inspector of Constabularly.

Lord Lee of Fareham, chairman of the commission, said the investigating body had been impressed by the general tone of the Liverpool police instruction book in which Sir Leonard, the author, laid down the principal that without the public's confidence the policeman was "only a big man with a stick," and one against a thousand, but with it he had every worthy citizen at his back.

Sir Leonard said that at the request of the Home Office he was preparing an instruction and advice book for use throughout the country, but the issue of this was being delayed owing to the question of road acts and road traffic taking an unreasonable amount of police time. He remarked that red tape was a very good thing up to a point, but a certain amount of shuttle let into it here and there was necessary.

The rule about a policeman questioning a prisoner only after giving a caution had been misinterpreted, Sir Leonard thought. When Head Constable of Liverpool, his instructions had been that when a man had been put in a cell, nobody should see him except at his own request. He did not think there was anything in the allegations of use of "third degree" methods, but believed the rule just mentioned would account for these charges.

Opinion on "Third Degree."

His own opinion of the third degree method was summed up in the words: "Some guilty man might get off through this method not being used, but I would be content to let him get off." He was suspicious of many "nicely-coherent" statements sometimes produced in the usual interrogation, he said.

Unlike Sir William Horwood, retiring Commissioner of Metropolitan Police, Sir Leonard told the commission that he was in favor of greater employment of women police. He recalled his embarrassment as a young policeman at being forced to ask a girl questions which a woman could more suitably have asked. Some women, he remarked, objected to examination by women. They regarded all women as "nosey parkers, who want to know more than is necessary."

Sir Leonard expressed emphatic disagreement with the "old idea" that if a policeman did something wrong the best way was to get rid of him and not prosecute.

"Wash your dirty linen in public if it must be washed," he declared. "Make the public understand that the policeman is not privileged to do things that others are not allowed to do."

SING AND PLAY WELL.

Some splendid voices were brought to notice in the musical competition of the Made-in-Canada Fair yesterday in the Canadian Legion Hall. The judges found difficulty in selecting the winner in the contralto class, and they congratulated all the singers on the natural quality of their voices. Dr. Saunders, F.R.C.O., of Ottawa, and Captain O'Neil of Quebec, conductor of the Citadel Band of Quebec, were the judges.

There were ten competitors in the contralto class, and before the winners could be announced the judges thought it necessary to recall for a second trial three of the singers. Miss Ruby Quartermain won first honors and the gold medal; Mrs. Neil Webb of Hamilton, seconded and the silver

The young voyagers, whose father had sent them abroad after the death of their mother, were met by Mrs. D. Collins, of Barry, South Wales, their grandmother, with whom they will live.

MISSION WORK AMONG LEPERS IS PROGRESSING

HONORED BY KING.

Worker Beloved By Outcasts Of India Describes Response By Teaching.

The Sunday School Room of Murray Street Baptist Church was the scene of a large gathering yesterday afternoon when the members of the Women's Mission Circle with their guests from the Circle of Park Street Church listened to a unique missionary address — unique because the speaker's voice has probably been heard for the last time in that edifice and also because she has devoted 42 years of her life to active missionary service in India. Miss S. Isabel Hatch's work among the lepers in that country has not only been recognized by the Baptists of Canada, but appreciated by the Indian Government as a national service. The only adornment of her black frock was the gold medal presented to her by the King-Emperor of India at the recommendation of that Government.

In her introduction, the president, Mrs. Scott spoke of the manner in which Miss Hatch is loved and revered by the Telugu people. When she left on this last furlough three caste women walked six miles to bid her adieu; one hundred school girls gathered to say farewell, and Dr. Joshee, whom she left in charge of her leper work, accompanied her to Bombay.

Never Forgotten.

As the tall, stately woman came to the platform, she prefaced her address with words of thanks for the personal interest the members of these circles had shown in her work, especially at Christmas time. Very briefly she referred to her call to missionary service in those early days, her reluctance to respond to the call and her surrender through faith in the promises of God. After these years of service her testimony is that the One in Whom she placed her trust has never failed her nor forgotten. Quietly spoken were her words, but they thrilled every hearer. Certainly they were a rebuke to those of weak and faltering faith.

Miss Hatch modestly disclaimed any superior grace in having escaped the dread disease of leprosy while teaching and ministering to her patients. With 400,000 unsegregated lepers in India, all are more or less exposed to its contagion. Railways, carts, money, and even food are liable to contamination. In the missionary compounds these lepers are segregated, treated, nursed, and told of God's love. Many cases there are "symptom-free" and are released. Untrained children of these lepers are being cared for and taught, with the result that they are developing into useful Christian Helpers. The excellent sanitation has been proof against the epidemics raging around them at various times. Out of 2,500 cases passing through these compounds, 527 have professed conversion.

New Doors Opened.

"Not only," said Miss Hatch, "has this work been worthwhile among the lepers, but the missionaries' care for these poor unfortunates has amazed and won the confidence of the people, so that doors otherwise closed have been opened to the reception of their message." Though they are for the most part illiterate, unusual talent is

NEW YORK, October 17 (Canadian Press). — Two score of gallant men who had shown a new way to the commerce of the air by their flight in the Graf Zeppelin from Germany last night were the guests of an enthusiastic city after a tumultuous welcome in the late afternoon. The largest city of the land forgot its business for a time to hail the crew of the dirigible, symbolic of a new era in transportation of passengers and cargoes.

The visitors were landed from the municipal tug Macom at 3.50 p.m. at the Battery, that small clear space at the tip of the Manhattan on which the skyscrapers encroach as close as they can. Patient men and women had waited since early morning, and at the landing time a chorus of ten thousand voices was on hand to cheer. A light sprinkle of rain failed to diminish the crowds. The grey office buildings had blossomed forth with the flags of Germany and the United States, and from their upper storeys, as the parade formed and moved up Broadway, came that paper storm which office workers delight to shower on the heroes who pass below them.

Crowds Pack Sidewalks.

The means of patrolmen cavorted ahead of the automobiles bearing the city's guests and behind marched smart detachments of the army and navy. The sidewalks were packed from curb to wall and at street intersections extended further back.

The crowd cheered Dr. Hugo Eckener, the commander, and his son, who dared the storm to repair the crippled ship. But it cheered as heartily the cook, the steward, mechanics, and all the others of the little band. The last Germans whom New York had welcomed so enthusiastically were Baron Muenefeld and Captain Koehler, of the airplane Bremen, first to cross the Atlantic from east to west.

Acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee gave the visitors their formal welcome.

Dr. Eckener returned his thanks for the welcome of the city and said he hoped the flight might bring the two peoples nearer together. He expressed appreciation of the assistance and facilities given him on this side of the Atlantic.

After the formal exercises, the guests were escorted to their hotels and a little later were guests at a private dinner presided over by the Acting Mayor. Last evening they occupied the choicest seats at a musical show and topped that off by a special showing of moving pictures which preserved for history their flight.

To-day another round of festivities has been prepared in which German-American organizations are taking part.

Overhaul Ship.

LAKEHURST, N.J., October 17 (Associated Press). — Lashed to the floor of the hangar while workmen appeared and disappeared over her silvery sides scanning their eyes for any possible injury, Germany's Graf Zeppelin was given much attention yesterday in preparation for her proposed tour of the United States.

Throngs, turning their backs to the Los Angeles, U.S. naval dirigible, and the two smaller semi-rigid dirigibles, watched the expert repairmen as they mounted high to the tops of their ladders and then climbed over to the smooth coating of the air leviathan.

Wins Special Prize For Oldest Man

ROSENEATH, Oct. 16 (Examiner Correspondence). — M. D. Brown's special prize to the oldest man registering with the secretary at 3 p.m., was Mr. D. Y. Buttars of Plainville, who is 86 years, and 4 months. Mr. Buttars is remarkably bright and vigorous for his years, having ploughed in the forenoon and taking the afternoon for a holiday to attend the fair, is a privilege not extended to many of us, and particularly unique was the celebration of this event in his life.

Moderation has always been the keynote of Mr. Buttars, which is no doubt responsible for his robust health and spirit.

Establish Two Training Schools For Girls Migrating To Canada

EDMONTON, Alta., Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press).—Establishment of two training schools in Great Britain for the purpose of giving a six weeks' course in domestic work to girls coming to Canada for this purpose, and the medical examination of Britishers coming to Canada by British doctors are two of the outstanding plans being put into effect by the Canadian Department of Immigration, in the interests of better and more contented settlers, Hon. Robert Forke, Federal Minister of Immigration, stated yesterday.

Mr. Forke is in Edmonton to confer with the Alberta Government on immigration conditions in general.

Nothing much has yet been done on the latter recommendation said Mr. Forke. The scheme is a tremendous one and involves much preparatory work. Meantime, he is visiting the various provincial governments and discussing immigration questions with them. He is being received with every promise of co-operation and support by the provinces thus far visited.

The instituting of examination of intending settlers to Canada from Great Britain by British doctors has set at rest earlier criticism that Britishers objected to being examined only by Canadian doctors, Mr. Forke states, and this work is now proceeding very smoothly. The entire task is under Canadian medical supervision, so that Canada has still the final say in the matter.

NORTHUMBERLAND REGIMENT IS GIVEN BRITISH ALLIANCE

Canadian Militia Unit Is Affiliated With the Famous Fusiliers.

"THE FIGHTING FIFTH."

Regiment Raised in Northumberland County, England, Has Glorious Record.

Affiliation of the Northumberland Regiment of the Non-Permanent Active Militia of Canada, with the Northumberland Fusiliers of the British Army as announced yesterday by National Defence Headquarters, brings the Canadian unit into alliance with one of the most famous regiments of the British Forces. The "Fighting Fifth", as the Imperial unit was known in Peninsular War days, is an old regiment which has served in many theatres of war with distinction.

Organized privately in 1674 to assist the Dutch in their fight against France, the regiment was absorbed into the British Army as the 5th Regiment of the Line in 1685 and fought the armies of Louis XIV in Flanders and Spain and the armies of the exiled James II in Ireland. Again in 1761 and 1762 the regiment was employed against the French in the Seven Years War, and later it served in America.

At St. Lucia the regiment fought so gallantly in defending the island against the French that the men were allowed to wear in their caps the white feathers captured from the enemy, and in the Penisular War they earned their well-known names, the "Fighting Fifth" and the "Old and Bold." The regiment marched with Havelock to the relief of Lucknow in the Indian Mutiny, and later in Afghanistan Egypt, and South Africa.

In the Great War the regiment fought in nearly every battle area. Besides its regular battalions it had five Territorial battalions and a large number of Service battalions (Kitchener's Men) engaged, the total being over fifty. The 1st Battalion was part of the 9th brigade of the original expeditionary force, while of the service battalions those known as the Tyneside Irish and Tyneside Scottish were conspicuous at the Battle of the Somme in 1916.

The Northumberland Regiment is one of the oldest in the Canadian Militia List. It was organized in 1866, and was known until the time of the Great War as the 40th Regiment. It sent men to every contingent organized by Canada from the time of its foundation, having a whole company in the Midland Regiment during the Northwest Rebellion of 1885 and served as a recruiting unit for hundreds of men during the war of 1913-18, sending overseas the 139th Battalion of 1000 men besides many smaller drafts.

13 CONFIRMED AT MARMORA

Large Congregation Taxes the Capacity of St. Paul's Anglican Church.

BISHOP PREACHES.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, October 17. — In the presence of a large congregation, which called for additional seating accommodation, thirteen persons were confirmed at St. Paul's Church on Monday by Right Rev. C. A. Seager, D.D., Lord Bishop of Ontario.

The service was most impressive, a full choir leading in the singing of hymns familiarly connected with this auspicious service.

The Bishop gave a very striking address on the purpose of Confirmation, showing that it called for profession, prayer, and participation in the gift of the Holy Ghost.

Rev. M. J. C. Levason, of the parish of Rawdon, read the special Scripture portions. The rector, Rev. A. B. Caldwell, presented the following for the laying on of hands: Fay Buskard, Edith Phillips, Eileen Scott, Mary Lumsden, Gertrude Lumsden, Frances Crawford, Manley Emmorey, Roy Smith, Percy Melville, James Rice, Hugh Phillips, and Simeon Smith.

Monday night was Past Masters' night with Marmora A.F. & A.M., 222. In the course of the evening, the lodge received a visit from Worshipful Brother C. A. Seager, Past Master of Ionic Lodge, Toronto, and listened to an inspiring address from this distinguished member of the Order.

Mrs. Edward McGarvey, of Toronto, is visiting relatives in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Gray visited their daughter Lulu at Oshawa on Saturday, the latter being nurse-in-training there.

While it might be supposed that a steamship crew could catch its own fish, large liners now in the trans-Atlantic tourist service carry for each trip 8000 clams, 200 crabs, 500 barrels of oysters and 1500 pounds of fresh fish.

Better Weather Information Service Necessary For Commercial Sea Flights

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press).—Better weather information service is the chief need of the new area of commercial air transportation in the opinion of Colonel Emilio Herrera, chief of the technical service of the Spanish Military Air Corps, who was a passenger on the Graf Zeppelin.

More ample meteorological service would have enabled Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the dirigible, to avoid the storm in which one of the ship's fins was damaged, Colonel Herrera said last night.

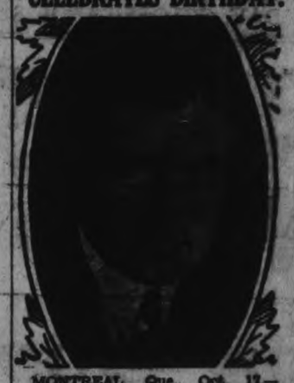
He was aboard the airship as observer in preparation for proposed trans-Atlantic air service between Seville, Spain, and Buenos Aires.

The Graf Zeppelin, he said, will be the first air-liner used in this service, under a lease with option to purchase at the end of two years by the Compania Colon Transaerea De Espana.

The service he said, probably will start in May after trial trips to determine operation costs and passenger rates. The trip, he estimates, will require three and one half days one way.

As soon as he receives instruction from his government, he will go to South America to make arrangements for the service, including construction of hangers to house ships even larger than the Graf Zeppelin.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY.



MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press.)—E. M. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, yesterday celebrated his fifty-fifth birthday. Mr. Beatty was born in Thorold, Ont., on October 16, 1877. He entered the service of the company of which he is now chairman and president in 1901 as assistant to the General Council. In 1914 he became vice-president, and in 1918 president, succeeding to the post made vacant by the death of Lord Shaughnessy.

EX-MODERATOR COMING.

Rev. JAMES ENDICOTT, D.D., LL.D. who visited all the foreign missions of the United Church of Canada during his recent term as Moderator, is speaking in the interests of missionary and maintenance work at Peterborough on October 18th. A distinguished administrator and advocate of foreign missions, Dr. Endicott was himself for many years a missionary in China and was a member this year of the International Missionary Council, meeting at Jerusalem. He will be present at the Men's Supper Meeting in Knox Church Lecture Hall, on Thursday, at 6.30 p.m., and will give the main address at the public meeting in Knox Church Auditorium that same evening after 8 o'clock. His message will be of great interest to all who can attend.

Zeppelin Commander Expects To Start On Return Flight In About Ten Days

NEW YORK Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press).—Dr. Hugo Eckener expects to start the Graf Zeppelin on its return flight to Germany in about ten days.

"But first," he said yesterday, "we will fly to Pittsburgh, Akron, Detroit and perhaps Chicago and some other cities."

In company with Captain H. A. Lehmann his first officer, he outlined the future of the huge Zeppelin as he neared the reception New York had prepared.

"The damaged horizontal fin will be fixed by the end of the week," he said. "It is only the cover that is damaged. We will be ready to go back by the end of next week."

"With favorable winds we will probably make the return journey in three days," Captain Lehmann estimated, "but it is not safe to make guesses. I cannot say what the cause of the damage to the fin was, no definite statement should be made until after a complete investigation."

BIG CONGREGATION AT ANNIVERSARY

Dunsford United Church Celebrate Anniversary in Fitting Manner.

(Examiner Correspondence)

DUNSFORD, Oct. 17.—The anniversary services of the Dunsford United Church was held on Sunday, October 14, morning and evening, the seating capacity of the church being fully occupied at both services.

The church was beautifully decorated with vines, maple branches, cut flowers, house plants and vegetables.

The music was furnished by the local choir, the morning anthem being "The voice of many waters" the duet part was taken by Mesdames Irwin and Newton Thurston and Miss Jean Elliott sang "Teach me to pray." The evening anthem was "Ye shall dwell in the land" and a solo "The end of a perfect day" by Mrs. Nelson Thurston.

Rev. J. Fred Lane of Canton was the special speaker for the day, his morning text was taken from Luke 10:30 "A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho."

Developing his theme the speaker stressed four attributes: 1, The Robber—the victim to be exploited, what can I get out of the man.

(2) The Priest and the Levites—The wounded man a nuisance to be avoided, Whatever love they had for God they had none for man.

(3) The innkeeper: Just a business proposition. If we cannot take our religion into our business there is either something wrong with our religion or our business.

(4) The Samaritan—The traveller as a neighbor to be helped, the important question to us is not who is my neighbor but to whom can I prove myself a neighbor. Jesus taught us if we would love God we must also love our neighbor.

The subject for evening service was "Stewardship" and the text was taken from St. Matthew 6:33 "But seek ye first the Kingdom of God and his righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you." The speaker defined stewardship as the acceptance and acknowledgement of God's ownership and our partnership with him in an honest administration of our whole life. He said it was easy to get people to seek pleasure, power and wealth; these are very well in their place but should not be the goal of life. Some people are careless, thoughtless or indifferent and there are some lukewarm Christians.

No one can go through life irresponsible or irresponsive to God, we must give an account of our

NEW BOOKS ARE A PROBLEM AT OXFORD

By NEA Service.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The University of Oxford has divers problems, but the most pressing question at this time is what to do with all the books received at the library.

When Sir Thomas refounded the neglected library of Humphrey, Duke of Gloucester (the brother of King Henry V.) he obtained the privilege of receiving a copy of every book published in England. As a result the 2,000 volumes of 1602 have increased to more than 1,500,000 occupying 26 miles of shelves and requiring over 800 huge volumes for the catalog.

Woman Leaves Baby In Arms Of Stranger

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press.)— "Would you mind holding this parcel for me while I make a purchase, I'll not be long?"

A woman made this request to another woman, a perfect stranger, outside the restaurant of one of the local department stores.

Twenty minutes elapsed and the first woman had not returned. Meantime the parcel appeared to be animated and upon opening it the woman in whose care it had been entrusted, found a six-months old baby girl, scantily clad.

The child was handed over to the police matron who in turn sent it to the Grey Nuns at Cartierville. Meantime, the police are investigating the case.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE REVIEWS BIG WORK

Mrs. Gould, of Fenelon Falls, Tells of Work in North Country.

(Examiner Correspondence)

OMEMEE, Oct. 17—A very enthusiastic meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. Rea with an attendance of twenty-two members and visitors. The chair was occupied by the president, Mrs. J. Widdis, who opened the meeting by the singing of the opening Ode and the repeating of the Lord's Prayer.

Mrs. (Dr.) Nickle favored the gathering with a piano solo, which was well received.

The district president, Mrs. Dr. Gould of Fenelon Falls was called upon to address the meeting. She spoke at some length on the great work which is being done by this organization, citing cases throughout the north country which has been wonderfully benefitted by the Women's Institute.

A vocal solo, "An Irish Lullaby", was rendered in fine voice by Rev. Mr. Blanchard who was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Blanchard and the encore, "Annie Laurie."

The secretary read a communication from the Kiwanis Club, Peterborough, regarding their "Produced in Canada" Exhibition. This year they are having a woman's section when many prominent lady speakers will give addresses both afternoon and evening.

Each member is requested to bring a new member to the November meeting. Mrs. R. J. Cornwall was appointed a delegate to attend the W.I. convention in Toronto, the latter part of November.

A bale of clothing, fruit, pickles, etc., is being asked for, the same to be left at the home of Mrs. Rea. It will be forwarded to the children's shelter in Lindsay this week.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem after which a dainty lunch was served and a social time enjoyed.

The regular meeting of the A.Y.P.A. was held in the church basement. Program called for a hike but as the weather was not very promising, the members embarked in auto to Mount Nebo, where an enjoyable weiner roast was held.

Rev. Dr. Irvine of Toronto, the secretary of the Prohibition Union, delivered an excellent temperance address in Trinity United church on Sunday evening. During the service Rev. J. T. E. Blanchard gave a vocal solo entitled, "I Shall Not Pass Again This Way", which was much enjoyed.

CAVAN CHURCH ANNIVERSARY IS OBSERVED

Rev. J. E. Todd, of Peterborough, is Special Preacher at Evening Service.

TWO GOOD SERMONS.

Special Music By Choir Adds To Occasion—Church Prettily Decorated.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAVAN, Oct. 17.—Very successful anniversary services were held morning and evening on Sunday in Cavan United church.

In the morning the pastor, the Rev. F. Carpenter preached to a large and appreciative audience. His congregation was principally his own people of Cavan appointment with a number of visiting members from the other appointments and Fairmont.

Mr. Carpenter gave a splendid address, dealing with the great need of to-day, in the churches—more consecration and earnestness. He told that in the beginning of the life of the United church the officials in their leaflets sent out to their ministers, stressed the need of unity and urged that all should co-operate to have unity. Then organization was emphasized, and now that the church is fully organized and working harmoniously, the need of greater consecration is urged. He read extracts from a leaflet issued by the Rt. Rev. W. T. Gunn, Moderator of the United church, asking that this subject of consecration be given prominence in church services and work. As a help in this the "family altar" was mentioned. He urged care in regard to our speech. The modern flippant way of speaking of sacred things, tending to make light of spiritual issues. Sober, serious thinking was urged upon his hearers, that all might feel the need and help in God's work by the consecration of them, their talents and time.

The choir sang, "The Valleys Laugh and Sing," Mrs. Matchett and Mrs. Carr singing a duet in it. The

G. A. IRONSIDE IS PRESIDENT

Elected To Lead Campbellford Hockey Club For Coming Season.

STRONG TEAM EXPECTED.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 16.—Present indications point to a strong hockey team to represent the town this winter. This fact was revealed at the meeting held in the public library at seven o'clock last night for the purpose of re-organizing the executive. There will be different names on the list of players this season, but the majority will be players from last year. As far as can be known at the present time, there will be a new goalie and perhaps two new players on the forward line. All will be local men.

From the general tone of the meeting last night, it is safe to say that the town will make a bid to get its team into the Trent Valley League again this year and on a double schedule. Last year Campbellford played only a single schedule in the league and had to depend on exhibition games to finance the team. Better conditions this season are expected.

Just what form the pre-season training will take has not yet been decided upon since no official appointment was made last night for the position of coach and his official will have the major portion of the training under his supervision. Three names were mentioned but since none of the three men were present no appointment could be made. The rink will be available for training purposes by the latter part of the present month.

This year, the club elected another honorary president to its lists, C. S. Gillespie, veteran of more than one form of sport was appointed an honorary leader of the club. The others appointed were: Charles Davidson, Warden of the Counties of Northumberland and Durham, His Worship, Mayor Kingston, Reeve J. M. Bywott, and Charles Nadoo, merchant of the town.

This year, G. A. Ironside will occupy the position of president of the club with Dr. S. L. O'Hara and Dr. H. T. Scott as vice presidents. B. H. Beatty will be the secretary treasurer and to Wilbert Rogers falls the task of managing the team. Joseph Poulon will be trainer for the season. The committee to attend to the finances for the season will consist of the President, Secretary and Manager.

Some difference in the order of things may take place this winter. It has been suggested that each team in the Trent Valley league also enter a junior team and that the junior teams play preliminary games before the senior teams take the ice. Whether or not this will be the case will be definitely settled when the executive of the league meet to decide on the schedule and other matters of business.

Should Campbellford again sponsor a town league the players from the senior team will not be permitted to take part as players in any of the games. This was the feeling of the meeting last night, but there was no motion placed on the books to make the statement official or final. It was felt that the only way that Campbellford can hope to have a real team is to produce and develop the material from local finds.

ROTARY CLUB IS PROPOSED

Campbellford Citizens Consider Organization—Belleville Members Present.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 17 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Rotary or no Rotary, is the question which several leading business and professional men will have to decide upon during the next few days. The Rotary movement speaks for itself and does not require any advertising, but it is new to the men of Campbellford. Several have been guests at luncheons in other centres, but as nearly as can be learned, only one man in Campbellford can claim the distinction of ever having been a Rotarian. This is the Rev. R. C. Talt, pastor of St. John's United Church. He was a member in Halifax, N.S., and also belonged to a club in Western Canada.

There were fifteen men present, including three members of the Belleville club. Mr. M. Robertson, president of the Belleville Rotarians and manager of the Belleville Creameries Limited; O. H. Scott, secretary of the Belleville club and manager of the Hydro for the Belleville district, and J. O. Herity, past president of the club, manager of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, and City Commission, were the three visitors who last night laid the foundation for a local Rotary club. All three men addressed the gentlemen present, and after they had explained Rotary to the best of their ability, asked that any points that were not clear, be asked about. Several of the men asked about various phases and the general feeling seemed to be in favor of the formation of a club. In order that something definite might be done without delay, a committee of three, G. A. Kingston, A. J. Meyers, and C. H. Davidson, was appointed to arrange for a further meeting at the same place for "the purpose of furthering Rotary in Campbellford."

During the addresses, it was stated that Rotary had its beginning in the city of Chicago about twenty-five years ago. Thus it was comparatively young but was founded on philosophy that was more than two thousand years old. During its brief lifetime it had spread to forty-four countries of the world and of the three thousand clubs formed, only one had been forced to return its charter. This was the case of a club in a railroad town in Arizona. The movement was not to attempt to take the place of the church, but to promote a feeling of "man's humanity to man."

Membership is Limited.

Membership is limited as only one representative from each business or profession was eligible, but that one might have an associate. It was a question in a town the size of Campbellford whether Rotary or Kiwanis would be the most satisfactory. The Kiwanis organization permitted two from each business or profession, but it was the opinion of the speakers that the Rotary here could and would be as strong as any other like movement. Again it was pointed out that while the Kiwanis were represented in only two countries, Canada and the United States, Rotary was known practically the world over.

On the membership roll were such names as ex-President Harding of the United States. He had expressed his belief that Rotary was one of the greatest instruments for peace in modern civilization. Mussolini, it was said, is a member of the Milan Rotary Club. Dr. Mayo of the Rochester Clinic, has not missed a Rotary luncheon in eight years, the late Judge Garry of the United States had enjoyed a perfect attendance for ten years. On one occasion he was mistaken in the day that a certain club in California held its luncheon and rather than lose his attendance he drove two hundred and ninety-six miles to another town where the meeting was being held.

The Rotary was not long in coming from the States to Canada was proved by the fact that the Winnipeg club was number thirty-five and there were at the present time, ninety-two clubs in the Dominion. The Belleville club was formed in February 1920, and was number 645. Campbellford, the visitors thought, was ideally situated midway between a number of clubs in Belleville, Cobourg, Port Hope, Peterborough, Lindsay and several others. These clubs could be counted on to assist the local organization from time to time. The visitors from Belleville also very generously volunteered to father the Campbellford club for the first year and if desired by the newer club, for another year after that.

The meeting last night was in the form of a dinner in the dining room of the St. Lawrence hotel. The business and professional men of Campbellford who were present were J. C. Birmingham, Eli Brunelle, C. H. Davidson, P. C. Denyes, E. C. Dolman, D. W. Douglas, G. A. Ironside, G. A. Kingston, Dr. H. B. Longmore, N. A. MacColl, A. J. Meyers and Dr. O. J. Watson. It was intimated that at the next luncheon meeting there would be a larger attendance. The affair last night was more of an impromptu nature and several who had been invited were unable to be present. Others who have been invited were not located in the short time before the meeting. An idea of how the entire affair was brought about may be gained by the words of one of the speakers. He said that they had not written to make any pre-arrangement or seek an invitation for fear the matter would have gone by the board. They simply took a chance and came without notice.

WHITENING BLOUSES

White silk blouses should be rolled in towels until ironing, never hung out to dry. Use a little of the white soap in the rinse water—it is as effective as any of the colors.

RANCID BUTTER

Sometimes the most rancid butter can be freshened if broken up and put into fresh milk. Allow it to absorb the milk, then drain, wash in cold salted water and work it into pats again.

HEART TROUBLE CAUSED ILLNESS

Young Farm Worker Will Be Able To Resume Duties in Week.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 17 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — That another week or ten days will see Jack Phillips back on the job again, was the opinion expressed by the attending physician yesterday. Phillips is the young Englishman who was suddenly taken seriously ill while working in the loft with the threshing gang at the Hay Farm, near Myersburg.

Yesterday afternoon he was in a much-improved condition, and a more satisfactory examination was possible. It appears that he had been suffering from a heart condition for some time. Before leaving England some three months ago, his physician there had warned him against participating in any strenuous exercise. Since coming to Canada he had suffered two minor attacks, he admitted but the last one was by far the most severe he had experienced.

Phillips was in the loft with three other men, when he was seized. His duty was to help supply the machine with sheaves. It was not hard work, he said. His doctor expects that in another week he will be fit for work again.

WILLING WORKERS TURN TO BRIDGE

Seventeen Tables Played at Party Held in Parish Hall.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 17 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Departing from their usual procedure, the Willing Workers of Christ Church entertained at a bridge of nineteen tables in the Parish Hall, Rear street, last night. The intense silence during the play, at times marked the keenness with which the players were applying their efforts. High scores were not uncommon, but the winners established a margin of approximately three hundred points above those next in line for the honors. Mrs. J. P. Archer won the lady's prize and the gentleman's prize went to George O'Sullivan. Mrs. J. C. Birmingham was the person who occupied the lucky chair at the end of the play, and it was Mrs. A. J. Jenkins' score card that was drawn from the box. To both of these ladies were awarded prizes.

For the occasion, the stage of the hall was beautifully decorated with flowers. Lunch was served at 11.30. Judging from the success of the affair last night, bridge is likely to succeed euchre where the Willing Workers are concerned.

LARGE ENTRY FOR PLOWING MATCH

Anniversary Services at Zion Church Very Successful.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, Oct. 17.—The Cavan and South Monaghan Plowmen's Association intends holding its annual plowing-match on the farm of John S. Cathcart, Tenth Line, Cavan, on Wednesday, October 24, beginning at 9 a.m. The usual fine prize list has been arranged for, and one of the prizes is now displayed in J. Steele's store window. It is a handsome silver service, donated by the A. P. H. Echardt Company, of Toronto, and is a special in the boys' class, under 21 years.

Mr. Echardt is donating a similar prize in each of the twelve districts in the province. The local associations decide in which class the prize shall be given at their respective plowing-matches. The donor, Mr. Echardt, is the honorary president of the Provincial Plowmen's Association; J. J. Tierney, of Brockville, the president, and L. H. Winslow, of Cavan township, the first vice-president.

Competition at the local plowing-match is open to all comers, the executive believing that interest, attendance, and the character of the work done will receive a stimulus by their adopting this plan in connection with the annual event. This year more of the prizes are offered in cash, and less in goods, than in any previous year of the Association's history. The officers and directors are especially appreciative of the assistance given by the merchants of Peterborough, as well as by local business firms, in making up the prize list for the plowing-match.

Anniversary Services.

The anniversary services of the Zion United church were held on Sunday afternoon and evening, the fine weather being a feature that added to the success of the occasion, large congregations filling the church to capacity afternoon and evening.

Fall flowers, foliage, fruits, vegetables, and grain sheaves made appropriate decorations. Music was furnished by the choir from the Millbrook church, under the leadership of Mrs. H. W. Johnston, Miss Estelle Hetherington at the organ. The selections in the afternoon included an anthem, "In the Secret of His Presence", and a quartette, "The Lord Will Comfort," by Messrs. H. W. Johnston, W. H. Coombe, M. McDowell, and V. C. Lambert; in the evening the Misses Frances and Beatrice Jones contributed a duet, "If I Could But Tell", which was much enjoyed by the listener.

Rev. Mr. Mears chose for his text, "And the disciples were called Christians first at Antioch" (Acts 11:26), and after painting a graphic word picture of the geographical position of Antioch, and the place it occupied in the commerce and literature of its day, went on to explain that the people of Antioch were fond of bestowing nicknames and hence for the followers of the new religion who spoke so often of Christus, they coined the name 'Christians.'

"A Christian is one who loves Christ, and whom Christ loves, and the gospel bears a Divine signature which it is not in the power, or art, of man to counterfeit."

Defining the duty of Christians to Christianity, the speaker listed the Christians and martyrs who kept the faith at great cost; and went on to ask, What is our contribution to Christianity? The past Christians appeal to us to carry on; what is our answer?

"Martyrdom has ceased but service for Christ has not ceased, and it calls for the best of which His followers are capable. God can, and is, bringing from our practical age glorious results. Religion doesn't mean just going to church, singing hymns, reading psalms, listening to sermons, etc., but it does mean doing good, feeding the hungry, closing saloons, putting into active practice the principles laid down by the Saviour."

"Religion calls for the use of hands as well as heads; Jesus used His hands," and the speaker gave illustrations of the fact just stated, going on to the conclusion, "Go thou, and do likewise," as the Master's injunction.

Harvest Festival.

Saint Thomas' Anglican church held its annual Harvest Thanksgiving service on Sunday, October 14, at 7.30 p.m., the interior of the sacred building being beautifully decorated with fall fruits, foliage, flowers, vegetables, and grains, silver vases holding bouquets of marigolds being used upon the altar.

The rector, Rev. Canon Allen, was present and took charge of the service, the combined choirs of Christ Church, Failieboro, and of Saint Thomas' church, providing the music for the occasion. The hymns chosen were entirely of a harvest home character, and the Scripture lessons had a direct bearing on the subject of thanksgiving appropriate to the service. Mrs. (Canon) Allen presided at the organ.

Rev. Mr. DeLom, of Cobourg, chose two portions of Scripture for his text, the first from Genesis 41:22: "And I saw in my dream and behold, seven ears came up in one stalk, full and good"; and the second from John 6:48: "I am that Bread of Life", combining the symbolism of seven different graces of the Christian life, suggested by the words in the passage first quoted, with the ample provision to be found only in Christ as the Food of the World, as the implied invitation of the second makes clear.

"The bountiful harvest which a loving Father has bestowed upon us this season, of which we see the suggestion in the decorations about us in the church this evening, is typical of the bountiful spiritual harvest He is looking for in our lives, and which is made possible for us as we feed upon Him by faith. While God has prepared perishable food, in sufficient variety and profusion, to sustain and invigorate our bodies, He has also provided abundantly for our spiritual nourishment, 'I am the bread of life; he that cometh to Me shall never hunger, and he that believeth in Me shall never thirst'; yet so perverse is our nature that we prize more highly the bread that perisheth, and are apt to choose it and starve our souls, bringing about our present, and everlasting ruin."

The talent of prayers is a mighty power if we know how to use it. It is not only a delightful communion but an exalted stewardship. Prayer is a means of communion by which we take into ourselves the power of God and then through intercession give that power to our fellowmen.

Money should not be an end to itself but a means to an end. Not only should a definite portion be set aside for God but it must be all administered under his guidance.

There are as many personalities as individuals, we are each given different talents. The speaker closed by urging the young people to accept Christ and make the best use of their time and talents.

Rev. J. F. Everson had charge of the services on Canton circuit on Sunday last on account of absence of Rev. J. Fred Lane who conducted anniversary services in the United church here.

The public school here was closed on Thursday and Friday because of the teacher's convention which was held in Lindsay, and which was attended by Miss Georgie Richardson the local teacher.

FOR NEW CANADIANS.

It is gratifying to know that the course in English which is to be part of the syllabus of the evening classes in the Peterborough Vocational School has already attracted the attention of some new Canadians living in Peterborough, who welcome this opportunity of learning the language of their adopted country.

This class should be of particularly useful service in this respect, and it is to be hoped that before next week when teaching commences the enrollment in this course will be heavy.

Although Peterborough contains a smaller percentage of foreign-born citizens than any other industrial community in Canada, there must be a number of newcomers here whose knowledge of English is elementary, and who would be benefitted by attendance at this course.

Citizens who know of such new Canadians would be helping them to feel at home in this country and to prosper by calling their attention to this opportunity.

Registration may be made this week, and the small fee, which is refunded when a sufficient number of classes have been attended, makes it possible for everybody needing this or other courses to attend the evening classes.

THE MUSICAL PROGRAMS.

Peterborough music-lovers are being particularly well looked- after at the Produced-in-Canada Exhibition for in addition to the musical competitions which are open to the patrons of the Exhibition the concerts each night afford an opportunity to hear varied and most delightful programs by well-known artists.

The management of the Exhibition have gone to heavy expense in securing entertainers of recognized ability, and the presence on the program of the Canadian singers, Miss Marie Thomson, Signor Carlo Lamberti and Madame Scott Hannigan, and the new Canadians from the C.N.E. pageant makes these concerts outstanding events.

There will be different program each night and on Saturday afternoon, and the merit of the entertainment should ensure capacity audiences in the Canadian Legion Hall at every performance for the balance of the week.

A visit to the Produced-in-Canada Exhibition that does not include attendance at one of the daily concerts is far from being complete.

ANOTHER LINK WITH THE BRITISH ARMY

The announcement made from Ottawa yesterday that permission had been given the Northumberland Regiment, with headquarters at Cobourg, to ally themselves with the Northumberland Fusiliers of the British army, was doubtless received with keen interest by militiamen and by the public generally.

The Northumberland Fusiliers, the "Fighting Fifth," are the fifth regiment of the line in the British army with a long and glorious history, dating back to 1674 when they were organized as a private regiment to assist the Dutch, becoming part of the British army in 1685. In the world war there were over 50 battalions of the Fusiliers in action.

The Northumberland Regiment, whose establishment includes companies at Norwood and Campbellford and is at present in command of Lieut.-Col. Neilson, former officer of the 93rd Battalion, C.E.F., was organized in 1866.

Its alliance with the famous "Fighting Fifth" will be appreciated by all ranks in the Northumberland unit, and forms another link between the military forces of Great Britain and the Canadian militia.

The Peterborough Rangers have for many years been similarly allied with the Middlesex Regiment, the "Die Hards."

THE OPENING OF THE NEW SCHOOL.

While The Examiner has already expressed the opinion that a point might have been strained to permit the use of the new Collegiate assembly hall in connection with the Produced-in-Canada Exhibition, we can see no reason for roundly abusing the Board of Education in this regard, nor can we associate ourselves with those who seem to think that the formal opening of the new Vocational School is a matter of minor significance.

On the contrary, it is most fitting that the beginning of a new stage in educational development in this community should be marked by ceremonies in keeping with the historical importance of the occasion.

The facilities that are afforded by the new building throw open the doors of opportunity to many young people, making it possible for them to secure training along practical lines that should be of the greatest value to them.

Surely the inauguration of such training should not be accepted casually, nor would it be placing sufficient emphasis upon the importance of this development to dispense with a dignified and impressive formal opening.

The Board of Education is right in planning appropriate ceremonies, and while many people feel that the effect of these ceremonies would not have been lessened by the use of the hall this week by the Kiwanis Club, the record of the members of the board in meeting Peterborough's educational requirements should protect them from being assailed as autocrats or worse.

A BRIGHT OUTLOOK.

Comparatively favorable business conditions prevail in most sections of the country, and the present outlook for fall and winter trade is even more promising than it was a year ago, says the Canadian Bank of Commerce in its monthly letter for October. The agricultural season has generally been successful as far as production is concerned, and from every point of view mixed farming is in a sounder position than at this time last year.

As regards the western grain-growing Provinces, the number of orders for agricultural implements cancelled at this period usually indicates inversely the purchasing power of the farmers. If this had been seriously affected by the lower level of grain prices there would have been an almost general refusal by the farmers to take delivery of equipment ordered on the condition that their circumstances would warrant acceptance. It is significant, however, that the cancellations so far are not disproportionate to the total orders taken during the season.

A rational policy continues in the lumber industry, for production is now closely adjusted to consumption, particularly in the Pacific Coast region of the United States, where operations were formerly on such a vast scale that the American market, the outlet for a large part of the lumber sawn in British Columbia, was almost constantly glutted. The demand fell off slightly during August, but has since been greater, and the higher prices established some months ago have been maintained. Exploration and development work in the mining fields will shortly be curtailed owing to winter weather, but because of the larger ore-bodies now accessible, improved milling facilities and better world markets, actual mining operations will be more extensive than in any previous season. While fishing has sometimes been conducted under more favorable conditions, the results this year are, on the whole, satisfactory, and there are better prospects for those engaged in the industry than in 1927.

Manufacturing as a whole continues at a higher level than ever before, although some industries are still operating under difficulties which are largely the result of an over-expansion that has taken place in these lines both in Canada and abroad.

The steel, pulp and paper, coarse cotton, woollen and leather footwear industries fall into the latter category, although improvement has been noticeable in some lines during the past year.

Marked activity, however, is to be recorded in those branches of manufacture which produce building materials, farm implements, automobiles, foodstuffs, rubber goods, house furnishings and the most popular lines of wearing apparel. For the most part, therefore, the mills and factories will be fully occupied for some months, unless the purchasing power of the western farmers is curtailed by further damage to the crops now being harvested, or by another sharp decline in the price of wheat.

The steel mills have obtained new orders for rails which, with a continued heavy demand for their other products, ensure operations for some months at a rate close, if not equal, to that established in the early summer, when it was the highest since the war period. Indeed, some of the leading producers have not recently been able to keep pace with the demand for certain materials.

The final re-adjustment of conditions in the automobile industry consequent upon the introduction of the new Ford model has now been accomplished and production in the first eight months of the current year exceeded that in the corresponding period of 1927. This record activity was due in part to the efforts of the Ford Company to fill orders which accumulated in great volume while the plants were being re-equipped, but there has also been a normal expansion in the general operations of the automotive trade as a result of prosperous conditions and better values afforded by lower prices for many materials, as well as the great efficiency attained by constant improvement in engineering and manufacturing practice.

An interesting feature is the prospects, definite in the case of one of the large companies, that production will not fall off greatly during the next few months, as has usually happened each autumn, and that it may be of record proportions throughout the winter. The present situation has placed the whole industrial organization on firmer ground than that upon which it rested a year ago, for the activities of the automobile companies are reflected in many allied trades.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Kiwanis show has many departments. Be sure you see them all.

The Produced-in-Canada boys in Monday night's parade were one of the most inspiring features in the Produced-in-Canada Exhibition.

As first to be considered when old age pensions are granted in Ontario may we respectfully suggest some of the Mail and Empire's front page jokes.

"Political leaders who think fitness for office depends upon placing sheer partisanship above national interest are mechanical politicians," says Herbert Hoover. Now, just one guess as to whom the Globe will apply this definition.

It is somewhat surprising to find that in these days of motor transport it is still possible to hold a horse parade.

In one respect, at any rate, the Globe points out, Mussolini is just an ordinary every-day individual. He can tell newspapermen just how to run a newspaper.

It is pointed out that the present immigration regulations would have barred Hon. Chas. A. Dunning from Canada if they had been in force seventeen years ago. And the Opposition will doubtless think with regret of what might have been.

BREAKING THE BOULEVARDS

Dear Mr. Editor:

A few weeks ago the city council built boulevards on all the avenues connecting Charlotte street with King street, and a visit to this section will well repay anyone curious enough to see how such a job may be bungled by thoughtless people.

On some of the avenues (Elias, for instance, built long ago) the boulevard continues in an attractive unbroken line from end to end. But on others the boulevards are broken by entry ways to garages and coal chutes and prospective garages. The streets are ruined. Take Frederick avenue, for instance. In this short avenue of about ten houses long there are five breaks in the boulevard, most of them leading to nothing unless it be a coal chute. Instead of the long line of unbroken grass, there will be little patches set off by ugly concrete curves.

In many sections of the city this is excusable because there are no back lanes, but this excuse does not hold good on any of the west-end avenues. There are broad lanes running down behind every house, and there seems to be no reason why cars and coal could not be taken in by that way.

Surely, in view of atrocities like this, it is time we had some plan that would make the city beautiful. If we are not yet ready for compulsory censoring of building plans (which will come) might not the city council through its appointed officers, endeavour to prevent the spoilation of beautiful streets in this way?

Yours truly,
WEST-ENDER.

SEEK BRITISH AID

France will hereafter look to England for aid and co-operation rather than to the United States, in the opinion of Count C. J. Anvers (left), who, in company with the Viscount de Roumefort (right), is visiting in Canada. The count is president of the Credit Foncier which has a branch in the Dominion and is also interested in the Franco-American Aero Co. and vice-president of the Administration and Trust Co. of Montreal. He is a large shareholder in many other Canadian corporations. In 1919 he became interested in aviation and organized a flying company in France which has the distinction of having paid increasing dividends ever since its inception. The company is specializing in aerial topography, or map-making and two years ago opened a branch in Quebec. This company has just completed mapping the entire Gaspe peninsula, and is growing rapidly.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 17 (Canadian Press).—Despite announcement of 33,670,000 bushels increase of the world's wheat available supply, wheat prices yesterday scored an advance. Indications here pointed to larger export business in progress than is being made public, and word was at hand that snow and sleet is causing delay to domestic winter wheat seeding West.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ⅛ to ⅞ cent net higher, with corn ½ to ⅝ cent up; oats showing ⅛ to ½ cent advance, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 80 cents.

Unlooked for strength of the Liverpool wheat market helped give an upward trend from the outset yesterday to the price of wheat in Chicago. It quickly became evident also that lively exchanging of wheat future delivery contracts was going on here for seaboard account, cash delivery being substituted in quanties which implied that export business in wheat from North America was of heavy volume, much in excess of what current estimates would point to as probable. Meanwhile, also considerable significance was attached to the fact that latest figures on the wheat crop of Italy showed nearly 8,000,000 bushels falling off compared to the previous generally accepted total.

Houses with eastern connections were active on the buying side of wheat on late dealings, strength of the corn market acted likewise at times as a bullish influence on wheat, and so too did talk which was heard that the Chicago wheat market is presenting evidence of becoming easily oversold, a circumstances that appeared to give warning against any aggressive bear pressure. It was also a subject of comment that huge receipts now both in this country and Canada were failing to bring about corresponding further setbacks in price either here or at Winnipeg.

Wet weather, export business, and scanty receipts combined yesterday to strengthen the corn market. Arrivals of corn in Chicago were restricted to 38 cars, and the amount of new corn booked to arrive was only 10,000 bushels. Throughout the corn belt weather appeared to be decidedly adverse for field work and for conditioning the new crop. Oats averaged higher owing to sympathy with other grains.

Provisions had a downward slant, largely as a result of an easier trend in hog values.

STERLING EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 17 (Canadian Press).—Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

Demand $4.84 13-16 to 13-16.
Cables, $4.85¼ to 5-16.

BUTTER AND EGGS.

TORONTO, October 17. —Butter trading throughout the Toronto wholesale market was confined to narrow limits yesterday and the bulk of activity was in spot transactions involving supplies required for immediate distributive use. Prices for all grades were steady at a general asked range of 39c to 39¼c a pound for finest No. 1 creamery, delivered in Toronto. Fresh receipts showed no increase in volume, but demand is still at a low ebb and incoming supplies appear to be sufficient for the moment. Sales to retailers were made yesterday at unchanged prices.

Egg values were steady, but the firm undertone of the market was again strongly in evidence, with active demand for strictly fresh extras, but the comparative scarcity of extras and firsts has resulted in a somewhat wider range of quoted values. The bulk of trading yesterday took place at prices between 40c and 44c a dozen for fresh extras, delivered in Toronto, with firsts at 39c to 41c.

The storage egg market was more active, in reflection of increased demand for this grade, and additional quantities of storage supplies were moved into consumptive channels. Storage extras were sold to retailers at 45c to 46c a dozen in cartons, or 43c to 44c loose.

Cheese values were firm at 21¼c to 23c a pound for finest No. 1 Government-graded, new large waxed cheese, delivered in Toronto. Firm tendencies at Montreal is a contributing factor to the strong undertone of the local situation.

Seaman Kent Hardware

The Seaman Kent Hardware Flooring Company which is the largest of its kind in Canada, has a booth decorated with the various kinds of hardwood flooring which it makes and the sizes and grades. The hardwood flooring is of four kinds, quarter cut white oak, plain red oak, maple and birch. Each kind of flooring is divided into three grades, first, second and third, with three thicknesses in each grade, three-eighths of an inch for flooring in modern priced houses, one-half inch for flooring in stores and the more expensive class of houses and thirteen sixteenths for flooring in factories and other places that have to carry heavy weights. The flooring is also sold in width ranging from one and one-half inches to three and one-quarter inches.

The company has offices in all the large cities in Canada and factories in Meaford, West Lorne, and Renfrew. The total production last year was 25 million board feet which is almost fifty percent of the total hardwood flooring made in Canada. The Peterborough Lumber Company is the exclusive agent for this company in this district.

Bell Telephone

The Bell Telephone Company of Canada in its booth has sought to impress on the mind of the onlooker that the Bell's Long Distance Telephone System is faster than any other mode of carrying messages and with the telephone you get your answer immediately. In the back ground is a painting of the steamboat, the train, the automobile, the postman and the airplane, all of which are means of transportation and carrying of messages. Then placed in the foreground is a large Bell Telephone with the words, "The long distance telephone answers immediately."

"Miss Simplicity"

The Miss Simplicity washing machine made by the William Kribs Company of Hespeler, an institution in Canadian industrial life since 1857, has a booth with all kinds and sizes of washing machines on exhibit. The local dealers are J. Walton and M. E. Ketcheson. Along with the washing machines are exhibited everything that goes to lightening the burden that rests on the house wife when she does her weekly washing. The hampers on exhibit are made by the Canadian Institute for the Blind.

J. J. Turner and Sons

J. J. Turner and Sons in their booth this year are specializing on horse blankets. The booth, which is decorated in a very artistic design of the blankets, catches the eye of all the spectators as being something which represents warmth and comfort. Blankets of all kinds from the sweat cloth to the stable article are on exhibit in various colors and sizes.

Barrie's Limited.

In a pretty little booth about half way down the south side is found a most elegant display of Barrie's ready to wear. Three beautiful evening dresses of the long, close fitting at the waist-wide skirt type are being displayed, along with fox furs, fur chokers and a most gorgeous white Coney trimmed with white island fox fur coat. The booth is done in black, which displays the gorgeous apparel to great advantage.

Lech's Furs.

Lech's exhibit of furs lives up to the high quality established by that firm in this city. The booth adds a cosy touch to the long line of various other articles displayed in the armouries. Fox scarfs are displayed all around the sides, while in the centre are several models covered with beautiful fur coats. The linings are open to display and the coats are almost as fine in the inside appearance as on the outside.

Games and Refreshments.

A busy scene was disclosed in the gun room. Here the Kiwanis ladies have a refreshment booth serving tempting hotdogs and hot coffee. Next door is the large "Bingo" game where Dame fortune smiles or frowns upon the eager players. There are several refreshment booths carrying all kinds of tempting confections and S. E. Moncrief is offering for sale milk and ice cream in convenient containers. A McCowen phototeris picture gallery is also in operation guaranteeing to return a real likeness in exactly 30 seconds after the flash has been taken. The whole operation is mechanical and was invented less than a year ago by a young Toronto genius. Located here also is the wise eagle-eyed gentleman who guesses weights and proves his accuracy by the chair scales near.

Stewart-Warner Radios.

Roland Bestard, agent for the Stewart-Warner Radio, has a booth displaying the various kinds of radios made by that company. They are models such as everyone might desire, working from the light socket. A complete matched unit is run by an alternating current which eliminates the A battery.

Ten Test Sheathing

Ten Test Sheathing, that building material which is replacing laths and other kinds of wooden sheathing in construction work is being demonstrated by the International Fiber Board Company and sold by the Peterborough Lumber Company. It is an insulating building board patented in 21 countries and can be used as a sheathing in the place of lumber, a plaster and stucco base, an exterior finish with paint only, an insulation for old and new buildings, a sound deadener, a fire and moisture resisting material. It keeps out the cold and keeps in the heat. The weight of 1,000 square feet is 790 pounds and it is sold in sheets.

W.M.S. HOLDS FINE SERVICE

St. James' Church Missionary Workers Hear Inspiring Address.

THANK OFFERING TAKEN.

The Sunday morning service at St. James United Church was under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Society, with Mrs. (Rev.) C. R. Carscallen of the Whitby Ladies' College, formerly a missionary in China, as special speaker. She was supported on the platform by Mrs. E. L. Woodley, President of the local society.

The centre seats of the church were reserved for the members of the W. M. S. and the Mission Circle, who entered the church in a body. It was the occasion of the Autumn Thankoffering, a generous sum being received.

Rev. Mr. Dudgeon conducted the opening devotional exercises, followed by a beautiful anthem from the choir, "I Was Glad When They Said Unto Me."

An appropriate missionary trio, "Tell the World About Jesus," was beautifully rendered by three sisters, Mrs. Monk, Mrs. McKinstry and Mrs. E. Kitney.

Mrs. Woodley introduced the speaker, and in a few words voiced her appreciation of Mrs. Carscallen's presence at this service.

Mrs. Crascallen took her text from the 9th chapter of Genesis, verses 8 to 15, which she termed "the parable of the trees of the forest." The trees wanted a king over them, so they asked first the olive and then the fig, but they refused. After trying the better type of tree, they finally asked the bramble, which gives no shade and no fruit, and it consented to be their king.

This text was applied to modern conditions in China. Particularly in politics many leaders of the "bramble" type are found, and they have kept China continually in a state of civil war. The better class of Chinese lives a retired life and refuses, like the olive and the fig, to take leadership.

Three Changes at Once

China is faced with three revolutions; political, of which so much is read in the daily papers; industrial, and intellectual; the last of which is not so well known.

It is interesting to compare these conditions with similar ones in England. Nearly a century elapsed between each of these changes in the history of England, but China is confronted with the whole three at the same time. It is like having the Italian Renaissance, the German Reformation, and the French Revolution all going on at once in one country. This shows China's great need for Christian leadership; for a leader who can interpret her to the world.

"But what have women to do with this great political struggle?" asked the speaker. "The social reformation in China affects the women at the two extremes of the social scale—the working women and the body of student women. The great middle class are not interested; they have taken on Western customs, but still keep their Eastern ideas.

"The intellectual revolution in China has been compared to the Renaissance. At the time of the latter, the change from classical Latin to a more readily understood language was one of the more outstanding features. There is this same language change taking place in China. It began in France during the war, among the Chinese coolies in the trenches, when someone conceived the idea of teaching them some of the simpler Chinese symbols, with which they might read and write. The seed, which was sown then, was carried back to China and has resulted in a great mass education. This has had far-reaching results in our women's work.

"Just what happened in England one hundred years ago, is happening in China to-day; that is, a great industrial revolution. The factory is replacing the domestic worker and this is bringing about accompanying changes. The "bramble" also reigns in the industrial world.

"Is there any of the 'bramble' element in the Christian Church in China? There necessarily must be; but still we do appreciate what native leadership is doing. It took one hundred years of missionary work to win the first million converts, only twelve years for the second million, and under six years for the third million—this is due to native Christian leadership.

"The old order is changing for the women of Korea, China and Japan, slowly and gradually but surely.

"There are three stages in the life of every person—a primitive stage, a self-conscious stage and a stage of voluntary self-denial. The women of China are entering on the second stage and some are even in the third, but there is danger in this transition period.

"An interesting item in the personal column of a Chinese newspaper was inserted by the parents of a Chinese girl, who had run away from home rather than marry a man whom she did not care for. In this item, the parents showed their willingness to allow the girl to return home and to pursue her studies. Ten years ago she would have gone blindfold to her bridegroom!

"Many people of our own land have not reached the third stage of self-development, so how can we expect more of the Chinese women? We often hear the remark that 'Charity begins—and ends—at home.'

"There is no form of missionary work so important as that carried on by our women's auxiliaries, not only in China, but in every land, including our own. With a budget of two and a quarter million dollars, there is only two per cent overhead. Ninety-eight per cent of your money goes directly to the work it was intended for. Business men and women will appreciate the efficiency of a staff with such a small overhead for so large a turnover of money.

"Many women are uninterested in this great work for either of two reasons: they do not know conditions, they lack imagination. The missionary work is 'twice blessed—it blesses him who gives and him who takes.' Every member of the missionary society will feel that she gets more than she gives.

Serious Conditions

"The workers in China now face serious conditions—those far from normal. There is an intense national feeling being developed. This is shown in an instance of a picture showing Christ blessing the children of the different races of the world,—the Chinese printers have changed these children to represent the different Chinese races—Mongolian, and so on.

"The question was asked, 'Is the Christian missionary work in China at an end?' And the answer was, 'Yes—at one end—the beginning.' Dr. Endicott, on his return from China, said that we are facing the challenge of a great task. We are looking forward to the time when God's Kingdom will come in China, 'A Kingdom of love and light.'

"'Some glorious morn—but when? Ah, who shall say?—
The steepest mountain will become a plain,
And the parched land be satisfied with rain.
The gates of brass all broken, iron bars
Transfigured, form a ladder to the stars.
Rough places, plain and crooked ways all straight;
For him who with a patient heart can wait.
These things shall be on God's appointed day,
It may not be tomorrow—yet it may'."

FAIR CONCERT

Two of the Public School choirs of the city, with the Kiwanis Harmonica Band and the Caledonian Club's concert, were last evening's additions to the entertainment held in the Legion Hall nightly under the auspices of the Produced-in-Canada Fair. Ye Olde Tyme Concert was repeated, as were the vocal numbers by Madame Scott Hannigan, Signor Carlo Lamberti, Miss Marie Thomson, and the Canadian Singers. George Street Church orchestra, led by W. H. Cunningham, provided excellent music during intermissions.

The school choirs taking part last evening were those from the King George School, trained by J. E. R. Munro and Trevor Miller, with Miss Jean Kelly at the piano. They sang an old English favorite, "Who'll Buy My Lavender?" and "There is a Purple Tint."

The choir of the Prince of Wales school, led by Miss M. Richardson, with Donald Munro at the piano, sang a two-part song of the Whippoorwill, with whistling chorus; and "A Cheery Song."

These choirs, as well as the other school choirs of the city, are directed by Miss M. Rannie, who supervises their performances nightly.

The Kiwanis Harmonica Band, recruited for this fair by H. J. McCannan, with C. S. Thompson as a very energetic and efficient director, was a wonderfully pleasing addition to the concert last night. In the snappy, military-looking blue and scarlet uniforms, loaned by the band of the Danforth Y.M.C.A., Toronto, they presented a smart appearance, and their playing is an excellent demonstration of what can be done on the harmonica, or mouth organ, with much earnest effort and careful drilling. Mr. Thompson keeps the music flowing forth in a finely-blended stream of harmony that is brisk, breezy, bright and buoyant. The jolly atmosphere imparted by harmonica music is enhanced by the nature of the compositions played. The band specializes in familiar melodies of a tuneful, swinging type, and they are immense in their rendition of old favorites.

They play such well-known melodies as "Listen to the Mocking Bird," "East Side, West Side," "My Wild Irish Rose," "My Love She's But a Lassie," "Comin' Thro' the Rye," and "Golden Slippers." The effect of these old tunes, played by over half a hundred harmonicas, swinging along, smoothly, suavely, brightly, is hard to describe, so highly attractive is it. The hall, packed to the doors for last night's concert, resounded with loud applause for the efforts of the Band, and for the harmonica trio which played the Hawaiian farewell song, "Aloha Oe," with a little interlude of singing and of stepping by the three jolly gentlemen taking part, J. Wearing, H. McCannan and C. S. Thompson. The piano was played by Miss Laura McFarlane, and the banjo and mandolin accompaniment by Frank Clarke and T. E. Curvin. Arnold Lillow also played the banjo with the other two gentlemen, for the band selections. Enthusiastic appreciation was accorded the band and trio music.

A much-appreciated solo number was that of eight-year-old Orville Wainman, a small, fair-haired laddie, who made a hit with his singing and his clever step-dancing.

Joseph Wearing, modestly veiling his figure behind the green stage curtains and allowing only his countenance to be seen, appeared for a moment at the conclusion of the band's performance, to voice his appreciation of the work of C. S. Thompson in directing the harmonica band, and to recall a little intimate recollection of his own of some years back, when he serenaded a certain young lady in harmonica fashion, to the tune of "My Love She's But a Lassie Yet."

The Caledonian Club's concert was an interesting and well-presented interlude of Scotch music and dancing that brought much applause from the audience. With the men in kilts and tartan and the women in white gowns with tartan scarfs, they made a bright and attractive appearance on the stage, with a brisk opening in the tune, "Highland Laddie," played by the pipers.

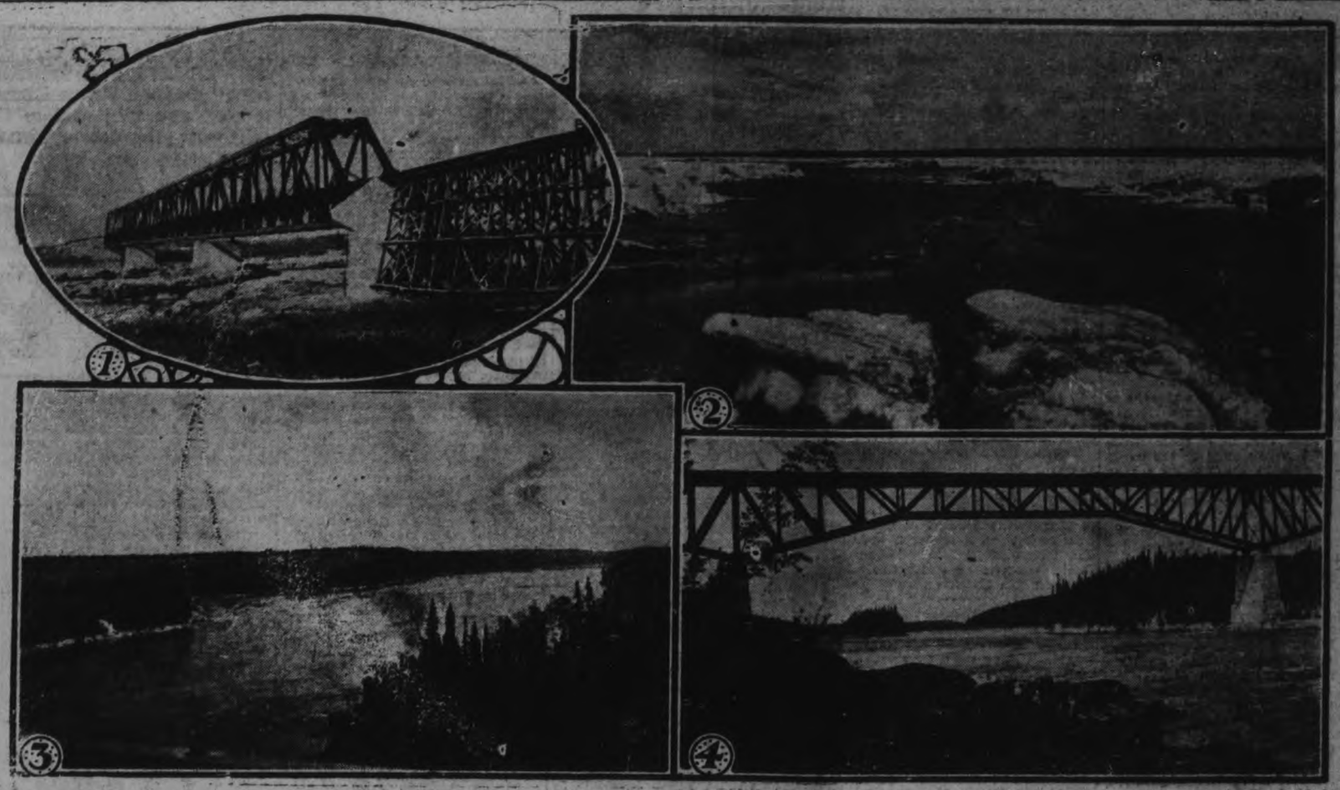
Solo numbers that received hearty encores were in keeping with the nature of the Highland Field Day presented. They were graceful, alert dances done by Miss Margaret McMaster, in the sword dance and the Shean Truibhs, and the Highland Fling danced by Samuel Thompson. R. Hendry's fine voice was heard to much advantage in his solo numbers, "When I Meet McKay" and "My Ain Wee Hoose," and the two splendid voices of Jack Smith and Mrs. R. French blended beautifully in duett, in the sweetness of "The Crooked Bawbee."

Accompaniments for the vocal solos were played by Miss Gwen Donley and Piper Alex. Milne blew the pipes for the dancing, which ended with a graceful, light-footed eightsome reel. This was one of the most interesting of the numbers and was danced in carefree, agile fashion, the men in kilts and the women in white dresses. Those taking part in the reel were: Mrs. R. Gilmour, the Misses Helen Veitch, Helen Shearer and Helen McCracken, and Messrs. R. Veitch, W. Anderson, Waddell and May.

Much applause once more greeted the musical efforts of the visiting soloists, who appeared during the latter part of the program, and repeated their successes of the previous night.

Last evening's concert, with two other school choirs taking part, and with the exception of Ye Old Tyme Concert and the Caledonian Concert, will be repeated this evening in the Canadian Legion Hall.

Bouquets were presented last evening by the Caledonian Club to Miss Marie Thomson and her accompanist, Miss Jean Buchanan. The Misses Margaret Wyllie and Margaret McMaster made the presentation.



The new Hudson Bay Railway from The Pas in Manitoba through Amery to salt water at Fort Churchill and the mining railway being built from near The Pas into the Flin Flon district will link up with the Canadian National branch which runs from The Pas to Hudson Bay Junction and which there connects with Winnipeg to the southeast and with such westerly points as Prince Albert. The railhead probably will be within 60 miles of Churchill before the work is checked this year by winter weather. In the illustration are seen some views along the H. B. line. Picture No. 1 is of the Kettle bridge over the Nelson River, at about mileage 330. The structure is 1,003 feet in length, has a central span of 400 feet and is 75 feet above the water. Picture No. 2 shows the Limestone River cutting its way through 20 feet of ice as it enters the Nelson River. This photograph was taken on June 10 this year, when many Canadians were enjoying summer weather and paying money for ice. Picture No. 3 portrays the Nelson River flowing swiftly between its tree-lined banks at Manitou Rapids, while in Picture No. 4 is seen the Manitou Rapids crossing near mileage 340. The bridge here is 608 feet long and 90 feet above the water. The last two photographs were taken in July of this year and show more summer-like conditions prevailing than in the two pictures taken in June.

List of Ministers.

The Baptist Church congregation has worshipped not only in the Aylmer Street building, but also in their church where the Canadian Legion Hall now stands, and in late years in the splendid new edifice known as Murray Street Baptist Church.

The following list of ministers who have served in this field will prove of interest. It reads:

FINE TALENT BROUGHT OUT

medal. Miss Jessie Patterson was so near the excellence of the winners that a second trial was necessary before the final decision was made. The judges congratulated the singers warmly on the fine quality of their voices, and remarked that nearly all had good natural singing voices and required only more experience and teaching.

There were three entered in the violin (12 and under) competition, but the quality of effort ranked high. Bailey Bird won the gold medal and Gertrude McDonald the silver medal.

In the dramatic soprano class Mrs. T. Curvin received the gold medal and Mrs. Laura Cawker of Bowmanville won the silver medal. Both singers had pleasing voices.

There was only one choir entered in the boys' choir competition, that of St. John's Church, under the direction of F. G. Mann, but this splendid choir of young voices won on its merits.

There were ten youthful pianists tried for honors in the junior piano group, and all had a fine touch and feeling of the keys. Roy Tranter won the gold medal and Pearl Smith the silver medal. Both these were given for competition by Q. R. S. Music Co. of Toronto.

Stewart Dawson and Ross Gillespie came first and second respectively in the junior violin awards, receiving the gold and silver medal. Five were entered, and competition was very keen, a high average of marks on proficiency and tone being made by all.

The largest entry was in the junior piano (12 years and under), twenty-three boys and girls displaying their good knowledge of the piano for their short years. Gertrude Hohner won the gold medal for first honors, and Isabelle Duthie the silver medal for second.

MISSION WORK AMONG LEPERS

sometimes discovered among these lepers. One patient has put in verse several Bible passages. These have been set to music, printed and distributed through the missions in India and these songs are being memorized and sung by the natives.

Miss Hatch referred to the recognition of the educated Christians by the Civic and National Governments. Special reference was made to her co-worker, Miss Joshee, who has been honored by the Indian Government in the presentation of a silver medal from the King-Emperor. He has also held the position of Mayor of his city for three years, and was a delegate to the World Alliance in Toronto last June.

With an impressive quotation the speaker concluded her address. She speaks of India as her home, and is hoping to return in another year.

During the afternoon the pastor, Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, sang most impressively, and led in the closing hymn, 'Rescue the Perishing."

The annual thank-offering as received, and amounted to about seventy dollars. After the benediction pronounced by Rev. W. S. Edgar, all adjourned to the ladies' parlor for a social hour.

HOLLINGER REPORT IS ISSUED TO-DAY

his area in rescue work, and inspect and report upon the apparatus, if any, maintained at any such mine.

Full Equipment

"That each rescue station should contain the following or other equipment to be ultimately determined:

One tool chest; fifteen cylinders, 100 cubic feet each; one portable Orsat apparatus for making analysis of mine air; one aremometer for measuring ventilation; one psychrometer for determining the humidity of mine air; one maximum and minimum thermometer; two cabinets (first aid) with extra bandages and splints; four canaries for testing mine air for carbon monoxide; two stretchers; twelve self-contained oxygen breather apparatus, with accessories for testing, repairing and recharging; 1 pyrotannic acid detector for determining carbon monoxide in blood and air; five all service masks, with extra canisters; one iodine pentoxide detector for indicating amount of carbon monoxide in the air of the mine; one geophone; one oxygen inhaler for administering oxygen in conjuction with artificial respiration; one oxygen pump for recharging small tanks for breathing apparatus; one lifeline, 1,200 feet, used by rescue crews when exploring mines after fires or explosions; twelve electric cap lamps with accessories and charging equipment; twelve approved type flashlights, and twenty bottles for collecting samples of mine air.

"The above equipment was suggested and put before the commission by the Chief Inspector of Mines at the inquiry held at Haileybury. He was not then able, however, to definitely say it should be adopted in its entirety. It should be at once reviewed by the inspector and the committee representing the operators and finally determined. The equipment adopted should be used in all stations, so that there would be uniformity.

Fire Protection

"That fire protective systems be installed at all underground crushers, tipples and in dry shafts.

"That for the purpose of a uniform danger alarm, all mines in Ontario should have equipment for pumping into the air lines a stench chemical to be selected and adopted by the Chief Inspector of Mines.

"That readable signs showing the way to emergency exits should be posted in prominent places underground.

Interconnection.

"That the chief inspector of mines may order an underground connection to be made between adjoining mines where he deems it necessary for the safety and protection of underground employees.

"This proposed regulation invades the right of ownership and may involve an expense largely for the benefit of an adjoining property and otherwise open up contentious questions. While I deem it expedient to recommend it as a safeguard in a remote but possible contingency, there should be a proviso allowing the right of appeal from the order of the inspector to a person or tribunal to be decided upon," says Judge Godson.

Judge Godson sums up: "The statistics of accidents in the mines of Ontario indicate that with an expanding industry the average accident rate has decreased. It is to be observed that this average was made under the present mining regulations and indicates that the operator appreciates his responsibility.

"No matter how the industry is regulated, or regardless of the utmost vigilance of the operator and inspector, unforseen accidents may happen in the hazardous occupation of mining."

ART ASSOCIATION EXHIBIT IS GOOD

One of the interesting exhibits in the Women's Section in the southwest room at the Armouries, in connection with the Produced-in-Canada Fair, is that of the Women's Art Association. A large wall booth has been cleverly and artistically arranged here with drapings and hangings of homespun, products of the looms of Quebec habitants. These, in the pretty soft colorings of blue and rose and yellow, show the pretty household art practiced by clever workers in cloth. There are spreads and curtains and cushion covers and drapes, and there is also an exhibit of hooked and crocheted rugs.

Little novel bits of needlework are on view and unique bits like the black wooden tops of totem poles, with the family god done in bold relief.

For the first three days of the Fair, on exhibit of gesso work is going on at this booth, with Miss Margaret Bauld of Toronto as special demonstrator of this decorative art. Miss Bauld is an expert manipulator of the brushes and heavy paints which are used in decorating small ornamental pieces, like work and trinket boxes and picture frames. With conventional and natural designs, she adorns her pieces with flowers and grapes and leaves, in the raised, embossed type of ornamentation which is evolved by this method. Many pretty things are on view.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Miss Josephine West of Toronto will give a demonstration of the making of jewelry, which should prove intensely interesting to women.

THE MARKETS

Malartic Is Up Seven On Dull Exchange

TORONTO, Oct. 17. — (Canadian Press.)—Malartic and Noranda were individually strong features of another dull but active session on the standard mining exchange to-day. Malartic, the active leader, climbed seven at 117 at noon after touching 123 in the morning, and Noranda advanced 1.15 at 47.75. The market generally was inclined easier, with Kirkland Lake issues uniformly soft. Lake Shore eased ten at 19.60, Teck Hughes ten at 8.40, Barry Hollinger at 38 was two lower and Bidgood fractionally weaker around 51½. Amulet on big turnover was the soft spot, losing thirteen at 3.22. Abana at 3.90 and Howey at 1.00 were also weaker. Tough Oakes was one of the few advancing issues with a gain of 1¾ at 19, while Newbeck improved a point and a half at forty-two. Pawnee sold up more than three at 13. Of generally soften western issues Hudson Bay was the leader, losing ten at 18.15.

Low Grade Wheat Has influenze On Market

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.— (Canadian Press).—With traders giving special attention to the relative cheapness of low grade Canadian wheat, prices of wheat here tended downward early to-day. Indications of the continued liberal arrival of domestic wheat from the northwest counted also as bearish factor. Opening unchanged to ¼ off wheat values later showed some setback all around. Corn and oats displayed strength with corn starting unchanged to ⅝ higher and subsequently scoring general advance.

LOVE TRIANGLE BEHIND MURDER

Woman Says She Hired Detective To Get Rival Out of City.

DIDN'T PLAN DEATH.

SOUTHBEND, Ind., Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press.)— An alleged love affair between Charles Rhyer, real estate operator, and Mrs. Genevieve Stults, beauty parlor operator, was the basis of police investigation today in the murder of Mrs. Stults, whose body was found near Elkhard on Monday. Rhyer and his wife were arrested following the identification of Mrs. Stults' body, which was found with the skull crushed and with two bullet holes in the breast.

Mrs. Rhyer said last night that last March she had hired J. Harvey Smith, a private detective, to get Mrs. Stults out of the city, in an attempt to break up her suspected relations with Rhyer. "But I didn't plan it that way," Mrs. Rhyer insisted. First degree murder charges will be filed against the Rhyers and Smith, Prosecutor Glen Sawyer, of Elkhard county, said yesterday.

WOMEN'S WORK IS DISCUSSED

club with both men and women members."

Speaking of various attributes of successful club women, Mrs. Crossley itemized them as tolerance, patience, unselfishness, loyalty, breadth of vision and business-like methods. "For the salvation of the president, she should be endowed with a sense of humour which irradiates but never hurts an individual."

Vice-presidents should be more than figure heads, said Mrs. Crossley, the recording secretary should strive for business-like records in her minutes, "with no room for adjectives, comments or descriptions," and the treasurer should remember that laxity in money matters is fatal to club harmony and that it is impossible to "keep house on a postage stamp," or do big things with limited means.

With regard to publicity, it should be remembered, the speaker asserted, that newspapers want facts, but not propaganda, and that it is best to play fair with all the papers. "Make it snappy" is a good rule for club reports.

"A science and an art," concluded the speaker, "is this business of being a club woman, and compared with other fields of human endeavor, the club movement shows a minimum of failures and a long roll of successes."

"Changing Times."

Dealing with the concrete facts of the life of women in business was the address given by Miss McMahon, following that of Mrs. Crossley. Miss McMahon, whose work in Toronto has to do with employment for women and through whose hands thousands of girls pass yearly, has a wide experience of conditions in the modern business world, where women are concerned, and her remarks therefore much to the point and delivered with a surety born of personal experience of twenty years of that of which she spoke. She paid a tribute of high praise to the Canadian business girl of the day, ranking her very high in the scale, and claiming for her a great deal of pre-eminence, in the world of sport as well as in the world of business.

"Changing Times," the title of Miss McMahon's address, alluded to the different attitude adopted to-day toward the woman in business and in other fields which were formerly regarded as exclusively apportioned to men.

"Some years ago it was considered unfortunate for a woman to have to be a wage earner, but we can go back a very long way to find the origin of woman in business. In the days of St. Paul, a woman named Lydia, daughter of a dealer in purple cloth and herself a vendor of that favored raiment, closed her shop during business hours, that she might go and hear sermons about that Christian religion to which she had become a convert.

"Thirty years ago, women in business were almost unheard of. Even twenty years ago, she was looked at askance. To-day, the trouble of the business man is whether his acceptance of her effort is really on a parity with that of her co-worker of the sterner sex. A woman is accepted on much the same basis to-day as a man, with the exception of the progression upward of her salary. The initial payment is often the same, but the advance is not as rapid as in the salary of men workers. That is something that the business woman should enquire into."

The wider use of the typewriter has had much to do with the wider acceptance of women in business, declared Miss McMahon, who alluded to the mechanical inventions attached to that machine, whereby a girl operating can do the work in recording, accounting, book-keeping and daily balancing, formerly requiring several men to look after.

"A girl leaving school to-day is assured of success, provided she sets her mind to it, in many occupations that were hitherto unknown to her," said the speaker, going on to itemize the avenues of labor open to the feminine worker. A long list enumerated by the speaker included various occupations attached to clerical and financial work, personal service and food, instruction and library endeavor, research, sales and publicity, welfare, administration and recreational work, legal, protective, horticultural, landscape gardening, architecture, writing, music, art, pharmacist, analyst, postmistress, electrical, real estate, insurance, dental, surgeon, optometrist. In the line of unusual work, Miss McMahon referred to a woman who is a deep-sea diver, to one who is a service engineer for a railroad, and to several morticians, while a Toronto woman has made a success of the taxicab business.

Speaking of the prowess displayed by Canadian business girls in the world of sport, Miss McMahon referred to the Edmonton Grads, basketball champions of the world, and to the fame attained by Canadian girls at the Olympic Games this summer. From the United States, 19 girls competed at the Olympic Games and won 20 points. Nineteen girls from Germany won 18 points; but six girls from Canada won 26 points. "And each one of these girls was a good business woman before she entered the world of sport."

In the typewriting world also, Canadian girls have won four first places out of five, the amateur typewriting championship of the world now being held by a Toronto girl, with a record of 116 words per minutes.

Miss McMahon quoted a noted woman designer as summing up the great change in dress noticed within the past few decades, as being the democratic change which allows the daughter of a poor man to dress almost as attractively as the daughter of a wealthy man.

CAVAN CHURCH ANNIVERSARY

second number by choir was "Father Take My Hand and Lead Me."

In the evening the church was filled to capacity. The Rev. J. V. Todd, of George Street Church, Peterborough, preached an eloquent and inspiring sermon. His text was taken from Isaiah, 22-1, "The burden of the valley of vision." The time was just before the captivity of Israel, and the prophet warned the Israelites that if they continued in their dissipated ways of living retribution would follow, but they heeded not the warning, merely thinking of a good time, and the inevitable followed—the army filled the valley.

Mr. Todd said his ideas of vision had always been associated with the high places, the hill tops, but really the valley of vision is this life Christians are called to live, with its commonplace tasks, vistas of joy and also its sorrows. Life will never take on its highest meaning until we see the commonplace things, filled with nobility and divinity. The Master passed along and touched things here and there, and they have since become "a valley of vision." He mentioned arrogant John, touched by the Master's hand and he became the apostle of love. Fickle Peter, when filled with Chirst's spirit, became the apostle of courage.

We also must pass that way and see the halo and divinity about the common tasks or else life fails of a message it ought to give. The valley of vision, a burden great and glorious descends upon us. First we must see ourselves; look in life's mirror, see the general cantour of our lives. A good look does not always make for happiness. If we are big enough and courageous enough to take a long look, we will be constrained to take our place beside the Publican. Until we all get where we see ourselves and say 'God be merciful to me a sinner.' Second, we must be able to see our brother man. If we could see him as he is there would not be so much trouble in the old world, or so many harsh judgments. There is no place in the program of God for unlovely thoughts, jealousy or envy. They are burrs and there is no place in God's economy for burrs, they mar, destroy, hurt and offend. We must pluck them out and cast them from us.

'Am I my brother's keeper?' asked Cain. It is harder to practice brotherhood than to preach it. Only shall the kingdom of God come into this world when you and I begin to practice brotherhood. We must have more of God in our living program; if not, the time will come when we will have none of us. The petty controwil lhave none of us. The petty controversies that come up are of no consequence in comparison with the hunger for Christ. We must come to the place where the reality of Christ is with us. What do you and I know of the burden of the valley of vision. Are we fully conscious of the need of God, and the right relationship to God and our fellow men. It is the exception which keeps us out of the kingdom of God.

Mr. Todd in closing spoke of the triangle, 'God, fellow man and myself.' "God grant that we may be seized with the sense of our responsibility," he said.

The choir contributed a great deal to the success of the anniversary services by the splendid music which they contributed. In the evening they sang "Our Help and Shield. Reg. Sutton singing a bass solo. Also "Living For Jesus," in which Mrs. A. B. Kennedy sang an obligato solo.

Obituary

W. J. NORTHEY.

(Examiner Correspondence).

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 17.—The funeral of W. J. Northey, which took place on Sunday afternoon from his late residence on Reid Street, was very largely attended by many friends and relatives. Rev. S. A. Kemp, pastor of the Regent Street United Church, officiated, assisted by Rev. Mr. Herrington of Warsaw.

Two suitable hymns were sung, "Jesus Lover of My Soul" and "Nearer My God to Thee." Mr. Kemp spoke in the highest terms of the deceased gentleman, his integrity and uprightness of character and his steadfast faith in God, and in an address vibrant with feeling he brought comfort to the bereaved ones by the words of hope and in picturing the life everlasting, where broken earthly ties are re-united and all is joy and peace in God.

The cortege proceeded to Lakefield Cemetery for interment in the family plot.

Mr. Northey was born in Smith Township 73 years ago, and lived there all his life until about sixteen years ago, when he moved into the village with his wife and widowed daughter, Mrs. McConkey. For years he was superintendent of the Regent Street Sunday School, and took an active part in all the church work, being a life-long member of the Methodist Church, a consistent believer and faithful follower of the tenets of his church; he was a loving husband and father and a friend worth having, and in consequence was held in the highest regard in the community and the immense concourse of people who gathered at the funeral bore testimony to his popularity.

His wife, who was Miss Jane Preston, prior to her marriage, predeceased him nearly three years ago, and his son, Otis, nearly two years ago. He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Gertrude McConkey, two granddaughters, Miss Lauretta Northey of Hamilton and Miss Gwenyth Northey of Peterborough; two sisters, Mrs. Peter Preston of Peterborough and Mrs. George Preston of Lakefield; three brothers, T. H. Northey and Samuel Northey of Smith and Alexander Northey of Peterborough.

W. H. ENGLISH.

(Examiner Correspondence)

OMEMEE, Oct. 17.—The death of W. H. English occurred at Carberry, Manitoba, on Thursday, October 4. The deceased was born in Omemee and for several years was a merchant here. The following from the Carberry, Manitoba, News-Express will be of interest to the older citizens of Omemee:

The death occurred on Thursday of one of the town's old and highly esteemed citizens in the person of William Henry English, in his 79th year. His death was due to an affection of the heart and the end came at his home on Ottawa street, after an illness of some weeks' duration. The deceased was born in Omemee, Ontario, November 22 1848. He was a son of James English and Mary Henderson, whose union was blessed with a family of twelve children, only one of whom survive, Mrs. Harding, of Toronto. With one exception, the family all lived to a ripe old age. In 1876, Mr. English was married to Sedina Stephenson, to whom a family of four daughters and a son were given, all of whom survive except one daughter, who passed away some years ago at Austin. The family are Mrs. F. James, Edmonton; Mrs. H. E. Thompson, Edmonton; Mrs. H. B. Hamilton, Yorkton, and Walter English of Saskatoon.

In 1882 Mr. and Mrs. English were among the many Ontario settlers to take up land in Manitoba. They chose the Pleasant Point district where they farmed for many years, after which they took up residence in Carberry where they have resided ever since with the exception of a short time spent at Saskatoon and other points, where the family were located. Since coming to Carberry for some time he was engaged in the grocery business and is remembered by many for his cheerful and accommodating manner.

About two years ago, Mr. and Mrs. English celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, the occasion being the wedding of their youngest daughter, Vivian (Mrs. Harmeston, of Yorkton).

Mr. English was a member of the Masonic fraternity in the east, but he never affiliated with any of the lodges since coming to this part of the country.

A private service was held at the home on Sunday afternoon, followed by a public service in St. Agnes' church, interment taking place in Carberry cemetery. Rev. Joseph Miller conducted the services. The pall-bearers were Messrs. John Balfour, Thomas Goggin, W. H. Hates, D. Kerr, R. A. Garland and William Froom.

To the widow is extended the sympathy of a large number of friends, both in town and surrounding district.

HALIFAX WOMAN FINDS RELIEF

Now Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Halifax, N. S.—"I am passing through the critical period of my life and there is nothing to equal Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for all the ills that come at this time. I was dragging around the house, no epergy, every nerve in my body on edge at the least confusion, so that at times I almost wished I was dead. My appetite was no good, I was dull and listless, in fact, I thought I had some dreadful disease. I took three bottles of the Vegetable Compound and it is truly wonderful. That terrible drowsiness and hot flashes have disappeared. I can do my work now without that good-for-nothing feeling. Mothers who have raised families should give the Vegetable Compound a fair trial. I am sure they will be loud in their praise of it."—Mrs. Mary Johnston, 927 Barrington St., Halifax, Nova Scotia.

When A Man "Steps Out"

On the verge of the Social Season We Submit a Few Suggestions on Men's Evening Garb

The Tuxedo

At dinner or at the theatre—you are well dressed in a dinner-jacket (Tuxedo) with black waistcoat and tie, it being the correct garb for all informal evening occasions. The white pique waistcoat, while less authentic, is worn by many as giving just a touch of formality to clothes which otherwise would be essentially informal. The new Suits are of fine black worsted or vicuna "in the manner of the moment." 2-piece, 29.50. Fancy Black Vest, $5 extra.

The Informal Hat

On informal occasions when you don a dinner-jacket (Tuxedo) you will want a Black Derby to be quite up-to-date. $5 and 6.50.

The New Evening Gowns Bear a Message of Smartness

With all the new style features of utmost importance and still with that "well-dressed look" that is often so simple—our new Evening Gowns are alluringly feminine and becoming! Hem-lines dip and droop; tier mounts upon tier; and the neckline, demure enough in front, is frequently very low in back.

Velvet, supple and exquisite, tulle of fairy lightness, satin of classic draperies—make the Evening Gowns of the day. White, eggshell, orchid, pink, green, melon, blue—daytime colors for evening are the thing.

And there are charming Frocks of taffeta which assure success with their dipping hemlines, their panels, their transparent hems dipping to an uneven silhouette, bouffant pointed tiers, picot edged with sometimes a silver thread, chic sashes with swaying ends, little fitted bodices wearing blossoms which are echoed at the waist.

Enchantingly pretty Frocks for Miss Junior, for parties and dinners and dances! And so extraordinary to find such smart styles so attractively priced!

PRESENTATIONS MADE BY CLUB

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bell and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Weston Honored.

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, October 16. — In order to say farewell to their president and one of their most accomplished players, the Campbellford Tennis Club entertained at a bridge of thirteen tables in the Parish Hall, Rear Street, last night. There was not a dull moment during the entire evening and the male quartette won unanimous approval as social entertainers. The prizes for bridge were won by Miss Hattie Rodden and D. W. Douglas.

After the playing and before the lunch was served, Dr. R. B. Longmore, who had charge of affairs for the evening and is a vice-president of the club, humorously remarked that he would not ask the members to listen to very many speeches, but there would be a few.

Harry Free was the first to speak. He said in the beginning that he would not require more than an hour and a half, just long enough to present Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Weston with a little token from the Tennis Club. The "little token" was a silver tea service. Both Mr. and Mrs. Weston are members of the club and players of note. Mr. Weston is a vice-president. His surprise was as complete as it was sincere. He was unable to find words at the moment, and asked the members of the club to accept the appreciation of himself and Mrs. Weston, even though he was not able to express it at the time. Much applause marked the conclusion of his remarks.

Again Dr. Longmore addressed the club. This time it was to remind them that they were champions of a vast domain. This territory extended from Smith's Falls on the east almost to Toronto on the west, and from the international boundary on the south to the Arctic Ocean on the north. (Laughter and applause.) To Mr. Bell, as president of such an organization, the doctor paid glowing tribute. Mr. Bell had cheerfully occupied every position in the organization from "water boy up," he said. He was a very earnest player and an efficient executive. Since coming to the club he had played in every event for which he was eligible. The only events barred to him were ladies' singles and doubles. It was also a point of interest to note that Mr. Bell had seldom lost his event in any of the tournaments.

J. H. Bell was most sincere in his appreciation of the beautiful blue and gold floor lamp which the club had presented to himself and Mrs. Bell. He refused, however, to accept all the credit for the outstanding success of the club. There were many other "bulwarks" in the club. All the members had been extremely loyal and enthusiastic. It had always been a pleasure to work in the interests of the association. Although his position in the club automatically marked him as "great" in the eyes of the local tennis world, it was not a case of achieving greatness, but of having it thrust upon him. This, he claimed, was not proof of his greatness, nor of his deserving of such honor. He and Mrs. Bell would always enjoy many fond memories of Campbellford, and would follow with interest the doings of their many friends here through the medium of The Herald and The Examiner.

Mayor Kingston was the next to address the club. He surprised many of those present by saying that the Tennis Club was not a new organization in the community. He and Dr. Richardson had played the game more than twenty years ago, but during the intervening period there had been many years without any tennis played locally as a club. He wished to compliment the club on its remarkable success this past season. Referring to Mr. and Mrs. Bell, the Mayor said that the town was losing some very fine citizens, and on behalf of the town he wished Mr. and Mrs. Bell every success in their new position and home.

The male quartette, Messrs. Richardson, Henson, Hazel, and Bygott, sang three numbers, "Kentucky Babe," "Keep on Hopin'," and "Duna." E. C. Dolman was at the piano. Lunch, consisting of sandwiches, cake, and coffee, was served.

400 HUNTERS STORM-BOUND

Search Parties Leave Colorado Towns To Seek Missing Men.

SUDDEN BLIZZARD.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 16 (Canadian Press).—Concern was felt to-day for upwards of four hundred deer hunters, believed marooned by a sudden severe blizzard which swept Colorado, Wyoming and Northern New Mexico on Sunday and yesterday, bringing a heavy fall of snow to many sections.

Most of the hunters were scattered in the high, isolated country about Grand Junction, Colorado, on the western slope of the Rocky Mountain Divide. No word has been received from them since the storm struck on Sunday. Relief parties have pushed out from Grand Junction in search of the small bands of men.

Few of the hunters, it was said, were equipped with sufficient clothing or provisions to withstand severe storms or cold.

The latest issue of the Ontario Home and School Review, which is the official publication of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations in Toronto, bears on its cover page a fine cut of the president of the Federation, Mrs. W. R. Morris of this city, with the following message from her: "During the past formative years, we have been very busy about our own Association affairs, and rightly so. The possibilities of future work founded on past experience and knowledge gained are a challenge to all of us. We have already realized that the child is the tie that everywhere binds together the home, the school and the community and we are pledged to serve the child. Is it not easy to see that the children of the world should be our strongest incentive in promoting the peace spirit, and our greatest aid? It is the things that unite us that should be stressed and the great bond of union is the child. Let us learn from our League of Nations Committee what part our Associations may play in encouraging the growth of the peace spirit to the benefit of universal childhood and all mankind."

A number of members of the congregation of St. Mark's Church, Otonabee, met at the home of Mr. Albert Collins on Monday evening, for the purpose of making a presentation to his daughter, Miss Ethel Collins, who held the position of organist at the church, and whose marriage takes place this week. Rev. J. L. Hughes, rector, read an address and spoke a few words, after which Mr. R. Dixon, rector's warden, handed a carving set in case to the bride-elect. The address was as follows: "Dear Ethel,—We are met together to-night to bid farewell to one of our congregation who has always been willing to help with the services at St. Mark's by playing the organ and helping with the singing and any other work that was needed. We also appreciate your work as an active member of the Women's Auxiliary, and we cannot let you depart from our midst without giving you some token of our esteem and appreciation of your services. We would therefore ask you to accept this carving set as a slight token of our gratitude, and may it help to remind you of the little church at the corner and the friends who worship there.

In conclusion, we wish you every happiness and God's blessing in the new home you are about to enter.—T. E. Graystock and R. Dixon, Wardens." The bride-to-be responded, thanking all for the gift and good wishes. Refreshments were afterwards served, and a social time spent in music, dancing and cards.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

By MARION

EVERY woman in Peterborough and district should avail herself of the opportunities given at the Produced in Canada Exhibition, to hear some of Ontario's finest women speakers—speaking on subjects of great interest to women.

Besides these excellent speakers, there is a special section devoted to women's interests. Every woman will profit by attending the Fair and hearing these speakers.

• • •

Kiwanis Club is doing splendid community work among underprivileged children and every family in Peterborough should be willing to help in this great work by visiting the Fair.

October is upon us and Hallowe'en plans are in the air. Our stores are showing a profusion of owls, witches, and black cats, cut out of cardboard at amusing angles, and ready to decorate the house.

• • •

Are you planning to send out invitation cards for your party? It takes a lot less time to mail a score or two of these cards than to call all these people by telephone.

Children, too, love to receive such invitations which come through the mail. These invitations may be topped with a rhyme such as "Wailing cats, flying bats, pumpkins mellow, moon that's yellow, that means Hallowe'en."

A very novel invitation could be cut in the shape of a house, and across the door is printed, "This house is haunted," and inside, "The ghost will welcome you," with a space for the date and place.

Do not forget about the Hallowe'en party which is being given by The Examiner. There will be a big parade with excellent prizes for the best costumes, bands, etc. This should be one event to which everyone is looking forward, both children and grown-ups.

• • •

Have you ever been in a group, when topics are discussed which interest only one or two of the party. Careful hostesses in Peterborough always contrive a way to introduce subjects of interest to everyone of her guests.

Besides being exceedingly impolite, it is very embarrassing for the person or persons left out of the conversation.

This is not only true in the case of grown-ups, but also children. Parents do this very thing at meal time. They discuss people, politics and money matters which concern them, and yet they expect the children to be courteous to them.

It would be much nicer and much more polite to talk about things in which the whole family can share. School topics might be discussed, or a jolly story told, thus making the mealtime a sociable time to which everyone looks forward.

It very often happens that the children's "home work" is not well and properly done because there is no convenient place in which this very important work can be done, free from interruption.

• • •

Children should be given chairs and desks at which they can study. The chairs should not be high so that the children's legs dangle in the air. If, however, small chairs cannot be provided, footstools might be obtained and if their arms do not rest comfortably on the table, a cushion should be furnished.

It is better to set aside a definite time for doing home work, in families where there are a number of school children. It is never a good plan to change the study period each day.

• • •

One Peterborough mother says the study period for her children starts a few minutes after five. This whistle acts as a summons for the children if they happen to be out playing. Besides, at this time of the year in Peterborough, daylight begins to fade at this hour.

Of course, there are some objections to having the study period at this hour. Children are not as active and alert and are not fresh for concentration.

Another mother says she arranges such a period, after an early breakfast which allows her children half an hour in which to study. If the children go to bed early, surely there is no harm in calling them a little early in the morning.

I am sure you will want the diagram pattern for this week, as it shows you how to make a new hat for a very small cost. It is a sort of turban.

• • •

Fill out the coupon on this page and send it to Marion, with a two-cent stamp to cover postage.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

Mediaeval bonnet of velvet.

Prizes have been offered in Paris to designers in the leading dressmaking establishments for frocks, hats and wraps that may be considered representative of fashions of the future. It's just a big game and the awards given will be just as much guesses as the ensembles submitted. For it is easier to prophesy the political future of a country than of its costume—and the veil that is drawn between us and the modes of the future never parts for even a little glimpse.

One good guess is as good as another—and making these guesses seems to be a favorite amusement nowadays among women who are interested in dress.

Ten years from now, will skirts be long or short, full or scant, simple or complicated? Is there a chance that the low, almost heelless slippers of the Directoire and Empire period will be revived? And do you think that women will be wearing bonnets?

I am not at all certain about bonnets myself—still one guess is as good as another—and certainly this would be an interesting development of millinery fashions and many things point that way. Hats are becoming lighter in weight, softer and continue to cling closely to the contours of the head. Here and there even now, on the head of some fashionable woman or other, one sees a bit of headgear that might much more fairly be called a bonnet than a hat. Not the little top-pieces with strings that women called bonnets when Queen Victoria was middle-aged—but bonnets that might be compared to the headgear of a court jester when knighthood was in flower—or to baby bonnets if you prefer a more recent simile.

The sketch shows this type of bonnet as conceived by Talbot of Paris. The edge is of black felt and the upper back section is of black satin which is shaped to make amusing little ears. Agnes has also shown caps that suggest bonnets. She uses velvet and metal tricot for afternoon, and net covered with sequins for evening. They are the really outstanding hats of the season—these hats that suggest bonnets— and before the year has ended I think we shall see many of them.

CELERY SAUCE

(Contributed by Mrs. James Cook, Trent River.)

24 medium ripe cucumbers,
2 quarts green tomatoes,
1 quart onions,
2 heads of celery,
3 green peppers.

Chop fine with 3 handfuls of salt, let stand over night, then scald in its own brine, put in a bag and squeeze all the brine out, then take 3 quarts of vinegar and 4 cups of sugar; put on the stove, let come to a boil; take 3/4 oz. of tumeric, 3/4 oz. curry powder, 2 teaspoonful celery seed, mix to a paste and stir into the boiling vinegar, boil 20 minutes and pour over the other, bottle when cold.

CRAB APPLE PICKLE

(Contributed by G. A. R.)

For every pail of apples, take 3/4 oz. cinnamon; 1 oz. cloves; 1 oz. allspice, 1 cup vinegar and one-half the weight of apples in sugar. Put sugar, vinegar and seasoning all together with water enough to cover the apples, bring to the boil, then put in your apples, cook till done, can while hot and keep in a cool place.

I quarter some and take out the cores and do by themselves for puddings which are fine if you like apple pudding.

1 cup sugar, 1 large tablespoon melted butter,
3-4 cup sweet milk, 1 egg, 2 cups flour,
2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 level teaspoon soda,
2 teaspoon cream tartar, and a little salt.

Use butter sauce seasoned with lemon, or a teaspoon of vinegar or enough to taste.

Put a little of batter in bottom of dish with the pickled apples as much as you wish, and put the rest of the batter on top, spread over nicely, or put the apples in the bottom of the pan with the batter on top, but I like the first way better.

FRIED CAKES

(Contributed by J. S. Douro.)

1 egg,
1/2 cup sugar,
1/4 cup of melted butter (scant),
1 cup of sour milk,
1/2 teaspoon of soda,
1 1/4 teaspoons of baking powder,
a little nutmeg and a little salt.
2 cups flour.

CREAM SPONGE CAKE

(Contributed by Mrs. Lowe, Ida.)

2 eggs broken in a coffee cake, then fill cup up with good rich cream or (sour cream with a pinch of soda),
1 cup of white sugar,
1 1/2 cups of flour, well sifted, after measuring,
a small pinch of salt.

Beat all well together until it creams and add 2 teaspoons of baking powder.

GILT FRAMES

You can clean and polish gilt frames with a cloth dipped into water in which onions have been boiled. Polish with a little chloride of soda.

What is more satisfying after the bridge game than a cup or two of Red Rose Tea? Millions of Canadians prefer it to any other because of finer flavor, remarkable strength and dustless purity. Put up in aluminum—the only material which completely protects good tea.

BROKEN

A Story of Revenged Love., by Ruby M. Ayres

CHAPTER VIII.

THE STORY THUS FAR:

GILES CHITTENHAM, on his way back to England from the United States to help wind up the affairs of his young half brother, RODNEY, who has recently killed himself for love of the notorious flirt, JULIE FARROW, joins his friend, HARRY LOMBARD, in Switzerland. There, on a lake steamer, he meets Julie Farrow and BIM LENNOX, a straightforward, boyish sort of girl, loyal friend of Julie. Chittenham decides to make Julie fall in love with him and then spurn her, to avenge Rodney. He joins her in a drive through the St. Bernard pass. They are marooned at the inn at the top of the pass by a blizzard, and while there he tells Julie he loves her. When Chittenham returns to his hotel Lombard tells him he has made a silly mistake—that this Julie Farrow is a cousin of the one that broke Rodney's heart. This puts Giles, who is secretly and unhappily married, in a bad predicament.

There was a picture of the snow-clad Alps hanging on the wall between the dressingtable and the door; the snow-clad Alps with the after-glow of setting sun upon them, and down below, the still, shadowy darkness of the Lake.

Chittenham found himself staring at it critically, thinking how different it had been last night up at St. Bernard with the driving snow and piercing wind, while through his brain Lombard's words were echoing vaguely.

"She's not the Julie Farrow he was so mad about—they've got the same name—Julie Farrow both of them—they're cousins, you see, but this isn't the one Rodney was so mad about—she's in London—the one here is her cousin——"

Three times the words Lombard had just spoken repeated themselves faithfully in his brain—three times before the full force and sense of them was driven home to him, then with a little strangled ejaculation he turned, his face flushed, his eyes furious.

"What the hell are you talking about?" he demanded thickly.

Lombard backed a step, he shrugged his shoulders with a bravado he was far enough from feeling.

"My dear chap, I've just told you. It was a mistake—quite an innocent one on my part, naturally. After all, there's no harm done, is there? What difference can it make? Miss Farrow will never know——"

"Never know!"

Chittenham flung past him and out of the room.

He went downstairs, took his coat from the lobby and went out into the gathering dusk.

Not Julie Farrow! Not the woman who had driven Rodney to his death! Not Julie Farrow!

The words seemed to be shouted at him from every corner of the world at once, mocking him.

Not Julie Farrow, the woman who had lain in his arms last night; not the woman to whom he had believed he was paying back a bitter debt—not the cold, calculating adventuress whose kisses and sweet, whispered words he had taken with a covert sneer.

"It's possible to be just as happy down on earth as it is up on the heights."

She had said that to him, her hand in his, just before they parted; she had said that, believing in him, trusting him, loving him—not knowing anything of Sadie, not knowing that he was a married man—not knowing perhaps any of the tragic happenings which had led up to this, the worst tragedy of all.

It was not true; how could such a monstrous thing be true? Lombard did not know what he was talking about; Lombard, damn him, was making the mistake this time; yesterday he had spoken truth.

But in his heart Chittenham knew it was not so; in his heart he knew that he himself had fallen into the trap which he had laid for a woman's feet.

What would she say when she knew? How could he explain? What possible excuse could he find for his actions which would not seem utterly caddish and despicable in her eyes?

It was as if someone had torn down a veil that had hitherto blinded and deceived him.

He remembered that he had been surprised at her ingenuousness; he remembered a hundred and one little things which should have warned him, told him of his mistake.

The very way she had spoken of his brother should have been sufficient; the gentle pity in her voice, the tolerance. Chittenham cursed himself as he strode along down the road, forgetting his hunger, forgetting everything but the appalling thought of what lay before him.

He went down to the lake and stood looking out over its calm unruffled waters, to the towering peaks beyond.

They had been up there on the heights last night, he and she—he had thought himself a fine fellow and very clever, so easily to find a way in which to pay off something of Rodney's heavy debt. What did he think now? How did he feel?

In vain he told himself again that it could not be true, that Lombard had made a hideous mistake; he knew it was true just as he knew now that when last night Julie had said she loved him it was the truth also.

And there was Sadie. . . .

What a sport of the gods!

The softness of Julie's hair against his cheek—the warm trembling of her lips—the clasp of her arms. . . .

He walked on rapidly as if trying to outstrip the memory of them which grew greater with each passing moment.

What could he tell her now? How could he help her? How could he best save her humiliation and pain?

Thank God nobody had seen them together up there on the heights; he tried to believe that perhaps Julie had only been carried away by the strangeness of their surroundings; that once down on the sane earth she would find she had been mistaken—she would find that the whole thing had been but a fevered dream; that she did not care for him after all.

It was a futile hope which he relinquished as quickly as he had seized upon it. Already she had probably told Bim Lennox—that quiet-eyed woman who had looked at him with such understanding.

Yes, Bim had read him aright, he was sure of that, and he dreaded her condemnation of his actions.

He looked at his watch—nearly eight; it would soon be time to go round to Julie's.

For what reason?

To confess to the caddish part he had played? To tell her of Lombard's foolish mistake? To read the humiliation and perhaps terror in her eyes when he made his stumbling explanation?

"I'm a married man. . . . I was just playing. . . . I thought you were someone else. . . I thought——"

Then he would break down hopelessly before that look in her eyes. What did it matter what he thought, what he said? The tragedy was upon them, and there was no way of avoiding it.

But he was afraid, horribly afraid. He felt as if he walked in a darkness which, although terrible in itself, held yet greater terrors which he could not see.

Presently he found himself outside the house where she was staying.

"I'll look much prettier when you see me again." So she had slyly whispered to him when they parted.

Chittenham stood staring up at the lighted windows above him.

He felt like a man in a dream. He tried to believe that he had only to rub his eyes and he would find that the house before him had vanished, find that he was back again in South America that he had never come to Switzerland with Lombard, never met Julie Farrow on the little lake steamer.

Then one of the windows leading on to a balcony opened—the sound of voices was wafted down to him through the quiet evening, and a woman's figure was silhouetted against the light.

Julie? For a moment the pounding of Chittenham's heart almost choked him, then with a beat of relief he saw that it was not Julie but Bim Lennox.

He could see the smooth, severe outline of her cropped head, and the straight, dignified lines of her figure.

She was smoking the inevitable cigarette—little puffs of smoke hung about her head in the breathless atmosphere.

Presently he heard her voice—quietly cynical.

"I can't see any signs of your Romeo, Julie dear."

Chittenham drew farther back into the shadows as he heard Julie's laugh, and a moment later she joined her friend in the balcony. She was all in white, with bare arms and neck, and he could hear the little confident note in her voice when she answered:

"He will come. I am not at all afraid."

So she had told Bim, as he had been sure she would. Chittenham gritted his teeth and clenched his hands. He was to be spared nothing.

He stood there motionless till the two women went back into the room, then a moment later he heard the sound of music—some catchy little dance tune which he remembered hearing on the boat coming over from America.

The words had irritated him at the time, he had thought them utterly futile, but they came back to him now with surprising depths and sadness.

"Remember the night, the night you said I love you—Remember?
Remember you vowed by all the stars above, you'd remember?
Remember we found a shady spot,
And after I'd learned to care a lot,
You promised that you'd forget me not,
But you forgot to remember."

Somebody was whistling the air to the piano accompaniment, someone else Julie, he was sure—was singing the refrain:

"You promised that you'd forget me not,
But you forgot to remember."

She sounded so happy and care-free.

Chittenham felt like a criminal as he hung back in the shadows, waiting till he could find the courage to go into the house and silence that happiness.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE HAVE A BLIND SPOT.

Try this experiment. Take a blank sheet of paper and make a dot near the left. Mark an X three inches from this dot towards the right. The X may be a half inch in size. Now shut the left eye. Focus the right eye on the dot and move the paper up and down until the large X disappears entirely.

This is one of the proofs for the blind spot in the eye. The reason that you cannot see the X is that its image falls on the blind spot in the eye.

The papilla or blind spot is the place in the eye where the optic nerve leads back to the visual area in the brain. The inner side of the eye is covered with several layers, the important one being the retina which is the organ of vision.

You do not see images that fall on the blind spot because there is no way of conveying the image to the brain. In other words, there are none of the seeing elements at that point. And if the rest of the eye were like it you would not see anything. You would be totally blind. Blindness is sometimes due to injury of the retina which may leave the rest of the mechanism in excellent condition. Color blindness, for example, is due to injury or original deformity of that part of the retina which has to do with the registering of color sensations.

The reason that the blind spot is not noticed by the average person and does not interfere with conduct is that an image that might fall on the blind spot of the eye falls on a good part of the other eye and is seen. Furthermore, the blind spot is relatively small and the image of an object has to fall exactly on the spot. If it falls a little to one side a slight movement of the head or eye brings the image on the retina and possibly on the fovea, the best part of the eye.

The blind spot which exists in every eye is not a serious handicap after all. It is more of a curiosity than an actual hindrance.

Why do you do what you do? Ask Dr. Thomson. Write care of this paper, and send stamped addressed envelope for reply.

LYRICS OF LIFE

LIVING.

Some live for gold, and find it cold,
For fame, and find it fickle,
Some live for gain, and find it vain,
A muckle or a mickle,
Some live for pow'r, and have their hour,
And find men unforgiving,
Some live for praise, that long delays—
But I live just for living.

The sunrise stuff is gold enough,
One good friend more than many,
And wealth or not, I find a lot
I've had, who hadn't any.
This old gray hat, a crown like that,
I find is quite a plenty,
And praise is sweet if men I meet
Will say I look like twenty.

I never pass a smiling lass
But that I'm glad I met her,
I never see a blooming tree
But that I'm feeling better.
I didn't save what others crave,
I haven't what the others got—
I've been too busy living.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1928

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Astrologers read this as an unfortunate day in planetary government, a time to be careful in all financial matters.

Under this direction of the stars it is unlucky to bet or to indulge in any form of speculation.

All the signs seems to indicate that the unexpected and surprising will happen in the end of 1928.

Thrift is recommended for there will be new avenues of income open through novel inventions and new business conditions, the seers promise.

This is not considered a lucky sign under which to start new enterprises. A slight delay may mean much profit.

It is not a really lucky wedding day, astrologers say, because financial success may be slow.

Women should pursue beaten paths in business and should hesitate before exchanging financial certainty for domestic hazards, until the stars are more encouraging.

New styles in dress may entail large outlays next month when modistes and merchants should profit.

Much entertaining is foretold for the winter when, the law of extremes operating, there will be poverty sharply contrasted with riches.

It is well for all who write letters or sign legal documents to be exceedingly cautious today.

Love missives may be peculiarly unfortunate while this configuration prevails and may be sadly misunderstood.

The seers warn that sensational events will be written in the pages of history within the next few weeks.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have rather a strenuous year in which they must make important decisions. The young should be careful in making marriage engagements.

Children born on this day probably will be studious and fond of research. Many archaeologists are born under this sign which usually guides persons of unusual gifts.

THE BOY PROBLEM

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Prof. Tatham, headmaster of King's College School, is tempted to believe that the mirror gives a girl under 16 more self-respect than is to be found in a boy of the same age. "Would the boy be better if he took a little more pride in himself, and would the development of a love for the mirror increase a boy's self-respect?" is the question the professor is trying to answer.

RAVISHED PROVINCE.

Kansu Province, isolated in the extreme northwest of China, has been the location of a Moslem outbreak in which, it is reported, about 200,000 persons have been massacred by the religious fanatics. This enormous Province is mostly barren and desolate, except for certain fertile valleys where millions live. Earthquakes and famine earlier in the year and now invasion have taken a great toll of its inhabitants. The uprising is reported to be spreading, and it is feared half the population will die of starvation during the winter.

CATARACTS OF THE EYE.

Inside the eyeball and just behind the iris there is a clear, transparent lens which is for the purpose of converging the rays of light just as does a lens in a telescope. This crystalline lens is transparent, but may become opaque in old people or as the result of an accident in young people. When this occurs the condition is termed a cataract.

Many people have the mistaken belief that a cataract is a growth in or on the eye, but this is not true. Sometimes a growth appears on the outside of the eye, going from the inner corners over the surface of the eye, and may even cover the pupil. This growth is not a cataract but is termed as "pterygium" and while not serious, may be removed by a slight operation.

The crystalline lens, being transparent, is obviously not nourished by blood which would give it a red color. It is nourished by absorbing the clear transparent lymph from surrounding tissues. When this lymphatic circulation becomes clogged or filled with irritating toxins it is apt to cause an opaqueness of the crystalline lens termed a "cataract." This interference with the circulation of the lymph is caused by deposits and sluggishness or by inflammation of the eye from eye strain in old people, but it may be caused in young folks by cuts or bruises of the eye that interfere with its circulation.

Most cases of cataract are seen between the ages of sixty and seventy-five, and in almost every instance there is the history of some other chronic trouble that has been present over the course of twenty or twenty-five years, such as constipation, liver trouble, goitre, diabetes, and pellagra. When these cases are very far advanced they can only be operated on. The operation removes the lens which can be partly compensated for by wearing thick glasses. In many instances, the operation is successful enough to permit the patient to read, but in other cases complete blindness may result.

At the first appearance of a cloudiness of the crystalline lens, strict dietetic treatment should begin at once. In addition to this, exercises of the eye should be used at least twice daily to stimulate the circulation. I have prepared a special article on exercises for strengthening the eye, which I will be glad to mail to anyone who will send me a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. It is also advisable for one to drink large quantities of distilled water to assist in washing out the impurities that may have accumulated in the circulation. From two to three gallons per day would not be an excessive amount.

Most of us who live in cities have a constant strain on the eyes that can only be relieved by wearing suitable glass. My best advice to those who wish to avoid cataracts is to diet, wear properly fitting glasses, and take the eye exercises.

Questions and Answers.

Question: S. J. writes: "I have a swollen gland in my neck and am writing to you to ask what is good for it. I have had it lanced a couple of times but after while it seems to come back. It doesn't hurt me. I am a strong healthy girl of sixteen and some people say I will outgrow it but I don't think so."

Answer: Your only hope to cure the swollen gland is to take a careful diet which will not overload your lymphatic circulation. It is best for a short time, to eliminate all of the heavy foods such as starches, meats, etc., and live on fruits and green vegetables for a month or two and give your glands a chance to empty themselves of any accumulated wastes. Lancing only injures the glands still further, and extends the trouble to other glands near by. Hot applications or electrical treatments are sometimes helpful in emptying out the swollen glands.

Answer: The quantity of water used depends upon your bodily necessities and these vary in each individual case. A good rule to use is to take as much water as necessary to keep the urine a light color. If the urine ever becomes dark during the day it is a sign you are not using enough water. The additional water should be taken between meals and not with food.

Question: G. H. J. asks: "Will you kindly explain the best course to follow for a tubercular hip?"

Answer: The treatment for a tubercular hip would depend upon the exact condition of the tubercular change which has taken place. A diet treatment is always essential to a cure, though sometimes various physiotherapy treatments will prove effective in bringing about a cure. Complete rest is sometimes necessary, but only in advanced cases.

DOCKERS' STRIKE TO BE CALLED OFF

Union Leaders Urging Men To Go Back To Their Work.

MELBOURNE, Australia, October 16 (Canadian Press Cable). — The Melbourne Herald says it is almost certain that strike of the waterside workers will be called off to-morrow. It is reported the waterside workers management committee has ordered secret balloting on the question, but is urging the men to make this unnecessary by resuming work at once. A mass meeting addressed by Senator Pratten, Minister of Defence, and a Soviet flag, and at a subsequent meeting speakers condemned the labor leaders and urged that the fight be continued.

No Need to Diet at Any Age

PLENTY of people past "three-score-and-ten" eat what they please without penalty. They don't have heartburn, or flatulence, or any distress due to excessive acid. But they do take care of their stomachs—with "Pape's Diapepsin." Thus, their digestive organs are soothed, healed and strengthened in a wonderful way, and normal healthy digestion results.

Because it is so quick, so safe and so sure in ending digestive troubles, millions recommend "Pape's Diapepsin." "Pape's Diapepsin" is unequalled as an indigestion remedy and food corrective, yet it costs only 60 cents a package at all druggists.

If your stomach ever torments you get "Pape's Diapepsin" at once and recapture the pleasure of care-free, painless digestion. You may have felt that nothing can help your particular difficulty, but so have others to whom this remedy proved a pleasant surprise.

ARRANGE GROUPING.

Sixteen Divisions Made For the Season of 1928-29 Throughout Province.

TORONTO, Oct. 17—Leading lights in the Ontario Curling Association foregathered at the Victoria Curling Club yesterday in large numbers, delegates from all over the province being on hand, with President Judge Weir of Kitchener presiding. About the first business done was the passing of a resolution regretting the demise of the late Major T. H. Brunton, who was a strong devotee of the ancient Scotch pastime. The members stood with their heads bowed when the following resolution was moved by Thomas Rennie and seconded by Judge L. V. O'Connor of Lindsay: That in the death of the late Major T. W. Brunton, Canada has lost one who was most actively interested in the game of curling. His fine sportsmanship spirit always predominated and endeared him to all of his associates. Besides the valuable services rendered by him as magistrate of the County of York, he served the Ontario Curling Association, as its president in 1913-14, and in this capacity his business ability and wise counsel were most valuable. He contributed generously of his time in all interests promoting clean, wholesome amateur sport. Tom Brunton, as he was affectionately known, will be greatly missed. On this occasion the Ontario Curling Association tender their deepest sympathy to the members of the family of the deceased.

There was some discussion over the matter of the formation of a Dominion Curling Association, a proposition which hardly appealed to Messrs. T. Rennie and E. T. Lightbourn, who had attended the gathering last winter when the idea was debated, but they advised that a decision be withheld. The same gentlemen will attend the next meeting and report back a year hence.

Won't Reduce Weight

A suggestion to reduce the mixi-mum weight of stones from 50 to 45 pounds met with scant courtesy, the gathering being almost unanimous in this respect. Ross Harstone of Hamilton, championed the change, his principal argument being that the western curlers, who were in his opinion, better exponents of the game than those in the east, used the lighter missiles.

The official grouping for Ontario Tankard for season 1928-1929 is as follows:

Cubs Not Certain Hornsby Join Club

CHICAGO, October 17 (Canadian Press). — Whether Rogers Hornsby, the much-tossed-about manager of the Boston Braves, would appear in the Chicago Cubs line-up next season, was more or less a conjecture yesterday as President William J. Veeck, of the Cubs, neither would deny nor confirm the rumor.

"I am in no position to say anything at present," said President Veeck. "We would like to have Hornsby, as would any other club in the major leagues, and are in the market for available good players to bolster up the team."

Veeck declined to deny reports that the Cubs management was negotiating with Emil Fuchs, president of the Boston Club, for the transfer of Hornsby by contract.

COCHRANE WINS LEAGUE HONORS

Philadelphia Catcher Voted the Most Valuable Player During Past Season.

MANUSH SECOND.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—(Canadian Press).—Gordon "Mickey" Cochrane 25 year old catcher for the Philadelphia Athletics, to-day was named as the most valuable player to his club in the American League's 1928 season. Cochrane won the award by a margin of only two points over Heinie Manush, St. Louis outfielder.

In addition to having his name inscribed on the junior circuit's honor role along with the previous winners, Cochrane will receive $1,000 in cash. The award was made by a commission of baseball writers from each city in the league.

In the voting Cochrane received 53 points while Manush, who finished second in the American League's individual batting race, received 51.

Every member of the commission voted for Manush, two placing him first, one second, four third, and one fifth. Second baseman Tony Lazzeri and pitcher Waite Hoyt of the New York Yankees came in for one place ranking each.

Boucher Only Holdout On Ranger Team

VIEWS ON SPORTS

Several changes have been made in players and playing rules of National Hockey League.

The term holdout in pro hockey circles is hanging around.

Frank Boucher of the New York Rangers is the first player reported to disagree with the club owners over the size of his pay check. The crack centre man's demands and the Ranger offer are far apart and there appears a possibility that he will be playing for another club before the start of the season.

* * * * * * *

Boucher is believed to have many fellow-holdouts in the various clubs throughout the circuit.

* * * * * * *

Several changes have been made in the playing rules of the league by the executive. "Sudden Death" sessions designed formerly to end games tied at the close of the regulation play have been discarded. These will be replaced by the allowance of a ten-minute overtime period.

* * * * * * *

Efforts have been made to cut down the length of a series making a change in the rules governing the play-offs. The teams finishing first, second and third in the two divisions of the league will meet in a simultaneous series in the first round of play-off. Winners of the series between the two second and two third teams will meet in another series with the winner opposing the victor of the first team series for the world's hockey championship.

* * * * * * *

The New York Americans are out for a higher standing in the National Hockey league this season. Occupying the cellar position at the end of the last schedule, they are now making every effort to build up a championship team and have added real strength to the team with the purchase of Punch Broadbent from Ottawa and Johnny Sheppard from Detroit.

* * * * * * *

* * * * * * *

The Green brothers, "Red" and "Shorty" with Bill Boucher and Joe Simpson have been given the gate but it is hardly likely the league will allow these players to stay out of the game.

* * * * * * *

The sneaker ball made famous by Willie Sherdel is about to get the air. Its chief menace is that it may develop suddenly into a bean ball which same is a serious proposition, considering the high cost of ivory.

* * * * * * *

The final meeting for the year of the city hardball league will be held sometime within the next two weeks. The league executive are waiting the arrival of the medals for the bantam team. Presentation of cups to the teams and baseball fobs and medals to the players will be made at this meeting.

NIAGARA DISTRICT INTERMEDIATE GROUP

Falls To Have a Team in the O.H.A. Again This Year.

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., October 17. — Prospects are bright for an excellent hockey season this winter in this section of the province, and an attempt is being made by G. Moffatt Burr, O.H.A. executive member, to form a Niagara district intermediate group. This would be composed of Port Colborne, Niagara Falls, Jordan, and a team from Bridgeburg-Fort Erie. All teams would be supplied with artificial ice and the group would be most compact. It would eliminate the long hops to Paris and Brantford.

Port Colborne's chances of retaining the O.H.A. intermediate title are good, as all members of the championship squad are in town and Berlet, star defence man of the Kitchener finalists, is in Welland, to which place he was transferred by the packing company for which he was working, and may get a certificate to play here.

"Pete" Kilpatrick, who captained and managed last year's team, although he announced his resignation at the end of last season, will likely be out again this year.

The local arena will open on November and include Dixon, Morrill, Mountain, Prettie, Horne, "Dubby" Cross, "Rock" Cross, Cuthbert, Kilpatrick, and "Dinty" Moore.

The local arenawill open on November 1 to give the champions plenty of time to get in shape for the opener.

The return of Niagara Falls to the intermediate group is welcomed here, and a revival of old-time rivalry is looked for.

A PAIR OF PUNTING PILOTS

They put their faith in the name of Snyder at the University of Toronto. In 1926 the blue and white rugby squad was led by Warren Snyder and this year Snyder has been voted captain by his team-mates, but he's Murray.

Warren Snyder had been the sensation of the Toronto rugby fans since he first showed ability on the grid at Oakwood Collegiate in 1919 when the double blue and old gold won the Toronto collegiate championship. From a high school star he quickly graduated to the senior ranks. In the inter-collegiate play-off at Kingston in 1920 as halfback he demonstrated his ability by his spectacular work as a ball carrier, punter and a second line defence man.

This year the Varsity squad doesn't appear to have the same quality of rough and ready material to draw from as it had last year and therefore Murray Snyder will have a tougher proposition to face. Next Saturday the Varsity squad faces the red and white twelve from McGill, Montreal, and, according to the gossip at Montreal, the McGill squad will not be very strong. So with the loss of St. Germain on the red and white team it looks as if it should be a rip-snorting game.

18 STARTERS FOR HANDICAP

BROWN JACK FAVORITE.

NEWMARKET, Eng., Oct. 17. — (Canadian Press Cable).—The list of probable starters in to-day's renewal of the great autumn handicap, the Cesarewitch, was sharply cut down yesterday, leaving about 18 horses ready to race. Eagle's pride, winner last year, was definitely out of consideration when further examination disclosed the horse had made no recovery since breaking down after a practice gallop Monday.

In betting on the Newmarket course Col. Wernher's Brown Jack was favorite at seven to one, with Arctic Star at eight to one. Capapie at nine to one, Bonny Boy Second and Tourist at 10 to one, Troubador at 100 to nine, West Wiclow at 100 to six, Plymouth Hoe, Biancona at 25 to one.

Early betting on the Cambridgeshire, traditional "double" with to-day's race, showed Gang Warily at 100 to eight, as was Palais Royal, and Pondicherry at 100 to seven.

Probable starters and jockeys in order of weights, for the Cesarewitch handicap, 2¼ miles, first run in 1839: Bois Josselyn (Allemand), Brown Jack (S. Donoghue), Bonny Boy Second (H. Beasley), Arctic Star (Perryman), Biancona (Lane), Capapie (Weston), Accalmie (Veard), Maid of Perth (Siratt), Conciliator (A. Burns), West Wicklow (G. Richards), Plumbago (S. Wragg), Autocrat (Harris), Tourist (Dines), Troubador (Cordell), King Harold (Robertson), Jarvis (Jefferies), King's Oven (Berry), and Plymouth Hoe (Stephenson).

Betting Odds On Cesarewitch

NEWMARKET, England, Oct. 17 (Canadian Press Cable). — Final betting odds on the Cesarewitch, autumn handicap, to be run here to-day were as follows:

Brown Jack 13 to 2; Capapie 8 to 1; Arctic Star 9 to 1; Bonny Boy 10 to 1; Tourist 100 to 8; Troubador 13 to 1; Bois Josselyn 17 to 1; West Wicklow 18 to 1; Plymouth Hoe 22 to 1; Maid of Perth 25 to 1; Accalmie 28 to 1; King's Oven, Plumbago, 33 to 1; King Harold 40 to 1; Autocrat, Jarvis 66 to 1.

THIRD PETERBOROUG "VIMY" TROOP.

Last Friday night the Third assembled at the Fire Hall together with scouts fro mthe Sixth and spent a very instructive and plessant evening. W. H. Dickin, chairman of the Third's Troop Committee, had arranged with Chief Gimblett to talk to the scouts on Fire Prevention and the Chief gave a short talk on how the scouts could assist in preventing fires. His advice to the boys was "Clean up your homes and do away with fire traps." Scouts could also assist the firemen by reporting to the Chief the names of anyone they see turning in a false alarm, as there have been a number of false alarms in lately and the Chief is anxious to find out who is responsible for them.

The Chief then turned in a test alarm and called out the men to give the scouts a demonstration of what happened when an alarm came into the hall. A few seconds after the first ring of the alarm the men were all in place ready to rush out to whersver they were needed. Three cheers were called for an given with a will to thank the the Chief and the firemen for the fine demonstration given.

The scouts were divided into three groups and each group put in charge of a fireman who showed the boys all through the Fire Hall, explaining how everything worked and answering innumerable questions. When the electrician's room was reached, he connected up a fire box and showed what happened when a box was "pulled."

All the scouts were invited to come to the hall on Saturday between 1.30 and 2 p.m. to watch the firemen go through their daily drill and every scout determined to do his best to make it.

As there was no chance on Friday night for each scout to thank each fireman, the scouts of the Third wish to take this opportunity of thanking all the men who went to so much trouble to see that the scouts had a good time and saw everything.

Next Friday night at 7.30 the Troop meets at the Troop Room for the first time this year. We would especially like to see every scout out for this first meeting and if the Patrol Leaders make a special effort to round up every scout, we can start the year off right. Come on Third! Let's have a full turnout again.

QUEENS TRACK TEAM PICKED

IN MONTREAL.

KINGSTON, October 17 (Canadian Press).—Queen's intercollegiate track team was picked at the interfaculty meet held at the Richardson Stadium yesterday afternoon, the tri-color to be represented in twelve events at the intercollegiate event in Montreal on Friday.

No records were equalled or broken at the interfaculty event yesterday afternoon, the best showing being made in the 100-yard dash when Johnston did the distance in two seconds slower than the intercollegiate record of ten seconds flat.

The team to represent the tricolor will be:

100 Yard dash, Johnston and Agnes; 220 yards, Johnston and Agnew; 440 yards: Galway and Cook; 880 yards: Hoople and Kenny; one mile: Seright and Stuart; 3 miles: Seright and Stuart; 220 yards hurdles: Brown and Agnew; 120 yards hurdles: Brown and Agnew; high jump: Spear and Agnew; broad jump: Taylor and Agnew; shot put: Gerow and McKercher; discus: Gerow and McKercher.

AMERICANS TO RE-ORGANIZE

Tommy Gorman To Take Over Managerial End of New York Club.

CHANGES MADE.

NEW YORK, October 17 (Associated Press). — The first star of the ice world reported at variance with his owners over the size of his pay envelope is Frank Boucher, crack centre ice man of the New York Rangers in the National Hockey League. The remainder of the team that won the world professional hockey championship in the Stanley Cup series last spring—the brothers, Bill and Bun Cook, in the forward line, the defence stars, Ching Johnson and Taffy Abel, and Lorne Chabot, the goal, have come to terms.

Boucher, high scorer of the Rangers last year, is reported to have many fellow-hold-outs in various teams throughout the circuit. Boucher's demands and the Ranger offer are far apart, and there appears a possibility that the centre ice man be traded before the season opens on November 15.

Reorganisation of the New York American team which finished last in the International group in 1927 was approved at a recent meeting of the league directors. Naming of Tommy Gorman, manager of the American, marks the second managerial change since last season. Herb. Gardiner has taken over the Chicago Blackhawks, replacing Barney Stanley. Shorty Green, former pilot of the Americans, has been traded to Boston.

The league heads made several changes in playing rules. A ten-minute overtime period will replace the "sudden death" sessions designed formerly to end games tied at the close of the regulation play. A penalty at the discretion of the referee has been added for "ragging" the puck, shooting the disc the length of the ice, or skating back and forth behind the goal to waste time.

Drastic changes in the rules governing the play-offs for the right to enter the Stanley Cup finals have been made in an effort to cut down the length of the series. The teams finishing first, second, and third in the International and American divisions of the league will meet in simultaneous series in the first round of the play-offs. Winners of the series between the two second and two third teams will meet in another series with the winner opposing the victor of the first team series in the Stanley Cup final.

PAYS $25 FOR REAL VAN DYCK

Furniture Dealer's Shabby Purchase Pronounced Genuine Old Master.

WORTH LARGE SUM.

LONDON, Oct. 17 (Canadian Press).—A shabby old picture, badly gashed, and very dirty which James O'Grady, a furniture dealer, of Haverstock Hill, N.W., bought for $25 a few months ago has been examined by an expert, who believes it to be a Van Dyck, worth thousands of pounds.

The work represents the Earl of Arundel with his eldest grandson, afterwards the fifth Duke of Norfolk. The old Earl is in steel armor and the boy is wearing a pink tunic.

"Some months ago," said Mr. O'Grady, who is an ex-gunner of the Royal Field Artillery, "I bought the picture in an old furniture shop near St. Albans, and hung it in my shop covered with an old army blanket. A dealer, who called upon me, happened to pull aside the blanket, and, also ... hurried glance at the picture, said he wanted to buy it.

"But he seemed so eager that I refused his offer for a fortnight. I was beseiged by dealers. There were several bad gashes in the picture, and my brother and I found that the varnish seemed to rub off easily.

"Eventually I decided to have it restored and repaired, and it has cost me about $100."

Alexander Marks, a Nottingham expert, expressed the opinion that the picture was a fine example of Van Dyck's work, ranking possibly "a good third among his masterpieces."

"For technique and quality," he said, "it might be placed in the same category as the Arundel version, and the one also of Charles I. on Horseback in the National Galleries.

"Less than three years ago," added Mr. Marks, "a London agent was prepared to offer $450,000 for the Arundel Castle portrait of the Earl of Arundel and his eldest grandson, afterwards the fifth Duke of Norfolk.

"An offer was also made of $20,000 for a well-known American art collector for another version. I believe the one at Arundel is an heirloom. This being the case, the value of Mr. O'Grady's picture is materially increased."

POLICE CHIEF URGES LASH FOR PUNISHING BOOKMAKERS

Regards Them As Menace To Weak-minded—Retired Man Defends Them.

HONEST GENTLEMEN.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 17 (Canadian Press).—Although Chief Constable D. C. Draper advocates the lash for handbookmakers, whom he regards as a menace to society because they "use their wits to prey on weak-minded men," Curly Crowell, a former member of the bookmaking profession, retorts that "the bookie is a gentleman compared to the pari-mutuel."

Crowell, who has paid in Windsor Police Court more than $1,200 for running a book, and who has purchased a hash house and is running it instead, said: "You've got to trust a bookie. Nowadays, especially, he doesn't dare to give the bettor a slip. He has to be honest and a gentleman.

"The way it is now at the tracks, the people who go to the races haven't got a chance to win—not a chance. I know all about it. I've done everything that there is to be done at ovals. I've worked at them since a boy. I've worked them for bookies. I've worked for pari-mutuels, and I've run a book of my own.

"Why, the pari-mutuels take about 12 per cent. out of a bettor's dollar each race. Figure that out," and Curly grinned. "Seven races a day, and 12 per cent. gone with each of them. They take $60,000 out to the track each day to make change for the people, and not one lousy cent for them to win. Where, in the old days, with bookies, the bettor would get odds of 150 to 200 to one; these are cut down to nothing. How can you beat a racket like that? How can you beat iron men who haul 12 cents off your dollar every race? The bookies used to make money. But by Jimmy they used to lose it, too. I've seen a bookie go out with $10,000 and walk home—broke." Curley looked around his hash house. "If all the jack which the pari-mutuels have stolen from the public was in $10,000 bills this dog cart of mine wouldn't be big enough to hold it."

Curley fairly gnashed his teeth. "Then this feller Draper suggests that a man be whipped for running a book. I ask you. Is that justice? For the Government to be able to run a book and for the citizen not to be able to?"

MUSIC'S VALUE AS BRAIN FOOD

Dean Perrin, of McGill, Stresses Spiritual and Mental Objects.

AMUSEMENT SECONDARY.

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 17. — (By the Canadian Press).—Spiritual and mental powers should be developed by the art of music, whose sole object is not to entertain and amuse, said Dean C. Perrin, of the faculty of musi, McGill University, in opening the Conservatorium for the year.

In its highest and best forms music, like any other art, is not to be viewed merely as a relaxation any more than it is to be viewed as a "stunt to astonish by digital or vocal dexterity," Dean Perrin explained. "Music should be a strong factor in the development of mental and above all, spiritual powers in evoking a more powerful response in the soul or character.

'Music must not be viewed from the mechanical or routine standpoint, alone necessary as a certain amount of this mechanical or routine work is to everyone, whether one is an elementary student struggling with the mechanical difficulties of the simplest tunes, or whether one has attained a considerable degree of virtuosic facility," the dean continued. "The spirit and not the letter must be always the guiding maxim.

"Although it is not necessary to dissect or pull to pieces any work of art, it certainly helps one to more fully appreciate its inner meaning, its full spiritual appeal, if one has developed this power of analysis and gained a knowledge of the principles of design or form. The performer as well as the listener needs this mental training as help to a more thorough spiritual grasp of what a composer really intends to convey for the notation which a composer has to use is only the mere letter, the spirit has to be sought underneath and only reveals itself to those who are in a fit state to recognize it. The study of the form or design of a piece may be most interesting procedure or it may be a deadly dull procedure it all depends upon the way in which the subject is treated."

One way in which the mind can assist in a more complete grasp of a composer's work is by considering him from the historical point of view, Dr. Perrin continued, although he spoke of the weakness noticeable in histories of music arising from the fact that the writers do not connect the lives of the composers about whom they write with the historical development of the nations which have given them birth, or among whom they worked. They do not show how they were influenced by environment or how they in turn influenced the people.

A SAFE WAY TO END DIGESTION

Acid Indigestion, stomach sourness, gas, etc., are such common after-eating ailments now-a-days that many people take them as a matter of course or seek relief with the first thing that's handy. They frequently use nothing but ordinary bicarbonate of soda, never realizing that though this often stops the pain, it may be doing serious harm to the stomach lining leading even to dangerous stomach ulcers. A safe, reliable treatment for acid stomach troubles is the daily use, after meals, of a little Bisurated Magnesia—either tablets or powder. This instantly neutralizes excess in the stomach, prevents its formation and so stops stomach trouble at its source. It tends also to soothe, heal and protect the stomach lining. Meals then digest easily, naturally and without pain, sourness or gas attacks. Your own druggist knows about Bisurated Magnesia and sells a lot of it. Ask him about it today.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

THE FIRST OF THE NEW COLLEGIAN SERIES, AND JOHN GILBERT IN "THE COSSACKS" A PRODUCTION VOTED AS ONE OF THE YEAR'S BEST, WILL BE OFFERED AT THE CAPITOL THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY OF THIS WEEK.

Most pictures have to do with love, of course. But it has remained to John Gilbert, more or less noted as a lover, to inject a new idea into this thing that screen drama is made of. This idea—and it is an intensely dramatic and thunderously powerful one—is to be seen in "The ossacks", his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer vehicle which opens at the Capitol Theatre to-morrow.

"The Cossacks" is huge in concept, cast and setting, and, like "The Big Parade," its gigantic effectiveness serves only to accentuate the love theme of the boy and girl that runs through it. Interestingly, too, Renee Adoree is the girl.

But there is still another element of love in it; one that lends itself to more powerful drama, and that is the love of father and son. It is the love that drives a father to absolutely torture his son until the boys is bent to his ideals; the love of a strong fighting man that becomes almost a fanaticism under the stress of emotional turbulence. Such a love is stark drama, whereas the other is a sweet romantic thread. And by combining the two, Frances Marion, the author, has woven a drama so huge and compelling that the audience watches in spellbound amasement.

Still, through it runs the sweetest love story in the world; the romance of a boy and a girl tossed hither and thither by the resistless tide of affairs. Gilbert, as the swashbuckling Cossack soldier on the Russian steppes, is dramatic, dashing—and appealing. Miss Adoree is charming as a peasant girl. Ernest Torrence, as the stern old Cossack chieftain, is a figure of compelling power, and Mary Alden, as the hero's mother, Dale Fuller, Josephine Borio, Neil Neely, Yorke Sherwood, Joseph Maria and Paul Hurst make up a truly notable cast.

Cossacks, brought from Europe, stage sensational rides in the picturesque garb of their race; gigantic settings, including a whole Russian town, hundreds of people in the colorful garb of Russia, form a background of kaleidoscopic beauty. Sensational rides and battles, grim torture, and the struggles of strong men in battle blend into a massive accompaniment to an idyllic romance George Hill, who directed the picture, has made of it one of the true masterpieces of the screen season mighty, gripping, and intensely human.

The first of The New Collegians, the most popular series on the screen will also be seen. Don't miss the opening number.

THE DUMBELLS

"There is a time and tide in the affairs of men," said Shakespeare, and he said it without knowledge of The Dumbells, which came nearer being an affair of men than the Roman senate, of which he was speaking.

There came a time in the affairs of The Dumbells when Captain Plunkett wanted to make their tenth annual revue the greatest outstanding triumph in a long series of successes. He to do this was the question. Jazz bands, impersonations and male choruses were no longer a novelty. Girls in a show that had done without them for three years in France and nine years in Canada would be a sensation. If three girls to replace the imitators were added to the company successfully, why not another bevy and have a real beauty chorus?

With a dozen old favorites and about as many carefully chosen singers and dancing girls, The Dumbells now have an organization that should carry on for at least as many more years as they have already been before the theatregoing public of this country.

Among the old-timers who will maintain the old traditions are Al. Plunkett, "Red" Newman, Fred Emney, Morley Plunkett, Harry Binns, Cameron Geddes, Charlie Jeese, Louis Crerar, Howard Fogg, and the popular Captain himself. Among the new men is a droll little funster from the land of Harry Lauder, "Scotty" Morrison.

Aileen Parker is the premiere diseuse and Jessie Butt is the new contralto. The chorus of dancers was chosen entirely of Canadian girls of charm, refinement and ability.

MONTE BLUE COMING IN "THE BUSH LEAGUER"

Monte Blue, here of so many rousing dramas, is soon to be seen here in a film that will endear him more than ever to the public. It is "The Bush Leaguer."

Monte stars as a modest young Idaho inventor and gas-station owner, who breaks the monotony of life by pitching for the team that has its diamond on the lot adjoining his property.

Fate enters in the form of a beautiful motorist who, stopping to have the gasoline tank replenished, so interests the bespectacled youth that he accepts a job on a professional team in her home town, Los Angeles. What follows is a riot. Monte makes of Specs White a character uproariously amusing and believably human.

Clyde Cook and Leila Hyams, who supported him in "The Brute," are featured. Others in the cast are William Demarest, Richard Tucker, Bud Marshall, Tom Dempsey, Wilfred North, William Wilson, Violet Palmer, and Rodney Hildebrand. Howard Bretherton directed "The Bush Leaguer" for Warner Bros. The production comes to the Regent Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

COMMUNISTS FAIL TO GET PLEBISCITE

Not Enough Signatures On Petition For Referendum On Naval Construction.

BERLIN, Oct. 17.— (Canadian Press.)—An attempt by communists to hold a nation-wide plebiscite on a law proposed by them, saying "it is forbidden to build a battle cruiser of any kind" has failed. About 2,000,000 Germans signed the Communist petition for a plebiscite on the subject. The constiution prescribes that one-tenth of the qualified voters, or about 4,000,000 persons, must sign the demand for a referendum and therefore no plebiscite will be held.

Winter vacations have now come to stay. One large American firm employing several thousands reports that 30 per cent of its employees take their vacations between October and April.

The first American passenger cruise around the world set out in 1910. During the present season, ten such cruises were announced, in addition to one regular round the world service.

SUBMARINE SUNK

The submarine Ondine, which was to have been the newest unit of the strongest arm of the French Navy, is at the bottom of the ocean and all her crew of three officers and 40 men are dead. The French Ministry of Marine learned to its consternation only on Oct. 12 that the tragedy occurred about midnight on Oct. 3, when the submarine was rammed off Oporto by the Greek cargo carrier Aikaterini M. Goulandris.

Don't Miss This Concert!

IN THE LEGION HALL TO-NIGHT, 7.45

The 600-audience was delighted last night. It is seldom, indeed, that a program of so outstanding merit is given the people of Peterborough at so small charge.

Here are the items:

Thompson's Harmonica Band made a great hit last night, and will give another program to-night.

Signor Carlo Lamberti and Madame Scott Hannigan. They repeated their success of Monday last night, and will be heard again to-night.

Miss Marie Thomson and Miss Jean Buchanan. These Edinburgh girls, in their contribution of Hebridean songs, have won the hearts of everyone with old country ties. The repertoire to-night is new.

Canadian Singers. "I never heard anything so good in Peterborough," said a visitor last night. This sextet will to-night contribute a program of French-Canadian Folk Songs.

There's only one fault to find with the concert program—there's so much in it one can't pick out what is best.

Visitors to the Fair in the Armouries receive tickets entitling them to admission to the Concert for 35c, and these tickets will re-admit them to the Armouries at the close of the Concert. The Canadian Legion Hall is considered part of the Fair layout, and visitors must go through the Armouries. These tickets will be issued at the Murray Street door, south-west corner.

What Doctors Think of the Laxative Habit

In all history, no Indian was ever known to have constipation. Nor need YOU. He chewed the bark of a tree called cascara. To-day, we have the candy Cascaret.

Cascarizing the bowels never forms a laxative habit. If already formed, an occasional Cascaret will usually break the habit. For cascara strengthens the muscular walls of the bowels, and their need of any aid at all grows constantly less. What other cathartic has this characteristic? The writer knows of none.

An evacuation brought gently about by cascara will, nine times in ten, be followed by full functioning of the bowels on the morrow—and for days after. For there is no REACTION as with sickening salts, or any of the man-made purgatives that go through one's system like a bullet.

Physicians tell us cascara is the ideal laxative—and the tongue tells us candy Cascarets are its ideal form. At least a million people know this; what a pity there are any who don't! Especially parents; because children love to take a Cascaret. After which, for days-on-end, the bowels will be seen to work of their own accord.

The only habit from cascara is that of regularity! Cascarets tone and train the bowels. But at the first sign of returning sluggishness another Cascaret is as effective as the first.

There isn't a druggist who hasn't Cascarets, so WHY experiment with laxatives?

CASCARETS
They Work While You Sleep!

Lakefield

(Examiner Correspondence).

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 16.—The hot fowl supper and concert held on Tuesday evening, October 9th, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of Selwyn United Church went "over the top," scoring a splendid success, and also $154 in cash, which was gratifying to the ladies, who worked very hard. The hot supper meant much extra work, but it was appreciated. Supper was served in the Selwyn Community Hall, and from 5 till 9 p.m., the waiters were kept busy serving the crowd. The entertainment was held in the church, with the pastor, Rev. J. O. Totten, in the chair. All the numbers were well given by first-class local talent, and every item was heartily applauded. Rev. W. S. Edgar, with his inimitable humor, gave an address, which was both witty and serious, and spoke of the fraternity existing between the two sister denominations.

The following is the program:

Duet: Misses Iona and Thelma Galvin.

Chairman's address: Rev. J. O. Totten.

Duet: Misses Bernice and Leola Northey.

Recitation: Miss Margaret Northey.

Solo: Mr. Wellie Pearson.

Reading: Miss Olive Sidey.

Duet: Rev. J. O. Totten and Mr. Sidey.

Reading: Mrs. John Murphy.

Address: Rev. W. S. Edgar.

Duet: Mrs. Wilbert Northey and Mr. Wellie Pearson.

Solo: Rev. J. O. Totten.

Solo: Miss Ethel Millar.

A meeting of the board of directors of the Agricultural Society was held on Saturday evening in the Council Chamber, with the president, Mr. Albert Darling, in the chair. The secretary read a statement of the prize money, which amounts to about $546, for prizes to the exhibitors, who number slightly more than sixty. This is exclusive of special prizes and of the School Fair and the races.

In spite of very bad weather conditions, the Fair Board is going to weather through this year's Fair without a deficit, which is a matter of congratulation.

The C.G.I.T. group of the Regent Street United Church held a successful afternoon tea in Hendren's vacant store on Saturday afternoon, and in spite of a lack of advertising, they netted the sum of $15, which was gratifying. The girls, who looked trim and neat in their becoming uniforms, served the tea and showed a keen interest in the proceedings. The leader, Mrs. (Rev.) S. A. Kemp, was in charge.

A large number of local people attended the Fair in Norwood on Wednesday last, and reported a splendid day and a good Fair. Norwood has been noted for good fairs for sixty years, and this year proved no exception to the past records.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES

ROSENEATH ANGLICAN CHURCH

ROSENEATH, Oct. 17 (Examiner Correspondence).—Thanksgiving for the blessings of harvest was returned by the people of St. James Anglican Church on Sunday afternoon at the annual harvest festival service, when Rev. Batersby delivered a very thoughtful and inspiring sermon in keeping with the season.

Decorations with flowers, fruit and vegetables, the little church gave evidence of God's blessings to mankind in provision for their subsistence.

In his sermon, Rev. Batersby gave many beautiful and sincere thoughts that each may receive a message of love from God, the Creator of all things, who gave the bountiful harvest, that we may offer up a true thanksgiving to God for His goodness to us. The highest virtue is the unity of the spirit with God and the highest note of thanksgiving.

What we believe here and now is that Jesus Christ, having taken human nature and become man, is eternally Man. Just as from all eternity He was God, so from the time of the Incarnation to His ascension and during His eternal session in heaven. He is perfect Man, as He is perfect God. He can still be recognized by those who have an eye of faith as well as of sight. Did anyone of us ever put God to the test? Is there any danger these days that we forget God? Are we letting ourselves slip? It does not matter what others say or think of us, its what God thinks of us that counts.

What use are we making of our gift? Reflections such as these bring home to us the extraordinary sanctity that we should attach to these bodies of ours as we live here on earth our human life. Let us then concentrate ourselves to the duty of praise, the duty of thanksgiving, and the duty of humility. Therefore seeing, then, that we have a great High Priest, God the spotless, the invincible Conqueror, let us hold fast our profession.

Suitable music was provided and the singing of familiar harvest hymns including a beautiful duet sung by the Rev. Batersby and daughter.

Next Sunday will be reserved as Childrens' Day. Service at 2.30 p.m.

Rally Day Services

Rally Day service, in connection with the Sunday school, was held in the United Church on Sunday morning, the attendance fairly good for the occasion.

The school occupied the centre pews for worship, the superintendent, Arthur Tucker and Pastor, Rev. M. R. Brown being on the platform. Mr. Tucker conducting the service, assisted by Rev. Mr. Brown, who gave an open conversation to the boys and girls of the Sunday school. Speaking on character building, cleanliness in body and spirit, politeness toward each other, boys treat a girl as though she were your sister; and girls, remember the same thing. Beware of the bad language, all these little things count to either build or destroy the character and life of any boy or girl. In conclusion, his advice was to be remembered, that the tongue is a very little member but it can do great things,—it can build or destroy but by faith in Almighty God, unto whom all hearts are open, all desires known, and from whom no secrets are hid, cleanse the thoughts of our hearts by the inspiration of Thy Holy Spirit, that we may perfectly love Thee, and worthily magnify Thy holy name,—through Jesus Christ our Lord.

Mr. Wilfred Davey and Mrs. M. R. Brown sang together, very sweetly, that beautiful old song entitled "The Old Rugged Cross," which always sounds new and was greatly appreciated.

There will be no service in the United Church next Sunday, on account of anniversary services at Fenella, morning and evening, 10.30 a.m. and 7.30 p.m.

News From the Mines

Solloway, Mills & Company

Amulet

It is reported by our field man in Rouyn that Amulet cut some new ore Monday night in diamond drilling from the 125 foot level of the mine.

Officials admit that new ore has been cut, but will not give details. It is thought that the new ore is an extension of the "C" orebody, and that it was encountered around the 250 foot horizon.

Mandy

Extra equipment has been ordered for the Mandy Mines and it is expected that development work will be increased. It is stated that lateral work on the three lower levels, the 300, 400 and 500, is in very encouraging geological structure and some is showing a good grade of ore.

Sherritt-Gordon

Development work is taking place on the Oak claim, recently acquired by the Sherritt-Gordon Mines to protect the possible westerly extension of its ore zone. Diamond drilling has demonstrated ore widths averaging between 10 and 15 feet and running as high as 35 feet and the grade is said to be above the average on the main properties. Four Four diamond drills are working on the Oak probing a stretch of over 1,000 feet long and following out a program of systematic exploration at regular intervals. Beyond this claim the company has other claims which will give them a further half mile along what is believed to be the strike of the ore zone. On the main body good progress is being made. Two shafts are being sunk about a mile apart. In the east shaft levels have been established on the 135 and 250 foot horizons and already more than 600 feet of lateral work has been completed. The west shaft has reached its present objective of 400 feet and driving has commenced on the 125 and 375 foot levels.

The Federal Government has granted the Sherritt-Gordon company exemption from royalty payments for a period of 20 years. Permission has also been given for the export of blister copper for final treatment until such time as a mill and smelter can be constructed.

Grandview

The following report was recently made by one of our field men in British Columbia on Grand Mines, which adjoin Pend Oreille:

"Grandview has developed by surface trenching, diamond drilling and shaft work down to 140 feet, 1,300,000 tons of ore averaging 8 per cent. zinc and 4 per cent. lead. Gold and silver values are low.

"This ore body is 140 feet in width and can be mined by the glory hole system. Walls stand up firmly and no timber will be required, an important item in obtaining a low mining cost, which the management estimates can be held at $1.25 for mining and 75c for milling per ton.

"A haulage tunnel is being driven to intersect this ore at 140 feet depth, and is now within 475 feet of the ore body. Twelve feet advance per day is being made with this work.

"A thoroughly up to date steel frame concentrating mill, now under construction, is well along towards completion. The grinding and flotation unit will have, when completed, about December 1st, a capacity of 500 tons per day, while the crusher plant will handle 100 tons per hour."

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

The report of the Department of Mines, showing figures of gold production for September, reveals the same old story, the decreased output of the Porcupine camp being offset by the performance of the Kirkland Lake mines. Another feature of interest to traders is that Teck Hughes was again shown leading the mine of Kirkland Lake, with Lake Shore second and Wright-Hargreaves third. Regarding this latter property it is interesting to note that they have spiked rumors of passing their dividend by recently declaring the regular quarterly disbursement, and that once more the mine appears to be on the up-grade.

Total Kirkland Lake production for September was 9,016, 224 grams, and that of Porcupine was $14,732,262. For September of last year, Porcupine gross production of $17,247,967 was more than twice as great as the Kirkland Lake figures of $6,786,609, a lead of over 100 per cent. This year, the lead of the older camp has been cut down by over 50 per cent. While Porcupine production is decreasing and the life of two of its largest producers is said to be numbered it must not be thought that the camp is by any means exhausted. McIntyre's best days appear to be ahead. Yet this applies to Kirkland Lake as their best days are ahead also.

It is reported that the Power and Mines Corporation, which controls the Grace Mine, is now looking for new and additional ground and it is understood that company is negotiating for the old Mariposa property, which adjoins the company's claims on the north. In old days this property was developed by shafts and test pits, and the old mining plant and head-frame remain on the property at the present time, although not in condition to operate.

Following his examination of the Capital Rouyn Sudbury and Rouyn properties, it is reported that Carl M. Mohr, M.E., examined the Flavian Lake properties of the company. Mr. Mohr is quoted as saying that the properties are well located geologically. It is thoughs in some quarters that gold rather than copper deposits will be found, if any.

A new company known as Rouyn Contact Mines, Limited, is said to have been incorporated with capital of 3,000,000 shares of $1 each. The property consists of 470 acres adjoining the Abana, and, according to a report from the company, the surface showings are good and justify diamond drilling. This will be commenced in the near future, it is said. Mr. L. Lefebure, one of the original stakers of the Abana, is one of the Abana, is shrdlshrdluhrd of the vendors of the new company.

It is stated that the new mineralized break incovered on the Caribou Copper property is holding up well and that it is the company's intention to proceed with further development of this showing.

Edison Worked on Falconbridge—Famous Inventor conducted Original "Dip-Needle" Survey

It is said that part of the Falconbridge mines holdings in the Sudbury field were originally "dip-needle" survey by the famous Thomas A. Edison, the inventor. This one of the nickel-copper properties taken up by the Lindsleys and which Sudbury Basin has a substantial interest. In 1916 a Minneapolis syndicate did some diamond drilling and succeeded in locating ore over a length of 3,000 feet, the largest nickel-copper ore-body discovered in the district since the Frood, and Murray and Creighton mines. Present ore indications estimated from diamond drillings are about 3,000,000 tons average 3 per cent nickel and copper. This is equivalent to $20 ore or around $100,000,000 worth ore in the Falconbridge. Considerably higher ore estimates may be possible under actual development. A three-compartment shaft will likely be sunk to a depth of 1,000 feet and doubtless the management are hoping that replacement ore bodie will come in at depth as they did on the Frood and Frood Extension thus uncovering another copper-nickel deposit in the Sudbury field.

COMMENT ON THE MARKET

A Special Service to The Examiner.

British Columbia Packers' Production Shows Big Increase—Prices of Salmon Higher and Costs Well Reduced

While no definite figures on earnings of British Columbia Packers' subsidiaries can be obtained until the season's pack is completed, some general idea of how the organization is doing can be secured from the pack to date, and prevailing prices for the pack. Add to this the pronounced cut in operating costs, as a result of agreements entered into by Pacific Coast packers, and most every conditions are favorable.

The Financial News Bureau yesterday morning was given official figures covering the pack of British Columbia Packers, Limited, this year to date. Over 750,000 cases of salmon have been packed, which compares with 670,000 cases in the corresponding period a year ago, or a gain of 80,000 cases. There has been a reduction in the pack of sockeyes, but a substantial increase in other brands.

In addition to the salmon pack, over 4,000 tons of meal fertiliser have been produced, over 1,000,000 gallons of fish oil and over 1,300 tierces of mild cured salmon.

The factor in this year's operations that probably will prove a surprise is the reduction that has occurred in the operating costs of packers. The agreements reached between the different packing companies has cut away overlapping in both fishing and packing that had proved so hurtful in the past. The Financial News Bureau was assured this morning that reduction in costs this year will be very substantial. The next balance sheet, therefore, may be expected to show the benefits of increased pack, higher price and lower operating costs.

The shares of the company have attracted a good deal of attention in the recent past, the common rising this morning to 23½.

New $1,500,000 Montreal Bridge Decided On.

Bridge company will have a new structure on which to tender. Shortly construction work on a vehicular bridge to connect the Island of Montreal with the south shore of the St. Lawrence River from Lachine to the counties of Chateauguay, Huntingdon, and Napierville-Laprairie will be commenced.

It is expected that early in 1929 the work will be under way, and that by the end of next year the work will be near completion. The plans have already been completed by the Department of Public Works and Labor of the Province of Quebec, and the Commission recently named under the Act of last session will shortly call for tenders.

It is estimated that the bridge will cost $1,500,000.

WEDDING BELLS

CROSS—FREDENBURG.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized this afternoon at two o'clock at King Street United Church, Toronto, when Margaret Clara, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fredenburg, became the bride of Arnold Charles Cross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cross, of Toronto. The marriage service was read by the Rev. Mr. Wilson.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her cousin, M. Earl Tucker, wore a gown of dark blue velvet, trimmed with flowers in a lighter shade of blue. Her bouquet was of red and pink roses and maidenhair fern.

Mrs. Elsie Cowan and Mr. Earl Tucker acted as attendants.

After a short honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Cross will live in Haliburton.

Obituary

BENJAMIN STRONG.

NEW YORK, October 17 (Canadian Press). — Benjamin Strong, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, died yesterday in a New York hospital, aged 56. He had been in poor health for the last few years, and underwent an operation for intestinal trouble recently, from which he, apparently was making a steady recovery. A relapse set in during the night, however, and death occurred.

CITY WILL DEEPEN PARK STREET DITCH

Mr. Gainey stated that the Suburban Area Commission's function was to provide roads and only had to do with drainage as far as is necessary to drain the roads. The ditch is at present deep enough for this purpose, and the commission could go no further unless the highway engineer sanctioned it. The fact that the ditch was draining the water off the road back into the factory was advanced by Ald. Macdonald, but did not change Mr. Gainey's attitude. The commission would, he said, be pleased to do some work on the ditch if authorized by the engineer.

Right Prejudice Case.

Mayor Denne expressed the fear that for the city to do the work would prejudice its case for division of responsibility, which he thought feeble enough now, although his fears in either regard were not shared by the aldermen. He felt, however, that the De Laval is providing employment for some 275 men and the city would do a great deal to get a new industry which would promise to give the same amount of work. Therefore the De Laval should be given utmost consideration in its demands, even at this risk.

The advisability of having another engineer complete the work begun by F. T. Webster in order to get a judgment by the referee in the matter was advanced, but it was answered that this would take time.

Ald. Phelan urged that the work be done at once, while it is comparatively easy, and before more harm results, and that steps be taken to have Mr. Webster prepare the report necessary in conjunction with the plan of the area which he completed and submitted. The other bodies concerned would be notified that the city was doing the work "without prejudice" and intended to seek for the referee's decision. This course was adopted.

Report Long Delayed.

It was about two years ago when the Township of North Monaghan declined to bear half the cost of deepening the drain, on the ground that it drained an area practically confined to the city, that the council engaged Mr. Webster to make a survey under the drainage act. After many delays Mr. Webster submitted a plan showing that seventy-one per cent of the area drained was located in the township. He was paid for his work up to that time, a matter of about $1,100, and was to complete the necessary report to go with the plan, showing the exact division of responsibility. This he has never done and efforts to get in touch with him have not been successful.

SUICIDE PACT VERDICT IN DOUBLE SHOOTING

Baptist Convention Expells Twelve

Churches Voted Out

Ontaro-Quebec Baptist Convention Disqualifies Twelve Churches.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

Wisdom of Expulsion is Freely Discussed By the Members.

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 18 (Special to The Examiner). — Twelve churches which had transferred their sympathies to the new missionary society, were disqualified from the Ontario-Quebec Convention of the Baptist Church here to-day. In only two instances, that of Stanley Avenue Church, Hamilton, and Dovercourt Road Church, Toronto, were there opposing votes. The motions were voted on after nearly two hours of discussion, which was centred largely on the wisdom of the expulsion, which many felt placed the convention in the position of aggressors, while in th opinion of many the disqualified churches had actually taken steps of their own accord that severed their connection with the convention.

The recommendation, which was read by Holland Petitt of First Avenue Baptist Church, read as follows:

"The convention of 1927 requested the executive to consider the status of any churches which, notwithstanding the resolution of October 13, 1927, may continue to identify themselves with or support the new missionary society which seems necessary to the interests of this convention.

"Your executive in its deliberations has had due regard for the declaration of the last convention, that it is not the desire for the convention to exclude any church with which it may be possible to maintain a basis of sympathetic co-operation in the purposes for which the convention is organized.

The Churches

"It is with deep regret that on the basis of communications in the hands of the secretary of the convention, the executive recommends that the privilege of sending delegates to the convention of Ontario and Quebec be withdrawn from the following churches: Stanley Avenue Church, Hamilton; Shenstone Memorial Church, Brantford; Long Branch Church; Dovercourt Road Church, Toronto; Waverley Road Church; Second Markham Church; Annette Street Church, Toronto; Baker Hill Church; Christie Street Church, Toronto; Fairbank Church; Grace Church, Toronto, and Toronto Forward Church, for the following reasons:

"Withdrawal from the convention, or

"Joining the new convention or society, or

"Giving sympathy and support to the new convention or society, and withdrawing support from the convention of Ontario and Quebec.

"In view of the fact that some churches with whom we have had correspondence have not replied to the letters of the secretary, we further recommend that the convention request the incoming executive to continue communication with churches reported to be or are out of harmony with the work and objects of the convention of Ontario and Quebec, and advise the convention at its next session regarding any action that is deemed necessary to the convention's interests.

COMMUNIST IS EXECUTED

First Man Condemned in Italy Since 1860 Dies For Killing Fascists.

POLITICAL MURDERS.

LUCCA, Italy, Oct. 18 (Canadian Press).—Michael Della Maggiore, a Communist convicted of assassinating two Fascisti, was executed this morning behind the Ponte Buggianese cemetery.

Maggiore is the first person to be condemned to death in Italy since 1860, and his execution was in the form usually reserved for military offenders or wartime traitors.

Della Maggiore was awakened at 4.30 a.m. and told to dress. He appeared to be unimpressed by the order although he knew what the summons meant.

The condemned man did not utter a word during his trip to the place of execution. When the command to fire was given at 6.25 a.m. he shouted something, but the volley drowned it out.

The Communist had confessed to the special tribunal for the defense of the state that he killed the Fascisti because of their politics.

ST. PAUL'S CHOIR WINS

CAPTURES SILVER SHIELDS IN CHOIR COMPETITIONS AT MADE-IN-CANADA FAIR

Presbyterian Vocalists Win Three Major Prizes at at Exhibition.

COMPETITION KEEN.

Madrigal Singers Win in the Ladies' Quartette Contest.

One of the most successful events in the entire program of the Made-in-Canada Fair was the choir competition, held in Murray Street Church, starting at seven o'clock last evening, and in turn, one of the features of that competition, was the splendid record made by the choir of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Peterborough, in winning three silver shields, emblematic of first prize in as many classes, as well as a silver shield in the ladies' trio contest. In addition, a quartette from the same choir won a bronze shield, emblematic of second prize in the ladies' quartette.

Reflecting a world of credit upon Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., organist and choir leader of St. Paul's, this record was far from being approached by any other organization competing, but at the same time, as the judges declared afterward, the competition was particularly keen and revealed many individual artists, what with such well known musical bodies entered as St. Paul's, Trinity United, Trinity United of Bowmanville, George Street United, St. John's, the Madrigal Singers and the Choral Union.

Ladies' Quartette.

The first contest scheduled was that for ladies' quartettes, there being two entries, namely, the Madrigal Singers' quartette, trained by Dorothy Allan Park, and St. Paul's Choir quartette, trained by Mr. Chenhall. The Madrigal Singers group emerged victorious, with a total of 85 points, thereby winning the silver shield, while their competitors won the bronze shield with 80 marks. In this event, both groups revealed the results of remarkably capable training of unusual talent, and the judges and large audience could find little to choose from between the two.

Music Contest Results

While the results of the regular competitions, held in the church during Wednesday afternoon, were not available, the results of the morning were as follow:

(G.M. means gold medallist; S.M. means silver medallist.)

Class 31, Cornet, 18 years.—G.M., William Sartell of Weson, 90 marks; S.M., Adrian Louw, of Toronto, 88 marks.

The other event for small group singing was the ladies' trio contest, carried over from the afternoon. In it, the name of St. Paul's was again prominent, for the trio from St. Paul's Choir won the silver shield with 80 points to its credit.

Eighteen Members and Under

Class 15, set aside for choirs of eighteen members and under, was scheduled for 7.15, and in it the choir of St. John's Church obtained 75 marks, to win the bronze shield. In so doing, the choir, under the leadership of Mr. Mann, proved itself a well-balanced one and possessed of many fine choral voices.

Class 13, for choice of 29 members or over, was perhaps, the biggest event of the night in point of entries, and at its conclusion, the contestant were announced as winners in the following order.

St. Paul's Choir, winner of silver shield with 88 marks; leader, Martin Chenhall, A.R.C.O.

St. John's Anglican Church, with 79 marks.

Mixd Chorus Contest

Sixty voices and under was the regulation governing Class 16, for mixed choruses, the entries being St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Trinity United Church, and the Choral Union, comprising singers from George Street and Murray Street Churches, under the leadership of G. F. Liddle. They emerged in that order, with 88 marks, 80 marks, and 78 marks, respectively, and in so doing, provided some of the best musical work heard in the city for some time. Thus St. Paul's won yet another silver shield, while Trinity was presented with the bronze shield.

LEADER OF CHOIR.

MARTIN B. CHENHALL, A.R.C.O. Organist and Choirmaster of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, whose choir won three silver shields, emblematic of first placements in the choir contests of the Made-in-Canada Fair, held last night in Murray Street Church. In addition, a ladies' trio from the same choir won the silver shield in the trio competition, and the quartette, under his leadership, won a bronze shield for second in the ladies' quartette competition.

NINE DANCERS ENTER CONTEST

Daniel O'Brien Wins First Prize in Step Dancing Contest.

MANY SPECTATORS.

A well-attended event at the Kiwanis Fair last night was the Step Dancing contest, held in the band room at the Armories and entered by a large number of contestants who included Messrs. Bud Cruikshank, Orval Wainman, William McIntyre, Walter Orde, Sidney Ferguson, Walter Fitzgerald, Edmond Leonard, James Sullivan and Daniel O'Brien.

Judges for the evening were George Wesley and David Quinlan. Prizes were awarded to Daniel O'Brien of 262 Hunter street who received the first award of $10, to Walter Fitzgerald (second prize of $7) and to William McIntyre (third prize of $3).

A great deal of interest was manifested by the spectators, who filled the big room to overflowing. Excellent music was provided by attendant violinists, playing for the various contestants, who stepped to merry tunes, with agility and skill that made it difficult to award the prizes. H. J. McCannan was in charge of the contest, assisted by H. Girven.

BAND PARADE.

Harmonica Outfit Will Play On Principal Street Corners To-night.

Weather permitting, the Kiwanis Club's Harmonica Band will engage a truck this evening with a piano, and will play on several of the principal street corners of the city.

The parades scheduled for this Band during the week were called off on account of rain. The organization hopes to be able to give the citizens a sample of their music this evening.

Cat Show Attracts Very Large Entry Aristocrats Are To Be Found In the Armouries

The steady meowing and contented purring of numerous cats can be heard in the west wing of the Armouries to-day. The Cat Show in connection with the Kiwanis Fair has gathered perhaps the largest number of prize puzzles that have ever appeared in the city. There are well over one hundred entries consisting of the best cats of this locality and many prize winners from Toronto and other centres.

All the aristocrats of Catdomania gathered in the band room for the big show. There are many large fluffy Persians and also the equally beautiful and proud Angora breed are numerous. Then there are many varieties and colours of the short-haired type, some perfectly marked tigers, greys, fawns and tabbies.

The DeLaval Co. are exhibiting a beautiful black cat, the pride and boast of the shops, and the mother of 42 kittens.

FAIR MIDWAY GIVES THRILLS

Four Attractions Between Armouries and Collegiate Worth Visiting.

PLEASANT RIDES.

Not the least important part of the Produced-in-Canada Fair activities is the midway, situated between the Armouries and the Collegiate Institute. The Joyland Shows, whose calliope has been a familiar sight on the streets all week, has four attractions particularly pleasing to the young folks but none the less attractive to grown-ups as well.

First is Fun on the Farm, any person not knowing how young ladies take their pleasure would judge by the screams that it was a terrible place, but closer attention shows that the shrill sounds really express pleasureable thrills at the maze through which they have to find their way.

Rather unusual in type is the fine merry-go-round which carries many happy riders. Instead of being like a huge solid wheel with the horses mounted thereon, it sits almost flat on the ground, but the ride is just as enjoyable.

The swinging rings are a familiar sight to midway patrons, and those erected at the Armouries are of the usual type. They please those who get a thrill out of a dizzy swing over the heads of the spectators and are well patronized.

Looking far smaller beside the huge Collegiate than it would towering over the tents of an ordinary midway stand, the ferris wheel is possibly most patronized of the four attractions. It is well handled and maintains a good speed, with stops less frequent than is often the case with this pleasant ride.

Altogether the four rides provide plenty of thrills and form an attractive adjunct to the big show.

ZEPPELIN MAIL REACHES CITY

G. Whittaker and Co. Receive Letter From Bremen By Air.

COSTS FOUR MARKS.

G. Whittaker and Co., Barrie Building, received in yesterday's mail a letter which came from Germany on the Graf Zeppelin. The letter was mailed October 5, but did not leave Germany until October 11. It bore a special stamp, of four marks value, showing the big Zeppelin in flight over the earth. A sticker, which shows how wartime animosities are dying out, was attached to show that the letter was to go by air mail. It reads:

Mit Luftpost
Par Avion.

A rubber stamp mark, also on the face of the envelope, specifies that the letter is to be carried on the huge dirigible, reading: "Mit Luftschiff LZ127 befordert."

The letter was from a firm in Bremen, with which the local company deals, and was entirely complimentary in nature, reading:

"We profit by the opportunity of the new airship's (Graf Zeppelin) first crossing the ocean from Europe to America in sending you by this way our best wishes for a further development of relations between your country and Germany at our mutual satisfaction."

This morning Colonel Ackerman showed The Examiner a postal card, showing the Zeppelin, while on the correspondence side, the sender, R. Schultz, of Friedrichshaven, Germany, has written under date of October 11, 1928: "Regards by the first air mail between Germany and America. — Yours very truly, R. Schultz."

MUSIC PLAYED BY COMPOSERS FEATURE IN WOMEN'S SECTION

Mrs. W. E. Groves and Miss B. L. Tamblyn Give Own Works.

MISS CHAPMAN SPEAKS.

Women's Editor of Ontario Farmer Gives Interesting Talks To Women.

A musical interlude, with composers of words and music present in person, was an interesting portion of the program in the Women's Section of the Produced-in-Canada Fair, yesterday afternoon and evening. These addresses for women are held in the South West Room at the Armories and are presided over by Mrs. W. R. Morris. They are very interesting and give an illuminating insight into ideas with regard to women's work and ideals.

Miss Ethel M. Chapman, Women's Editor of the Ontario Farmer, Toronto, was the speaker yesterday, giving an address in the afternoon on "Constructive Work For Women's Clubs" and in the evening on "The Master Home Maker."

Mrs. W. E. Groves and Miss Bertha Louise Tamblyn of Toronto, were special attractions on yesterday's program. Mrs. Groves, who is a member of the Toronto Board of Education, is better known, perhaps, as the composer of charming songs for children, while Miss Tamblyn is one

Zeppelin Stamps Much Sought After

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (Canadian Press).—The cancelled stamps on the envelopes and postcards brought to this country by the Graf Zeppelin are causing keen competition among stamp collectors and dealers, with $3 being reported quoted for the four mark stamps on envelopes and $2 for the two mark stamps on postcards. Post office officials said the Zeppelin's mail consisted of fifteen sacks containing 28,124 letters and 37,590 postcards. They said arrangements probably would be made for the dirigible to carry mail on her return trip.

PARADE POSTPONED.

Horse Parade Will Be Held Tomorrow Evening.

Due to the wet weather the horse parade in connection with the Kiwanis Made-in-Canada Fair had to be postponed again. If the weather is fit the parade will be held tomorrow.

Latitude is said to have been first determined by Hipparchus of Nicæ, about 162 B.C.

CANADIAN ENGINEERS IN SESSION

R. L. Dobbin, Manager of Local Utilities Commission Attends.

IN MONTREAL.

Recommend Higher Standards For Entrance Into the Engineering Institute.

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 18 (Special) —Ross L. Dobbin, manager of the Peterborough Utilities, and a councillor of the Engineering Institute of Canada, was included among the leading engineers from all over Canada, who yesterday concluded a three-day plenary session of the Council held in Montreal under the chairmanship of Julian C. Smith, vice-president and general manager of the Shawinigan Water and Power Company, president of the Engineering Institute of Canada for the present year. Mr. Dobbin, in the course of a brief interview with the Examiner, explained that the meeting was held largely for the purpose of discussing of problems common to the engineering profession throughout Canada, the representatives being from widely scattered areas in the Dominion, bringing a wealth of variety of experience to bear in the consideration of difficulties.

Meeting Fruitful.

At the close of the meeting yesterday it was stated by the president that the deliberations had been extremely fruitful in ideas and much data of great interest and value was laid before the councillors and members. One of the questions brought up concerned the standard of entrance of the Institute, the consensus of opinion being in favor of a higher standard, thereby bringing it more in line with the Institution of Civil Engineers of Great Britain. It was pointed out by T. L. Louden, M.E.I.C., Toronto, chairman of the Employment Service Bureau, that there has been considerable demand for men in some branches of the engineering profession, and that there were fewer younger men available for mechanical work and structural design. This was a condition that might change at any time, he pointed out, and when such a change occurs the Bureau will be in a position to meet the increased demands for assistance.

Hamilton was decided on as the location for the next annual meeting of the Institute on February 13, 14, and 15.

PLANE'S TANK FOUND AT SEA

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 18.— (Canadian Press.)—A fuel tank believed to belong to the French Latham plane in which Roald Amundsen and five companions are presumed to have perished in an attempt to reach the survivors of the ill-fated dirigible Italia has been found.

The motor boat Keif arrived at Waldersund with the tank last night, having found it on Saturday at latitude 84.52 north, longitude 3.50 east, about two hundred miles north of Christiansund, Norway. It was capable of holding six hundred litres of fuel but contained only thirty.

The motor boat is due at Trondshjew to-morrow, where the tank will be examined by experts.

Jury Finds That Knox Shot Himself; Can't Say Who Shot Woman

Letters Written Before Death Indicate Intention of Both To Commit Suicide Coroner Points Out in Summing Up.

EVIDENCE OF C. G. E. EMPLOYEES SHOWS KNOX AND PACEY AT WORK ALL MORNING

Husband and Father Tell of Finding Bodies Lying on Bed—Dr. Fraser Says Bullet Wounds Caused Death—Many Citizens Unable To Get Into Court.

"We believe the evidence submitted shows a suicide pact." These words concluded both verdicts returned last night by the jury in the double inquest into the deaths of Mrs. Lottie Pacey and George Rupert Frederick Knox. A revolver shot in the forehead was found to be the cause of death in each case, but the jury could not decide, from the evidence, who shot Mrs. Pacey. Knox's wound was declared self-inflicted.

A letter by Mrs. Pacey to her brother, William Farr of Orillia, was the only evidence submitted which had not been made public, except for the statements of fellow workmen of Rupert Knox, the boy's father, and Thomas Pacey, the woman's husband, regarding the presence of the two men at work on the morning of the shooting.

The inquest attracted great attention. Before the doors were opened there was a line-up extending nearly to Simcoe street, and when the few public seats of the police court chamber, where the hearing was held, had been filled there were still several score people unable to gain admittance. Many of those who did crowd in had to stand, but remained patiently until the jury retired at 9.35.

The jury required 45 minutes to reach a verdict.

Two Letters Read

Mrs. Pacey's letter and that left by Knox were written on paper of the same kind, a bluish paper with a pink border. Hers was in ink and his in pencil. The boy's letter was filled with references to "Lottie" whereas Mrs. Pacey's spoke mostly of money matters and her love for her husband. Mrs. Pacey's writing showed signs of mental strain, being very difficult to read at the end, while the boy's was firmly written and properly punctuated to the end. Mrs. Pacey's letter read:—

"Dear Bill—Forgive me if you can. Tom had his chance last night to make me happy but I guess I have failed him so often and can't save the way he would like me to. Be good to him and don't fret about me. God will understand and forgive me. It is the last thing I am asking. I love you all so much and I can't face Tom again for I have gone behind. See that my expenses are kept small so Tom will have enough to settle everything and then he can make a fresh start. My last earthly love to you all and the dear kiddies and Helen. I can't write poor Tom, but he will understand I love him.—'Lottie'."

George Knox wrote:

"Dear Dad:—Please forgive me and try to forget me. You may get someone in a few years who loves you and will make you happy. We've had lots of good times together and I have to see you again someday. Don't hate me or Lottie because we both love each other very dearly. I can't give her to Tom. I've loved her for a long time now. In fact I adored her when we first met. O, dad, try to understand and don't blame us too much. I pray that God will have pity on us. Please bury me near Lottie and don't take me far away. Keep my gun and remember me by it. Give my love to mother and Aunt Cora and all my friends. God bless you and keep you Dad. You have been a good father to me and maybe I haven't appreciated you as I should. Try to forgive me and pray for me. Lots of love and x x x x x. Your loving son 'George'."

Rupert E. Knox.

Rupert E. Knox was the first witness called. He described his share in the activities of the fatal day. He had called for Pacey at about 7.45 that morning. He had walked right in, as was his habit, and seen Mr. Pacey. He had inquired about his son and Mrs. Pacey and was told they were both in bed. He left the revolver for which his son had asked on the table in the hall and drove to work with Mr. Pacey.

His son had been ill since Sunday, and he had called on him every night. On Thursday, the night before the shooting, they had played cards while waiting for Dr. Moir to call. When the doctor had come Knox was about to leave and was standing in his son's room with Mrs. Pacey. George said, "Dad I'd like to take your gun." Witness asked him what he wanted it for and he said to practice with it. Witness said, "I'll buy you a rattle," as he did not think it would be good for the

WAIT ANXIOUSLY FOR LONE FLYER

Nothing Heard From McDonald Since He Left At Noon Yesterday.

WIFE WAITS UP.

LONDON, Oct. 18 (Canadian Press). —Watchers on this side of the Atlantic to-day were having an anxious wait for Lieut.-Commander D. H. McDonald, attempting to span the Atlantic alone from Newfoundland, in a tiny moth plane, a feat never before accomplished.

At 6.56 a.m., eastern standard time, there had been no reports of his progress since hopping off from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, yesterday. Unfavorable weather was reported off the Irish coast. He had been in the air almost 19 hours, and one despatch said he had fuel for only twenty hours.

Commander McDonald's wife sat up all night in her Kensington apartment waiting for news of her husband, while her baby son slept peacefully. At seven o'clock this morning she fell asleep ,thoroughly exhausted.

Others who waited anxiously for news of the lone airman were acutely conscious of the fact that he had no wireless equipment, and that the only possibility of hearing from him on his 1,900-mile voyage was the chance of his being sighted by some ship which would report by radio.

The keenest lookout was kept along the Irish coast, which was where the first glimpse of his tiny machine might be expected. Weather conditions there were none too propitious, with squalls of rain. Visibility was poor.

Some thought it possible that if he reached Ireland safely and was going well he might have decided to keep on to England.

NEW YORK, October 18 (Canadian Press).—Salient facts on the Gypsy Moth De Havilland biplane in which Lieut.-Commander H. C. McDonald took off from Newfoundland for England follow:

It is the smallest plane in which the long ocean flight ever has been attempted.

It has an open cockpit, thereby exposing its lone pilot to the elements. The majority of previous ocean flights have been in cabin planes.

It has a wing spread of only thirty feet, and when folded this is reduced to nine feet ten inches.

Its weight when empty is 895 pounds.

Its single motor is a four-cylinder of 85-105 horsepower.

It carries no wireless.

Weather Improves.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Oct. 18 (Canadian Press).—Weather conditions along the Irish coast, which had been unfavorable for the landing of Commander H. C. McDonald, were much improved at midday.

Tralee reported that the weather was growing calmer and that visibility was much improved. While it rained nearly all morning, the strong wind had moderated, and conditions generally were better.

No News At St. John's.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Oct. 18 (Canadian Press).—Up to 10.30 this morning there had been no further word or sign of the Gypsy Moth plane since it left Harbor Grace yesterday. Watch was kept until after midnight and beacons were ready to be lit in the event of Commander H. C. McDonald's return. He carried one hundred gallons of gasoline, which he stated would enable him to re-

Stresses Importance of Farm Industry

LARGE CLASS TAKES PART IN JUDGING

J. Y. Kellough Addresses Farmers' Stock Judging Competition Banquet.

HELD AT MILLBROOK.

Standings Obtained in Day's Competition Announced By Chairman.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Oct. 18.—The Junior Farmers' Stock Judging Competition for Durham County was held here on Tuesday, October 16, and was an outstanding success in every particular.

The young competitors came from all parts of the county, and numbered sixty-five as against sixty last year when the event was at Bethany. The approximately twenty cars used for conveying the junior judges practically 'held up' the men working on the new pavement in the village as they drove to the different farms. The judging of grains and fruits took place in the town hall in the afternoon and was not completed until after 7 p.m. The entire event was under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture with Agricultural Representative J. Y. Kellough in charge.

The farms visited in connection with the competition were: W. W. Kennedy for Polled Angus (beef) cattle; W. Fred Fallis for Holstein (dairy) cattle. Clydesdale horses were also judged at "Windermere Farm" (W. F. Fallis); L. W. Smith's for Shropshire ewes; and for Plymouth Rock poultry; and Arthur Fallis' for bacon hogs. The farm owners who gave the use of their premises were presented with complimentary tickets for the banquet held in the Armouries, when the judging competition was completed, covers being laid for over eighty guests, and every chair being occupied when places had all been assigned.

Catering was done by the local branch of the Women's Institute evidently to the satisfaction of everyone judging by the complimentary references made by the various speakers when, later in the evening, they were addressing the gathering.

Runners of bright red centred the three long tables, fall flowers and foliage, with bowls of rosy-cheeked apples, making appropriate decorations.

At the head table were seated J. Y. Kellough, who acted as chairman; R. S. Duncan, B.S.A., Director of Agricultural Representatives of Ontario; F. W. Bowen, M.P., A. J. Fallis, ex-M.P., Professor J. H. Neilson, Extension Horticulturist for Eastern Ontario, W. H. Witners of Lindsay, Agricutural Representative for Victoria County; Walter Reynolds, B.S.A., of Port Hope, Reeve G. A. Hootan, and Deputy-reeve R. J. McKnight, of Cavan, and W. M. Croskery, of Uxbridge. The member for Durham, W. J. Bragg, M.P.P. of Bowmanville, was unfortunately not able to be present.

The Banquet Program.

The toast to "The King" appropriately opened the program of addresses, and following the National Anthem the chairman called upon the judges in the various classes to announce their placings and reasons. W. M. Croskery had charge of the competition in Clydesdales, and in potatoes; in the former class the correct placing was: 2, 4, 3, 1; in the latter, 2, 3, 4, 1. M. H. Winter had poultry and barley, the order in the first instance being: 3, 4, 2, 1; in the second 1, 2, 3, 4; W. Reynolds, B.S.A., gave the placing in the Polled Angus cattle, and in alfalfa, as follows: 2, 4, 3, 1; 1, 3, 2, 4. J. H. Neilson announced for the apples: 1, 3, 2, 4, and expressed himself as being well pleased with the work the boys had done in this class; J. Y. Kellough, who had charge of the sheep and oats classes, gave placings as: 2, 4, 1, 3; and 2, 3, 4, 1; D. McKinnon, and O. McConkey, of Peterborough, had looked after the ratings in the bacon hogs, and Holstein cattle, respectively, their findings being announced by Mr. Kellough as they could not remain for the banquet; the hogs stood: 2, 1, 3, 4; the dairy cows, 3, 2, 1, 4.

The chairman, in his address, stated that he considered the junior farmers had done better with their reasons and placings than the class of a year ago, and extended the thanks of the organization to the farmers who had provided the stock for the contest, and also to the Women's Institute for the excellent repast which has just been so thoroughly enjoyed.

Large Class.

Solo Flier Faces Fuel Shortage Danger; Plane Has Capacity For 35 Hours' Flight

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 18.—(Associated Press).—London thrilled to the news that Commander H. C. MacDonald had hopped off from Newfoundland on a trans-Atlantic flight in a tiny Moth aeroplane. Because of the size of his machine and his own limited flying experience, the attempt was hailed as probably the most intrepid air exploit ever undertaken. British airmen found it hard to believe that their comrade was in real earnest and not making a short test flight.

They pointed out that the Moth machine was supposed to have a fuel capacity for 35 hours flight, it was a question whether this gave enough margin of safety. The experts figured that MacDonald would run a big risk of finding himself without fuel if he met unexpected headwinds or other delaying factors on his route to Ireland.

The flier took up aviation after he retired from the navy. But he established a reputation for daring, and last May, after only 16 hours training in dual flights and ten hours of solo flying, started for India by air. He got only as far as Bagdad, having experienced a slight accident on the outward trip. He had another accident on the homeward journey and made a forced landing in the desert. He was held prisoner by an Arab tribe until he got a message through to civilization when an Italian armored car went out and rescued him.

On his present attempt his skill in navigation gained in the navy was thought likely to be of great advantage to him.

Cranked In Reverse Car Breaks Window

(Examiner Correspondence).

HAVELOCK, Oct. 18.—As the result of being cranked while in reverse gear, P. Pincombe's sedan car backed across Ottawa Street from the C.P.R. Station, where it had been parked, and crashed into A. Aboud's store, breaking one of the plate glass windows. The accident occurred directly after the arrival of the Port McNichol local on Monday evening. Mrs. Mulvihill of Arnprior and Mrs. Pincombe, who were in the back seat of the car, were uninjured. The car was brought to a stop when one of the front wheels was broken off when it struck the sidewalk, or more serious damage might have resulted.

Campbellford

(Examiner Staff Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, October 18. — Mr. and Mrs. Forest Dennis, Mrs. Maude O'Sullivan, and Mr. and Mrs. Dennis, of Marmora, have returned from a motor trip to New York City.

Venerable Archdeacon J. C. Davidson, of Toronto, visited the rector and other friends in this parish yesterday.

Harold T. Rutherford left for Toronto this morning to interview Charles Cowan, the prospector who was with Joe Rutherford at the time of the latter's death. Mr. Cowan, it is stated, is at present undergoing treatment at the Toronto General Hospital, and Mr. Rutherford hopes to be able to get some first hand information regarding the circumstance surrounding his brother's tragic death. Mr. Rutherford does not wish in any way to discredit Mr. Cowan's story, but he refuses to believe the worst till the last ray of hope vanishes. In conversation yesterday, Harold Rutherford recalled the fact that his brother had been in many seemingly hopeless situations before. He expects to return from Toronto this evening unless something more definite is learned. While in the city he will also call on Frank Horn, well known Porcupine engineer, and a personal acquaintance of Joe Rutherford. They were both employed at Dome Mines for several years together. Harold Ruthereford hopes to find the story which Cowan will tell him and the knowledge of the north country which Horn will impart, of some definite use to him.

YOUNG PEOPLE ELECT OFFICERS

Rev. Henry Carter Gives Interesting Address on the "Case Against Alcohol."

NEW MEMBERS JOIN.

There was a large attendance and keen and active interest in the Young People's rally held in George Street Church yesterday afternoon and evening. The theme was "On Active Service," and the purpose was to marshal the young people in an active fight against alcohol.

Forty-five registered in the afternoon session. Many good points made to help the growth of young people's societies. Vocal solos were contributed by Miss Olive Howland and Leonard Agnew, with Miss Alda Bartlett as accompanist.

Rev. Henry Carter of London, England, made a strong address on the "Case Against Alcohol." He disclosed many instances of alcohol lowering the ability to work and success of people in Great Britain and the great moral and weakening effects of strong drink. He drew apt illustrations of the degraded acts a man will do while under the influence of alcohol, acts that would repel him with loathing in his normal condition. He closed with an urgent plea for all the young people to sign the pledge, not only to help themselves in fighting the influence of the traffic but also others.

H. Monker of Bethany made a final request for the signing of the pledges.

332 NURSING DAYS AT APSLEY OUTPOST

Twenty-five Patients Admitted and Eleven Babies Born There.

APSLEY, October 18. — The report of the Red Cross Hospital at Apsley for the year ending September 30, 1928, shows that there were 332 nursing days during that period. Twenty-five patients were admitted, and eleven babies were born in the hospital. Fifty-six out-patients were also given treatment, the whole of the cases coming from the County of Peterborough. Three deaths occurred in the hospital.

The above statistics, prosaic though they be, amply justify the establishment of this nursing outpost, and as its work becomes more widely known, so will its value be the more appreciated, and its advantages made use of.

INDIGESTION TORTURE.

Pain and Suffocating Pressure Until Tanlac Brought Relief

Only those who are tortured by Indigestion cramps after eating, and suffocating pressure of gas, can realize the relief, the joy, which came to Mrs. Odelie Langlois, as Tanlac freed her of every trace of Stomach Trouble.

For 25 years, she suffered. "Food was like poison," she writes from 710 Arthur Street, Windsor, Ont. "It would cramp me and gas would bloat me up so I could hardly catch my breath, and I would become dizzy and faint. I became so weak and nervous that my daughter had to do my housework. I spent enough on treatments to buy a home; and it almost breaks my heart to think that I did not use Tanlac before. Because four bottles of this grand medicine made me a well woman. I could feel the very first spoonful helping me; and now after only four bottles, I have regained my health and strength. My husband also used Tanlac for Kidney Trouble and it has made a new man of him."

If you are suffering, don't wait. Get Tanlac today. It is pure and good—and it must help you or your money will be promptly refunded. It costs less than 2c a dose—less than 6c a day to get well. Ask your druggist.

The church choir, under the leadership of Mrs. J. A. Young rendered several musical numbers in fine style. Miss Mabel Paul presided at the organ. A thankoffering of $160 was received during the day.

WOULD BUILD OWN CANAL

Providing Negotiations With Canadian Government Fail, Says Kellough.

ST. LAWRENCE PROJECT.

ST. PAUL, Minn., October 18 (Canadian Press)—If connection between the Great Lakes and the Atlantic Ocean by the St. Lawrence River does not materialize after negotiations with the Canadian Government, the United States Government will construct an all-American route through the State of New York, declared Hon. Frank B. Kellogg, Secretary of State, in addressing a luncheon meeting of the Ramsey County Women's Republican Club yesterday.

The Coolidge administration favored the project, and Herbert Hoover, the Republican presidential candidate to succeed President Coolidge is in favor of the St. Lawrence route, the Secretary said. He said the United States was doing everything it could, "but no canal can be built on the international section without the co-operation of both Governments."

In view of the magnitude of the project, Mr. Kellogg said he believed the Canadian Government was giving to the project all the attention which the United States could reasonably ask. He said he had no doubt the construction of the St. Lawrence Canal and the power connection therewith would be as valuable to Canada as to the United States.

"I will not undertake to go into the details of negotiations with Canada which are still pending," Mr. Kellogg said. "Canada has problems connected with this improvement which undoubtedly require the most careful consideration."

Rich Though Undeveloped.

Mr. Kellogg said Canada had in the North-West a rich agricultural empire, timber and mineral wealth yet undeveloped, and he believed the Canadian Government would work out the problem in the interest of its people.

"It is not for the United States to dictate or to advise Canada in this regard, but to be ready to co-operate with her at an early date and on a generous basis for the development of one of the great waterways of the world," he said. "The people of the West, and I think of the whole country, are earnestly desirous of constructing a canal to connect the Great Lakes with the ocean. If it cannot be done by the St. Lawrence route, it will be done by an all American route through the State of New York. I know that Mr. Hoover places the highest importance upon the development of our waterways and is in favor of the construction of a canal to the ocean by the St. Lawrence route. Mr. Hoover has not in the least changed his mind in relation to the great importance of building the St. Lawrence Canal. In response to a letter from Senator Vanderberg of Michigan, he reiterated his position not only that he was in favor of the St. Lawrence Canal, that it was a great and urgent undertaking and that the project would cost less than one-third of the shortest route through New York State and the power developed may cover the entire cost. Personally I am in favor of the St. Lawrence route, the engineers have demonstrated its practicability and it is very much cheaper than any other route which can be built. Of course, the St. Lawrence project cannot be built without the co-operation of the two countries, and if that project fails the all-American route must, of course, be considered. I have taken too much time in discussing this question, but I know of no economic problem of more importance to the people of the United States and especially the people of the far North-West."

OFF AGAIN.

It's been one thing after another this year for Sir George Hubert Wilkins, the Australian explorer, above. The first dream he realized was to cross the Arctic wastes in an aeroplane. For the exploit he was knighted. Then he jumped into the matrimonial sea. Now he is off for his jumping-off point in his south polar aerial expedition. His bride of a few weeks he leaves behind.

CROPS WERE POOR.

Great Amount of Rain Spoiled Grain and Potatoes.

(Examiner Correspondence).

BONARLAW, Oct. 18. — Crops at Bonarlaw were below the average this year. Grain did not turn out nearly as well as was expected, owing to the rainy weather. It has been very difficult to harvest buckwheat. Corn is a fairly good crop. Some complain of corn borer, but as yet very little damage has occurred. The potato crop is a complete failure owing to there being so much rot. Some farmers are not harvesting them at all.

There is a great scarcity of beef cattle at present, and milk cows are very high in price.

Fall plowing is the order of the day when it is not raining.

Pastures are looking good and new seeding is excellent.

MILLBROOK MAN INJURED BY FALL

Harvey Sanderson Hurts Ankles When He Falls With Timbers.

Harvey Sanderson of Millbrook was badly hurt around the ankles while working at the Millbrook Station yesterday afternoon. Sanderson was on the top of an elevator which is owned by the construction company that is paving the streets in Millbrook. In removing some of the structure of the elevator he fell, and as he dropped on the ground some of the timber came down on top of him, striking him around the ankles. Dr. Herbert Young, who rendered medical aid, had his patient moved to St. Joseph's Hospital last night.

School Boy Gangs Battle With Guns

CHICAGO, October 18 (Canadian Press).—School boy guns dropped Orville Brandy, 14, during a fight in front of the McKinley school on Tuesday. The boy was dangerously wounded. Police said the shooting occurred during a gang fight between boys in their early teens and that the gun was fired by a student who is being sought.

THE WEATHER

Meteorological Office, Toronto, Oct. 17.—A moderate depression is centred to-night over Illinois and another is moving eastward across Manitoba, while pressure has increased over the northern districts of Ontario and Quebec. The weather has been unsettled with showers from Ontario eastward and showers have also occurred in a few sections of the western provinces

Probabilities

THE WEATHER

Continuous rains are not conducive to an optimistic spirit, but like all things mundane, they will have an end. Anyway the rain is not general. This morning when listening to a radio health exercise talk from New York, the announcer said: "Throw open your window, let the beautiful sunshine in, and breathe deeply of the fresh balmy air." So the sun still shines—some places. Rainfall last night .74 (or ¾ of an inch). Highest temperature yesterday, 72 degree; lowest last night, 56 degrees.—W.P.

BARN DAMAGED.

MADOC, October 18.—About four o'clock on Monday afternoon a fire alarm was rung in. The barn belonging to F. Dafoe on East St. Lawrence Street was on fire, caused, it is supposed, by spontaneous combustion. After great efforts on the part of the volunteer firemen, the fire was extinguished, the loss being two loads of hay completely ruined and the damage done to the barn in effecting entrance for hose lines.

Dies In Flames To Save Family

MONTREAL, October 18. — Notwithstanding the pain of the burns which later resulted in his death, Joseph Beaudry, aged 37, pluckily plunged back into his burning home on Moutier Street on Monday, rescued his invalid wife, and four children, and then returned to extinguish the fire single-handed. He collapsed, and was sent to the hospital, where he died.

Coroner Prince heard the story of his heroism on Tuesday, and found a verdict of accidental death. The wife and one of the four children were slightly burned, and were treated at the hospital.

Why— Children need BOVRIL

Children need Bovril to fortify them against cold and illness. Bovril is the best of the beef in its most concentrated and digestible form.

The special body-building powers of Bovril are due, partly to the actual nourishment in Bovril itself, and partly to its unique power of enabling the human system to derive far greater nourishment from the ordinary diet. It assists development and increases stamina. Give the children Bovril every day for a month and note the difference.

The Body-building powers of Bovril have been proved by independent investigation to be from 10 to 20 times the amount taken.

GET TO THE BOTTOM OF THIS.

Attorney-General Price is well advised in asking for an inquiry into the charges made by an ex-member of the Provincial Police that he was discharged from the force because he was too zealous in his attempts to enforce the Liquor Control Act in Waterloo County.

The ex-constable declares that influence had been brought to bear in interference with the enforcement of the L.C.A., and that his conscientious efforts to carry out the provisions of the Act had resulted in his resignation being requested.

In rebuttal of these accusations Alfred Cuddy, acting commissioner of Provincial Police, states that Brien was not dismissed for the reason alleged, and that if the former constable desires the cause to be made public the correspondence in the department dealing with the case will be published.

The matter should not be allowed to rest there.

If there has been interference in the carrying out of the Liquor Control Act the facts should be made known, and those responsible for the condition dealt with.

On the other hand, if the charges are made out of whole cloth the Provincial Police Department should welcome a chance to tell the public the real story behind the allegations that have been made.

THE MUSICAL COMPETITION.

The musical competitions in connection with the Produced-in-Canada Exhibition have been one of the most successful features of the big event, and have revealed once more the vast strides in musical development that are being made in this community.

The number of competitors in most of the events and the splendid talent and ability shown have most favorably impressed the adjudicators, whose comment throughout has emphasized the very excellent showing made by the majority of those taking part.

Following upon the successes scored by Peterborough musicians at the Canadian National Exhibition, the showing made in the local competitions is particularly gratifying in the light it throws upon the ability of Peterborough musicians and the thoroughness of Peterborough teachers.

The element of competition promoted by such contests undoubtedly contributes greatly to musical development, and the educational value of the various competitions both for competitors and audience is not to be lightly estimated.

The success of this department of the Produced-in-Canada Exhibition justifies a hope that it will be an annual event.

FIVE YEARS IN PENITENTIARY.

A sentence of five years in the Kingston Penitentiary inflicted upon a London motorist convicted of manslaughter in connection with the death of a pedestrian should cause reckless drivers everywhere to reflect upon the chances they are taking.

What happened in this particular case might happen to any one of those irresponsible individuals who drive as if they alone had any right to be on the highway or on the city street.

They invite disaster by their recklessness and carelessness, and in view of the drastic penalty inflicted by Mr. Justice Logie it might be well for them to stop and consider what lies before them.

Having to face the responsibility of the death of another as well as imprisonment for years in the penitentiary is a fate that most people would eagerly shun, but there are some motorists who appear to be able to shut their eyes to all danger and to ignore all consequences.

The London judgment should constitute a very effective warning to all such drivers.

Perhaps the knowledge that a long term in prison is a possible result of recklessness may serve to alter their driving technique.

PUT THEM TO WORK.

Mr. Justice Raney's suggestion to the grand jury at the Belleville Assizes that they should interest themselves in the matter of employment for the prisoners confined in the County Jail there, is worthy of attention from county councils throughout the Province.

Justice Raney informed the Belleville jurors that in the Kingston jail where the prisoners were kept busy in the manufacture of tile for use on the county roads $3,300 was earned last year by the inmates.

Similar provision for employing prisoners has been made at Ottawa, and there are the only two jails in Ontario that provide a revenue.

When it is realized that there were 20,578 prisoners in the county jails last year and their maintenance cost $321,000 the reasonableness of Mr. Justice Raney's suggestion that such prisoners should be put to work at something that would be revenue-producing desires consideration.

In the case of prisoners in the Peterborough County Jail no revenue whatever is obtained from this source.

Putting inmates to work would be a good thing for the prisoners themselves and good business for the county as well.

THE NEW INDUSTRIAL GOSPEL.

Lord Melchett, better known as Sir Alfred Mond, is emphasizing in addresses in the United States the gospel which he has promoted in England of the desirability of the co-operation of capital and labor. He does not claim to preach it for moral or humane reasons. He argues simply that it pays. Pays everybody. Will pay Great Britain particularly. Is necessary, indeed, to keep British capital and labor in the world running. "Without that policy," he tells an American audience, "we in Great Britain cannot hope to combat the tenser and tenser competition which Great Britain is facing abroad, and which will tend to intensify rather than slacken."

Great Britain had a desperate experience in the great coal strike of 1924. That strike is estimated to have cost the country fifteen hundred million dollars in loss of wages and business. Nobody benefited in any way. Nor was the direct loss all. Owing to the interregnum in nearly all industry, British business abroad lost a great deal in foreign markets which it has never got back.

So the fact that strikes do not pay is a powerful argument to use in Great Britain. There has come there a realization more vivid than ever before to both capital and labor, that amity and co-operation in industry between capital and labor is profitable in the long run to all concerned. And if this is so, the principle must mean a profit anywhere, not merely in the British Isles. The moral is as good for Canada as for England. It is as good for the United States as for England. It is good everywhere.

And it is beginning to be pretty generally practised in the English-speaking world—except in Australia.

In Australia alone, of all the English-speaking countries, a dominant part of labor continues to be actuated by the idea that it can help labor by smashing other people. The idea is not working well. Year after year, Australia revels in strikes. Nearly every year sees a vast economic loss to the whole people. Yet no perceptible gain accrues to labor. The Australian worker is no better paid than the worker in Canada, which has been remarkably free from great strikes. The public debt of Australia is greater than that of Canada. The trade of Australia is barely two-thirds that of the Dominion. General prosperity in Australia, by all accounts, is not upon nearly as high a plane as in this country.

Strikes are merely a species of war. Like all wars, they are costly to both sides no matter who wins. There was an era when often strikes were necessary to secure justice to the worker. That era is past. There was an era when wars were sometimes justifiable in national defence. The common sense of the nations of the world is militating to prevent war by preaching conciliation and abitration. The common sense of the industrial world should militate the same way. Fighting is poor business for anybody if avoidable.—Ottawa Journal.

ACROSS CANADA.

Warden Anthony A. Marentette, returning from the annual convention of the Dominion Good Roads Association in Regina, expresses the opinion that construction of a trans-Canada motor highway will materialize within a few years. The ideal received the support of all the delegates at Regina and it is proposed, at the next session of Parliament, to ask the support of the House of Commons to link up the various provincial units of the Dominion-wide scheme. No little assistance will be required, of course, from the Federal Treasury.

For several years the idea of having a first-class highway from Vancouver to Halifax, striking most of the leading centres en route, has been uppermost in the minds of those interested in road development. The work that has been done by the various Provinces has now reached a point that renders possible serious consideration of the all-Canada plan. The fine roads developed in Ontario and Quebec, for instance, would form part of the trans-continental highway. On the Prairie Provinces, of course, a great deal of work would have to be done, and it is there that Federal assistance would be chiefly required. In the older Provinces the large populations and heavy American tourist traffic permitted the development we now have. On the prairies, however, the number of taxpayers is relatively small and it is only fair that the whole country should assist materially in putting the trans-continental road through and linking it up with the fine highways now in use in the older parts of the country.

Canada is losing much by having no well-developed motor road from coast to coast. Our own people, driving from East to West or the other way 'round, find it necessary to use U. S. routes for a considerable portion of the distance. This means, of course, that the country loses the benefit of all the traveling that is done on the American side. It means also that visitors are denied the privilege of touring from coast to coast across Canada. We miss the revenue that would accrue to us in this way, and we also lose the opportunity of displaying the greatness of our country to thousands of persons who would like to come.

In this connection it is well to remember that a tourist should be viewed not only as a man who may spend some money while passing through the country, but, in a large number of cases, as a potential citizen of the Dominion. There is no doubt that large numbers of Americans who have moved to Canada or made investments here, have done so as a result of the impressions they secured while, in the first place, making only a holiday visit. With this in mind, then, one can easily appreciate how important it is to continually increase the number of visitors. Every motorist who crosses the international line is a possible new resident of Canada. And if he does not come over later, it may be that something he will say, some question he may answer, will have the effect of sending a friend or acquaintance to Canada. The value of word-of-mouth advertising is not to be discounted. It is important. If you doubt it, ask the politicians.

Canada will have taken another great step forward when all the obstacles are smoothed out and our trans-continental motor highway is open for business. A large part of it is already in use. There is no reason why the gaps should not be filled in. The work will cost a lot of money, it is true, but money well spent in improving roads is money used to good advantage. Make no mistake, the expense that we must have in connection with the trans-Canada road will be returned to us in direct and indirect benefits many times over.—Border Cities Star.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVE STOCK

TORONTO, Oct. 18.—Light runs this week, with a few good cattle, are creating a better feelink for finished stock. Poor quality remain slow.

The few choice steers and heifers bring $10 to $10.50. Heavy steers are little desired. Buyers look for good handyweight butchers.

There is a good market for choice baby beeves at $14 to $15. Medium $11 to $12.

Cows are steady at $8 to $8.75 for choice. Medium bring $6.25 to $7.

Bulls are unchanged at steady prices. Heavy choice bulls at $7.50 to $8, and the best butcher bulls at $7.50 to $8.50.

The bids received on springers were considerably lower yesterday morning. The offers placed for the best was $110, as against previous sales for Tuesday at $125.

Buyers look for choice calves weighing up to 200 lbs. Fancy veal brings $16, choice sell for $15 to $15.50. Runs still are of poor quality.

Lambs are receiving bids at $11.75. No sales have been made this morning. Buyers give the explanation that the lambs are carrying extra weight due to the soaking they received in the heavy downpour of last night.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., October 18 (Canadian Press). — The export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday was again quiet and the only business transacted was the sale of a few cars of barley and wheat to the continent. The trade in the local cash grain market was also inactive, but values were unchanged.

Prices for all grades of spring and winter wheat flour were firm, but the demand was only moderate.

A moderate amount of business was done in millfeed and the undertone was steady. Rolled oats were quiet, but firm.

The demand for all grades of fresh and storage eggs was fair and the values were well maintained. Receipts were 344 cases.

The potato trade was fairly active, and Prince Edward Island best grade Cobblers sold at 85c to 90c per bag of 90 pounds, f.o.b. Montreal, and New Brunswick Green Mountains at 80c per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, with Cobblers at 75c per bag, ex-track.

There was no change in imported beans with choice white hand-picked selling at $4.40 to $4.60 per bushel, ex-store.

Little business was done in butter, but prices remained stationary. Receipts were 171 packages.

An easier feeling developed in cheese, and prices were reduced a fraction. This was attributed to the limited demand from local and foreign buyers. Receipts were 6,109 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, October 18 (Canadian Press). — Prospective shipments of winter wheat from the west and south-west to Chicago did a good deal yesterday to pull down wheat values here. Another decided bearish influence was word that low grade Canadian wheat had been found equal to Duluth No. 1 Northern in the making of flour.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ¾c to ⅞c to 1c net lower. Corn finished at ⅝c to ⅞c advance, oats unchanged to ⅝c to ½c up, and provisions showing 17c to 70c drop.

Lowest prices of the day in the wheat market came after announcement that important interests had bought wheat at Omaha and Kansas City to be forwarded to Chicago.

This wheat is additional to other purchases of wheat from Duluth and appeared to indicate that Chicago would be likely to build up a liberal stock of hard and spring wheat before the close of navigation. Simultaneous reports that weather in Argentina is of a kind tending to promote development of rust failed to act as a counterbalance, no advices having been received which would imply that any rust in the southern hemisphere is near to a danger stage.

Relative cheapness of low grade Canadian wheat attracted special notice yesterday on account of assertions that demand for this kind of wheat abroad is diminishing the export possibilities of United States wheat, and is conducive to serious backing up of supplies in domestic markets.

Talk was also current that elevator space north-west is nearing a state where some relief must be found to avoid congestion. Meanwhile, export business was slow yesterday for wheat from North America. Minneapolis wheat stocks showed 2,425,000 bushels increase for four days.

Activity and strength characterized the corn market. Likelihood of continued export demand, together with belief that farmers would not sell freely, gave impetus to buying. Besides, corn belt weather was unfavorable for conditioning the new crop. Oats derived firmness from the upward trend of corn. In the provision market, scattered selling disclosed a lack of any particular demand.

DEMANDS INQUIRY.

A thorough and public examination of his administration while he was Governor of Rome has been asked by Prince Spada Potenziani (shown herewith), who recently pinked Prince Lancelotti in a duel because the latter had spread reports of graft during Potenziani's tenure of office. Additional reports following the duel show that the duellists had been waging a hot controversy for months and that at one time Cardinal Gasparri, Papal Secretary of State, had been drawn into the discussion. It is stated that last spring Lancelotti had spread reports that Potenziani would be removed from the governorship and stated that his information came from Gasparri.

ever entered in a judging competition in the county, and he believed that this was one of the best things done in junior farmers' work. Some of the activities of the past year were outlined, the fact being noted that the rural school fairs had shown a decided advance over those held in 1927; mention was made of the inter-county debating series, in which Durham had won from Ontario county and then from Victoria, and is entitled to enter the finals with Prince Edward county; the latter, however, has not yet set the date when the event is to take place.

Mr. Kellough announced the County Bacon Hog Show, to be held at Orono on Friday, October 26, and urged interest and attendance; prizes will be in cash, from $10 down to $3.00 in five classes, and an opportunity will be afforded to buy young breeding stock of fine quality, at market prices.

The Short Course, to be held in Millbrook from January 7 to February 13, 1929, was also announced, and co-operation and assistance asked for; this course is being arranged for both boys and girls, and will be of undoubted benefit so that the advantages of attendance cannot be too strongly emphasized.

F. W. Bowen, M.P., was the next speaker, and after expressing his pleasure in being present, went on to point out that there were opportunities for the young farmers of to-day that were totally lacking twenty-five years ago. He believed the competition afforded by the judging contest was an educational feature of high value, and congratulated Mr. Kellough on the splendid service he is rendering

The prominent place which is accorded Durham county in the province, especially from an agricultural standpoint, was dwelt upon, and the problem of marketing was taken up briefly, its absorbing importance being pointed out from many angles. Mr. Bowen urged a continuance of the course of study, and the competition already entered upon, "and I am assured you will bring added lustre to Durham's position." (Applause).

Reeve G. A. Hootan spoke of his personal interest in the work of the junior farmers' organization, and extended an invitation "to come to Cavan any time." He believed that there is no better place for young Canadian manhood than on the farm and said that he was always glad to meet the boys and to give them any encouragemenf or assistance in his power.

Deputy-Reeve R. J. McKnight expressed his pleasure in the large number of boys who had taken part in the judging competition, and looked upon this as a promise of further loyal support, and continued growth. He recalled the class of 1914, under R. S. Duncan who was then Agricultural Representative in Durham County, and referred with gratitude to the help it had been to him, the knowledge gained having been of practical value ever since "I believe there is nothing so useful in stimulating the interest of the boys in the farm like a good competition, and a well-conducted short course."

Applause was generously given to all the speakers; the next called upon being A. J. Fallis, who mentioned especially his personal interest in rural activities, farming have a place of primary importance in the prosperity and development of the country. Referring to the first short course ever held in the country under R. S. Duncan, Mr. Fallis said he had helped to gain members for the class, and was assured the good work had been going on ever since. Contrasting the farming industry with others, the service rendered by the farmer was stressed, and the boys were urged not to speak disparagingly of the farm, but to attach to their calling the dignity and importance which is its right. The problems connected with rural life Mr. Fallis insisted can largely settle themselves without going to Parliament about them; education being the medium emphasized. "Be in love with your calling and you will succeed, and be ready to say 'Long life to the farm'."

Percy Philp, of Nestleton, who won a trip with other junior farmers to the International Live Stock Show at Chicago last year, gave an account of his visit to the "Windy City," and the last, but by no means the least speaker of the evening, Mr. R. S. Duncan, B.S.A., of Toronto, was asked to address the gathering.

Given Ovation

Mr. Duncan, who had been the county representative from 1912 to 1917, was given an ovation when he rose to speak, and expressed himself as being delighted to accept the invitation to meet once again with the young farmers of Durham County.

Looking over the audience Mr. Duncan singled out for special mention some members of the first short course class ever held in Durham, which he had organized during his term of office—J. H. Might, Wilfrid Elson, R. J. McKnight, Leonard Henderson—"all good boys, who are now, as men, making a name for themselves in their calling. I believe the years spent in Durham County were among the happiest of my life, because I had the unstinted support of the older people, and the interest of the younger ones, and this spurred me on to the best that was in me. I believe also that you have in Mr. Kellough one of the best agricultural representatives in the province today." (Applause).

Urging a continuance of the competitive work in which the boys had that day been engaged, the speaker said: "Agriculture is the basic industry of our country, and good livestock is the cornerstone of success in agriculture. After what you have learned to-day you should be able to select the animals that will yield the greatest profits on the farm."

Dr. Duncan devoted the major portion of his address to a description of the trip taken by representative Canadian farmers to Great Britain and Denmark last winter, when marketing problems and demands were studied at first hand, and much information of practical value obtained. The trip was very happily arranged by Canadian National Railways, and the party was received with every courtesy during the time spent abroad. Visits were made to the large stock farms, including that of King George of Windsor, and the big packing plants in the United Kingdom, and many social events were planned in their honor Their Majesties King George and Queen Mary, receiving them at Buckingham Palace.

Intensive farming was studied in Denmark, education standards and methods, together with problems of export and import, and of emigration. The publicity which Canada had received as a result of the tour could not help but be beneficial in helping both immigration and trade. Sending nothing but the very best products to the market in the Old Country was especially stressed by the speaker.

As a concluding feature, announcement of the standing obtained in the day's competition was made by the chairman, the secretaries, however, not having time to make up the list of the ten boys who will have a trip to the Royal Winter Fair in November; this information will be supplied in the immediate future. The list, as given, was as follows:

Where a boy has won a prize in one class it eliminates him from carrying off the honors in another; announcement in regard to this ruling will be made by Mr. Kellough when making final arrangements with the competitors.

LIQUOR REVENUE PREVENTS DEFICIT

TORONTO, Oct. 18 (Canadian Press) A Toronto paper yesterday said that only the sale of $8,000,000 worth of liquor has saved the Ontario Government from facing a deficit on the year's operations and that a considerable portion of the liquor revenue will go to balance the expected $2,000,000 shrinkage in succession duties.

Last year the revenue from succession duties amounted to more than $5,000,000, while this year, the newspaper says, revenue from this source will be somewhat lower than $3,000,000.

The report says the revenue of the Lands and Forests Department will decrease from $3,500,000 to about $2,000,000 following the government's decision to cut down the sale of timber unless its disposal was essential in keeping mills open and men employed.

Expenditure has jumped, the newspaper states, and the account for highway construction will show an increase of $4,200,000 to about $8,000,000, necessitating the imposition of the five cents a gallon tax on gasoline foreshadowed by Premier Ferguson.

"I Like this Rub-less way My clothes are whiter hours are saved"

"I'M not nearly so tired over the washing now. My work has been practically cut in half."

Rinso makes such rich suds that the dirt and grime are actually soaked out!

No boiling—and but little or no rubbing. Just rinsing. Yet clothes couldn't be whiter. And because hard rubbing is avoided they last longer.

EASY ON THE BATH

LONDON, Oct. 18—Londoners do not take a daily bath. That is most of them don't. Statisticians say the average consumption of water for all purposes is only 36 gallons per day per person. They further estimate that the average bath requires 50 gallons. So that if everyone took a daily bath the consumption would be 14 gallons greater per person, not taking into consideration the soup kettle and the lawn sprinkler.

SUN DIAL DEDICATED.

Memories of two great Canadians, Sir Edmund and Sir William Orler, were recalled in Dundas, Ontario, their birthplace, with the unveiling of a memorial sun dial at the Ellen Osler Memorial Home to the late Lieut.-Col. Charles and Mrs. Gwyn. The latter was a sister of Sir William and Sir Edmund. Photo shows the Bishop of Niagara blessing the sun dial.

WOMEN! READ THIS ALOUD TO YOUR HUSBANDS

There are many men who are old long before their time. They may not "look" old; but they have lost the old time fire and "pep" that made them so attractive in years gone by.

In many instances, they themselves have not noticed it, or they may have passd it by as just a temporary condition which would soon right itself. Oftimes it is no fault of theirs—sickness, sorrow, overwork, any of a hundred things may have caused this condition. They are too young to be "old" because old age is a condition of the body as much as it is a matter of years—science has proven this and science has found an easy way out for many men in this condition.

After long and careful research, there has been produced a little lemon-colored tablet called ERBAC (please remember that name—it may mean much to you) which, when taken regularly according to directions, goes straight to the CAUSE of many of these conditions. ERBAC is not a "cheap" remedy. Bond and other druggists are selling it for Two Dollars a packet. But a packet contains a supply for twenty days and every reputable druggist sells ERBAC with a positive guarantee of money back if you are not absolutely pleased with results.

For your own sake and for the sake of your family, don't you think you ought to look into this at one? Go to your druggist. Get a packet of ERBAC and start right in taking it. Notice how, after a few days, the old time sparkle comes back to life, how the virile "pep" which enables you to do things suddenly manifests itself. Then tell all your friends about ERBAC and what it has done for you.

NOTE: While ERBAC is a perfectly safe and harmless combination of scientific ingredients, it is not intended for children. But many women have been taking it and are reporting remarkable results.

JOINT-EASE For Stiff, Swollen Joints

Rheumatic Or Otherwise

Says: "When Joint-Ease Gets In—Joint Agony Gets Out."

It was a high-class pharmacist who saw prescription after prescription fail to help hundreds of his customers to get rid of rheumatic swellings and stiff, inflamed joints.

And it was this same man who asserted that a remedy could and would be compounded that would make creaky, swollen, tormented joints work with just as much smoothness as they ever did.

Now this prescription, rightly named Joint-Ease, after being tested successfully on many obstinate cases, is offered through progressive pharmacists to the millions of people who suffer from ailing joints that need limbering up.

Swollen, twingy, inflamed, stiff, pain-tormented joints are usually caused by rheumatism, but whatever the cause Joint-Ease soaks right in, through skin and flesh and gets right to and corrects the trouble at its source.

Remember Joint-Ease is for ailments in the joints, whether in ankle, knee, hip, elbow, shoulder, spine or finger, and when you rub it on, you may expect speedy and gratifying results.

It is now on sale at Bond's Drug Store, McDermid & Jury, McDermid Drug Co., and druggists everywhere for 60 cents a tube.

QUARTETTE HERE FOR ANNIVERSARY

Will Sing at St. James' Church On Sunday and Monday.

A special attraction for St James' church anniversary on Sunday and Monday, October 21st and 22nd, is the "Galt Maple Leaf Quartette." This quartette consists of H. T. Hengelwood, first tenor; E. F. Hetherington, second tenor; C. MacGregor, baritone; and L. C. Fleming, basso. It has been going strong as a concert organization for fifteen years and has had repeated engagements in a great many cities and towns of Ontario. They have sufficient repertoire to stay in the same place for eight consecutive nights and give a first class concert without repetition. They have also broadcasted from Toronto and Hamilton. There is no quartette in Ontario that can render a more pleasing program. The program consists of sacred music suitable for any Sunday service and a high class program of solos, duets, quartettes, readings, and humorous Scotch songs for the Monday evening concert.

This is a splendid opportunity for for the music lovers of Peterborough to enjoy a real treat.

main in the air for twenty-four hours.

England Waits

All England and Ireland awaited anxiously to-day the coming of Lieut. Commander H. C. McDonald, retired naval officer, who is flying in a little Moth plane across the Atlantic.

Hours passed without word of the airman who had hopped off at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, at 11.51 eastern standard time yesterday morning, and when a circle of twenty-four hours had been completed and no news of sighting of the flyer from sea or land was received, grave anxiety began to take place of the pride over the intrepid adventure.

None of the watchers along the west coast of Ireland caught a glimpse of the Gypsy Moth. Hope continued that McDonald might have passed over his objective point in Ireland and proceeded onward.

There is a question hre among aviation authorities as to the distance Commander McDonald would be able to fly with the amount of gas he had aboard and the time he could remain in the air. Some fix the period of time at twenty-four hours, which would mean that he must have already come done somewhere. Others place the time limit at thirty hours, while there are some who venture the belief that he could remain aloft for thirty-five hours.

Plane Seen

A wireless message from the steamship Hardenberg by way of the Leviathan, reporting the passage of an airplane, presumably that of Lieut.-Commander S. C. McDonald shortly after midnight Greenwich time, was received here to-day. The message read: "Airplane passed steamer Hardenberg Latitude 53.29 North longitude 41.35 West 00.30 Greenwich meridan time."

The time given in the Hardenbergh message was 7.30 p.m. Eastern standard time last night, seven hours and thirty-nine minutes after the Gypsy Moth Haviland of Commander McDonald had taken off from Harbor Grace on a solo non-stop flight to Great Britain.

The position of the plane at that time was north of the Great Circle course to England and Ireland, and was aproximately 840 miles east of Belle Isle. The position was much further north of the course than he would normally follow from Harbor Grace, but was on the direct course between Belle Isle and Fastnet.

The position of the plane indicated that Commander McDonald up to that point had been making an average of about 100 miles an hour.

MUSIC PLAYED

of the few Canadan composers of the same type of songs for juniors and also has the added distinction of putting her own words to music. It was a keen pleasure to the audiences of yesterday to be able to hear these two distinguished women.

Miss Chapman.

Miss Chapman, a speaker of ease and grace, possessed of a very attractive form of address, gave a very fine address in the afternoon, on "Construction Work for Women's Clubs." Her subject matter covered a wide area in its delineation of the work awaiting the enthusiastic club woman.

"There is sometimes a tendency toward the spectacular rather than the fundamental in the work of women's clubs," was one of the introductory sentences. "I would like to draw your attention this afternoon to some of the unseen things."

The problem of maternal mortality, the support of outpost hospitals and the subsidizing of physicians to work among the isolated communities, were recommended as initial endeavors. This matter of subsidizing doctors is being considered at the present time, and is being done in nineteen places in Manitoba, although Ontario has not yet fallen in line.

Women should strive to give their support to the efforts of the public health nurse and lend aid to women in far-off sections who have little to lighten their humdrum lives. Miss Chapman here interjected a little story of a woman in the mountains of British Columbia, whose wish for many years as the possession of a white flannelette nightgown. Finally, she achieved her desire, and had enough money saved up for the purpose. She bought the goods—and then used it to line the coffin of a neighbor who had died in childbirth.

Speaking of the aid which can be offered in the immigration problem, Miss Chapman referred to the preeminence of many foreign-born children in artistic, musical and scholastic endeavors, and wondered if our own Canadian-born children had too many other attractions to allow of keeping their attention on their studies.

The furtherance of Canadian literature ("although all Canadian books are not good books. Some of the worst books I have read have been written by Canadian auhors"), the watching of unsavory literature from the other side of the line, and encouragement of interest in the peace program of the world were further endeavors recommended to the attention of women by the speaker.

The Home Maker.

In the evening, Miss Chapman gave another entertaining and instructive address based on the subject, "The Master Home Maker."

"Woman is the "Master Home Maker" of the world, and in her hands lies the conduct of its affairs and the strings that lead to so many of the occupations outside its doors.

In the hands of the home maker lies the power of encouraging and aiding the endeavors of those who come to her for help and advice. She can assist and forward the interests of husband and children, and she can mould their opinions, so that they may be a great force in the outer world.

Miss Chapman alluded to the power of a mother's example in her little story of a man who was sent to the penitentiary for embezzlement. His mother had given him confused standards of right and wrong. One of his earliest memories was of an occasion when she had accepted too much change from a clerk in a store and used the money to go to a matinee and enjoy herself.

"The master home maker has the hardest job in the world, and one of the noblest." Miss Chapman quoted the words of Marjorie Pickthall's little poem: "When the Master had grown weary of calling souls from sin, He went homeward in the twilight and His mother let Him in," and finished her discourse with a reference to a man who was much harassed and troubled in his dealings with the world. Asked how he could preserve his sanity and cheerfulness under such conditions, he replied: "I am very happy at home."

Mrs. Groves.

Mrs. Groves gave a brief, poetically worded address that brought to her listeners a bright picture of the fairyland world where the little child lives. In musical language, she interpreted the child's reactions to various things which are paramount in adult eyes and read some charming bits from her own book, entitled "The Kingdom of Childhood." They were dainty small compositions entitled "Dear God, Keep Me Always Young," "The Blueberry Pie," "A Toast to Children,' 'and "A Prayer for the Children."

One of the most entranced of Mrs. Groves' listeners was a tiny boy who occupied a front seat and dwelt lingeringly on every word.

Miss Tamblyn.

Miss Tamblyn played with graceful ease and charm her own beautifully-toned musical settings for the little songs written by herself and by Mrs. Groves. Several things from her own book, "We Are Seven," were given. Her numbers included "The Quarantined Army," a whimsical thing all about the children who had the measles; "The Dusty Dusters," "Shushing Her Grandma," a lullaby in "Hush-a-By Baby," the "Fishin' Song,' 'and "The Wasted Crust,' 'the cute bit about the uneaten crust that came to haunt the unhappy child through night hours.

FINE ADDRESSES GIVEN ON MUSIC

Dorothy Allan Park and Winifred Hicks-Lyne Speak During Festival.

CONTEST RESULTS.

On Wednesday afternoon, the music competitions in connection with the Made-in-Canada Fair, continued in Murray Street church and in addition, two splendid papers were delivered by Dorothy Allan Park of Peterborough, and Miss Winifred Hicks-Lyne, soprano soloist of St. Paul's church, Toronto Their subjects, "What to Look For and Appreciate in a Singer" and "Essentials in Singing" held a wealth of instruction not only for the student but the music lover who has had no training in musical pursuits.

Dorothy Allan Park.

"I have touched only the fringe of this tremendous subject but at least we have mentioned some of the more obvious points of interest. We have decided that our own pet singer must have—

Firstly—Voice and the ability to use it.

Secondly—Sound musicianship.

Thirdly — An instinct for beauty, embracing education and interpretive powers.

Fourthly— Personality and charm and histrionic ability.

Thus spoke Dorothy Allan Park in a summary of her very interesting discussion of what to look for and appreciate in a singer. Coming from one who has an enviable record, not only as a soloist but as a teacher of many clever vocal students, her auditors in Murray Street church yesterday must have realised that here were the five essentials, an adherence to which must have accounted largely for her success as a musician and teacher.

"We must grant that what the audience looks for first is voice. A voice cannot be created and nobody should feel pride upon merely possessing a beautiful voice—it is a gift of rare value but comparatively useless unless subjected to the rigorous discipline and wise guidance of a real teacher," said the speaker, in beginning her discussion. "Secondly, let us have a real musician. The amateur cannot, but the trained mind can tell after a few bars whether the singer understands the song musically or only vocally. There is a tremendous difference(for to the possession of a fine voice must be allied a sound musical knowledge if success is to be attained. Why singers should be allowed to play musical murder with all the rhythmic beauty of a great composition has always been beyond me. A singer can gain her effect and still retain the musical form desired by the composer.

"Thirdly, grant our imaginary singer education, intelligence and instinct for beauty. Singing without brains is a most monotonous business and the canaries do that sort of singing beautifully without pretending to be anything but birds. Without that instinct for beauty, no singer ever wins success because a singer must portray the beautiful thoughts of great poets, color the music of mighty composers and forget self in the elevation of performance. Beauty of tone is, of course the goal to which all singers worth the name are ever struggling and who sacrifices beauty of one to blatant 'red-faced' singing is without that instinct for beauty of which we spoke.

"Fourthly, our singer must have that indescribable something called personality or charm. Many a fine singer suffers through a lack of the vital something that 'clicks' with her audience. She must have histrionic ability, as a whole program of songs, sung with no acting ability, becomes tedious. A singing actress is regarded as a necessity on the concert platform to-day.

The singer who impresses the audience with a feeling of her own importance rather than with the beauty of the song she should be trying to portray, fails in one of the first essential of a singer, for an absolute absorption in the song being performed is necessary before an audience reacts. The public in intensely antagonistic to the self-satisfied singer and lucky indeed is the individual who can manage to convey this silent message—'I am here to do my best to interpret this beautiful music, having worked hard to achieve I hope you like it. A mock-modest manner is equally distasteful—one is bound to feel surprise that some ultra-diffident performers should ever wish to emerge from obscurity. There are so many contradictions facing the student of deportment, that the arrival at the front of the platform is sometimes the worst feature of the performance.

"Fifthly, our singer must have a real zeal for hard work and a genuine love of the art of singing, but those are attributes that the audience does not know or care much about—hearing merely the results of hard work—so I shall spend no time on these points.

"There can be no beautiful tone without beautiful diction for pure speech and warm tone go hand in hand. Spare a moment's sympathy for the singing teacher who has to evolve beauty out of a maiden who sings about 'Oingeels aver broight aund fire,' for speech must be beautiful in singing—the vowels must be rich and warm, the consonants soft and clear. Therefore, watch the singer's diction and if her speech is distorted, she again fails in her mission. I once heard singing described as an 'attractive way of expressing a beautiful thought.' I am afraid we can all remember singers who fail to portray much thought about anything.

A singer's intonation must be perfect, for if the voice is anywhere but in the middle of the note, it is very distressing. Singing off-key can usually be cured by correct production, but the person possessing a defective ear, that is, a complete inability to tell when away from the not, would be better off studying some other branch of art."

Essentials of Singing

Emphasizing the value of music in the general community, in the home and to the individual who studies it, Miss Hicks-Lyne's address was listened to with a great deal of interest. As an introduction to that phase of it, singing, she stated that singing appeals to the hearts of all, and the human voice is the most eartly understood and appreciated, even among unmusical people. "All good music is uplifting and instructive to the whole of mankind, but somehow, the soul behind the voice is what makes singing so helpful," said Miss Hisks-Lyne.

Modern Trends

"Personally, I adore all kinds of music, provided of course, that it is good," she continued. "I am afraid I do not appreciate jazz, but that is a matter of taste. Perhaps I am not educated up to it. It may have a charm all its own for some people, but surely that is an acquired taste and to my mind is rather the outcome of the general unrest in the world at present. It reminds me of the futuristic pictures."

At another stage in her address, the speaker referred to the radio as making many people lose the desire for study since they can, without any personal effort, get all they want by pulling out a plug and turning a disc or handle. "I believe, of course," said she, "that the radio is of the utmost value so long as one gets good music, for it brings to the people such music as they rarely get in their own homes—great artists, singers, pianists, violinists, cellists, wonderful orchestras, magnificent bands, to say nothing of the instructive lectures which all tend to develop the mind and improve the taste for only the best.

"I have no doubt that I am talking to a great many students of singing who are at the beginning of their musical careers, and I therefore want to pass on a few words to them in particular," said Miss Hicks-Lyne. She then went on to stress the main essentials in songs—strong physique, healthy vocal organs, uninjured by vicious habits of speech, a true ear and a talent for singing and artistic temperament—not temper. Proper training, in all that the term implies, was declared the essential for proper development of those natural endowments. Breath control, diction, interpretation and style—all these were discussed by the speaker in a manner most helpful to the student singer.

At the Christening of the Duchess of York

A charming photograph of H. R. H. the Duchess of York taken upon her arrival at the Clyde with the Duke of York to christen the newest of the Canadian Pacific Duchess liners. The Duke, speaking after the ceremony, said that the occasion was the first time a member of the Royal Family had sponsored a merchant vessel. The progress of Their Royal Highnesses through the yards was headlined in Britain as a "tour of cheers". The Duchess insisted on seeing everything connected with the vessel herself, crawling under the keel and making a very thorough inspection. At luncheon after the launching, Sir George McLaren Brown, European general manager of the Canadian Pacific, presented her with a souvenir copy of a booklet showing pictures of the launches of the four Duchess steamships, including on the front page a photograph of the launch by Her Royal Highness of the vessel which carries her name.

NIGHTS OF ECSTASY IN AISLES OF ILLUSION AT THE GRAND THEATRE

A Reminiscence of the Seasons When Road Shows Were Numerous Back to the Opening Night of "The Yankee Consul"—Maude Adams, Cyril Maude, Viola Allen, Some of the Stars Who Are Cherished Memories.

The re-opening of the Grand Theatre recalls other Septembers and their glowing anticipations of Thespian entertainment. Lists of booked attractions were announced by the management to an avid and expectant public, who waited impatiently for the season's first night with its glamour, its illusion, and pleasant social atmosphere. The early evenings and their shadows seemed to hive the people, like moths, into the cheery radiance of the streets lamps and the blazing signs. Summer and its expansiveness and its dispersiveness had gone. Its resorts were chill and almost deserted. Home again, we turned to new diversions, and none more appealing and releasing and temporarily transporting than the playhouse.

Such recollections remind us that the Grand is ageing a bit. It has become a place of memories, a sentiment intensifying "that remembrance of things past" which haunts us all when we begin to be aware of the passing of the years and our changing condition. Thanks to the enterprise of Mr. Rupert Bradburn, now of Los Angeles, brother of Mr. W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., the Grand was built in 1905. Prior to that year Mr. Bradburn's opera house was the somewhat extravagant and pretentious name of the third floor auditorium now known as Victoria Hall. Perhaps the proprietor became tired of the stair exercise and at the same time realized that Peterborough was about ready for a theatre that would accommodate the available and numerous shows. His contemporaries still hope that his investment was profitable, for to the people, at least those who were theatrically minded, it proved a recreational boon whose value becomes more and more appreciated as we progress through the amazing stages imposed by modern invention upon a helpless, inarticulate and apparently acquiescent and highly approving public.

Who could ever have imagined in the enthralling nights of "The Yankee Consul" that the theatre would become disintegrated to the degree that seemingly intelligent persons would sit alone and listen to the mere voices of actors hundreds of miles away. However, the ways to disembodied, impersonalized drama has been prepared by the dumb, mimic drama (etc.) of the screen. And the film companies have prospered so richly that they can pay a reputed star a salary which for just one week would have kept an old road show together indefinitely.

The last days of the old theatre are apocryphal to those of us who were still at school. Names like Guy Brothers and May A. Belle Marks emerge faintly from the vistas of the old gaslit stage, at least the gas jets were ensconced at each side of the arch, although they may not have been used. But the songs, dripping sentiment, who could forget them! "She's Only a Bird In a Gilded Cage" there was a knockout in all its banality. "Just Break the News to Mother", the quintessence of pathos; likewise "While the Convent Bells Were Ringing" and "On the Banks of the Wabash."

Crude and cloyingly sentimental they were, but at any rate they were not the vulgarities that Tin Pan Alley puts out and over to-day, as for instance the "Hot Mama" vogue of hits—"You Gotta See Mama Every Night Or You Can't See Mama At All."

Elsie Janis Came This Way.

Elsie Janis in "The Little Duchess" opened the Lindsay Theatre on October 16, 1905, and quite a number of Peterborough enthusiasts went up for the occasion which was just as gala as the opening of the Grand here on November 15, just a month later. The house-warming attraction was the musical comedy that made Raymond Hitchcock famous, "The Yankee Consul." Reuben Fax had the titular role, but of more subsequent accomplishment was Vera Michelena, who was a star for years. Every song was a hit. They are still fresh and tuneful, even with radio repetition and a byword was the phrase "Ain't it funny what a difference just a few hours make," a bit of philosophy adorned with melody. Other songs were "In the Days of Old," "My San Domingo Maid," "Cupid Has Found My Heart."

Who can recall the second show? It was a drama, "The Crossing" by Winston Churchill, the American novelist who was a best seller at that time. In Christmas week came "The Serio-Comic Governess", a delightful comedy with music.

The theatre was dark until January 25, 1906, when "His Highness the Bey" arrived with such song hits as "Sweethearts of Boyhood Days" and "In Kankakee"; and then of February 8 "Peggy From Paris" with Arthur Deagon knocking the gallery for a row of encores with a surprising tenor. For weeks after many a parlor re-echoed "Lil My Easter Lily". The song "I'm the Only Star That Twinkles on Broadway" is remembered as one of the cleverest divertisments ever seen locally. Arthur Deagon died a year ago while rehearsing a new Cohan musical comedy.

Eva Fay's Flattery.

Eva Fay, an alleged clairvoyant, was here on February 22 and lingered awhile with highly satisfactory receipts. Her audiences seem to have been persuaded that she possessed some mysterious power. Some one asked her about the future population of Peterborough, and she answered: "The number comes to me 50,000 in 1915." And perhaps she got a hand for that flattering unction.

Charlie Grapewin and Anna Chance in "It's Up to You John Henry", amiable, droll entertainers, in an andante comedy with a memorable song, "The Tale of the Stroll", played on February 27 and the next night the offering was "The Sign of the Cross."

The Gingerbread Man.

"The Gingerbread Man" came to us for the first time on September 26, 1906. Eddie Redway as John Dough, Homer Lind as Fudge, Ross Snow as the king of the fairies and Gertrude Zimmer as Maisie were only a few of that splendid cast. The music was of charm all compact embellishing a quaint, tenuous plot involving characters from the nursery rhymes. There wasn't a dull, dud song in the whole score. They are still favorites in instrumental form. "John Dough," "The Land of Bon Bon," "The Evil Eye," "Old Rameses," "Queen of My Dreams" are the musical background, a collegiate night of sheer ecstasy. And the next day the classics master, who was lost to the newer school in a well deserved promotion, would, unknowingly of course, shatter the romantic fantasies of the previous evening by a Horace ode such as: "Pale death with equal foot knocks at the hovel of the poor and the towered castle of the rich."

October 2, 1906, saw the production of "Red Feather" a DeKoven comic opera with Cheridah Simpson as the star and Guy Brothers returned once more on October 4; and in between on September 28 "The Smart Set" a snappy musical show with a negro cast What a glorious week of clean, bright entertainment.

That second season had opened on September 5 with "Dolly Varden." The bright gem of the company was Lilian Spencer as Dolly. On the 15th "The Arival of Kitty" with the song hit "I Like Your Way"; the Black Dike band on the 20th; "The Shadow Behind the Throne" on the 21st; John Griffith in Richard III on the 22nd and "The Gingerbread Man" four days later.

"The Tenderfoot" another fine musical comedy with Oscar Figman and Ruth White played here April 26, 1906; Kolb and Dill were literal side-splitters in "I.O.U." They have since been in the movies for a while, and now have their own show in a snug circuit up and down the Pacific coast. They were here March 13, 1906, and on the 28th was the Lincoln J. Carter melodrama "Her Only Sin." Youths who never saw a Carter show never saw a real thriller.

Variety and Plenty Of It.

Here was another fairly active fortnight, in December 1907. On the 2nd "The Burgomaster" musical comedy by Pixley and Luders; every song a hit, the favorite being "I Love You Dear and Only You." They also wrote "The Prince of Pilsen" which never reached Peterborough. Its feature song was "The Message of the Violet." On the 4th "The Man on the Box", a comedy; 7th, "A Dutchman's Honeymoon"; 9th, "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hill"; 11th, "The Fatal Flower" and on the 14th 'Hooligan in New York."

Gustave Luders who wrote the music of "The Burgomaster" and A. Baldwin Sloane who composed the score of "The Gingerbread Man" both died within the last year or two.

Here was another tide of splendid attractions, September 1913: May Robson on the 12th, Maude Adams the 16th, and Lawrence Brough in "The Lady of Ostend" on the 20th, Fiske O'Hara in Old Dublin on September 29, and incidentaly, The Rosary on the 27th.

October 3, "The Pink Lady" a great musical comedy; October 4, Henry Stanford and Elsa Ryan in "Peg O' My Heart" and October 11, "Bunty Pulls the Strings" with Dawsey McNaughton the original Bunty. That was the autumn Connie Mack's Athletics won the world series from New York. On the 20th came Cyril Maude in "The Second in Command" and on the 27th "The Quaker Girl," with Harry Short, Victor Morley and Bernice McCabe.

This calling back the past is mainly to indicate the profusion and the variety of the theatrical fare in a one-night city before the blight of progress struck the business. And the memories of those days are crowded with such names and titles as "The Chocolate Soldier," "The Royal Chef," "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway," "Paid in Full," "The Lion and the Mouse" and especially "The White Sister" with Viola Allen in one performance in this city. And and perhaps the brightful galaxy of celebrities of the theatre ever seen that uproarious farce "Painting the Town" with Brainard and Halliday! Its fun nearly proved fatal to the whole audience, among those who nearly succumbed to the riot of laughter being two estimable citizens, Wm. H. Bradburn and Robert Dobey.

"The Time, The Place and The Girl" was the best of the Jos. Howard musical comedies seen here. Martin Harvey in "The Breed of the Treshams," Lou Dockstader and his minstrels, and a host of other figures and faces flit dimly about in the shadowland of the wings.

We still look hopefully to the three-dimensional stage where occasionally a fourth appeared and we could find much to be said in favor of the two-dimentional houses, but would that we had again those lavish days when often the curtain lifted as the orchestra swung from the overture to the opening chorus and a burst of song rolled out and swept you off to Phantasia for two hours or more when you awoke in the lobby or in the chill reality of the street and shook off the thrall of a glorious enchantment.

RICHARD HALL LIMITED

JURY FINDS KNOX KILLED HIMSELF

gun to have his son pulling the trigger a great many times with no charge in it. All three had laughed at the suggestion, out George, who was a "great boy for hunting", said, "You never let me take anything." Witness agreed to bring it over in the morning. There were no cartridges with it.

Mr. Knox said he went to work with Pacey, arriving there about eight o'clock, and stayed there until noon, when he drove Pacey home. Contrary to his usual habit, he took Pacey right to the door of the house as it was raining, and he had hardly got into his own boarding house a block away when a 'phone call came for him. It was Pacey and he said, "R.E., George and Lottie have shot themselves."

"I went over immediately," the witness continued, "and went right upstairs. I went one or two steps into George's room and saw Mrs. Pacey lying on the bed with blood on her forehead. I went downstairs and asked Tom if he had sent for a doctor. He said he had, and I asked him if he had sent for the police. He had not, so one of us 'phoned."

Witness told Mr. Hatton that he had not noticed where his son was wounded or where the gun was at the time. The door of the bedroom was open. Pacey was in the dining room when he came down stairs and gave him a letter addressed "Dad," which he identified.

Asked if he had anything more to tell the jury, Mr. Knox declared: "My boy never went with a girl; he never had a girl. It was said in the papers that he had one in Lynn. He was never there long enough just a few days between terms.

"I thought my boy had the best home he ever had. He was well taken care of in every way. I liked Mrs. Pacey very much, she was so good to him."

Recalled after Mr. Pacey had given evidence, Mr. Knox said his son could not shoot left handed. The boy had been born lefthanded but his school training had resulted in his doing everything righthanded. He had seen him try to shoot lefthanded but he had not been able to do so.

Thomas Pacey.

Mrs. Pacey, according to her husband, did not get up that morning to get his breakfast as he had told her the night before that he would get his own morning meal as she seemed tired. This procedure was something unusual to his wife as she usually got up to prepare breakfast for her husband before he went to work. He left her room that morning about 7.10 and never saw his wife alive again. Between 7.45 and 7.50 Rupert Knox called for Pacey to take him to work and they drove down to the Canadian General office together. Witness said that his wife appeared to be in good health but had been doing a lot of running around that week and he thought the rest that morning might do her good.

That morning he did not see young Knox and he spent the whole morning in his department, except for five minutes when he went to the brass department. At noon he drove home with Knox and when he tried the front door he found it locked. He then went around to the wood shed door and found it locked also so he crawled in through a hole in the shed which was used by the dog to pass in and out. The door between the kitchen and the woodshed he found to be open. When he entered he immediately went to look for his wife. He went up the stairs and when he glanced into the room at the right he saw the two bodies lying on the bed. He spoke to both of them but got no answer and then went down stairs and telephoned Knox and the clinic. Witness said that young Knox was lying on the left side of his wife and he noticed the revolver at Knox's left hand. He also saw blood stains on the clothes of his wife. After telephoning to the clinic he saw the two letters on the buffet. The one addressed to "Dad" he gave to Mr. Knox, who arrived in a very short time, and the other he put in his pocket. He identified the hand writing on one as being that of young Knox and the other as being that of his wife.

Questioned by the Coroner as to whether he had noticed if Knox was lefthanded or not, witness could not say.

Inspector Reid.

Inspector J. F. Reid received the call to the Pacey home from Mr Knox. He was alone in the station at the time but 'phoned to Sergeant Wigg and went out on the street and called Constable Thompson, with whom he drove up in the police car. Seregant Wigg arrived from his home at the same time and the three officers ascended the stairs together. They found the two bodies lying across the bed, Mrs. Pacey near the pillow end with young Knox to her left and the revolver at Knox's left side, near his left hand. Both bodies were lying on their backs. Knox's right arm was lying on top of Mrs. Pacey's left arm.

Dr. Fraser was there when the police arrived and had been trying to get the Coroner by 'phone. Inspector Reid was trying to get him when he walked in. The Inspector asked Knox some questions about the gun and was told the boy had got it from him but that he did not know where he got the cartridges. Mr. Pacey handed him a letter, which he took upstairs and read aloud to the Coroner. Dr. Fraser, Seregant Wigg and Constable Thomson. The Coroner ordered him not to let it out of his possession and he had taken it to the police station and locked it in the safe. Later that evening, in the Coroner's presence, he had turned it over to the Chief. This was the letter written by Knox.

Answering Dr. Young, Inspector Reid stated that he had seen a lot of blood on the bed around Mrs. Pacey's head and on her clothing.

Sergeant Wigg.

Sergeant William Wigg told of going up into the bedroom with Inspector Reid, Constable Thompson, Robert Knox and Thomas Pacey and there finding Mrs. Pacey and George Knox lying side by side on their backs across the bed. He noticed the bullet wound in the forehead of each and also the blood on the dress of Mrs. Pacey and on the arm of Knox. He also detected a slight sign of blood on the revolver which was lying at Knox's left hand. He did not see any blood on the floor but found a man's handkerchief lying on the bed near Knox. The handkerchief looked as if it had been gripped hard and rolled up into a string, the officer said.

Dr. G. Murray Fraser.

When Thomas Pacey 'phoned the clinic for a doctor G. Murray Fraser answered the call and was consequently the first person unconnected with the families to arrive. Mr. Pacey had directed him up the stairs and he found the two bodies on the bed with their feet on the floor. The boy was on the left, with the revolver to his left. There was a great deal of blood on Mrs. Pacey, much of it from her mouth and nose. Little blood came from the small bullet wounds he found in the foreheads.

Dr. Fraser expressed the opinion that the great flow of blood from Mrs. Pacey was because the bullet travelled downward and entered the top of her throat. The wounds were sufficient to cause death and did cause death. The pair had been dead about three hours or three hours and a half when he saw them about 12.30. There was a little blood on Knox's arm.

William Fair.

William Pair of Orillia, Mrs. Pacey's brother, learned of the tragedy at 12.45 and arrived in the city at 6.00. His brother-in-law had given him the letter, which he identified as in his sister's handwriting, and which he had handed to the police that same evening. Mr. and Mrs. Pacey had visited his home at the beginning of September, when he had noticed nothing unusual.

Douglas Bethune.

Douglas Bethune, a Collegiate student, produced an announcement on which he had seen Knox writing during school hours. They sat on opposite sides of the aisle. He compared the writing in the letter with that on the booklet and pronounced them the same.

R. E. Layfield.

R. E. Layfield, Chief Accountant of the Canadian General Electric Company, under whose supervision Mr. Knox's price-setting department comes, was in conference with Mr. Knox and John Roach from about 8.45 to 11.30, October 5, when Mr. Roach left, and was talking to Mr. Knox later than that. He did not know personally whether Pacey had been at work.

F. A. Shannon.

F. A. Shannon, paymaster of the Canadian General Electric Company, did not recall seeing either Knox or Pacey on the morning of October 5, but the time clock cards and the official records of his department, which he produced, they revealed that R. E. Knox had punched in that morning at 8.01 and out at 2.02 while Thomas Pacey punched in at 8.01 and out at 2.01.

C. P. Edwards.

C. P. Edwards, an employee in the same department with Pacey, said that he had been working with him all morning.

Lorne Wilson.

Lorne Wilson, driver for the Bredin Bread Company, told of calling at the Pacey home about 8.00 o'clock that morning. He found the front door unlocked and as he opened it he shouted "Bread." There was no answer so he shouted a second time. Again he got no answer, so he left a loaf of bread on the table. While leaving the bread, he said, he did not notice the revolver on the table.

Detective Meagher.

Detective William Meagher said he went to the house early that afternoon before the bodies had been removed and there found the two lying on the bed as the other witnesses had described. Detective Meagher also told of getting the handkerchief, which he found to have been rolled up in a string as if it had been either pulled or squeezed hard. He also showed a second handkerchief which had been taken from the pocket of young Knox and which resembled the one found on the bed in every respect.

J. C. Adams.

Joseph C. Adams who works in the same office as Pacey, saw his colleague around all morning, and did not think he left the office for more than ten minutes.

John Roach.

John Roach, foreman of the insulation department, corroborated the evidence of Mr. Layfield.

Mr. Hatton in summing up the evidence of the jury said that what witnesses had said pointed to the fact that Knox had shot himself but in the case of Mrs. Pacey evidence as to who did the actual shooting was missing.

Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young summed up before the jury what was in the two letters, pointing out that the boy's letter had mentioned Mrs. Pacey name as if some past was being entered into.

The jurors were Herbert McCannan foreman, Ernest V. Warne, Frank Dawson, Frank Jobbitt, M. J. Duffus, Frank Gray, Harold Freeman, William G. Howden, Ray Best, John Kylie, Reginal Fox and Keith Lech.

TWO GOOD GAMES AT LEAGUE OPENING

Lakefield Rink Softball Tournament Away To Good Start.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 18 (Examiner Correspondence).—The first gun was fired on Tuesday night in the autumn indoor softball league and two games were played with a good crowd present. The large crowd was very enthusiastic and apparently had many times the worth of its money.

The first game was between Cooney's team of Peterborough and the High School. Albert White of Bridgenorth was manager of the former team, and Ronald Kemp of the latter.

The visitors scored an overwhelming victory, being a well-balanced team of seasoned players, while the High School has had little practice and was not placed to the best advantage. However the game was really a workout for both teams, as the victors found the lights difficult and the reorganized High School team got its bearings.

R. C. Chittick officiated at the plate, and William Elliott at the bases.

High School.—C. Fitzgerald, p; T. W. Chaplin, c; R. Kemp, 1b; E. Kemp, 2b; D. White, 3b; J. Allen and R. Elliott, ss; N. Sherin and H. Schwark, fielders.

Score by innings:

Cooney's ..... 757273x—31
High School ..... 00114020— 7

The second game was very snappy and ran to nine innings with both teams on their toes to the eighth innings. The Bridgenorth team were trim in their navy sweaters with a white "B" on the front, and the Cement Company blossomed out in sweaters of red and green in horizontal stripes with "C.C.C. 7" in red on the front. Melville McWilliams is again the manager of the Bridgenorth team (last year's champions), and John Charlton of the Canada Cement team.

The game was a tie for the first four innings and then the visitors forged ahead with a big lead which they held. Mr. Elliott chaperoned the plate, and Mr. Chittick the bases for the second game.

The line-ups:

Bridgenorth.—L. Forsythe, p; Conners, c; H. Dormer, 1b; W. Shearer, 2b; "Hap" Bradshaw, 3b; G. Dormer and M. Wilson, ss; Baker and Gillespie, field. Subs, J. Jopling and H. Griffin.

Canada Cement Co.—E. Green, p; T. Briant, c; C. Marsele, 1b; Stonebridge, 2b; O. Abrams, 3b; D. Hill and H. W. Wingett, ss; J. Charlton and K. Junkin, field.

Score by innings:

Canada Cement ..... 002000030— 5
Bridgenorth ..... 11000001x— 3

On Friday night the Cubs meet De Laval at 7.30, and the C.C.C. boys and the High School play at 9.

BUTTER AND EGGS.

TORONTO, Oct. 18.—Dull trading and an easier feeling in a jobbing way were the principal features of the local butter market at mid-week. In the slowing-up process that has been prominent in butter trading for several weeks past, the market has hitherto resisted all attempts to lower values for finest creamery. Holders yesterday found is still harder to obtain 39¼c per lb. for No. 1 pasteurized solids, and in the small amount of business passing most sales on spot were negotiated at 39c per lb., which appeared to be the top of the market, with demand decidedly limited from all sources. Lower-grade butter is showing a little more life this week than last. With the market showing signals of easiness, some sections of the trade reported a decline of ¼c per lb. for future commitments, the retail trade for finest creamery No change is reported in quotations to prints, which are steady with last week's values.

Total exports of butter reported at seaboard for from May 1 to October 16, 1928, were 4,979 packages, against 5,181 packages for the period from May 1 to October 15, 1927.

The cheese market was again very quiet, and adhering to the easier tendencies which have taken place since the market opening on Monday. The amount of business passing was negligible. Quotations issued by the trade for No. 1 large, colored, paraffined and Government-graded range from 21½c to 22c per lb., delivered Toronto.

Cheese exports recorded at Montreal from May 1 to October 15, 1928, were 962,108 boxes, compared with 752,677 boxes shipped from May 1 to Oct. 15, 1927. London markets are steadier this week.

The local egg situation continues steady, with cooler weather, although the undertone for all grades of strictly fresh from the country is firm. Small dealers are quoting country shippers new high prices for the season for fresh gathered, larger dealers confining their scale of prices to those nominally quoted. Storage stocks are dull and inclined to easiness.

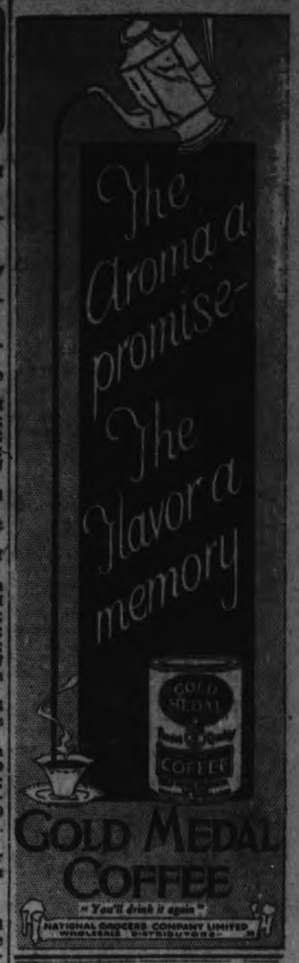
GRANTED CERTIFICATES

Two Peterborough Rangers N.C.O.'s Pass Examinations at Camp School.

Acting-Sergeant Thomas L. Griffin and Corporal F. A. Lockhart of the Peterborough Rangers are among the non-commissioned officers of the non-permanent active Militia of this district, who were granted Sergeant's certificates as a result of passing examinations at the camp school of instruction held at Barriefield in August, according to the list published in this week's district orders.

ARTIST DIES.

Mrs. McGillivray Knowles, well known Canadian artist, formerly of Toronto, died recently at her summer home at Tiverton, N. Y.



BAKERS' PRESIDENT

At the annual convention of the Bread and Cake Bakers' Association W. J M. McGroarty, of Toronto, vice-president, was named president of the association.

Taffeta comes from the Persian word taftan, which means both "to shine" and "to spin."

A "Touch" of Indigestion?

The trouble is, that indigestion may not stay "just a touch." It keeps getting worse. More gas. More pain after eating. First thing you know, you have to give up eating the things you like and go on a diet. You can avoid all this by starting in now with a morning glass of ABBEY's. For ABBEY's stops little troubles before they become big ones. ABBEY's rests the stomach; keeps it sweet and clean; helps the whole digestive tract to function in a normal, natural way.

Many people take a glass of ABBEY's two or three mornings a week, just as a preventative—to keep themselves free of a "touch" of Indigestion or Biliousness—a "touch" of Headache or Rheumatism—a "touch" of Liver or Kidney Trouble—or of any of those little ills which—if neglected—so often lead to serious troubles.

Take...

ABBEY'S
The Morning Health Salt

Like the family physician, who has won your confidence by years of priceless service, so ABBEY's has won the goodwill of thousands of users because of its absolute dependability in times of need. Today, as half a century ago, ABBEY's always comes first to mind when the use of an effervescing saline is indicated. 428

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

By MARION

Two women and girls being "done" at the Produced-in-Canada borough this winter, if one many judge by the number of HERE are not going to be many uncurled heads in Peterborough Fair.

• • • • • • •

Every day, apparently all day, the chairs are full, and most of the sitters seem to find the operation not at all unpleasant. Yet it isn't to long since permanent waving was looked forward to as an ordeal.

• • • • • • •

In the tea room upstairs, yesterday, I heard an argument in which one faction upheld the idea that uncurled locks can be just as fascinating as curled.

• • • • • • •

The opposition pointed out that straight hair requires infinitely more pains to make it look well than does waved hair.

• • • • • • •

Which is, of course, begging the question, since it does not show an argument as to the beauty of straight hair. There is no doubt but that she of the unwaved locks who has the courage to take her head in her own hands, as it were, and to wear her hair as Nature made it, will start out with an individuality of appearance.

• • • • • • •

But who in Peterborough wants to go to the bother? Daily dressing and incessant worry is too big a price in this fast moving age for most of us.

• • • • • • •

And then, there are the different classes of hair to be considered. The first necessity, it seems to me, for a good straight coiffure, is a vigorous growth of hair; very soft or thin hair is, as a rule, marvellously improved by waving.

• • • • • • •

It seems funny to be able to "gamble" on one's hair, doesn't it? But the raffles at the Fair offer us the opportunity to get a permanent for ten cents. I have two tickets now, so I may be lucky enough to store up a spare permanent against the time when I need it.

• • • • • • •

In the midst of the argument yesterday I heard one woman declare a well-beaten egg is one of the best and cheapest shampoos it is possible to find. Has anyone tried it?

• • • • • • •

And I heard, too, about the return of the bed-caps to keep both straight and waved hair in order during sleeping hours.

• • • • • • •

I am spending, by the way, most of my time at the Fair this week, storing up impressions for future use. It keeps one busy to take in everything provided for entertainment. I have spent a lot of time looking at the booths, and in the Art Association section, and at the concerts, which are really wonderful—even if the program is almost too generous.

• • • • • • •

I even got thoroughly wet on the midway. A midway at an affair of this kind so late in fall is such a novelty, though, that one must expect some discomfort with the enjoyment.

• • • • • • •

One saw again, yesterday, an example of the power of the Press. You will recall that I urged the erection of signs to guide our wandering footsteps—and did you notice that they were in place the next night?

• • • • • • •

I hope that, even with all the excitement attending the Fair, readers will not forget about this week's help—a diagram pattern and working instructions for a new hat made from wool jersey. The original came from Paris, and is appropriate for street or sports wear. I am sure you will want one—and it is simple to make.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

Evening frock with tiered frills at back, from edge of decolletage to bottom of skirt.

It is the back of the evening frock that tells the story this season and when you see new frocks displayed you wisely reserve your judgment so long as the model walks toward you. It is not until she walks away and you have a chance to see the frock from the back that you venture to say whether the original came from Patou, Worth, Louiseboulanger or some one of the other celebrated French dressmakers, whose evening gowns have made fashion history this season.

The deep U decolletage is frequently seen, some of the newest evening frocks have returned to the back cut higher than the front, but the newest evening neckline is cut in a deep V at the back—the point of the V often coming almost down to the girdle.

It is of course, the skirt, not the bodice, that carries the burden of the drapery and trimming and this always shows a disposition to flare at the lower edge and usually the backward downward droop. Circular flounces, flaring panels, tiers, ruffles, frills, godets are all represented in the back trimming of these evening gowns. The sketch shows an extremely interesting back decoration that resembles a frilled jabot from the top of the decolletage to the bottom of the skirt.

Earrings are so highly favored for evening wear at present that when a woman doesn't wear them one wonders why. There are new ribbon type earrings for evening that are fully a half-inch wide and sometimes more than three inches long. The ribbon is made of flexable strands of gold or platinum, often set with small diamonds or crystals.

A single earring is sometimes worn, with the hair arranged low on the side where the earring does not appear. Sometimes this "solitaire" consists of one very large and very fine diamond, emerald, ruby or sapphire which cannot be matched and is therefore worn in solitary splendor.

BROKEN

CHAPTER IX.

THE STORY THUS FAR:

GILES CHITTENHAM, on his way back to England from the United States to help wind up the affairs of his young half brother, RODNEY, who has recently killed himself for love of the notorious flirt, JULIE FARROW, joins his friend, HARRY LOMBARD, in Switzerland. There, on a lake steamer, he meets Julie Farrow and BIM LENNOX, a straightforward, boyish sort of girl, loyal friend of Julie. Chittenham decides to make Julie fall in love with him and then spurn her, to avenge Rodney. He joins her in a drive through the St. Bernard pass. They are marooned at the inn at the top of the pass by a blizzard, and while there he tells Julie he loves her. When Chittenham returns to his hotel Lombard tells him he has made a silly mistake—that this Julie Farrow is a cousin of the one that broke Rodney's heart. This puts Giles, who is secretly and unhappily married, in a bad predicament.

Chittenham waited till the piano stopped, then he turned with an effort and went up the steps.

Yes, the English ladies were both in, she said; would he please come up the stairs to the salon?

Chittenham left his hat and coat and ascended the bare polished stairs.

He could hear voices from that balcony room and muffled laughter as the little maid turned to him to ask his name.

She had some difficulty in mastering its pronunciation, and when she flung open the salon door Chittenham heard himself announced as "Monsieur Chittenum."

There was a moment of silence, then he braced himself and went forward.

Julie Farrow was there alone.

There was a door on the opposite side of the room through which Bim Lennox had evidently tactfully retreated.

The long windows were wide open on to the balcony, and the room was lit with lamps shaded in a dull orange tint.

Chittenham heard the door shut behind him, but he did not move forward. There was a mist before his eyes, blinding him, then he heard Julie laugh nervously.

"I believe you are more afraid of me than I am of you," she said.

Chittenham forced himself to move then, to go towards her, and take the hands she held out to him.

Small, cool hands they were; how acutely he remembered their touch last night!

The mists cleared, and he looked down into her eyes.

She was very pale—in her white frock she looked almost like a ghost, but she was smiling happily, and when he made no movement towards her she raised herself a little on tiptoe and softly kissed him.

"Isn't it the same now we are down on earth again?" she asked with a note of banter in her voice, though it shook a little with emotion.

Chittenham tried to speak, but he could not.

Already she seemed to have cut the ground from beneath his feet; if the thing he had got to tell her had seemed difficult before, it was a thousand times more so now.

But he kept her hands in his, holding them in a grip that must have hurt.

He read a shadow of question in her eyes, that changed into vague fear.

"Why—is anything the matter?" she asked uncertainly.

He found his voice with an effort.

"Is it the same now we are down on earth?" he asked hoarsely. "You haven't found that last night was just a dream—that we were two dreamers, and that now we are awake?"

She laughed at that, shaking her head.

"The earth is so much—so very much more real than the mountain tops were, dear," she said softly.

Chittenham felt as if someone had touched his heart with ungentle fingers.

No woman had ever spoken to him in just that way before; he could not remember that even Sadie, in their happiest and most intimate moments, had ever made him feel that she really loved him; and yet those few words, spoken in Julie's soft voice, were conviction unquestionable.

She bent her head and lightly brushed his coat sleeve with her cheek.

"I told Bim," she said. "I was so happy, I just had to tell someone." And then as if struck by his silence she looked up swiftly to ask: "You don't mind? You're not angry?"

"Angry?" How could he answer? What could he say?

He released her hands, and moved a step from her.

"I've something to tell you," he said abruptly.

"Tell away, then!"

He could see that now she was quite unconscious of anything wrong; the first roll of the drums had not yet reached her.

She sat down on the wide arm of a chair, one little foot swinging a few inches from the floor.

"May I smoke?" she asked. "Or is it so serious that I must give you my undivided attention?"

She was like a child in her happiness. Chittenham would have given his soul to be able to share her light-heartedness, and to be conscious that he was free to respond.

"It's—serious," he said stiffly.

"Oh!" She pursed up her lips in pretended severity and then as he did not smile she said quickly:

"I'm serious too, of course. It's only that I'm so happy I don't know what to do." Then once again she grew grave to say: "Please tell me what it is."

Chittenham looked away from her.

"It's about last night."

"Yes."

"And about my brother Rodney."

"Yes."

"You told me you knew him."

"Yes. I often met him when he was with my cousin Julie."

Chittenham caught a hard breath. Then it was true. She had shattered his last hope; a hope which he had not realized had been so great until now, when she had finally killed it. With an effort he went on:

"You knew Lombard, too?"

"Yes, but not very well. I don't think he's the kind of man to remember very vividly, do you? Afterwards, when he recalled it to me, I remembered meeting him once or twice at dances and other places."

"I see."

With an effort Chittenham forced himself to look at her.

"Do you know that at first he mistook you for your cousin—the other Julie Farrow?"

She raised her brows incredulously, then she laughed.

"How funny! Julie would not be flattered if she knew."

Chittenham went on doggedly.

"Lombard told me that you were the other Julie. Lombard told me so before we were introduced, that you were the woman Rodney had cared so much about."

"Oh! Poor Rodney!" Her voice was soft with pity. "I tried to warn him, Giles. You see, I knew Julie so well. But it was no use he would not listen to me. I did my best."

Chittenham went on unheedingly:

"I was abroad at the time of his death—in South America. My mother cabled to me to come home. I was on my way when I met Lombard in Paris a few days ago. He persuaded me to come out here." His voice grew slower, more difficult.

"Yes." Julie's eyes softened tenderly as she looked at him. "I shall always owe Mr. Lombard a grateful debt for that, anyway," she said. "We might never have met but for him."

Chittenham laughed mirthlessly.

"You will not feel very grateful to him when I—when I have told you what I must tell you," he said desperately.

The little white-shod foot swinging so light-heartedly a few inches from the ground, was suddenly motionless.

There was a moment's silence, then Julie asked in an altered voice:

"What do you mean, Giles?"

He turned desperate, shamed eyes upon her.

"I mean that when Lombard told me you were the other Julie—your cousin—I believed him."

She met his gaze directly, but unsuspectingly; suddenly she smiled.

"Well, what difference does that make? I'm not, and you know it now." She frowned a little in perplexity. "It's not anything to look so tragic about, surely, is it?"

Chittenham took a quick step towards her.

"Are you wilfully misunderstanding?" he asked, almost angrily. "Can't you see what I am trying to tell you?"

"See? What—why?" She rose to her feet. "What is it you are trying to tell me?" she asked in bewilderment.

Chittenham's eyes wavered. For a moment he hesitated, searching desperately for yet some means of escape; then he told her.

"I went up to St. Bernard with you yesterday believing you were the woman my brother had loved. I wanted to wipe off some of his debt. I wanted to hurt you as I believed you had hurt him. I wanted to make a fool of you as I knew you had made of him. I wanted——" With a sudden rough movement he caught her by her slim bare arms, shaking her in his anger and pain. "Oh, for God's sake try to understand! Why should I have to say it all? Can't you see the whole horrible mistake? How did I know there were two Julie Farrows? Why should I dream of such a thing? I had only heard of the woman Rodney raved about. It seemed an extraordinary coincidence that we should meet here of all places, but I thought it was fate. I thought fate was playing into my hands when you agreed to take me with you yesterday. I thought I was being damned clever." His voice rang out harshly with pain and humiliation. "It seemed so easy to make love to you: you seemed to make it easy for me——"

"Giles!" Her voice was a wounded cry.

"I know, I know it sounds a damnable insult, but you mustn't forget who I thought you were—a notorious woman—a woman who counted one man more or less as nothing. But I was vain enough to think perhaps you might take me more seriously—I hoped you would. I wanted to make you care—to see if I could make you care for me and then treat you as you had treated my brother. You told me you had never really cared for any man—that was my chance! And so—last night—"

He felt her sway beneath his hands.

"You mean it was all just a game?" she asked dazedly. Her eyes never left his flushed, agitated face.

Chittenham could not answer.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1928.

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Benefic aspects rule this day, according to astrology, which reads in the stars fair promise for inhabitants of the Earth.

Under this planetary government men and women in the public eye should benefit exceedingly. To him that hath much is given today.

There is a sign seeming to indicate that much concentration of power will be used secretly and silently in business and organization matters.

Neptune gives keen foresight and judgment is quickened so that remarkable results may be obtained in important projects.

This is a day most auspicious for executives in all activities, private as well as public.

It is not a lucky sway for aviation, but the stars appear to indicate delays in working out big plans rather than unusual loss of life through accidents.

The seers warn that at the end of the year the figures computed from casualty records will reveal an alarming waste of life and loss of man power which will cause sensational reforms.

A new leader will bring about the application of practical plans for protecting the public, it is foretold, and will gain international fame.

Many strange and marvelous inventions are near to demonstration and use, it is forecast. The home is to benefit greatly from something that adds much to domestic comfort, the seers prophesy.

Although the major influences are good while this configuration prevails there is a sign warning of misrepresentation, deceit and intrigue.

Under this direction of the stars it is wise for girls who have contracted summer-resort marriage engagements to look up the records of their suitors.

The stars which are supposed to influence the fashions and to cause emphasis to be placed each season upon some part of the human body are held responsible for the wholesale display of legs. They will cause the backs of women to be made conspicuous by ornamentation of in other ways, astrologers announce.

Persons whose birthdate it is should avoid changes in the coming year which will be lucky. In many cases friends will be especially helpful.

Children born on this day have the augury of prosperity all through life. The subjects of this sign often have psychic gifts and many women are especially sensitive. Both boys and girls are likely to be of attractive physical appearance.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE GET MARRIED

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

Ideally we get married because we are in love, because we have found our soul mate.

In real life there are many other reasons for getting married, such as bettering one's station through alliance with an influential family, rising in the social scale, rearing children, having a home, exercising exclusive rights over another personality, satisfying the craving for the most intimate relationship possible between human beings, and a host of other reasons. Several of these may of course operate at the same time.

We are told that women used to marry for economic reasons, to have a home, and to raise a family. So many of the modern married women do not care for any of these things that we are obliged to look further for an explanation of why women marry.

Women marry for love more often than men. All authorities agree that it is the woman who chooses her mate, and not the man, even though he is supposed to make the formal proposal. A woman makes fewer mistakes and has a better chance of getting what she wants in marriage.

The ordinary man is no match for the ordinary woman when it comes to matters of the heart. This is why more women marry up than do men when left to their own resources. The tendency for a woman is always to marry a man she can look up to and respect. The man on the other hand has a tendency to marry downward because it is easier. He does not enjoy the romance of courtship to the extent that a woman does. He endures it; she revels in it.

Whether or not a man marries successfully and happily depends almost entirely on the good fortune he has in meeting with the right sort of woman. If she is wise and not too grasping and takes his side of the case into consideration before making up her mind to land him he is most fortunate—the lucky devil.

Why do you do what you do? Write Dr. Thomson, care of this paper, and send stamped envelope for reply.

Two small children, injured in the explosion, were in hospital painfully hurt. The dynamite was planted in the school house stove. Only the fact that the children were at recess prevented a heavy casualty list.

A Sure Safeguard!

Against the uncertain temperatures of Autumn

These Fall days the thermometer runs up and down in a few hours. There is real need for fuel which will keep pace with it—a fuel that will give a quick hot fire, or a moderate one, exactly as desired.

Hamilton By-Product Coke is that fuel. Scientifically prepared for house heating, correct in size and density—a tremendously important feature, because coke that lacks density (is too porous) is very hard to control.

Naturally, Hamilton By-Product Coke is entirely satisfactory for use during Winter months, also. It creates no clinkers—no fumes or soot—burning down to a fine feathery ash.

And by burning Hamilton By-Product Coke you make a very desirable saving of 33c on every dollar spent for fuel—fill up your bins, NOW.

THE SOURCES OF OUR FOOD

One of the first curious facts that student of dietetics learns is that although plants and animals are both used by us as foods, it is only the green plants that are the original food factories of the world. They are the only living things that have the power to combine the soil, water and earth into substances that can be digested and absorbed by animals, and it is only those plants which are green that contain within their leaves the small masses of chlorophyl (green coloring) which have the property of using the radiant energy of the sun to combine water and carbon-dioxide gas into carbohydrates.

Human beings at the present time use the animal kingdom as well as the vegetable kingdom for their food supply. Cattle, hogs, sheep, fowl, fish, eggs and milk furnish us with our principal animal foods. From the animal tissues and animal products we can obtain the radiant energy of the sun indirectly, and sometimes in more concentrated forms than we could by eating the plants themselves. To care for the enormous quantities of animal products that are used, civilization has built up some wonderful refrigerating and transportation facilities in and to the meat packing centers. Both the United States and Canadian Departments of Agriculture maintain a very rigid inspection of all meats so that those which are diseased may be discarded.

Eggs and milk products are very valuable foods, and are important market products in North America. It is estimated by Piper and Beauchamp that the production of eggs in the United States for a year would build a wall of eggs thirty feet high and one egg thick from New York to San Francisco, and New York state alone supplies enough milk in a single year to fill a lake one mile long, a quarter of a mile wide and ten feet deep.

The vegetable kingdom offers us a very large variety of foods and flavors. Unfortunately, most cooks have only learned to use a few of these. If the average person were asked to name a list of vegetables to be served at a vegetable dinner, he would probably be able to think of only four or five, and yet there are hundreds of vegetables that are edible and could be used to furnish variety. There are really twenty to thirty good vegetables in the markets of any large city. Even in the winter these vegetables can be secured at least in a canned form. In some of them we find the leaves most valuable, as in lettuce and spinach. In others we use the stem, such as the asparagus, rhubarb and kolrabi. The beet, carrot and turnip are used because of their roots. The Brussels' sprout is a bud and the cauliflower is a flower. The nuts, cereals and legumes are seeds, and the fruits of course make very pleasing and appetizing additions to our menus.

Agriculture has been estimated as the secoud largest industry in North America in points of wealth and production, being exceeded only by the combined manufacturing industries.

Questions and Answers.

Question: H. G. asks: "Will you please tell me why my eyes are bloodshot? There are times when one or both are so without any apparent reason."

Answer: Bloodshot eyes are often caused by reflexes from some other part of the body, principally the alimentary canal. A disordered stomach from bad food combinations is probably the greatest common cause. I will be glad to send you my article on "Food Combinations" if you will write to me, care of this newspaper and enclose a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Question: Mrs. Q. R. writes: "I have heard of a seed that one can eat to help gain weight. Will you tell me what it is, and if it really does do this?"

Answer: There is a seed called the "fenugreek" seed which is eaten by women of the Orient in the belief that it will enable them to put on weight. It is the fruit of an Old World herb, of muscilaginous nature. It is seldom used in this country except as an ingredient in curry powder, but is used in various ways in Greece and Egypt, as in bread-making, etc.

Question: O. J. writes: "I would like to know how to overcome sleepiness right after supper. We have supper at six o'clock, and sometimes by eight o'clock I begin to yawn, and thirty minutes later I am too sleepy to read any more."

Answer: A sure cure for your trouble is to eat less and exercise more. Take some vigorous exercise just before the evening meal, and then make that meal very light.

Question: O. L. writes: "During the winter I am greatly troubled with chilblains. What remedy would you suggest?"

Answer: The best treatment for chilblains is to give yourself a treatment each day by immersing the feet alternately in hot and cold water. This will help the circulation and will usually get rid of all the bad effects which have come from having the feet frost bitten.

UNCLE WIGGILY AND TANGLE'S TEARS

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Once upon a time there was a little rabbit girl named Tangle Longears. She was one of Uncle Wiggily's little bunny children and the reason she was named Tangle was because, when she was small, her fur got into such tangles, as your hair might, that her mother could scarcely comb it smooth.

"When you get to be a bigger rabbit child," Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy often used to say, "you will learn to comb your fur and it will not be in such a tangle."

"I'm sure I hope so," sighed the little bunny. "For it pulls terrible and hurts and makes me want to cry when you comb the tangles out of my fur, dear Nurse Jane."

"Who are you?" asked Mr. Longears

So the muskrat lady housekeeper taught Tangle, as the little rabbit grew older, to keep her fur nice and smooth with a comb made from the stiff brown cone of a pine tree. But the name of "Tangle" still clung to the bunny child and so she was called when she grew into rather a large rabbit girl.

And, then, for some reason or other, Tangle, instead of keeping her fur nicely combed as Nurse Jane had taught her to do, began to get careless. She would smooth her fur with one paw while she buttoned her shoes with the other paw, and so she got ready for school as fast as she could. Tangle was always in a hurry getting ready for school, because she did not jump out of bed when her mother or Nurse Jane or Uncle Wiggily called her. So Tangle's fur became so snarled and untidy that when she tried to comb it straight it pulled very much, and her mother said:

"I'll help you!" So the lady rabbit used the pine tree cone. But, oh, how it pulled Tangle's fur!

"Oh, stop, Mother!" cried Tangle. "I don't care how my fur looks! It pulls terrible!" and tears came into Tangle's eyes with the pain of having her fur combed smooth and straight.

"You must stand the pain, for you were careless to let your fur get so twisted, Tangle, dear," said Mrs. Longears, and she kept at it until every last snare was out and the little bunny girl looked neat.

But next time, when her fur needed combing, Tangle didn't use the comb at all. She quickly rubbed her fur with one paw, buttoned her shoes with the other, clapped a hat on her head and ran along to school.

But she was late that morning. All the others had gone on ahead and even Uncle Wiggily had started out to look for an adventure. He thought Tangle had gone to school and he was much surprised when he heard footsteps behind him, and, turning, saw a little rabbit girl coming along with her school-books. At first glance Uncle Wiggily did not know who it was, for Tangle's fur was so untidy that he did not believe it could be a child of his. But he saw her hat and dress and knew it must be Tangle. Then he thought he would play a little joke on her to teach Tangle a lesson, so Uncle Wiggily said:

"Good morning. Where are you going?"

"Why, Daddicums! Don't you know I'm going to school," said Tangle.

"To whom are you speaking as Daddicums?" asked the bunny gentleman.

"Why, you, of course," said Tangle with a laugh. "You're my Daddy!"

"And who are you?" asked Mr. Longears, not smiling a bit.

"Why, I'm Tangle, of course!"

"Oh, no! You can't be!" said Mr. Longears. "My little girl Tangle never had such untidy fur as you have and she would not be late."

"Oh, but, Daddicums, I am Tangle! Truly I am!" said the bunny child.

"No, you can't be!" and Mr. Longears shook his head and was about to hop along, pretending he didn't know Tangle, when, all of a sudden, she burst into tears.

"Oh, Daddicums, I am your little Tangle!" she said. "My fur is terrible, I know, but if you'll help me comb it out I'll never let it get so mussy again. Please! I'm Tangle!"

"Oh, why, so you are!" said Uncle Wiggily as he saw Tangle's tears falling on the sidewalk and turning into little round beads of salty ice. "Well, I hardly knew you! But you can't go to school looking as you do. I'll go next door to the barber shop, borrow a comb and smooth your fur. Wait here for me."

"I will," said Tangle, glad that her father now knew her.

Author of "Lummox", "Humoresque"

THERE were five children in a motherless house. Zelda, the sixth and eldest, was married and lived in an apartment-hotel on the other side of town from her father's old-fashioned red brick house in Moony Street. Every Sunday she and her husband Frank, a fairly prosperous and indulgent and over-weight broker, who taxied across Brooklyn Bridge to Wall Street every day, took Sunday dinner at the house in Moony Street.

The five children, a charming ladder of them, ranging from two to fourteen, looked upon the blond Zelda as the epitome of everything that was gracious and brilliantly lovely and desirable.

Her husband entered the room. It was one of those moments when the blood seems to freeze instantaneously in the veins. Hattie wrenched herself free.

Her marriage had left an almost irreparable hole in her father's house. The three girls and the two boys hankered after their older sister, who in the years since their mother's death, had held the reins of the household. Doctor Granger, Zelda's father, at forty-five had iron-gray side-burns and carried his medical valise as if it pulled him round-shouldered. He, too, felt that when this gold-colored moth of an eldest child of his had flitted from his household that some sort of an eclipse of the sun had taken place.

She had been a gay, good-humored, sympathetic young one, and her girlhood, if a trifle selfish, had been brilliant and crowded with festivities.

At eighteen, she had married out of it with scarcely a look backward, except a weekly visit she paid her home, due to the sense of family affection that was more or less inherent in her.

One year later, Doctor Gardner, who was head surgeon in the Polyclinic Hospital, married the head nurse there. A mature, wholesome, brown-eyed girl, known throughout the institution as "Miss Hattie."

It was a shock to Zelda and a most curious and overwhelming surprise to the children. Even down to the baby, aged three, they shied back a little antagonistically from the advent of Hattie into the home.

The adjustment of this step-mother, however, to the difficult environment a woman in this position is always called upon to meet, was a matter of just about four weeks. At the end of that time, the five youngsters clambered about the person of Hattie to be pampered. To be adored. To be put to bed. To be fed. To be babied, caressed, kissed.

It seemed to the doctor, who had been fond of his first wife, that destiny had handled him with a gentle hand. The second woman he married transformed his rather rudderless home into a paradise.

Even Zelda, who had wept bitter, angry tears at the advent of Hattie, found herself swept into the ample heart of the newcomer.

It was a triumph, complete. The doctor's tired face had its lines ironed out. The children blossomed. The old house in Moony Street, under Hattie's skillful, sure touch began to glow under new cretonnes. The doctor began to glow.

And then one day, there descended upon this scene of peace, catastrophe. And because Hattie had come to be a mountain of refuge in this home, it was upon her ample shoulders that the first tidings fell.

It had to do with Zelda. There was a grave rift between her and Frank. The astonishing truth of it was, Zelda had fallen recklessly, headlong, stupidly in love with a bridge-whist teacher at the apartment-hotel where Frank maintained her in the idle luxury of a two-room suite. Zelda, with a capacity for infatuation that no one would have suspected, had suddenly lost her head. And to a suave, young black-and-tan Spaniard with no-face-in-particular.

The morning that she first came rushing to Hattie, hysterical with her predicament, her husband Frank had inadvertently walked into his sitting room on the scene of Zelda locked in the close embrace of the bridge-whist teacher.

There had been pyrotechnics of the usual sort. Frank, who was over-weight and had blood pressure, had finally strangled himself into a state of semi-consciousness that it took doctors to work him out of.

Zelda, frightened and suddenly aware that Frank was the deepest affection in her life, was in a frenzy of terror at the destruction she had brought down upon herself. First and foremost, she wanted the services of her father for her husband, but Doctor Gardner was out on an emergency case and could not be located.

In addition, she was in an agony of apprehension over her father, whom she respected as much as she loved, ever knowing about the sordid details of her affair with the bridge-whist teacher. For three hours, Hattie worked over the prostrated girl and finally, leaving Zelda between cool sheets and ice-bags, set out for the apartment-hotel to try and dissuade the unfortunate Frank.

There he lay in the semi-stupor when she reached there, so there was nothing for her to do but sit in the little living-room of the suite and await developments.

The first development while Frank slumbered thickly on, was the arrival of the bridge-whist teacher, who was all black-and-tan and looked as if his full, unctuous lips under their eyebrow of a moustache, had been just pomaded like his hair.

It took Hattie just about ten minutes to tell him in no uncertain terms his status not only with Zelda but with the family.

As Hattie talked, her color rose, her bright pink cheeks flamed brighter, and her unbobbed hair, screwed out of its hair-pains, and did little curly daubs about her neck.

The answer of the Spanish bridge-whist teacher to Hattie's inspired flood of vituperation was to take a quick step forward and take her in a Latin embrace, his heavy, oily, moist-looking lips mashed against her eyelids. The second development was the entrance of Doctor Gardner on this picture.

It was one of those moments when the blood seems to freeze instantaneously in the veins.

So Hattie, wrenching herself free, stood before her husband.

It was a commentary about Doctor Gardner's fitness of body and mind the sure-fire way in which his clenched fist cooperated with his brain impulse.

The bridge-whist teacher shot, rather than walked, out of the nearest door.

The next thing that happened was a commentary, too, upon Doctor Gardner, and the woman he had married.

"Don't bother to tell me how it happened," he said, and kissed her; "that kind of a fellow is used to women falling for him and he made the big-fool mistake of thinking you might be one of them."

HARRIERS CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS FOR YEAR

WILL TAKE PART IN SPORTS PROGRAM ON THANKSGIVING DAY

Senior Team From Lindsay To Participate in Races.

FOUR OPEN EVENTS.

Y. M. C. A. Are Again Fostering Annual Track and Field Day.

Reorganization of their club and discussion on the possibilities of a Thanksgiving Day sports program which the Y.M.C.A. officials are again fostering this year were the chief features gone into by the Harriers' Club at luncheon held in the Y.M.C.A. building last night, at which over twenty members were present. Enthusiasm is very keen with regards to road racing, a branch of sports that is fast becoming popular with the boys in the city, and to all appearances this year's events will attract a great many more entries than formerly, including a senior team from Lindsay.

In the absence of Charles Thorpe, who was president for 1927, Mr. Loomis presided and outlined the program for this year which is to consist of four open events, namely: 10-mile relay, senior 3-mile run, 4-mile relay, junior, and a 2-mile run for the juniors who have among their ranks some very promising youngsters.

Officers Elected.

The following officers were elected to office:

C. Thorpe, hon. president.
J. Ward, president.
H. Tranter, vice-president.
H. McLeod, secy.-treasurer.

There will also be an executive committee, which will be elected at a later date.

Valuable prizes are being selected for first, second, and third positions in each race, and will be placed on display at an early date in one of the George Street stores.

Any individual wishing to enter a team in any event may do so by getting in touch with Doug. Loomis at the Y.M.C.A., and a special invitation is extended to all industrial concerns to send in their entries at an early date.

The first trial run will be held tonight (Thursday), October 18, from the Y.M.C.A. at seven o'clock, and anyone who is interested in this branch of athletics will be made welcome.

Every Monday and Thursday, boys who intend to enter are requested to turn out at seven o'clock, in order to get into shape for Thanksgiving Day, November 11.

Rugby Star Victim Of Fatal Disease

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 18.—The flag was flying at half mast at Ridley College yesterday in memory of Adam Ballantyne a student of that school, who died at his home in Toronto Tuesday. The young lad was sent home some time ago when it was found out that he had a serious case of infantile paralysis and his condition became more critical daily.

The whole school is mourning his death as he was very well known and popular as a rugby star. He was a member of the first team and in spite of a slight defect in one foot was one of the best players on the renowned team.

If you buy out of town, and I buy out of town, and all our neighbors buy out of town, what in thunder will become of our town? Ever think about it?

Gene Tunney To Reside In London

LONDON, Oct. 18 (Canadian Press).—Mr. and Mrs. James Joseph Tunney, according to report, have taken the lease for a year of a house in the Mayfair quarter of London where, after their honeymoon, it is said, they intend to form a literary salon.

Harry Preston, English sportsman and friend of the retired world's heavyweight champion, yesterday said that he still expected Gene to enter the ring again. He hinted that he told Tunney that there remained one record for him to break, referring to the occasion three years ago when Jack Dempsey fought four heavyweights in succession in a boxing tournament.

K OF C ALLEYS

Tommy Ryan and his gang of pin tossers took six points from Bogue's aggregation at the Knight's of Columbus Alleys in the Monday night League. Rudkins, for the winners, came through with high triple of 818 and high single of 370, which is a record for this year in this league.

V. McCabe's team broke even with B. Duffus' crowd, each collecting four points; the first-mentioned winning the third game by the narrow margin of one pin.

In spite of the hard work by Joe Sharpe, the best W. MacPherson's crew could do was run an even race with the team captained by Lew LeBarr; each gathering in four points. Jim Fay set a good example to his gang of battlers by chalking up high single of 294 which prompted them to apply the whitewash to the Clancy Six, taking three games and piling up eight more points. D. Ahern, for the winners, rolled 279 single, which places him third in line for that night in the high single score class.

C.G.E. Shope League

The Meter Makers staged a battle royal with the Lightning Arresters in Group 2 of the C.G.E. Shop League, taking two games out of the three. The playing was close in every game, the winners eclipsing their opponents by only six pins in total pinnage.

Russel was chief pinboppler for the night, with a high single score of 194, while J. Herd and Len Hollingsworth were very close runners-up with 186 and 183 respectively.

Switchboard showed Brass No. 2 how to keep the balls out of the gutter by taking three complete games, although the losers were handicapped by a dummy score in every game.

The Tapers from the Armature Winding Department were not quite up to the mark, losing two games to the Brass Department team captained by B. Hayter. Ridyard, the ever-dangerous lead-off man for the winners, came through with high single of 247, being the only bowler of these two teams outside of Lynch who was able to go over the 200 mark; the last named rolled 222.

The Coil Winders maintained their fast pace last night at the Duffus' Allies in a battle with the Engineers' team by taking the three games which puts them at the head of the shop league, having won six straight games. Calladine, for the Winters, was the bright light of the night, rolling a high single of 256, while Hayes and Langley of the Engineers rolled a nice game apiece with high scores of 209 and 207 respectively.

Test No. 1 swamped their fellow-workers on Test No. 3 team by taking three games. Munro having high trio of 601 and Hunter high single, 248.

The Drafting Room team that is entered in the Shop League held up their end of the argument with the Production crew, taking two out of three games. Grant is still going great guns in this league, as well as the Drafting Room series, as he rolled both high single, 262, and high three, 647. Ryan for the losers, displayed his usual good form with 268 and for three games 595 to his credit.

DELORO SOCCER TEAM PLAY HERE SATURDAY

They Meet the Canadian General in E. A. Peck Soccer Cup On King Edward Park.

Local soccer fans are looking forward to the game on Saturday afternoon when the fast aggregation from Deloro face the league champions, Canadian General, in the final of the E. A. Peck soccer trophy at King Edward Park. Kick off is scheduled for three o'clock prompt.

Of the two occasions that a local team has gone to the visitor's field to play a game, they have lost and now there will be a real battle in the city on Saturday, in fact they are out to get another trophy to add to their collection that they have already.

In all probability the Canadian General will put their best eleven against the Deloro team for this cup tie.

VIEWS ON SPORT

The Y.M.C.A. officials are again fostering the second annual Thanksgiving Day Sport's program.

The local club have again drawn up a splendid card for the race meet scheduled to be held here on Thanksgiving Day. Several runners have expressed a desire to enter these races and it is hoped that many from the district will also take part.

• • • • • • •

The Monarch Athletic Club from Lindsay intend entering a senior team to compete in the day's events.

• • • • • • •

The racing will consist of 10 mile relay race, senior; 10 mile run, senior; 4 mile relay, junior; 2 mile run, junior.

• • • • • • •

Runners who are in any way interested should take part in these events, many valuable prizes are being offered for first, second and their positions in each race. These will be on display at an early date in one of the downtown store windows.

• • • • • • •

The P.C.I. added further laurels to the already long list of the local interscholastic honors by defeating the Grove School 6-5 in an exhibition game at James Stevenson Park yesterday.

• • • • • • •

Altogether it was a good game, the locals scoring the first point of the fixture in the second quarter, although each team made big gains on their extension plays only to lose them by offsides.

• • • • • • •

Blagrave won the game by the Collegiates when he made a nice touchdown in the last quarter. Elmsley, the little quarter, starred for the visitors with his tackles.

• • • • • • •

Les Blackwell, coach of the Varsity Inter-Collegiate rugby squad, is an inspiring figure on the field as he follows and directs the play of the "Big" team. Les lost a leg in France and after the war returned to his studies at Varsity, graduated in Arts and completed his law course at Osgoode. A rugby player before he became a keen student of the game after as coach of the Varsity Juniors he was successful in bringing the championship to the Queen's Park College. For the past few years Blackwell has been a big figure on the Varsity board of strategy and this year he was handed the job of making a winning team out of the Senior outfit. It is a big job but if rugby brains and grit in a rugby coach count for anything Varsity has more than its share in Les Blackwell.

THISTLES WILL NEED LEAD OF TWO GOALS

First Game of Ontario Cup Final To Be Played On Saturday.

HAMILTON, Oct. 18.—If Thistles are to win the championship of Ontario, their best chance comes on Saturday, when they meet Toronto Scottish here, in the first game of the final round. They know the ground at the stadium. It is wider and longer than Conboy park, the home ground of Scottish, and a two-goal lead at least will be needed to offset the advantage Scottish will have in Toronto. If Thistles can win by a bigger margin, so much the better. All they have to do is to play a game similar to that they played against Oshawa the week before last. On the occasion Thistles threw all they had into the game in its early stages, with the result that they had a lead of 5 to 1 at the interval, and could afford to ease up in the second period.

Neither team can have any excuse for not fielding their strongest possible elevens This will be their first game in two weeks, owing to the postponment in Toronto last Saturday. If they were carrying any cripples, they are likely to be ready for Saturday's battle. Many nice attendances have been recorded at the stadium during the past few months, but it would not be surprising if all records were shattered this weekend.

Frank Barson Suspended

A despatch from England states Frank Barson, captain of the Watford team, in the southern section of the third division, and former international player, has been suspended by the English F.A. for the balance of the season. The action by the association is a sequel to the incident at Watford on September 29, when Barston was ordered off the field for an alleged foul on Temple, Fulham right-wing forward. Watford will miss Barson. The team is not doing any too well now, and even thus early is practically out of the running, so far as the championship is concerned.

Two Title Bouts For One Night

MONTREAL, Oct. 18.—For the first time in Canadian boxing history two fistic titles will be defended on the same night and in the same ring here next Monday. In one of the two bouts Leo ("Kid") Roy, featherweight and lightweight champion of Canada, will defend the latter title against Al Foreman, while in the second George Fifield, of Toronto defends his welterweight crown against George Sidders, of Montreal.

GOLF.

An enthusiastic ending to a very busy year was the annual Field Day held on Tuesday at the Links by the ladies of the Peterborough Golf Club. Under the capable management and direction of Mrs. C. G. Graham, all events planned were carried through by some fifty members.

In the morning, in the driving competitions, using three balls, Mrs. Gerald Wood averaged 155 yards with each ball. In the monkey game, under the leadership of Mrs. E. S. Martin, Mrs. J. D. Collins, Mrs. J. H. Vernor and Mrs. E. H. Wood were successful in winning prizes.

After luncheon, the approaching competition was won by Mrs. Gerald Wood, and Miss Lenore Lyle won the putting competition. In the nine-hole handicap game, Mrs. R. Grant handed in the lowest score.

Previous to tea being served, prizes for the day and for the season were presented by Mrs. W. H. Hill, assisted by the captain, Mrs. E. S. Martin.

Winners of the season's prizes were as follows:

Lloyd George Sees First Horse Race, But Refrains From Betting.

NEWMARKET, England, Oct. 18.—Sir M. Wilson's Arctic Star won the Cesarewitch Stakes yesterday, one of the important races of the autumn season.

S. Sanford's Biancona was second, and Accalmie, owned by Mathieu Goudchaux, third. Arctic Star led by three lengths with one and a half lengths between the second and third. The betting was 9 to 1, 25 to 1 and 25 to 1 against. The stakes were £1,000, with extras added. Fifteen ran.

Arctic Star is by Achtoi out of Skypress. Eagle's Pride, winner of the race last year, was withdrawn two days before the race, when he broke down during training. Col. H. A. Wernher's Brown Jack, with Steve Donohue up, which was the favorite, was an also ran.

In Cesarewitch, David Lloyd George, war-time premier of Britain, saw his first horse race. He appeared in buoyant spirits despite the light rain and gloomy day. He was the guest of Lord St. David, and with his host walked around the paddock, displaying keen interest in the turf activities. He refrained from putting anything on any of the events, although the bookies offered "especially good odds to you, sir."

P.C.I. DEFEAT GROVE SCHOOL

Local Collegiate Third Team Win 6 to 5 Victory From Prep Boys.

GOOD GAME.

The P.C.I. third team defeated the Grove School thirds, 6 to 5, at James Stevenson Park yesterday afternoon. It was a good brand of rugby considering the age of the players and the slippery nature of the field.

P.C.I. scored the first point of the game in the second quarter, after they had worked the ball down on long runs by Cadd, Cheu and Wright. Cadd kicked to the deadline. There was no other scoring in the first half, although both teams made big gains on extension plays, only to lose ground on players being offside.

Grove scored their five points in the third quarter, and then Blagrave put P.C.I. ahead and won the game when he scored a touchdown.

Elmsley, the little quarter for the visitors, made some fine tackles.

The line-ups were:

Grove School. — Holves, Carson, Wishart, Falk and Burgess; quarter, Elmsley; snap, Clarkson; supports, Wood and Madill; insides, Lind and Dinay; middles, Stuart and Ross; outsides, Macrae and Beardmore; subs, Carson and Wright.

P.C.I.—Halves, Cheu, Wright and Cadd; snap, Waddell; quarter, Kirkwood; supports, Mackay and Stevens; insides, McKone and Wayman; outsides, Blagrave and Dearborn; flying wing, Green; subs, Wool and Richardson.

TWO PLAYERS REPORT TO LEAFS

Shorty Horne and Alex Gray Fit For Banner Season.

TORONTO, Oct. 18.—Shorty Horne and Alex. Gray reported to the Maple Leaf Hockey Club yesterday. Horne has been putting his summer months to good advantage building himself up to make the most of his opportunity to solidify himself in the major league. Shorty has been in the northern woods on a prospecting jaunt, and reported in first-class condition, weighing in at a hundred and seventy-five pounds.

Alex. Gray, while not tanned like the Sudbury star, certainly looks fit for a banner season, his second in the N.H.L. Gray, who played all of his amateur hockey in sub-zero weather up around Winnipeg and the Twin Cities, found the Madison Square Gardens too warm for hockey playing and welcomed the change which brings him to Toronto.

QUEENS BATTLE IN SEA OF MUD

Tri-Color Squad Holds Good Practice Under Poor Conditions.

KINGSTON, Oct. 18.—Battling around in mud an inch deep, Queens set a terrific pace in their practice yesterday afternoon, when they lined up for a game with the intermediates, in a set-to in which neither team asked for quarter and none was given. Every player on the field was covered with mud from head to foot, but the practice was one of the best of the season, and the senior looked much better than they did in their first game of the season against Toronto.

Featuring the practice game was the sensational tackling of Captain Britton, and the line plunging of Irish Monohan. Both players, for two weeks on the injured list, were hitting the line hard, with the former Ottawa player tearing holes for big gains.

The work of the backfield was noticeably improved, especially with Gilmore and Warren. Gilmore amazed the fans by the way he took the kicks on the run and went through the broken field, while Munro and Durham were flashing up and down the field in championship form.

Munro was doing the bulk of the kicking yesterday and while it is expected that Carter will draw the assignment against McGill, it would not be surprising if the former Argo player is in the punting role when the Tricolor line up against McGill on Saturday. Carter undoubtedly can get greater distance to his punts, but Munro is the more finished player and his work put the intermediates on the defensive the greater part of yesterday's practice.

Stuart, the Nova Scotia sardine fisherman, was injured when he was crashed to the ground in tackling Elliott, and was taken from the game by Coach Carson. Stuart has been the plunging sensation of the Tri-color this year and is being counted on heavily for Saturday's game. Bud Gorman, the line-plunger from Hamilton, was out of the game, but he will likely be ready for the McGill fixture.

SWIMMER WINS FURTHER LAURELS

Mrs. Lottie Schoemmel Sets New World's Swimming Endurance Record.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (Canadian Press).—Mrs. Lottie Moore Schoemmel yesterday clambored out of the hotel swimming pool which had been her bed and boarding place continually for three days and nights. She brought out with her a new world's endurance swimming record of 72 hours, 2 minutes and 40 seconds.

Restoring supremacy in this strange form of athletic activity to the so-called weaker sex, the new mark defeated the former standard set by Jimmy Cherry, an ex-sailor, in Los Angeles on Sunday night, not long water here. The blonde New York woman of 29, mother of two children, stayed in 7 hours and 40 seconds longer than Cherry.

BOXING MAGNATES IN SCRAPPY MOOD

TORONTO, Oct. 18.—Ignored on a technicality Thomas Murphy, M.P.P., of Toronto, chairman of the Ontario Athletic Commission who was right in line for promotion in the National Boxing Association by virtue of holding the office of second vice-president is down and out as far as the so-called governing body is concerned and there are wigs on the green as a result.

The final session of the organization which controls the glove game in the greater part of the United States and Canada and has affiliations in several South American countries was marked by much unpleasantness due to the steam rolling tactics of the Illinois and Ohio delegates who by playing politics in the most approved manner elected their slate in its entirety.

The significance of the whole thing was not recognized until the trick was done and there was the deuce and all to pay. The end is not yet by any means and there is more than a possibility that another association will be formed with Canada bulking largely.

Support Local Man.

The sidetracking of Mr. Murphy was bitterly resented by the representatives of the various provinces in the Dominion and by five or six states. In this connection the statement of Allan Trimble of Newkark, N.J., made following the ruling that Mr. Murphy was not eligible for office owing to the fact that Canada is only an affiliated body and not a bona fide member of the organization undoubtedly expresses the feelings of those genuinely interested in boxing.

Up In Arms.

Naturally the local pooh bah and his colleagues are up in arms over the matter and are prepared to go the limit to get the recognition that they feel is their due. If the N.B.A. can do without them they can do without the N.B.A. is the attitude that they take, and who can blame them. The end is not yet, not by several clinches and a few wild swings.

Apart from electing officers the N.B.A. at its final session selected Chicago as the next convention point and decided to ask for a mail vote on the advisability of holding the annual session on the third Monday in September. Detroit, Milwaukee and Quebec were the other cities in the field but the first two named withdrew and the Canadian city was not even mentioned.

THE DUMBELLS

In pursuance of this policy to provide something entirely new with each serial revue sponsored by him under the banner of THE DUMBELLS, Captain Plunkett has departed drastically from the traditional all-man revue of the past nine years and for "Why Worry?" which comes to the Grand Friday and Saturday of this week with Saturday matinee he has added about a dozen Canadian girls to the cast of an equal number of old-time favorites, headed by Al. Plunkett, "Red" Newman, Fred Emney, et al.

In introducing girls into this heretofore Eveless Eden, Captain Plunkett is simply following the precepts that had their beginning when the population of this world was one—and man had all his ribs.

There has been considerable controversy over this move since time immemorial, and there will probably be a great amount of discussion over this latest evidence that Adam was father of us all.

Captain Plunkett cleverly explains his reasons in the opening prologue of "Why Worry?" when he proffers a testimonial to the girls and women of Canada for the part which they so gallantly played in the Great War.

Of one thing we may be certain, Captain Plunkett is too good a showman to let THE DUMBELLS go backwards, or stand still. Every season for nine years he has produced a revue that was just a bit better than the one before, and he has gone to unusual lengths to make his tenth annual revue the greatest of them all.

ANOTHER GREAT SHOW FOR CAPITOL PATRONS—TO-NIGHT THIS POPULAR THEATRE OFFERS, JOHN GILBERT AND RENEE ADOREE IN "THE COSSACKS" ONE OF THE REALLY BIG PICTURES OF THE YEAR, AND THE FIRST OF THE NEW COLLEGIANS SERIES.

John Gilbert is an incessant source of surprise with each of his new roles. The Yankee boy in "The Big Parade" was a far different character from his Vronsky in "Love" and "Bardelys" and the hero of "Twelve Miles Out" were equally far apart. And now comes something new, even for Gilbert—his role as a swashbuckling, braggadocio Cossack soldier, who, under his veneer of bravado, has the soul of a poet. It is a complicated role, and one that grips the very heart. It thrills with its sheer drama, and baffles by its truth to life.

Such is John Gilbert as Lukashka in "The Cossacks," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's vivid drama of the Russian steppes, now playing at the Capitol Theatre. It is a stupendous drama; huge in its great settings—a complete town was built as a locale for the play—huge in its great drama of the love of a father and son, and through it runs the central theme, the sweet love story of a boy and a girl. Incidentally Renee Adoree is the girl—Gilbert's sweetheart of "The Big Parade," and just as in this play, the surge and thunder of battle, the thrills and the sensations are all a frame or setting for the delicate romance that the audience follows throughout. Frances Marion made a masterpiece of the story, George Hill a triumph of the direction, and John Gilbert made a classic in acting out the principal role.

The Cossacks, brought from Europe for the picture, stage feats of horsemanship that astound, and the battle scenes are remarkable. The character honors go to Ernest Torrence, as the brutal old Cossack fighting chief, whose love for his son is as huge as his giant frame. Mary Alden as the Russian mother, Dale Fuller as mother of the heroine, Paul Hurst as the Cossack lieutenant, are splendidly cast and Yorke Sherwood is clever in the comedy relief. Coldly menacing is Joseph Marf as the Cossack chief, and Neil Neely and Josephine Borio, two very charming young people in adequate roles. "The Cossacks" is one of those pictures that one simply cannot afford to miss, and that one can never forget.

The opening of the New Collegians will also be seen to-night.

MONTE BLUE HITS HARD IN "THE BUSH LEAGUER"

Small Town Inventor Wins Girl and Gold By Baseball Slam.

Here is an uproarious version of the old story of the ugly duckling who became the swan. It was the style in the little Idaho village which was "Specs" White's home, to razz the lad, to speak lightly of the gas pump which he had invented and on which he meant to make a fortune one day. But Specs played ball with the bush league team, on the sand lot next his gas station, and played so well that a scout for a Los Angeles team urged him to come on to that famous city for a try-out.

Specs may not have listened to the stranger but for the fact that a certain pretty young lady, having stopped at the station to get her gasoline replenished, had smiled at him, and whirled away, losing her license tag. Specs had found it, read its inscription, "Los Angeles, etc.," and determined to set out on quest of the lady whereupon the chance offered.

Here was the opportunity. To Los Angeles he went, and, unmercifully ridiculed by Skeeter McKinnon the catcher, and others, he lost all the knack he had displayed on the home town lot. It was here taht the pretty lady again bobbed up, smiled on Specs, revived his fainting courage, spurred him on to win the game and to foil the attempt of her manager (for be it known, the fair one owned the team on which Specs played) in his attempt at dirty work.

"The Bush Leaguer" is a wholesoms, amusing and wonderfully human piece. Monte Blue, who has endeared himself to so many millions, as every sort of red-blooded hero, outdoes even himself, in this new role.

Clyde CSook and William Demarest are a team of comedians to remember chuckingly and Leila Hyams who appeared with Monte Blue in "The Brute," is extremely good to look at. Howard Bretherton has directed with sure insight. The photography is of the most modern type.

"The Bush Leaguer" is a sincere and authentic bit of roughneck life that no one should miss seeing. It is tonic, hilarious, you'll root for it.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE BORDERLANDS

It isn't the things that they know are wrong
That worry our minds so much,
It's the path that follows the road along,
It's the things that almost touch.
They are safe perhaps from some greater sin,
But they smile at churches, and talk of gin,
And it seems right now that a youngster stands
Somewhere within the borderlands.

The road of right isn't far away,
When the youngster cares to learn,
But the path dips downward day by day,
And it grows more hard to turn.
And a mother prays for a lass and lad
Who are not so good and are not so bad,
A father watches the shifting sands
On which they walk in the borderlands.

It's the lifted skirt and the silly song
That burden our hearts with care,
The things that are neither right nor wrong
In the borderlands somewhere.
And all that a mother's love can do,
A mother's love and a father's, too,
Is to burn a light and to stretch them hands
And to call them back from the borderlands.

Market Opens Strong Many Issues Make Gains

TORONTO, October 18 (Canadian Press). — Trading was moderately brisk on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange to-day with prices tending to ease off towards noon after a strong opening. Malartic continued to lead all others in activity, and was down three at 1.19 after touching 1.27 in the opening period. The strongest issue of the morning was Noranda, which had a gain of $1.10 at noon price of 48.85 and hold as high as 49.75. Newbec was active, but was down three at 45, while Amulet on good turnover was unchanged at 4.10. Amulet at 3.45 was up 12. Hollinger advanced 30 to 8.00, Teck Hughes up five to 8.40, and Wright Hargreaves up five to 3.50. Pend Oreille was up twenty at 11.50, while Jackskon Manion and Central Manitoba each advanced a point to 86 and 81 respectively. Mond Nickel at 35.75 was up 2.25.

Several Issues Reach New High Records

TORONTO, Oct. 18. — (Canadian Press.)— Bullish tendencies continued to govern the Toronto stock exchange to-day, although there were signs of profit taking following the spectacular rise of many issues yesterday. Several issues, however, reached new high levels to-day with International Nickel the leader. Nickel touched 175 shortly after the opening but reacted to 167½. By noon, however, it had recovered to 170½ for a gain of four and a half over yesterday's close. Sales totalled more than 11,000 shares.

On the unlisted, British American Oil was the leader and was another issue to touch a new high at 49¾. It suffered more from profit taking than Nickel, however, and at noon was down ¾ 46¾, a gain of one for the day. Mond Nickel with a heavy turnover followed the fortunes of International and touched 3-8 soon after the opening and reacted to 34¼, but picked up again to 35¾ at noon, a net gain of 1¾.

Wheat Offerings Reported Lower

CHICAGO, Oct. 18. — (Canadian Press.)—With Argentina reported as offering wheat lower at Liverpool and with prospects of a substantial Argentine shipments resulting, wheat values here tended downward early to-day. On the other hand Canadian offers of wheat abroad were apparently not following declines. Opening at 3-8 off to 1-4 up, Chicago wheat later showed setbacks all around. Corn started at 1-8 to 3-4 advance, but subsequently went below yesterday's finish. Oats paralleled corn.

Officers Elected For Ridout Mine

CHAPLEAU, Ont., Oct. 18. — (Canadian Press.)—A meeting of the newly organized Ridout-Cunningham Mines Limited was held here yesterday. Officers were elected, a board of directors named with exploration work and development of properties. George B. Nicholson, Chapleau, was elected president.

The company was recently incorporated for the purpose of consolidating claims of the Ridout Mining Company, the Aldra Mining Syndicate, the Cryderman-Nicholson and other interests situate in the townships of Cunningham, Greenlaw and Granet, together with the properties of the Temiscaming Syndicate. The group embraces 300,-000 acres in the Ridout area.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

P. J. Murphy, formerly mine captain at Mining Corporation's Cobalt property, has been put in charge of the work of opening up the Kipper-Tashota property in the Tashota-Kowash gold area of Ontario. An additional mining crew has been engaged to speed up work and new camp buildings are being erected. The No. 2 vein is now being opened up and results from this work are expected shortly.

One of the most conservatively-capitalized companies to come into the public eye for some time is the Gold Rock Mining Syndicate, which is capitalized at 4,000 shares of no par value. Directors included Capt. F. C. Wright, president; L. Cote, K.C., H. L. Nichol, secretary-treasurer; T. W. Bathurst, Dr. J. O. Robillard and J. M. Ryan. The syndicate owns claims in the Dryden goal area, Kenora mining division, Ontario.

It is reported that the Cline Mines, Limited, has purchased the large compressor formerly on the Bear property of the Nichols Chemical Co., and that arrangements are being made for the transport of the equipment to the property, twelve miles east of here. The compressor is capable of operating at least ten rock drills, and will, it is stated, be utilized in the carrying out of the projected depth program at the Cline. The shaft is now said to be down over 100 feet with an objective of 500 feet.

The Montbec Syndicate is being reorganized into a 3,000,000 shares company, it is reported. The holders of the shares in the $50,000 syndicate will receive 500,000 shares of the new company. The treasury of the company will retain 1,500,000 shares, while an additional 700,000 shares will be set aside for "promotion purposes." The remaining 300,000 shares go to cover the ten per cent. interest retained by the original vendor of the properties. The Montbec ground consists of twelve claims situated in the township of Montbray, adjacent to the Oriole Mines.

Efforts are being made to finance the re-opening of the Paul claims, situated at Pine Lake Lorrain. Under township. The property is adjacent to the old Pine Lack Lorrain. Under a working option, some years ago, the McKinley-Darragh carried work to fifty feet in depth. At that point silver values were said to be low, but with considerable smaltite showing in the vein. The property is controlled by interests in St. Catherines. Power could be secured cheaply.

Amulet

A further report from our field man in Rouyn regarding the new find at Amulet is to the effect that in drilling 550 feet due east of the shaft and about 250 feet northeast of "C" ore body, 50 feet of mixed copper and zinc ore was intersected at a vertical depth of 200 feet. This appears to be an entirely new ore body similar in grade to both "B" and "C" and the drill was reported to be still in ore, and will continue until out of it. Future work on this body will undoubtedly be done from the 250 foot level where a crosscut will be run directly to same. This information may be regarded as official.

Big Missouri

Big Missouri Mining Company of Tacoma, which has a 47 per cent. interest in the Big Missouri mining property in Portland Canal district, has added to its holdings by the acquisition of a 51 per cent. interest in Missouri Monarch Mining Company, which lately acquired a property in Nevada. Details of the transaction were given to Western Canada Mining News by Capt. Duncan McVichie and J. T. Gregory, who were in Vancouver on Sunday.

The property is in Elko County, Nevada, 180 miles west of Salt Lake City, and 60 miles southwest of Wells. It consists of thirty claims, the ore assaying about twenty ounces silver and seventeen per cent lead. A large amount of development has been done, with 2,000 foot tunnel with upraise and winze. A considerable amount of ore was shipped by previous operators, Spruce Monarch Consolidated Mining Company. This is a shipping proposition entirely, and with underground work already done, it is expected that ore will be shipped within a short time.

Missouri Monarch Mining Company will be capitalized at $300,000.

Dublie

A wire received in the Vancouver office of the company from the mine states: "Drifted 170 feet on high grade ore north of Thompson fault. All stopes in mine in excellent condition. Construction work on power plant progressing rapidly."

Kootenay King

An extraordinary general meeting will be held at the Board of Trade rooms, 300 Pender street, Vancouver, on Thursday, October 25th, at 4 p.m. to consider, and if advisable to ratify and confirm an agreement with Charles Victor Brennan of Britannia Beach, relative to the exploration, development and equipment of the property.

Burns & Co., Limited

6% Cumulative Preferred Shares
(With Common Stock Bonus and Warrants)

This Company is one of the largest business units in Western Canada and, over a period of more than a quarter of a century, has had a record of steady growth and satisfactory profits. In the year ended December 31, 1927, dividend requirements on this preferred stock were earned by a substantial margin, and the reports for the current year indicate a marked improvement over last year's figures.

The Company, being strongly established in every part of Western Canada, will no doubt benefit by the further extensive development of that country's agricultural areas, mines, forests, and other natural resources. For this reason it is felt that the Common Stock which is being given as a bonus with these preferred shares and the warrants to purchase Common Stock, have attractive possibilities.

PRICE: 100 and accrued dividend, to yield 6%

Each Preferred Share will carry a bonus of ¼ of one share of fully paid Common Stock and the right to purchase ¼ of one share of fully paid Common Stock at $50.00 per share up to July, 1930. Fractional shares of bonus Common Stock will be adjusted at the rate of $20.00 per share.

CLOSE CONTESTS BY ORGAN PLAYERS

Harmonica Competitions at the Armouries Attract Large Crowd.

The Harmonica contest held last evening in connection with the Made-in-Canada Fair proved not only a decided success, but an interesting entertainment for an audience which filled the north band room of the armories.

Twenty contestants competed in the three classes.

In the class "under 12 years of age," there were five contestants, Jack Skitch, Orville Wainman, Keith Jarvis, John Allison and George Hall. The three winners were: 1 Jack Skitch, 2 Orville Wainman, 3 Keith Jarvis.

Five contestants also competed in the class "from 12 to 16 years"—Raymond Leonard, Howard Bettes, Stewart Clarke, Tom Martin, and Alfred Mills. The winners were: 1 Stewart Clarke, 2 Alfred Mills, 3 Tom Martin.

The open class, with ten contestants, provided a very close contest in the opinion of the judges. Those who took part were: P. W. Johnston, Thomas Parker, W. Rosebush, E. Forbes, H. Thompson, Edgar Cheel, James Dunnett, Walter Brown, H. J. McCannon and C. S. Thompson. The winners were: 1 W. Rosebush, 2 James Dunnett, 3 Edgar Cheel.

Neither C. S. Thompson or H. J. McCannon competed for prizes, and the judges in their decision stated that had they been competing they would have received first and second prizes respectively.

The contest was under the management of H. J. McCannon, assisted by C. S. Thompson. The judges were Messrs. R. J. Devey and J. Parkins. At the conclusion of the contest a hearty vote of thanks was accorded the judges.

Step Dancing Contest.

A further attraction which will prove of wide interest will be the step dancing contest, which will be held to-night at 9 p.m. in the north band room of the armouries. The judges will be Messrs. Geo. Wesley and P. Quinlan.

Bank clearings for the week ending to-day totalled $970,069.

HEALTH ASSOCIATION WORK QUIETLY DONE

Goes On Every Month of the Year.

The work of the Peterborough Health Association is done so quietly and with so little ostentation that comparatively few people know its true extent. Day by day in all kinds of weather the district nurse, supported by the Association, goes on her rounds, caring for the sick, giving freely of her time, strength and skill, often until long after darkness has set in, returning to her home, only to find in many cases, that she is again urgently needed in some distant part of the city, necessitating her starting out once more on another errand of mercy. Eggs, milk and other nourishing foods are distributed where and when needed, and comfort and advice freely given. All this goes on throughout every week that goes to make up the year, but in so quiet a manner that the amount of good work done is hardly realized by the public. We feel proud of Peterborough's stores and the product of Peterborough's factories, but the Health Association is working to produce better and stronger citizens. Something that is of infinitely more importance to our city.

BrienAdds to recent charges

Says He Has Evidence of Bootlegging From Liquor Warehouses.

KEEPS DIARY CLOSED.

Reluctant To Reveal All Information in His Possession, He Declares.

KITCHENER, On., October 19 (Special to The Examiner).—Another bomb shell was fired to-day into the Government's trenches when R. C. Brien, recently compelled to resign as Provincial Constable, charged that he has evidence of bootlegging from the brewery warehouses and Government liquor stores, and that the Government connives in it by refusing to prosecute cases.

Brien also makes the direct charge that former bootleggers are in the employ of the Government.

"They don't want to have an investigation, because they know the bottom would fall out of their Liquor Control Act," declared the ex-constable.

Every detail of his police work in Kitchener from the time of his transfer from Hamilton last September, until his forced resignation on October 15, has been kept by him in his diary.

Brien is reluctant to reveal all the information contained in his diary at the time, "because I know," he explained, "that they wanted to find out all I know"

He did, however, read entries concerning a Mornington Township man who, instead of going the shortest way to a Government liquor centre at Stratford, came all the way to Kitchener, a distance of 35 miles, to get his beer."

No Entry in Permit.

Suspicious of the quantities of beer this man was taking away with him, Brien made a trip to the man's home and asked to see his permit. There was no entry on the permit for the five cartons of beer that were in his home. He swore, however, that some mistake must have been made, since he had purchased the liquor at the Government store under his permit.

"I seized the beer and laid the information," Brien said, "but the release of the beer and the no-prosecution order came back from Queen's Park.

"When they claim that they asked for my resignation because I inadvertently had regular furniture dealings when I first came here with a furniture dealer, who later proved to be a bootlegger, they don't want to overlook the fact that they are not only allowing bootlegging of

ROBERT ADAMS WINS PAINTING

Chosen Sweepstakes Baby at Highly Successful Show At Fair.

LARGE ENTRY LIST.

The Baby Show held yesterday afternoon in the Canadian Legion Hall, in connection with the Produced-in-Canada Fair of the Kiwanis Club was an unqualified success. Interest in it spread far and wide throughout the district, and entries numbering over eighty came in from the neighboring district, from Lakefield, Norwood, Lang, Havelock and as far away as Oshawa, where a family famed for its prize-winning babies sent a small girl who won third prize in her class.

Headed by John I. Allen, who spared neither time nor trouble during several weeks of preparation to make this show a real success, a corps of energetic and willing workers presided over the examinations of the babies and helped the judges in their task. Dr. Edmund King of Toronto was chief judge, and gave a brief talk preceding the Baby Show, drawing to the attention of the mothers many things of interest to them and their children.

Stressing particularly the importance of pre-natal care, Dr. King also pointed out that the type of baby depends to the greatest possible extent on the type of mother. A woman who refuses to take care of herself and spends much time in dancing and running around, without proper attention to diet and general bodily health, cannot expect to have a healthy baby. The speaker also referred to the essentials of diet and to the necessity of having good milk.

PROUD AND HAPPY.

DR. J. J. CRAIG,
Manager of the Produced-in-Canada Fair, is the happiest man around the Armouries as the Fair enters its closing moments with more exhibits and bigger crowds than ever. With the Cat Show in full swing and the many other attractions still operating, Dr. Craig hopes to see such crowds in the buildings to-night and to-morrow that all previous attendance records will be far surpassed.

WOMEN SHARE TASK OF AIDING NEW CANADIAN

Can Help Newcomers Gain Happiness and Success in This Country.

ADDRESS TO WOMEN.

Mrs. Muldrew, of Soldiers' Settlement Board, Is Local Council Speaker.

That the task of helping the immigrant to happiness and success in this country lies to a great extent in the hands of Canadian women was one of the forceful assertions made by Mrs. Muldrew of the Soldiers' Settlement Board at Ottawa, during the course of an address given by her yesterday afternoon at the regular meeting of the Social Council of Women held in the green room of the Y.W.C.A. Mrs. O. H. Edwards, the president, took the chair on her return from meeting the incoming speaker, while Mrs. J. D. Deyell presided during her absence.

"If the immigrant's wife doesn't like this country, you may depend upon it she will make her husband dissatisfied too," declared Mrs. Muldrew, speaking of the efforts of the Settlement Board to provide satisfactory conditions for incoming peoples.

Coloring her address with the authority gleaned by a wide experience which covers many years of service on this Board in Canada and several years' residence in Great Britain, where she served in the same work and went about lecturing on the Dominion to the people of the British Isles, Mrs. Muldrew's address was an explicit, illuminating resume of conditions confronting the settlers coming to this land and the aspects of mind which they bring with them.

Giving a brief survey of the history of the Settlement Board and referring to the assistance tendered it by the British Red Cross Society, in providing $10,000 to meet unlooked-for expenses that crop up constantly in connection with the incoming settlers, Mrs. Muldrew spoke of the antagonism towards Canada manifested in the British press some years ago and the contrary attitude now exhibited by the same press. This change of mind, she thought, was due to the fact that the British people are becoming acquainted with the success attendant on the settlement of their people in this country.

Conditions of Settlement

The valuation of the land apportioned to settlers is made by an independent appraiser and the money is loaned at five per cent. interest over a period of twenty-five years. The settlers are supplied with necessary equipment in the way of stock and implements.

The supervision given these settlers in Canada has contributed a great deal to the success of their life

CATS OF ALL KINDS.

Mother of 42 Kittens Among Those Shown—Siamese Cats Attract Attention.

The second annual Champion Cat Show of the Peterborough Cat Fanciers' Club held in the Armouries in connection with the Kiwanis Made-in-Canada Fair was a great success taken from every standpoint. There were nearly eighty entries thus making it a two-point champion show. The entries consisted of the best bred, most beautiful prize-winning cats of the entire province. The majority of the cats came from out of town, Toronto, Hamilton and London sending a large number. However the local exhibitors did very well in this high class show. Dr. J. J. Craig's beautiful long-haired cat "Duke of Henley" took two firsts and winners in most novice class. Mrs. W. G. Hoggan's large black and white cat "Tim" won best in the short-haired neuter class. One pen that attracted a deal of attention was that containing Harry Lucano's brown tabby with two bobtailed kittens.

The Champions

The best short-hair open cup went to the same cats shown by Mrs. Stroud of Toronto. This breed is very rare and the colorin is very beautiful, a rich fawn shading to a chocolate brown at the face, tail, and paw tips. The best cat in the show was the shaded silver Persian owned by Mrs. Crowther of Toronto. The best kitten was a playful red tabby male owned by Kirch of Toronto, and the best opposite kitten went to the black Persian of Mrs. Foreman of Toronto, who also won with the best collection of blacks. Mr. James of Toronto had the largest entry with eleven cats, all of the short-haired domestic breed, and he won the trophy for the best cat in this breed.

Some Interesting Cats.

Altogether there were so many different types and breeds, shades and colors, all beautiful, all different in some degree, that one came away with a deeper respect for the cat family. Certainly one could not look at "Too-Bee," the mother of forty-two kittens, an entry of the De Laval Company, and the winner in the

DOUBLE HONORS FOR YOUNG MAN

Harold Armstrong Wins A.T.C.M. and Is Appointed To Cathedral School.

TALENTED ORGANIST.

Two distinct honors have come almost simultaneously to a talented young Peterborough musician, Harold Armstrong, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Armstrong, 437 George street south. For within the past couple of weeks, he has received word that he has attained his A.T.C.M., for Pipe organ, the first Peterborough boy to accomplish the degree.

The second honor, and one that seems certain to open into a wonderful future, is his recent appointment to the head of the organ department of the Cathedral School of Music, Toronto, which is under the auspices of His Grace Archbishop McNeil. D.D., L.L.D. The Rev. J. E. Ronan, musical director of the school, and internationally known as an authority on Gregorian Chant, had been greatly impressed with Mr. Armstrong's playing.

Sharing in the honors that have come to the Peterborough boy, though in a different sense, is his teacher, Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., organist and choir master of St. Paul's church. His wealth of teaching ability has not been lost upon Harold Armstrong who tried his organ A.T.C.M. here last June. In this connection he attained first class honors in harmony, while he was called upon to prepare no less than six very difficult organ numbers.

Peterborough friends will watch with pleasure his progress in the wider field.

SPEAKER DESCRIBES WORK OF MISSIONARIES IN THE WORLD

Rev. Dr. Endicott Delivers Address To United Church Laymen of City.

SPECIAL MUSIC.

Qualified to know full well whereof he spoke, the Rev. Dr. Endicott, ex-Moderator of the United Church of Canada, was heard last night by a gathering of United Church congregations that taxed the seating capacity of the auditorum of Knox Church to the limit. Recently returned from travels which have taken him all over the world in visiting United Church missionaries in China, Manchuria, India, Korea, Africa and indeed every section of the globe, the reverend gentleman brought with him a message of encouragement and yet a great challenge to the members of his church in Canada. To sing the song "Serve Britannia," rather than "Rule Britannia," should be the aim of us all, he declared in conclusion.

Dr. Endicott had previously attended a supper in the church building, at which he met many of the United Church laymen of Peterborough; but it was at the public meeting, which opened at eight o'clock, that he first made acquaintance with the public.

Last night's meeting was considerably enhanced by the presence of the church choir, which led in the singing of several hymns, while accompanying Dr. Endicott were the Revs. Mr. Stillman of Norwood, and McDonald, pastor of Knox Church. The former introduced the speaker of the evening, speaking in glowing terms of his great active life in the work of the church, as a missionary an dofficer.

"The idea of sending the Moderator on a world visit to missionaries of the church, though it be necessary to travel over sixty thousand miles (as he eventually did) was a new one," said Dr. Endicott, in explaining that last night he was present to make a kind of report on his travels. He had been privileged to visit every missionary in every station, had encountered amazing evidences of their splendid work, and had been tremendously impressed with the growth of Christianity in the foreign field within the past half century.

After dealing with what he termed the "obvious" phases of his travels, Dr. Endicott went on to recall som of the dramatic happenings which had made his travels far from monotonous. He went back to the morning of his arrival in Shanghai, when he beheld on every side, a spirit of suppressed excitement and expectation —the warships of nations with their guns trained on the city, and the welcome sight of the British Marines. "Though I am a pacifist, I must confess that their presence was indeed a comfort and the largest British flag that I have ever seen was not one square inch too big," declared the speaker.

The old slave trails on the west coast of Africa had been encountered, scars to recall the sins of the white man against the black; while many other equally staggering spectacles had been encountered. But there were the comforting aspects of the travel, too, for what he had beheld in the line of accomplishment by the missionaries, doctors and nurses must have been sufficient to convince the most confirmed athiest, he declared. An entirely new intellectual, spiritual and moral order among men was being worked out to such a marked de-

Frightened Man Causes Plane Crash

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 19.—(Canadian Press.)—A frightened passenger who gripped the controls of the airplane in which he and seven other persons were making a sight-seeing trip yesterday, was believed responsible for the crash of the plane and the death of one of the occupants and serious injury to seven others. The pilot said a passenger "froze" to the controls, making it impossible for him to guide the plane.

Oct. 19.—(Canadian Press.)— With seven persons dead and twelve others buried to-day in the debris of a building which collapsed, samples of the concrete used in the structure have been sent to Paris for analysis. The contractor of the building was prevented from committing suicide by the police and is being held.

SPENDS LAST FEW MINUTES WITH PRIEST

Eats Very Little of Large Breakfast Served Him This Morning.

CHAMBER FILLED.

Large Number of Witnesses and Newspapermen Present—Many Turned Away.

SAN QUENTIN, California, Oct. 19.—(Canadian Press.) — William Edward Hickman was hanged here today for the murder of twelve year old Marion Parker, Los Angeles school girl, whom he kidnapped last December. The trap was sprung at 10.10 a.m.

When a big breakfast was brought in Hickman left it virtually untouched. He chose to spend the last few moments of his life with Rev. William Fleming, the priest who converted him to Catholicism.

Earlier he wrote farewell letters to his mother, Mrs. Eva H. Hickman, his uncle, Horace Hickman, and his chief attorney, Jerome Walsh.

The phonograph upon which he played syncopated tunes last night was silent. The flowers which were placed about the cell yesterday at his request, were slightly wilted but still gave a slight warmth to the cheerless room.

The execution chamber was filled to capacity with witnesses, newspapermen and others well before the final hour. Outside the gates, scores of others waited. The guards announced they had turned down a score or more of applications for entry into the death chamber.

The youth, who boastfully called himself "the fox," walked to the trap with but little outward appearance of emotion, consistent to the last breath with the attitude displayed since he was arrested in Orgeon.

Brutal Crime.

The kidnapping and killing of little Marion Parker in Los Angeles last December constituted probably the most diabolical and sensational crime in recent California history. It aroused the nation because of its brutality, lack of motive, and utterly strange joy the killer took in basking in publicity following disclosure of the slaying.

He obtained possession of the girl last December 15, by calling at her school and telling the teacher that her father, Perry M. Parker, an officer in the First National Bank at Los Angeles, was injured and wished his daughter to return home. He said he was employed in the bank.

Hickman later said he drove the girl to his apartment and told her she had been kidnapped. She said she though it was great fun and seemed thrilled. That night he took the girl to a neighborhood show.

Wanted Ransom First.

Meanwhile he said he had decided to hold her for ransom and directed a letter to her father asking $1,500, signing it "The Fox," which psuedonym he used in subsequent ransom letters.

The next night, Hickman said, it came to him to kill the girl although he didn't want to, as he rather liked her and she seemed to enjoy the kidnapping experience. The murder was committed in Hickman's apartment. He said he choked her with a towel.

Confronted with the problem of disposing of the body and yet obtaining the ransom, Hickman hacked the legs off, mutilated the torso, which he stuffed with towels, sewed the eyelids open so that the girl would appear alive, and packed the dismembered body into a suitcase and packages which he carried from the apartment.

Having previously arranged a rendezvous with the distraught father, Hickman drove to the spot with the upper part of the girl's body propped in the seat beside him.

When Mr. Parker appeared Hickman, who was masked, collected the money, drove about a block further down the street, shoved the body out and fled. The girl's legs and other parts of her body later were found in a park miles distant.

The killer played tag with the police for two days, even welcoming them to his apartment, where the markings on the towels stuffed into the body led the search. He was not suspected then, however, as he brazenly told the officers. "I hope you catch the fiend."

Stealing and abandoning motor cars to steal again, Hickman kept a jump ahead of his pursuers as he fled north to Seattle, spending the

ON WAY HOME.

LONDON, October 19 (Canadian Press Cable).—Premier Mackenzie King, in company with the Hon. Charles Dunning, Canadian Minister of Railways, and Senators Raoul Dandurand, Andrew Haydon and W. L. McDougall, returns to Canada aboard the Empress of Scotland, sailing from Southampton to-morrow and arriving at Quebec City on October 27.

Premier King yesterday had another talk with Premier Stanley Baldwin. Later he said he had nothing to say regarding his stay in London except that it had been strenuous and pleasant.

CYCLIST HURLED TO PAVEMENT; MOTORIST FLEES

Second Hit-and-Run Accident of Month Reported to Police.

NUMBER TAKEN.

Driver Turned Off Lights As He Fled Down Park Street.

A second hit and run motorist in the past month made his appearance on the streets of Peterborough last night. This time Roy Rutherford, of 276 Thomas street, was knocked off his bicycle and although he was not seriously hurt, his bicycle was badly broken. The driver never slackened his speed to see if he had struck the m- but immediately flashed off his lights and hurried on.

The accident occurred early last evening at the corner of Park and Charlotte streets. Rutherford was riding his bicycle east on Charlotte when a car going west on Charlotte swung to go south on Park and knocked him to the pavement. In an instant the lights were flashed out and it speeded on its way down Park street.

Again the police have been able to secure the number of the car, which is is believed to be owned by a non-resident of this city.

A Border Transit Company bus driven by William Hunt, and a car owned by A. Fontaine, driven by Stewart Grant, collided at the corner of Downie and McDonnel streets last night. Both bus and automobile were travelling east on McDonnel street and as Grant went to turn into Downie street the accident occurred. The left rear fender of the automobile was broken, while two panels on the right side of the bus and a window were damaged.

Confidence In Council Fully Demonstrated

Utter confidence in her counsel was demonstrated in the Police Court yesterday morning by an old lady who was the complainant in an action under the Parents' Maintenance Act. She was well over seventy years old. After a rather stiff cross-examination by the defence lawyer, J. R. Corkery, she turned to the magistrate and exclaimed indignantly, "He knows no more about this than you do. Mr. Hatton is the only man that knows anything about this." The magistrate smiled and said: "Well, there is nothing like being satisfied with your own counsel.

Had Fuel For 35 Hours

Must Have Run Out of Gasoline Some Time During the Night.

MAY HAVE LANDED.

Only Possible Chance is Landing On Lone Island or Being Found By Small Ship.

LONDON, October 19 (Canadian Press). — Planes that had burned all night at Croydon and other airdromes to guide Lieut.-Commander H. C. McDonald to a safe landing were extinguished at dawn, today, and the hope that he had survived went out of the hearts of many. It was the general belief that he had become the nineteenth person to perish trying to fly the Atlantic. At most, his tiny plane, in which he risked his li. in the attempt to fly alone from Newfoundland, could need only enough gasoline for 35 hours of flying, and the thirty-fifth hour passed at 3.35 a.m (11.35 p.m. yesterday Eastern standard time).

Airdrome officials were decidedly pessimistic regarding the airman's fate, saying that there were only two slight possibilities now, that he had alighted on some remote island off the west coast of Scotland, or had been picked up by a boat unequipped with wireless. Another night of anxious vigil was spent by the flyer's wife, and she still clung to slight possibilities as hopes.

Steamer Sees Lights.

STEAMSHIP MARACH, October 19 (By Radio to Associated Press).—The Marach sighted at 11.30 a.m., Greenwich meridian time, Wednesday night (6.68 p.m. Eastern standard time) at latitude 53.03 north, longitude 43.42 west, in bearing 130 true at a big distance, lights most probably resembling an explosion.

The position given by the Marach is about 580 miles east of Belle Isle, Newfoundland, and along the course which Lieut.-Commander McDonald was flying when sighted by the steamship Hardenberg at 7.30 p.m., Eastern standard time, on Wednesday night, 150 miles farther east. Since the Hadrenberg reported that the airplane passed an hour later than the time given by the Marach for sighting the lights, it seems improbable that the Marach has evidence of a disaster to McDonald's plane.

Eighteen Lives Lost

NEW YORK, Oct 19.—(Canadian Press).—Prior to Lieut. Commander H. C. MacDonald's flight eighteen persons lost their lives in attempts to cross the Atlantic by air. They were:

Capt. Stroman, French officer and command Mouneyres who started from St. Louis, Senegal, May 5, 1927 for Buenos Aires and were never heard from again.

Captain Charles Nungesser and Francois Coli, French, lost their lives trying to fly from France to America the same month.

On August 1, 1927, Capt. Leslie Hamilton, Col. Frederick F. Minchin and Princes Lowenstein-Wertheym took off from Upavon, England, in the St. Rapael for Ottawa and disappeared.

Lloyd W. Bertaud, James Hill and Phillip Payne, Perished when they flew from old Archard, Maine, on Sept. 6, 1927, in an attempt to reach Rome.

Captain Terry Tully and Lieut. James Medcalfe were lost after leaving London, Ontario Sept. 7, 1927 for London, England.

Capt. Walter Hinchliffe and Honorable Elsie MacKay vanished after leaving England on a trans-Atlantic flight on March 13, 1928.

Mrs. Frances Grayson in "The Dawn" left Roosevelt Field N.Y., with three companions, Oskar Ombel, Brice Goldsborough and Fred Koehler, for a flight to Newfoundland en route across the Atlantic and were lost off Newfoundland.

Little Son Happy

LONDON, Oct. 19. — (Canadian Press). Ian McDonald, five year old son of Lieut. Commander H. C. McDonald, happily played in his home to-day too young to share in the general anxiety concerning his father, long overdue on an attempt to fly from Newfoundland.

"My daddy's flying over the sea" the child said. "I am going to see him to-day."

His mother kept vigil throughout the night near the telephone, hoping in vain of hearing some definite news of her husband, who is believed by many to have perished.

Scottish Coast Searched

STRANRAER, Scotland, Oct. 19.—(Canadian Press).—The possibility that Lieut. Commander H. C. McDonald, long overdue on his flight from Newfoundland, might have been forced down somewhere along the Scottish coast, led to the maintenance of a close watch by coastguards in this region but nothing has been seen or heard of the airman's tiny plane.

THE WEATHER

The rainfall yesterday gave a total of .63, which added to the amount which fell at night gives 1.37 for the 24 hours. This is a large figure and while not a record, is seldom exceeded.—W.P.

PROVINCE OF ONTARIO CENTRE OF INDUSTRY

Opinion Expressed By Sir D. Mann, Railway Magnate at Winnipeg.

TOURING DOMINION.

West Developing Along Lines of Branch Factories and Allied Movements.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 19.—Though approaching four-score years, Sir Donald Mann, pioneer railway builder of Canada, still has no notion of getting out of harness and letting younger hands guide his affairs. "I should say not," he declared last night. "I may not be as active in business as I once was, but there are many other works in which I am interested besides business."

Sir Donald is in Winnipeg, en route to Vancouver, where he is going to wind up some business affairs in which he is interested. For forty years or more he has traveled the width of the Dominion, starting when there was not a foot of railroad in Western Canada. In that respect he was of the same mind as the late James J. Hill, empire builder of the United States, whom Sir Donald greatly resembles. The two were very intimate friends in later life. Both were from Ontario and were born within a few miles of each other, not far from Hamtilon, but never met until both were prominent.

Speaking of industrial development in the west, Sir Donald said he believed the centre of manufacturing would always remain in Ontario, but Winnipeg and other western cities would rapidly develop along the lines of branch factories and allied movements. Sir Donald now is deeply religious and states that he reads the Bible daily, conscientiously and faithfully.

CANNIBALS DRIVEN AWAY BY AIRPLANE

Noted Pathologist Has Narrow Escape in Papua and New Guinea.

MAKE ATTACK

Seaplane Appears in Sight and Cannibals Make Hasty Retreat.

VICTORIA, B.C., Oct. 19.—(Special).—Returning from a 10,800 mile trip through Papua and New Guinea, Dr. E. W. Brandes, Chief Pathologist of the United States Department of Agriculture, told of a narrow escape at the hands of cannibals and how the noise of a seaplane probably saved his life and that of his pilot, Richard K. Peck. The trip was made by seaplane, canoe and on foot.

The encounter with the cannibals occurred in the middle of the Fly River district of Papua. Dr. Brandes and Mr. Peck apparently unobserved, were busy with their seaplane when there came a sudden shout and a rush of natives from the bush. They were armed with stone clubs and poisoned spears, which they waved threateningly. "It was a tense moment" acknowledged Dr. Brandes. Mr. Peck nodded his head in swift agreement. But the savages were checked in their rush by the sight of the plane. And in that second the motor was shot into action with a clamorous roar which sent the cannibals crashing back into the bush in horror stricken and appetites forgotten. They were not seen again.

Here and there in New Guinea and Paupa the doctor encountered other hostile natives, but fortunately with no mishaps. Twelve packing cases of weapons and strange curios were brought back by Dr. Brandes. These included several preserved human heads. Some of the heads were ornamented with colored clay, and others were in their natural state although distorted.

Sugar cane mosaic in particular has in recent years brought ruin to thousands of planters and it was the ravages of this disease that provided the incentive for the expedition.

More than 180 varetles of sugar cane were collected and sent to Washington and Sydney in duplicate. These included twenty varieties of wild cane and one species tentatively named saccharum robustum, the tallest and most vigorous species yet discovered.

Rum-Runners Seized By U.S. Coastguards

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 19.— (Canadian Press.)— Seven cabin cruisers with various quantities of wihskey, liquor and ale, were seized by United States' coast guards Wednesday night, when a fleet of approximately 25 runners tried to land their cargoes on the opposite shore of the river.

It is stated that only two of the boats which participated in the invasion, were successful in landing their wares and returned to their home port. All the members of the crews escaped with the exception of John Blackness, Bridgeburg, who was captured in a canoe off Strawberry Island

NEW "CONVALESCENT SERUM" CONQUERS INFANT PARALYSIS

NEW YORK, October 19. — So far as its deleterious effects are concerned, infantile paralysis finally has been conquered, Dr. Simon Flexner, of the Rockefeller Institute, has announced to the New York Academy of Medicine.

Dr. Flexner, after prolonged study and numerous experiments on monkeys innoculated with the virus, has produced a "convalescent serum," which not only immunizes against infection, but which prevents direful consequences when administered to those stricken with the disease.

The evidence of infantile paralysis is generally found in the central nervous system, so Dr. Flexner explained, it hitherto has been thought necessary to attack the virus by direct injections through the spine.

The scientist's experiments, however, have proved, he says, that the disease reaches the central nervous system by way of the upper respiratory mucous membranes. So, Dr. Flexner administers his "convalescent serum" through these membranes.

Dr. Flexner also tested his serum on human cases, and asserts, in every case, it proved successful.

BOX SOCIAL AT CAMPBELLFORD

True Blue Lodges Hold Well Attended Social Function.

GOOD PROGRAM.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 19. — In spite of most disagreeable weather there was a large crowd at the box social held under the joint auspices of the Duke and Duchess of Clarence Lodges, L.T.B., in their lodge rooms on Tuesday. The program was unusually good and the boxes sold for good prices. John I. Adams fulfilled the duties of chairman for the program and J. R. Battisby excelled himself at his vocation of auctioneering. Although there are no unusually high prices paid for any particular box, the general price was high and the lodge members express their complete satisfaction as regards the financial returns of the evening.

The program carried the name of only one out of town entertainer. This was Mr. Abercombe, of Meaford, singer and concert entertainer. James MacDowell and his guitar added greatly to the attractiveness of the evening. The program was opened by music by the Lady True Blue band, which also furnished other numbers during the evening. Members of the lodges also did their part and Mrs. Clarke's recitation, "Writing a Love Letter" was one of the most enjoyed numbers. It was very humorous. Black Clouds, a brief comedy, set the crowd in good spirits for the evening. Miss Olive and Miss Gladys Nicholas were the leaders in the sketch. Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. Carter and Miss Emma Carter drew a round of applause that was worth hearing when they excelled themselves with what was really a comic dialogue, although there were three persons in the cast. It was called "A Courting."

The Lady Masons, a short one-act play, was the high light of the program. A farce comedy from beginning to end, it was warmly applauded throughout. The cast consisted of nine characters, Mrs. Ayrhart, mistress of the lodge; Mrs. Carter, sister Gossip; Mrs. McArthur, sister Busybody; Miss Dulce Carter, sister Backbite and guardian of the goat; Miss Edna Blakeley, sister Lonesome; Miss Janet Scott, sister Peekaboo; Miss Carter, sister Thankful; Harold Booth, police officer, and Wesley McArthur, the goat.

HICKMAN READY TO DIE BRAVELY

Dies at 2 P.M. E.S.T. at San Quentin For Murder of Marion Parker.

RECEIVES LAST RITES.

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., Oct. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Fortified by the same bold spirit he has manifested ever since his arrest for the murder of twelve year old Marion Parker in Los Angeles last December, William Edward Hickman to-day was prepared to pay the death penalty on the scaffold in San Quentin prison. The hour for the execution was set for 10 a.m. A Roman Catholic priest administered the final consolation of the church, which faith Hickman recently embraced.

In a note to a prison chum, the slayer said: "I'm going to walk up like a man." He spent most of yesterday playing a phonograph and arranging flowers in his cell.

Big Temperance Rally Denounces Liquor Sale

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Speakers at the opening session of the Dominion wide temperance convention yesterday asserted that the advent of Provincial Governments into the field of the sale and control of liquor has brought in its wake a moral, social and legislative retrogression. It was also charged that sale of beer by glass has revived the old saloon in camouflaged form and that crime has increased and other attendant evils aggravated.

The convention is being held under the auspices of Canadian Temperance Federation. Delegates are in attendance from all parts of the Dominion, armed with reports and documents relating to the liquor situation.

HARMONICA BAND REPEATS CONCERT

Winners Were Heard in Solo Numbers Received Much Applause.

Another large crowd attended the concert held Wednesday evening in the Canadian Legion hall. The Kiwanis Club's Harmonica Band repeated their success of the evening before, with an even greater degree of enthusiasm manifested by their hearers. The winners of the Harmonica Contest were heard Wednesday evening in solo numbers, and were also greeted with much applause. Jack Skitch played "My Grandfather's Clock", Stewart Clarke played "Home Sweet Home" and Ward Rosebusl played "Annie Laurie." These were winners of first prizes in the Harmonica contest the evening before, in three classes.

Signor Lamberti, Madam Scott Hannigan, Miss Marie Thomson and the Canadian Singers were also heard to much advantage, in solo and choral selections, and two of the Public School Choirs of the city, trained by Miss M. R. Rannie, were opening numbers.

These children, who sing delightfully, with a smooth, even flow of melodious tone and an evident earnest and attentive care in enunciation and control, are excellent examples of the progress of musical training of this type, and their youthful appearance and fresh, sweet voices were greeted with pleased appreciation.

The choir of the Queen Mary School, directed by Miss M. Stenton, and composed of smaller children to give an idea of their work in music, sang in unison "Who is this that the Birdies Sing?" and "The Fairies" while the choir of the King Edward School, trained by Messrs. Bolton and Langford, sang two three-part songs, "Under the Hills" and "Ise Gwine Back to Dixie."

Six Are Injured In Airplane Crash

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Oct. 19.—(Canadian Press.)—A Junkers all-metal airplane, sistership of the trans-Atlantic Bremen, piloted by George King of Curtiss Field, L.I., and carrying as passengers six members of the Investment Bankers' Association in attendance at their convention here, crashed late yesterday afternoon on the meadows back of the city and resulted in serious injuries to six of the occupants.

A Reading railroad freight train was commandeered to bring the men to the station, where ambulances conveyed them to the hospital. The only conscious man was Alden H. Little of 33 South Clark street, Chicago, executive vice-president of the American Bankers' Association.

HOLD SALE OF FARM PROPERTY

Stock and Implements Bring Good Prices at Auction Sale.

STIRLING NEWS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

STIRLING, Oct. 19. —Bert Eggleton, of Anson, had a very successful sale of his farm stock and implements on Thursday last. Harry Wallace was the auctioneer in charge and the weather being ideal a large crowd greeted him from far and near and good prices were obtained. A span of horses going for $300, cows bringing from $75 to $125, yearling heifers averaging $57.50, spring calves $30 each, white Leghorn pullets $1.35 each. The total amount of the sale was over $3,500.

On Saturday last W. J. Graham, West Front street, had an extensive sale of his household effects. Mr. C. U. Clancy wielded the hammer. Mr. Graham intends moving to Toronto, where he has secured a lucrative position. Mr. Graham has spent all his life in Stirling, formerly running a foundry in the building now occupied as a garage by Ed. Baker and son.

The street paving has been completed and the men and machinery have moved to Frankford.

Mr. Joe Geary is making good progress with his new house on West Front street.

The new railing around the memorial plot is about finished and walks and flower beds are being laid out.

Word was received of a serious accident happening to Mr. Seymour Waller at Oshawa. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Waller and Mr. Walter Jeffery, a brother-in-law left soon after for the scene of the accident. While the accident was serious the extent of injuries could not be assured for a day or so, by the surgeon in charge. The patient was resting easier in the hospital last night.

The Young People's Society of St. Paul's United church held a very successful meeting on Monday night with 112 present. It was styled 'Canadian Authors' Night,' the life and works of Charles Robertson and Bliss Carmen being considered. Miss Bessie Dickens, 3rd vice-president, was in charge of the meeting. Great interest was manifested and much valued information gained by the discussion.

The Guild of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church was in charge of Lorne Anderson. The topic, "Science and the Human Body," was taken by Rev. A. N. Reid and it was ably discussed. Mrs. R. H. Williams rendered a

BOLT QUESTION COMES TO END

Bailiff Seizes Wheat Taken To Mill and Lays Charge Against Cleugh.

LATTER BOUND OVER.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 19.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Because he sold three loads of wheat and got the money for the first load and because the wheat was under seizure by the bailiff, Robert Cleugh, Seymour farmer paid the costs of the court this afternoon and was placed under bond for six months. Counties Magistrate Floyd of Cobourg heard the evidence and gave judgment in the matter. N. Alec MacColl appeared for the prosecution, and D. J. Lynch appeared for the defense. The action was brought by I. W. Plowman, bailiff for the eleventh division court of the County of Northumberland.

Plowman was the first witness called. He identified himself as the bailiff for the court, and claimed that he had served papers on Robert Cleugh. There were two execution orders and he had served them both at the same time, and made one seizure for the two. Cleugh had refused to pay anything on either claim when asked by the bailiff before the seizure was made. When the seizure was made he had taken an inventory of the goods and left a man in charge. Cleugh was furnished a copy of the inventory. On or about October 12, the bailiff claimed some of the goods were removed. It was learned by him that on Thursday, October 11, Cleugh had sold a load of wheat to McKelvie's mill. He, Plowman, had noticed the shortage when the viewed the grain on October 12. He at once came back to town and got a second man to replace the first, and both remained at the farm that night. Between nine and ten o'clock they saw Cleugh bagging grain. Plowman returned to town and left orders with the watchman to call him if any more grain were moved. The next morning he was told by his man that Cleugh was on the road to town with a load of grain.

The bailiff went directly to the mill and warned the miller and McKelvie that the grain was under seizure and was not for sale by Cleugh. The cheque was made payable to the bailiff, and Cleugh was

AUTO VICTIMS SOURCE OF WORRY; INSURANCE SHOULD BE COMPULSORY

TORONTO, October 19. — The hospital pays the bill for speeding and careless driving, declared R. H. Cameron in his presidential address at the opening of the annual convention of the Ontario Hospital Association yesterday.

"The inevitable and growing daily series of highway and street accidents result, as is right, in the injured persons being hastened to the nearest hospital," Mr. Cameron said. "Here emergency and subsequent treatment is given, the period of hospitalization often extending into weeks and months. In a majority of these cases the hospitals find it almost impossible to collect for their services.

Passing the Buck.

The injured parties say, "Collect from the owner of the car," and the owner says, "It is not my fault." Equity demands that a law should be enacted requiring every automobile owner to carry accident insurance, Mr. Cameron said. He recommended legislation which would provide that when a plaintiff has been awarded damages in an action arising from an accident, the claim or account of the hospital and surgeon should be a lien upon the amount granted in the verdict.

Will Enter Business Career

Former Secretary of State For India Leaves Official Politics.

WAS GENEROUS COLLEAGUE.

Resignation Regarded as Sign Politics Unable to Hold "Best Brains."

LONDON, England, Oct. 19 (Canadian Press Cable).—Lord Birkenhead, whose resignation as Secretary of State for India, has been announced, leaves official politics "finally," but is in fullest sympathy with Premier Stanley Baldwin and his colleagues. Correspondence between Lord Birkenhead and the Premier on the occasion of the former's resignation was published here last night. The correspondence was of a most cordial nature.

Lord Birkenhead's letter to the Premier, dated October 16, stated that owing to the intervention of "some balance of private convenience" he had asked the Premier to release him from his obligations at an earlier date than had been discussed some months previously. Lord Birkenhead wrote that he was leaving official politics "finally," but while in fullest sympathy with Premier Baldwin and his colleagues and not without hope that he may be permitted to offer some official help both in the House of Lords and, occasionally, in the country: He concluded by stating that Premier Baldwin's personality has converted the Cabinet into a "band of brothers," whom he leaves with emotion and affection.

Counsel Was Invaluable

In replying to this letter on October 17, Premier Baldwin expressed "profound regret" at Lord Birkenhead's resignation, and said that Lord Birkenhead's counsel in the Cabinet during the last four years had been invaluable.

Premier Baldwin termed Lord Birkenhead, "a tower of strength in the dark days, a generous colleague and a loyal friend," and wished him many years of happiness and prosperity in his new sphere of life.

Lord Birkenhead's resignation is generally regarded as a sympton of the declining power of politics to attract the "best brains." It is recalled that there have been many instances since the war of the abandonment of politics in favor of commerce. Among the examples quoted are those of Rt. Hon. Reginald McKenna and Sir Robert Horne, both former Chancellors of the Exchequer, and Sir Eric Geddes, former First Lord of the Admiralty. Mr. McKenna and Sir Robert Horne were both out of office when they decided to devote themselves to business and Sir Eric Geddes was a business man before he was a politician.

Needed Larger Income

Lord Birkenhead's case is unprecedented. He has had no previous commercial contracts and has voluntarily surrendered a high political position for a business career. It is believed that he has taken this step because of the need for a larger income.

Lord Birkenhead has had a great reputation as a judicial authority and his colleagues have always estimated highly his services in shaping the policies of the government, although he has been less favorably spoken of as administrator of the India Office.

In his letter to Premier Baldwin Lord Birkenhead remarked that he did not believe his four years in the India Office would be ultimately pronounced the "most unfruitful" of his life. Premier Baldwin, in his letter of reply, merely said: "It is too early yet to estimate the value of your work in the India Office, but I am confident the historians of our time will do it justice."

It is known that Lord Birkenhead found the rule laid down by Premier Baldwin prohibiting Cabinet Ministers from contributing to journalism, most irksome.

According to statements made by his friends, Lord Birkenhead intends, contrary to the modern practise to claim an ex-Chancellor's pension of five thousand pounds sterling yearly, although the presumption is that his services will not be available for judicial work. If the pension is claimed under such circumstances it is likely to cause much controversy.

FOWL SUPPER HAPPY EVENT

Plenty of Laughter and Good Food at Big Social.

MANY GATHER.

(Examiner Correspondence)

WARSAW, Oct. 19.—The fowl supper on Monday night was a great success. There was an abundance of good things and a big crowd to partake of it. The four tables could not nearly accommodate the people. Many who came early could not be seated until quite late and supper began at 5.30 and was not over until after 8 o'clock. Members of the Murray Street Baptist Church gave a program. Mr. Walter Kidd was chairman and he announced that the program would be one of wholesome fun, and it certainly was. The singing was excellent and the songs wholesomely funny. The male quartette was delightful and also the solos by Miss Kitney and Dr. Graham. Miss Webber accompanied and gave a pleasing piano solo. Mrs. (Dr.) Mcrgan gave some good advice to young unmarried women. All the numbers were heartily encored and kindly responses were given. Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Church and Rev. Mr. McNeilly of Keene gave addresses and each wittily joked the other. Mr. Anderson, M.P.P., was called upon and gave a glimpse of the many duties of an M.P.P.

People were present from all the surrounding villages and many came from Peterobrough.

Service in the Presbyterian church was conducted by a student from Knox College. Mrs. Black, who with her mother, was visiting Mrs. W. Dunford, sang.

Rev. Mr. Kemp in the evening service in the United Church took the text 1 Cor. 4-2: "Therefore it is required in stewards that a man be found faithful." Mr. Kemp stated that the words of the text were an accepted fact. A steward must be faithful. We are, each and every one, God's stewards, and we must be faithful as to God as we would be to men.

God does not really need our work, our money or anything we have. Indeed we have really no right to call it our own, for it is only lent to us to use for Him. It is to our advantage to use right for God that which He has lent to us. He gives us the chance to glorify Him in our steward ship.

If we are not faithful our church and its very foundations will be demoralized. As a parent may test a child so God tests us. God loves a cheerful giver and by being such and in every way being faithful our character is developed and strengthened. Money is stored up energy, our characters are the result of our acts. The Old Testament claimed that one tenth belonged to God; by giving we com. into partnership with God, which is God's desire. We must give to God if we obey Jesus' command "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature."

The choir sang two anthems, "Oh How Lovely" and "They That Trust in the Lord." Henry Batten sang "The Holy City."

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct 19—Wings, the much lauded story of the war from the air, is coming to town for one night only. All seats are reserved on the main floor and already the demand has practically demolished the supply.

Rain for the last few days has seriously impeded the farmers with their out door work and also seriously effected the social events of the community.

The paper mill started work again yesterday after being closed for more than a week. It is understood that it will continue to operate for a short time only.

Among the local improvements has been noticed a green and white front on Birk's drug store. Recently a new street light was placed on that corner and Mr. Birk assisted with the good work by painting the front of his drug store green with white trimming.

IN POLICE COURT

(Examiner Staff Correspondent.)

CAMMPBELLFORD, Oct. 19.— An offence in which the charge was breach of the Liquor Control Act was finally settled in police court here yesterday afternoon when a young man from Peterborough was ordered to pay one hundred dollars and eight dollars costs. The action came as the result of the man having liquor in a car at Trent River on August 23rd The car did not belong to him, but its owner was also assessed eight dollars with an option of fifteen days. The fine was ordered paid on or before Tuesday, October 23. The case was dealt with by Magistrate Payne.

MALKIN WINS IN VANCOUVER

Has Majority of About 1,500 Over Mayor Louis D. Taylor.

ONE POLL TO HEAR FROM.

VANCOUVER, B.C., October 18 (Cnadian Press). — W. H. Malkin, pioneer business man, has been elected first Mayor of the Amalgamated City of Greater Vancouver. His majority will run about 1,500 over Mayor Louis D. Taylor with one poll to report out of thirty-nine. The vote stands: Malkin 18,222, Taylor 16,843.

The missing poll, it is believed will add about two hundred to Mr. Malcandid J. Rubinowitz, polled only a few votes.

BOLT QUESTION COMES TO END

told not to move any more grain, but the incident was repeated on the third day, and the bailiff was handed the second cheque. On this occasion he laid a complaint to the magistrate which had resulted in the present action. The wheat was part of the goods seized, Plowman stated again, and he had only received the cheque for two of the three loads that had been disposed of.

D. J. Lynch, counsel for the defense, began his examination of Mr. Plowman by asking for detailed information regarding the actual proceedings of the seizure. He succeeded in establishing the fact that the bailiff had not fully complied with the last letter of the law regarding his signature and dates on the papers Plowman pleaded ignorance, in that he did not understand that he must sign these papers and also write in the dates he received them and when he executed the orders. "I got my instructions from the Attorney General," he defended himself, "saying that I would receive further instructions from the clerk of the court. I have carried these out to the letter so far as I know."

Plowman had been bailiff for eighteen months, he claimed, and did not know that he could not make two seizures at the same time. He had been told to do so by the clerk and had believed it to be the proper procedure. Mr. Lynch then brought the attention of the court to the fact that the notice served was a landlord's distress warrant and was, he claimed, not according to the act governing the present case. This called for some dispute from MacColl but without altering the opinion of Mr. Lynch.

Once more Plowman was called upon to relate the details of his trip to the farm and of his placing the goods under guard. The first watchman, Scott, had wanted to be relieved and had been replaced by Albert (Bert) Runnels. Runnels was told that he had access to the barn and garage, and to see that nothing was removed from them. Following one question with another, Mr. Lynch finally led the bailiff to say that he had received money in payment of the claim which had caused the distress warrant to be issued, but the money had not been put in the bank till after the charge had been laid. He would not have laid the information had the money been paid in time. He was willing to withdraw the charge and had no desire to be mean, he said.

Magistrate Floyd was not of the same opinion. The charge was of a criminal nature, he claimed, and could not be withdrawn except in open court. Mr. Lynch claimed that while the act was contrary to the Statutes of Ontario, he did not think it was criminal. The bailiff had done the best he could, but had not been propely or correctly instructed. There had been errors in his execution of his duties. Considering the fact that the money had been paid into court although under protest, the magistrate allowed Cleugh to pay the costs of the court, $11.40, and placed him under bond for six months.

DESCRIBES MOST OF MISSIONARIES

gree, that history may some day be divided, so far as some parts of the world are concerned, into the pre-missionary and post-missionary periods. "A striking example is the fact that after fifty years, there are more Christians in Korea alone, than there were in the whole world at the close of the first century of Christianity," said the speaker, and yet, they will say that conditions are not so favorable as in the days of Christ.

"It brings me home from the foreign field with a challenge to the United Church of Canada, for the day has come for a nobler type of civilization, and there is the challenge of the unfinished task," Dr. Endicott declared. He then wetn on to urge upon his auditors the necessity and the blessing of giving to the mission work, with many striking examples of the beenfits thereof.

Dr. A. Moir was heard following the main address. He announced the special program for the week beginning November 4, when exchange of pulpits by local ministers, and the bringing in of special speakers is hoped to bring about a great revival of interest in the work of the United Church of Canada.

The Rev. Mr. Stillman voiced the gathering's appreciation of Dr. Endicott's address and the meeting closed

BELLEVILLE VANDALS.

The vandalism of the three "sportsmen" who invaded Belleville's new game sanctuary and slaughtered all but nine of the flock of twenty-nine wild Canada geese maintained there will inspire a general wish that the offenders receive the punishment they deserve.

Wallace Havelock Robb, well-known Belleville naturalist, had established the sanctuary along the lines so successfully followed by Jack Miner, and it was hoped that eventually it would develop as had the Kingsville venture.

The mentality of men who would callously enter such a preserve and shoot promiscuously at "pinioned" birds which were unable to fly as well as the others capable of taking wing is difficult to understand, and it is no wonder that Mr. Robb, who has taken such deep interest in the establishment of the sanctuary in the face of apathy among other Belleville citizens, is reported as "heart-broken."

If there is any chance of running down and prosecuting those guilty of this outrage sportsmen everywhere will hope that the seriousness of the offence will be emphasized in the penalty inflicted.

PROMOTING CANADIAN UNITY.

In arranging for a tour of the clubs in Central and Western Canada by three Nova Scotia members of Parliament, the Canadian Clubs of Canada are to be congratulated upon a movement designed to promote Canadian unity, and to contribute to a better understanding of Canadian conditions and problems.

The three Nova Scotia spokesmen entrusted with this important responsibility are well qualified to present the case of the Maritime Provinces to the people of other parts of the Dominion.

All are eloquent and forcible speakers and each is well acquainted with a different phase of Maritime conditions—Mr. Lisley with agricultural problems, Mr. Ernst with the fishing industry, and Mr. McDougall with questions pertaining to mining and manufacturing.

The tour of these speakers gives promise of being attended with such beneficial results that more than one newspaper has made the suggestion that other organizations of the same character as the Canadian Club should follow the latter's example and arrange for the visit of speakers from various sections of Canada.

Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs are in a position to do something along the line suggested with splendid prospects of material benefit ensuing.

THE FINAL RALLY.

To-morrow, the last day of the Produced-in-Canada Exhibition, should see the largest attendance of the week as the community makes the final rally in support of this big enterprise.

Although bad weather has been encountered over much of the week, the patronage has been splendid, and with a real crowd to-night and to-morrow the financial success of the Exhibition would seem to be assured.

There is a special afternoon programme, and the Armouries should be crowded both then and in the evening when the final events of the Exhibition will be staged.

The fact that the proceeds from the enterprise are used by the Kiwanis Club for community purposes, coupled with the all-round excellence of the show itself, justifies this closing appeal on behalf of Peterborough's Produced-in-Canada Exhibition.

Good as has been the attendance throughout the week, The Examiner hopes that tomorrow will see all records broken in this respect, and that the final check-up will show a substantial surplus that can be devoted to assisting worth-while community activities, such as the Peterborough Health Association.

LET IN THE DAYLIGHT.

The charges made by R. C. Brien, ex-member of the Provincial Police, that political interference checked the enforcement of the Liquor Control Act in Waterloo County, have been made in detail and are too serious to be lightly dismissed.

The Attorney-General was right in asking for full reports, but he cannot afford—nor can the Government—to have the matter rest there.

The accusations call for a thorough inquiry, and more than that, they call for a public inquiry in which the Brien complaints can be sifted to the bottom.

If the Liquor Control Act is to have a chance to succeed its enforcement must be efficient, honest and impartial.

To allow the people of Ontario to think that political considerations weigh more than that kind of enforcement would be fatal to the success of the present system of handling the liquor problem.

This ex-Provincial policeman has made specific charges, and is prepared to face a public inquiry into the whole case.

It is difficult to see how the Government can succeed in refusing to grant such an investigation without doing itself and the Liquor Control Act a great deal of harm.

MR. MacDONALD'S METHOD.

There is no doubt that Right Hon. Ramsay MacDonald has won the support of the German Reichstag for the premiership of Great Britain. His speech before that body on Monday night warmed the hearts of his auditors even to the point of applause, as it was designed to do, probably, but before he reached the speech-making point his reputation as a German hero was established. In introducing him President Loebe recalled, according to the news despatches, "how bravely he pleaded for British neutrality at the outbreak of the war."

If only he had been in charge of the British Government then! What a difference it would have made in the fortunes of the German war lords and the Kaiser, in the map of Europe, the future of the British Empire and the rest of the world!

Mr. MacDonald appeared before the Reichstag to plead for peace and disarmament, the desirability of which is acknowledged around the world. But does he think that if Britain had remained neutral in the war and the tearing up of the "scrap of paper" had passed without protest the word "disarmament" would be on the lips of any one to-day? The former Premier was wrong then. He is wrong now when he tells the German people that one nation was not wholly responsible for the war. Anxious as the British people are to maintain and develop friendship and good-will, it is traitorous to have such a message go forth to their former enemies as in their name.

When Mr. MacDonald came to Canada not long ago almost his first public utterance was to deplore the attitude of Great Britain toward Soviet Russia. He has now, inferentially, blamed Britain for participating in the war, for Britain's action was based on the belief that Germany, and Germany alone, was responsible. In the first case he pleased Russia, in the second Germany; but it does not seem like the part of a patriotic public man seeking Government leadership to turn his back thus on his own country.

Surely the gaining of international good-will does not call for the sacrificing of truth and honor. If Mr. MacDonald wished Germany to accept the olive branch, was it necessary first to apologize for his country's acts and hand out a dose of adulterated soothing syrup? It is fortunate that he is not in a position to speak officially for Britain and that any letter of thanks he may receive from German officialdom or the ex-Kaiser will not come through official channels.—The Globe.

ABOUT CADET CORPS.

In view of the fact that during recent years there has been considerable objection to the maintenance of cadet corps in connection with Canadian schools on the ground that they promoted militarism, it is interesting to find that the General Council of the United Church of Canada, in which organization perhaps the greatest opposition to cadet corps originated, recently found that "since the results of our study of the whole situation fail to bring to light any feature of cadet training, as at present carried on in our provincial schools, against which the Christian conscience must protest, the church is not called upon to pronounce against the movement, much less to demand its abolition."

This pronouncement, made after an exhaustive investigation of the cadet corps movement had been conducted by a commission appointed for that purpose by the General Council, should relieve parents of any fear that they might have entertained of their boys becoming wedded to militaristic doctrines through the training which they received in the school cadet corps. The commission set up by the General Council of the church at its 1926 meeting set about investigating the question in a thoroughly systematic and scientific manner. It addressed enquiries to approximately 250 individuals throughout the Dominion, half of them principals of schools and the balance principals of residential boys' schools, representatives nominated by religious educational organizations and women nominated by leaders in the Women's Missionary Society, and of all these replies, according to Rev. Dr. Ernest Thomas, who writes in the New Outlook, not five had serious criticism to make against the manner in which the cadet corps system is operated.

The commission found that "The cadet corps is an organization, normally associated with a school, with a program which includes physical training, company drill, first aid, signalling and rifle shooting at the target. . . . Almost invariably the work is conducted by a regular member of the school staff, possessing the requisite qualifications; and it is subject to annual inspection by a representative of the Department of Militia, which also makes a small grant to meet the expenses incurred. The evidence shows that there is no such essentially military character in the cadet program as is found in the Officers' Training Corps. There is widespread objection among the heads of Canadian schools to having the cadet work designated 'military training,' seeing that the contacts with distinctively military temper and aims are at most incidental."

The evidence gathered by the commission showed that:

"(a) The habit of prompt obedience is still part of the good life, and is one preparation for fitness to command in any sphere.

"(b) Uniform has proved its social value, and the only question is as to the uniform to be adopted. Regulations do not prescribe any particular uniform and many units have none.

"(c) Weapons must be discussed with discrimination. Bayonet practice, for instance, is so intimately associated with killing men in battle as to be unsuited to the training of boys; and it is nowhere practised in any school known to the commission. Rifle shooting, however, has no such association and offers a form of sport demanding high powers and self-control, thus making for good character.

"(d) First aid needs no argument to reveal its educational value both as a specific skill, and as inducing certain attitudes of mind.

"(e) Signalling has proved of value as promoting closeness of attention with rapid and sensitive response to others.

"(f) Company drill does not received as undivided a support, though the preponderant opinion is that it makes for morale in school life; It becomes conspicuous, however, usually only in the last period preceding annual inspection."

There is the further evidence, presented almost unanimously, that, far from fostering militarist sentiment, the cadet corps have difficulty in retaining their members after two or three years, and that very few enlistments in the militia are prompted by experience gained in the cadet corps.

Whether cadet corps do or do not, however, influence enlistments in the militia, the fact remains that the training which their members receive is of the greatest possible benefit. It develops the boys physically and mentally and by rendering them subject to a certain degree of discipline, improves their character and better fits them to become citizens.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Two more nights for the Produced-in-Canada Exhibition. Make them record-breaking in point of attendance.

A regular Zeppelin service between the United States and Germany is planned. But better time will have to be made than that registered by the Graf Zeppelin in her recent voyage.

There are to be no changes in the Liquor Control Act at the next session, according to reports. The Government is apparently satisfied with the profits made this year.

With the new liquor permits to be issued in book form, Sir Henry Drayton is evidently out to capture a share of the Christmas book trade.

Have you heard about Peps! Peps is a scientific preparation put up in pastille form, which provides an entirely new and effective treatment for coughs, colds, chest and throat troubles.

Peps contain certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapor, and are breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the lungs.

While no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, these Peps fumes get there direct, and healing commences.

A Thought

COURAGE.

The greatest of all is moral courage. It is a comparatively easy thing to face a gun—I have done it and have been unafraid—but, oh, it is a difficult, trying thing to stand up and fight for one's ideals and ideals in a world that is all to eager to attack both.

Ask the men who has blazed the way for civilization, and they'll tell you that the most dreadful ordeal of all was the jeering of the crowd.

Sympathy is a nerve tonic. But the man who advances a new idea gets very little of it.

Convictions aren't hard to acquire. To stand by them isn't quite so easy.

Physical courage is largely a matter of nerves, rather than of nerve. Moral courage goes deep—it is founded on character, faith, the spirit of the conqueror.

My heart goes out to the man who has a better way, who knows he is right and who braves the forces of convention until they give ground and finally bend the knee to his daring.

Every human has this in common with God, that he makes his own world.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 19 (Canadian Press). — Extreme dullness marked the export trade in grain here yesterday owing to the fact that foreign bids were below local exporters' views. The domestic cash grain trade was fair and values were unchanged.

The inquiry for Spring and Winter wheat flour was of a limited character, but prices were firm.

An active trade was done in millfeed, and the undertone to the market was firm. There was a fair demand for standard grades of rolled oats, and prices remained stationary.

Little business was done in butter, but values were firmly maintained. Receipts were 744 packages.

The undertone to the cheese market continued easier, but there was no further change in prices. The demand was inactive. Receipts were 11,533 boxes.

The egg market was moderately active, and values for fresh and storage grades were firm. Receipts were 883 cases.

Imported beans were in good demand. Choice white hand-picked grades sold at $4.80 to $4.60 per bushel, ex-store.

A small trade was done in potatoes and prices were firm. New Brunswick Green Mountains were quoted at 80 cents per bag of 90 pounds, in bulk, with Cobblers at 75c per bag, ex-track; while Prince Edward Island Green Mountains best grade Cobblers sold at 85c to 90c per bag of 90 pounds in bag, f.o.b. TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Choice steers and heifers were in demand and sold steady at $10 to $10.50. Heavy steers sell slowly to a poor demand. Medium and common butchers bring $8.50 to $9.50.

Choice fat cows are steady at $8 to $8.50. Some real fancy bring $9. Medium are selling at $6.25 to $7.

There is a fairly good sale for choice light butcher bulls at $7.50 to $8.50. Heavy are turned over at $7.50 to $8. Bolognas do not meet with the same feeling as other types, and sell at $6 to $6.25.

There is no lessening in purchases of baby beeves. Choice bring $14.00 to $15.00, an odd fancy will fetch $15.50. Mediums sell for $11.00 to $12.00.

Stocker and feeder trade is a trifle slow. Buyers of good steers pay $9.25 to $9.75 for them on through billing.

STERLING EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 19 (Canadian Press).—Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

Demand $4.84¾ to ⅞
Cables $4.85 3-16 to ¼

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 19 (Canadian Press). — Jumping up four cents a bushel in some cases, the corn market yesterday definitely parted company with wheat, demand was urgent for corn ready to be put to immediate use, and talk was current that no big arrivals of the 1928 corn crop would be available before the last part of November. Despite the strength of corn, wheat values averaged lower.

Closing quotations on corn were unsettled at ⅝ to 1¼c net advance, with wheat at ¼ to ⅝c decline; oats ⅛ to ¼c up, and porvisions varying from 25 cents setback to a rise of 47 cents.

Maximum gains in corn prices were scored on spot deliveries of corn, old corn was commanding all the way from 1 to 4 cents a bushel advance, and new corn ½ to 1 cent better than Wednesday.

Future deliveries of corn were also advanced sharply, but profit-taking sales eased the futures back from the day's top level. Buying was based chiefly on smallness of receipts, scantiness of stocks at terminal markets, unfavorable weather for conditioning of the crop and on indications that export houses were in the market for future deliveries. Meanwhile, trade authorities were predicting that before arrivals of new corn are plentiful the available stocks of old corn would be at virtually the vanishing point.

Decided falling-off in the volume of corn shipments from Argentina, together with Liverpool reports of good demand abroad for United States corn helped in a material degree yesterday to strengthen the corn market here. Argentine corn shipments for the last week totaled only only 4,331,000 bushels, compared with more than 7,000,000 bushels a year ago. Meanwhile, corn receipts in Chicago yesterday amounted to but fifty cars, of which 12 cars were new corn. It was pointed out also that the entire United States visible supply of corn at present is just 3,313,000 bushels Moreover, reports yesterday from various parts of the corn belt indicated that farmers are inclined to crib more than usual, the 1926 crop being of extra good quality.

Wheat acted weak most of the day and there was considerable selling of wheat to go into store here. Ideal weather and excellent crop prospects in Argentina were a bearish factor, and export call for wheat from North America was slack, with Argentine pressing to sell wheat to Europe at cheaper rates. On the other hand, domestic flour trade was improved and buying of wheat for mill tended somewhat to steady the cash wheat market. Oats averaged higher, sympathizing with corn. For the most part, provisions were lower, responsive to a drop in hog values to under any record since June.

BUTTER AND EGGS

TORONTO, Oct. 19.— Rising prices for strictly fresh eggs of extra grade were again indicated yesterday, when some dealers marked up quotations a full cent a dozen for deliveries next week. Quotations to country shippers for fresh firsts and lower grades remain fairly level with a week ago in a quiet movement. Pullet extras, per dozen at 38c to shippers are being quoted in some market quarters. Receipts of fresh-

IN POLICE COURT

Charged with an infraction of the Trade Mark Act Nichols G. Doukas pleaded guilty in police court yesterday morning before Magistrate O. A. Langley and was fined $10 and $9.25 costs. The Coca Cola Company of Canada was the informant and it is alleged that Doukas had used their bottles to sell Coca Cola of his own mixture without its consent. Crown Attorney Hatton, K.C., prosecuted and asked that the sentence be light as Mr. Doukas had not carried on the business to any extent and that he was not aware he was doing a wrong. He suggested that suspended sentence would be sufficient. Magistrate Langley took an opposite view and said he did not believe that suspended sentences were for such cases and that the interests of the Company which spent a great amount of advertising must be considered. He therefore fined the defendant $10 and costs and warned him what he might expect if he ever came before the court again. E Sheehy represented the defendant.

PROVISION FOR MIDDLE CLASS CHIEF PROBLEM

Adequate Care For People of Moderate Means Troubles Hospitals.

DEFENDS COSTS.

President of Hospital Association Says Only Economy Keeps Them So Low.

TORONTO, Oct. 18 (Canadian Press).—Provision of adequate hospital facilities for the average citizen and his family who wish to be self-supporting, the great middle class of self-respecting people of moderate means, is the greatest problem confronting the hospitals to-day, declared R. H. Cameron, in his presidential address at the opening of the Ontario Hospital Association convention here to-day.

Defending present hospital costs for semi-private and private wards, Mr. Cameron said it was only through stringent economy throughout that costs have been kept to their present level. The solution of the problem lay in three ways, he said; the certainty of adequate endowment funds to provide an annual income for upkeep, a small further tax on the present well citizen to assist his brother in distress, and utmost caution applied in planning of new hospitals and extensions.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1928
(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Good aspects rule today, according to astrology which finds the horoscope favorable to most human interests.

It is pre-eminently a day for winding up business matters and especially favorable to the settlement of debts.

Banks and bankers should bring good luck to those who consult them or do business with them.

All the signs seem to promise much stimulation of commercial enterprise through far-reaching co-operation.

Many wise men and women will assure fortune, the seers foretell, as employees rather than as independent business factors.

If the stars are rightly read, princely salaries are to multiply in the next few years and women are to benefit as well as men.

This is read as a lucky wedding day, making for harmony and understanding rather than quick prosperity.

Lawyers are to profit at this time when many important legal questions are said to be formulating. The seers foretell many international problems.

This should be a day favorable to young students of both sexes. Honors soon are to come to many who are now within the influence of the American universities, astrologers prophesy.

Under this direction of the stars housewives should benefit for relief from certain economies is indicated.

Growth of many coast towns and cities is foretold for the coming year when both the Pacific and Atlantic seaboards are to prosper exceedingly.

Persons whose birthdate it is should beware of possible losses in the coming year. There is a sign read as presaging robbery or forgery as likely for certain subjects of this sign of Libra.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly ambitious and given to the sort of imagination that pictures big success in life. These subjects of Libra also may partake of Scorpio traits which imparts great vitality. They should be vigorous thinkers and may have remarkable skill in the use of the hands.

Lakefield

(Examiner Correspondence).

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 19.—Despite bad weather and several counter attractions, the attendance at the dance given in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening was large and a pleasant evening was spent. The music was provided by Ferdy Mowry and his Collegians, and was thoroughly appreciated. Miss Grace Watson and Arthur Barker won the prize in the lucky number dance. As the first dance of the season, it augers well for future success; the younger set were present en masse.

The card party given on Tuesday evening under the auspices of the ladies of St. Paul's Church was very successful in spite of an unusual number of counter attractions. The prizes were won by Miss Helen Coughlin and Mr. Walter Chappell, and the consolation prizes by Mrs. Johnston and Mr. Norman Graham.

Rev. and Mrs. J. Ross were in Toronto last week attending the meeting of the Synod of the Presbyterian Church.

Miss Gertrude Finnemore of Toronto is visiting Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Finnemore in the village.

Mrs. Purdy left last week to return to Harrington, Labrador, where she will resume her duties as nurse in one of Dr. Grenfell's hospitals.

Mrs. C. L. Harrison was in Peterborough on Wednesday.

Mr. Austin Walsh of Young's Point was in the village on Tuesday.

Miss M. A. Griffin, of Peterborough, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Watson for a few days in the village. Miss Griffin closed her cottage, "Eagle's Nest," Stoney Lake, a couple of weeks ago, and leaves shortly to visit her sister, Mrs. C. W. Finnemore, in Unionville.

TICKET 150 WINS A WAVE

But If Not Claimed Within a Week Then 255 Has a Chance.

THREE DRAWN.

When the draw was made for the permanent wave offered during the first half of the Produced-in-Canada Exhibition week by Madame Merriam to help Kiwanis Club, three tickets were taken, as experience has shown that often the winner fails to claim the reward. The first ticket drawn was number 150, and if the holder of this ticket does not turn it in at Madame Merriam's parlor before October 25, it will then be the turn of the holder of 255. If 255 does not report before November, the third ticket drawn, number 151, will have an opportunity to claim the permanent wave.

Another permpanent wave is being donated by Madame Merriam, the draw to take place on Saturday. There is also a raffle for a fitted travelling case, offered by Kiwanis Club. This draw, also, will be made on Saturday night.

647 LISTED IN DOG DIRECTORY

City's Official Canine Population Has Increased Slightly During Year.

MORE CATS FOUND.

If it takes 15,000 people to make a city how many dogs does it take to make a dog town? Peterborough has 647 dogs, at least that is the number of dog licenses that have been issued to owners, but it is likely there is many a pup roaming the streets that isn't listed in the city's dog directory at the police station. The official dog population has increased a little over last year.

The police claim there are many more cats than dogs. Numerous warehouses keeping a regular flying-squadron of tabbies for mouse protection. It would certainly be a difficult job to catch and tag all the cats that roam the back alleys, cellars and barns throughout the city.

It may be said that every dog has his day but every cat her nights.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Oct. 18 (Canadian Press).—With twenty liquor running boats reported to have left the Canadian shore under the cover of the light fog, coastguards and customs men patrolled the Niagara River throughout the night to prevent landing of the cargoes on the American side.

All available coastguard patrol boats had been mobilized into the Niagara River to meet the expected invasion which government men said was the biggest ever attempted in this section.

Lieut. Martin W. Rasmussen, district coastguard commander, said the liquor fleet had been lined up along the Canadian shores for some time awaiting a heavy fog or extremely dark night in order to make a dash across the river.

LYRICS OF LIFE

LUCKY

I've seen a lot of optimists,
I've even been one now and then,
But here is one who heads the lists
Of all the optimistic men.
Old Hiram Hopkins (put it down)
Had more bad luck, I understood,
Than anybody else in town,
And yet he thought his luck was good.

I've heard that some enjoy poor health;
Old Hiram did, I'm here to tell.
He wouldn't miss, for all man's wealth,
The fun he got from getting well.
Some fellows never sick a day
Would growl and grumble, kick and whine,
But Hiram, he was glad to say,
Was getting better, feeling fine.

Yes, he was happier a lot
Than lots of luckier men I knew;
For if you're lucky, or you're not,
Depends on how things look to you.
Such awful luck he always had
That when it happened, as it would,
His luck was not so awful bad,
Why, then he thought his luck was good.

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE CROW'S NEST

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Once upon a time there was an Old Crow who lived in a large nest made of sticks high up in a tall tree. Crows like to build their nests high up so they can look afar off over the fields and woods not only to see where there may be things to eat, but so their eggs are not so easily come at by other birds or animals.

Now when the weather began to turn cold in Woodland where Old Crow lived some of his mates cawed to him:

"Aren't you going to fly down South with us where the weather will be warm when there is snow and ice here? Aren't you?"

"No," answered Old Crow. "I think

I shall stay here all winter. I do not believe it will be so very cold. Besides, I will get some warm cotton from the pods of the milkweed plant and line my nest with that. Also I am getting old. One of my wings was hurt where a farmer shot at me when I was taking a little of his corn and I cannot well fly so far as the Sunny South. I shall stay here."

So Old Crow stayed and his mates flew away. At first it was quite pleasant even in October in Woodland. The nights were a bit cold but the days were warm and sunny and Old Crow flew about getting what he wanted to eat and at night snuggling down in his nest warmly lined with cotton fluff from the pods of the milkweed plant.

But after a time it began to snow now and then and the rain, instead of being warm drops of water, turned freezing cold and chilled Old Crow's feathers.

"Perhaps I should have flown South," he cawed. "But I know I could never flutter so far. And now I would freeze on the way. I might as well freeze here. I will make my nest warmer with more milkweed fluff."

But the weather grew colder and colder and rain and snow blew into Old Crow's nest for there were no leaves on the trees to form a roof as there had been in summer. So, in spite of putting more warm lining in his nest of sticks, Old Crow was very chilly at night.

"If I only had a roof over my nest it wouldn't be so bad," he said.

Then one day Old Crow happened to see Uncle Wiggily come to the back door of his hollow stump bungalow with an old umbrella which had a number of broken and bent ribs.

"What are you going to do with that old umbrella, Mr. Longears?" cawed Old Crow.

"It is no good any more," answered the rabbit, "and I am going to throw it away."

"Then please throw it up to my nest, if you can toss it that far!" begged Old Crow. "The umbrella may be too old for you but it will make a fine roof for my nest since I am going to live here all winter."

"Are you?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "Then you may have this umbrella and welcome. I'll toss it up." But the tree of the crow's nest was high and the rabbit could not toss the umbrella far enough. Three times he tried but each time the umbrella fell back to the ground. At last Old Crow cawed:

"Wait until there comes a strong puff of wind. Then throw the umbrella and the wind will carry it up to my nest."

So Uncle Wiggily waited and soon with his tossing and the wind blowing the umbrella sailed high up and, opening, fell over the Crow's nest like a black tent. The handle stuck in the crotch of a tree and was held firmly there so that now Old Crow had a roof over his head.

"How is that?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Fine and dandy!" cawed Old Crow. "Much obliged! Now the rain will not splatter on me nor will the snow get in my feathers and give me a chill. Thank you so much. You did me a big favor."

"I am glad I could," answered Mr. Longears. "The umbrella was of no use to me, but I am glad you can use it."

Surely enough, the next time it rained the crow was as dry as an ice-cream cone beneath the umbrella roof over his nest. And when it snowed none of the white flakes drifted in. So with that and the milkweed fluff lining Old Crow thought he could live through the winter very well.

But one night, all of a sudden, Old Crow awakened under his umbrella covered nest and he thought to himself:

"My goodness I should have offered to do Uncle Wiggily a favor to pay him for the favor he did me in tossing up this umbrella. How careless and unkind of me! The first thing in the morning I'll fly to his bungalow and offer to do him a favor to pay him back."

Old Crow could hardly wait for morning to come he was so anxious.

CLOTHES HOLDERS

When airing winter things that have been stored, put them on the line right on their hangers, with a clothes pin snapped onto the line on either end to keep the hangers from slipping.

SAND BLAST USED IN STONE CARVING

Coughlin Monument Works Installs Booth at the Armouries.

The last word in artistic lettering. The Coughlin Monumental Works have installed a large sand blast machine for lettering and carving granite monuments. This machine does much better work than can possibly be done by pneumatic tools, and of course the old time mallet and chisel is altogether obsolete. You can see a sample of the work by visiting the north-west corner of the Made-in-Canada Fair.

HUMANE SOCIETY HAS GOOD BALANCE

Decides To Arrange Presentation To Miss Beatrice Wilson.

The regular meeting of the Humane Society was held last night in the Chamber of Commerce. The president, Dr. Thomas Johnston presided. The treasurer reported a balance on hand of $178.68' After the usual business of the meeting was discussed a letter from the Royal Canadian Humane Society, of Hamilton, was read referring to the presentation of their testimonial to Miss Beatrice Wilson of this city for the rescuing of Herbert Bowen from the water last May. It was decided to have a public presentation to Miss Wilson at the Armouries on Saturday night at 8:30 by kind permission of the Kiwanis. Prominent men of the city will be asked to speak and the presentation will be made by the president of the Peterborough Humane Society.

HON. G. N. GORDON ATTENDS BANQUET

Introduces Dr. C. C. Wu To Chinese Nationalist Club Members.

The Hon. G. N. Gordon introduced His Excellency Dr. C. C. Wu at the banquet given by the Chinese Nationalists Club at Toronto last night in the King Edward Hotel.

His Excellency is the plenipotentiary to the United States from the Republic of China, and gave a statement of the rise of the Republic under Dr. Sun Yat Sen, and the development of republican ideas in China.

Among the other speakers were the Hon. Charles McRae, Minister of Mines in the Ferguson Government and Dr. K. H. Chow, Consul-General of China to Canada.

The event was a very important one to the Chinese population in Eastern Canada and representatives from nearly all the cities in Eastern Canada were there.

masked silver grey female class, without some feeling of respect. Mrs. Simmons of Hamilton had an interestin cat in the show. This cat, "Peggy," is a working cat if there ever was one. During the last three weeks Peggy, a large, dark tortoise-shell colored Persian, with a strange brown face, has carried over a quarter ton of paper, rags, and other articles from the surrounding yards to her own yard.

Perhaps the daintiest looking cats in the show were the pure white Persians exhibited by Mrs. Hall of Toronto. The best gold-eyed cat in the show was a beautiful blue Persian shown by Mrs. Emmett of Toronto.

Mrs. A. Thrush of Hamilton was the judge, and W. S. Merrell was show manager, with H. E. Kirch as superintendent. The last chance to see the cats is to-night.

PACKED HOUSE FOR CONCERT

SCHOOL CHOIRS HEARD.

A packed hall greeted the performers at the concert held last evening in the Canadian Legion Hall, in connection with the Kiwanis Club's Produced-in-Canada Fair. The concerts which have been such a success all week under the capable direction of E. V. Morphet, show no diminution in attendance. On the contrary, each evening sees a large audience on hand for a splendid program. To-night, to-morrow afternoon and to-morrow night, the children of the Canadian National Exhibition Pageant from Toronto will be here to give their famous performance.

Last evening, the visiting vocalists, Madam Hannigan and Signor Lamberti, Miss Marie Thomson and the Canadian Singers, repeated their well-received solo and choral numbers. The latter, acting on a suggestion from the press, as they expressed it, gracefully included several charming bits of song in English, in their program.

Ye Old Tyme Concert was repeated last night with the success that marked its previous performances, and the Kiwanis Harmonica Band once again proved its pre-eminence as a maker of buoyant, attractive, swinging music.

The orchestra of George Street Church played during intermissions last evening. Allan Wilson's orchestra was the attraction on Wednesday evening, during intermissions.

The choirs of the Queen Alexandra and the Central Schools were heard last night to good advantage. Led by Miss E. Eagleson, the former choir sang a "Lullaby" and "The Shepherd's Song," and the choir from Central School, led by O. M. Steer, sang "Autumn Winds" and "Winter Fairies."

C. S. Thompson, leader of the Kiwanis Harmonica Band, gave several loudly-applauded novelty numbers on the mouth organ last evening, showing his excellence as a solo performer on the tuneful small instrument.

identified ransom money, in $20 bills, as he went.

He turned back to Portland, and fled east to Pendleton, where he was caught December 23.

Confessed Many Crimes

He confessed readily, at first saying an accomplice committed the actual murder. Later Hickman confessed he planned and executed the crime unaided. Later it was revealed Hickman, who had graduated high in his class of 1926, at Kansas City, and who had before him a bright future, had turned to a life of minor crime and had committed hold-ups in many Eastern and western states.

He committed one other murder in California, which he confessed. That was the slaying of C. Ivy Toms, Rosehill, California, pharmacist, on Christmas Eve, 1926.

In his latter days Hickman sought solace in religion and in letter writing. He directed many letters to police chiefs throughout the country, confessing to hold-ups which he had committed and saying he was sorry he could not return the money stolen.

WORKMAN HAS FOOT CRUSHED

James Ogden Injured By Fall of Heavy Sheet of Steel.

AT QUAKER OATS.

James Ogden, of 226 Hunter Street, sustained a serious and painful accident while at work at the Quaker Oats Company's plant on Wednesday, when a large and heavy sheet of steel fell on his right foot, crushing several of the small bones.

Dr. J. M. O'Brien attended the injured man and had him removed to St. Joseph's Hospital, where X-Ray examinations were made and the foot was placed in a cast especially constructed to ensure a complete functioning of the foot on recovery.

liquor here from their own liquor stores, but that they have former bootleggers in their pay.

"Everybody knows this latter fact" said Brien. "People have been telephoning me asking me why I have been so easy as not to mention the fact when they bring that sort of stuff against me.

"When I was on the Provincial force for two years at Hamilton," explained Ed. Brien, "All the imports of beer were coming from this end into Hamilton. Through reliable information we know at Hamilton who was handling the bootleg stuff at this end and some of these men are to-day on the Government's pay roll in this neighborhood."

Public Behind Brien

An ever-increasing section of public opinion is ranging itself behind Brien in a demand for a thorough investigation.

Many letters are coming to him from responsible members of the community and from outside points stating that the half is not known of the irregularities which they say are permitted when certain people are concerned.

WEDDING BELLS

MATHIAS—PUFFER

Riverdale Presbyterian church parsonage, Toronto, was the scene of an interesting wedding on Oct. 6, when Elizabeth Jean Puffer, daughter of the late Mr. William Puffer and Mrs. Puffer of Clarina, Ontario, became the bride of Mr. Chauncey L. Mathias, formerly of New Philadelphia, son of Mr. Claude W. Mathias and the late Mrs. Mathias of Allantown, Penn. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. Bright, rector of the church, assisted by Rev. Dr. Willis D. Mathias of Allantown, brother of the groom. The bride is a graduate nurse of Western hospital. The bride wore a smart gown of French blue georgette with hat of gold brocade and autumn brown shoes and stockings. Her flowers were roses. Mr. and Mrs. Mathias will reside at 41 Albermarle Ave.

SHEARER—COLLINS

The little Church of St. Mark's, Otonabee, was taxed to capacity on Thursday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, to witness the marriage of Ethel Rebecca, younger daughter of Mr. Albert Collins of Otonabee, and Francis Albert Shearer, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Shearer of Keene. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. L. Hughes, rector.

Mrs. Hughes presided at the organ. The church had been perttily decorated for the occasion with white everlasting flowers, dahlias and chrysanthemums. A festoon of everlastings had been arranged above the organ, this being very appropriate, as the bride had occupied the position of organist for several years.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, who gave her away. Her gown was of white velvet, simply made with lace drape down the left side. Her ornaments included the bridegroom's gift, a gold barpin. Her long bridal veil was held in position by a wreath of orange blossoms arranged becomingly on each side. She wore white gloves, shoes, and hose, and carried a large bouquet of pink roses and fern.

Miss Olive Shearer, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid, her gown being of pale pink georgette trimmed with gold lace, and broad ribbon sash caught up with corsage of pink roses. She wore a large black picture hat, flesh colored hose and black satin shoes, her ornament being a gold brooch, the gift of the groom. She carried a large spray of deep pink roses. Mr. Harold Collins, brother of the bride, supported the bridegroom as best man, and Mr. M. Mather carried out the duties of usher. During the signing of the register the hymn "O Perfect Love" was sweetly sung by Miss Jean Knowles, cousin of the bride. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's father for immediate relatives and friends. The dining room was prettily decorated in white and pink, streamers from side to side being clustered in the centre by a number of white paper bells. The bride's table followed the same color scheme, tall pink candles in low holders being placed on each side of the cake which occupied the central position.

Later in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Shearer left for Oshawa, where they will reside; the bride travelling in a dress of brown crepe with hat, shoes and gloves to match, and plush coat with fur trimmings.

The bridegroom's gift to the best man was a fountain pen; to the soloist, a compact, and to the organist, candlesticks.

The young couple, who were very popular in the community, were the recipients of a large number of useful and valuable presents. They also received several sums of money, chief being a substantial cheque from the bride's father.

A half hour well spent

THERE'S no satisfaction equal to that of a personal achievement which is at once useful and artistic. For this reason, a half hour spent in making a batch of one-egg muffins is decidedly a half hour well spent. To see the glow of gratification spreading like sunshine over the faces around the table when you bring on the muffins—hot and crinkly and brown—m'm'm! Well—your joyful pride is fully justified.

ONE-EGG MUFFINS

1¾ cups flour
3 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder
½ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons sugar
1 small egg
¾ cup milk
1½ tablespoons melted butter

Sift flour, baking powder and salt, add sugar. Beat egg thoroughly, add it gradually with milk to dry ingredients and beat hard. At the last moment add melted butter. Drop the batter into hot buttered iron gem pans and bake in a hot oven 25 minutes.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

By MARION

PRIDE in persons appearance is inherent in all of us. No one wishes to look seedy, unkempt, to appear ill-dressed or classed as a has-been. It's only human nature after all.

* * * * * * *

That is why Exhibitions such as that now in progress at the Armouries are so useful. They help to keep us abreast of the times, and show us what we should wear if we would be well-dressed.

* * * * * * *

Exhibitions, like advertisements, are the barometers of style. The advertisements and exhibitions of fashionable gowns from Paris, the exquisitely dressed women pictured in the advertising of silks and other dress materials, the dainty booths of dress goods at the Fair, are the criteria by which the twentieth century woman in Peterborough judges whether she is costumed to the minute or not.

* * * * * * *

Some of us of course, myself included, cannot afford to live right up to the minute in the matter of gowns and accoutrements, but to us the Exhibition holds the thrill of showing us what we would like to look like if we could. One can build many "castles in Spain" enjoyably, you know!

* * * * * * *

And no matter what one's income, one cannot ignore exhibitions of style and make the most of one's resources. If one cannot have the highest-price gowns and coats one sees and admires, one can at least make a note of their appearance and get the nearest to them within one's means.

* * * * * * *

The other booths at the Fair, too, will help toward better and happier living. In fact, between Exhibitions and advertising, we should be kept quite modern, and we should gain a good appreciation of comparative values.

* * * * * * *

I see by the proof of the advertisement for to-day that to-morrow's Exhibition has a double program, afternoon and evening. Mrs. Macoun of Campbellford will lecture on "Women's Responsibilities of To-day" and Mrs. Forbes Allen on "Victorian Women versus Modern Women." Both subjects are interesting, and the double program gives you an opportunity to hear the addresses without missing the concert.

* * * * * * *

At 2.30 on Saturday there will be the concert program of six big attractions, and at 7.45 the last concert program of the series will be given. It would be too bad if anyone missed this opportunity to hear singers of so outstanding ability.

* * * * * * *

Last night I won a ticket at the Bingo game, after playing five times to lose. I took a beautiful teapot, and I have figured out my winnings to be $2.85. The six games cost me 60 cents, and the teapot sells downtown for $3.45. I'm quite proud of my achievement.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

Flowers edged with metal and a bunch of cherries with leaves in gold or silver.

The other morning I walked up along a fashionable shopping thoroughfare right in the wake of a courageous fat woman. She was courageous because she was some thirty pounds overweight and I really think it takes a lot of courage to be fat nowadays when everything from close-fitting little hats to high-heeled shoes seems to be made for the benefit of thin women. She was also courageous because she wore a bouquet of artificial orchids—very expensive flowers, you could see at a glance—just below the collar of her coat, precisely in the middle of her back.

The coat as well as the bouquet was of the most expensive sort, so I gathered that the orchids had been placed there by the hands of an expert.

"Is she crazy—or just fashionable?" I heard a young man ask the girl with him as they passed me.

At any rate if you are going to be the exponent of a new and strange fashion it must be a comfort to have it on the back of your costume and then you don't have to see the worried, amused glances with which it is greeted by the unfashionable multitude.

Apparently the fashionable place to wear artificial flowers this season is—anywhere where one wouldn't expect to find them. The boutonniere of course began its interesting career in the buttonhole on the lapel of coat or jacket. Mere man has been content to leave his there. He has never dared even wear it on his shoulder.

If you ever chance to see a woman wearing a little bunch of flowers precisely in the crotch of the arm, just where the under part of the sleeve joins the bodice, don't imagine that the wearer has dressed in a hurry. The effect may remind you of the game we used to play blindfolded as children trying to pin the tail on the donkey and usually getting it on his ear or mouth instead. But don't be deluded. It was Lelong of Paris who set this fashion for bouquets under the shoulder. The flowers that Lelong uses for this new arrangement are quite small, made with velvet petals edged with metal.

GAS IN STOMACH HURTS THE HEART

Thousands of Cases of Heart Failure Are Caused by Acute Indigestion, Says Medical Writer

Gas pressure from sour, acid, upset stomach is not only nauseating and highly uncomfortable but some day it may prove fatal!

When your meals are followed by bloating, a feeling of fullness or pressure, shortness of breath and pains around the heart you may be sure that the acid condition of your stomach is producing a GAS that is pushing upwards and crowding your heart. That's the reason for the shortness of breath and sharp, shooting pains.

Whether young or old, the presence of stomach gas is truly serious and should always be given prompt and careful attention.

To quickly banish gas, cleanse and sweeten the stomach, neutralize the acidity—nothing is better than the daily or "as needed" use of ordinary Bisurated Magnesia. It gives almost instant relief.

Any good druggist can supply Bisurated Magnesia, in powder or tablet form, at very small cost—but be sure you get BISURATED Magnesia—recommended by Doctors and Druggists throughout the civilized world for more than 15 years.

BAKED MACARONI

A nourishing luncheon dish for the children is macaroni, baked with alternating layers of chopped peanuts. A thin white sauce should be poured over and the top dotted with butter.

COLORFUL BUBBLES

When rainy days come, start the children blowing soap bubbles and then color the soap suds for them. Any gay vegetable coloring will do and they adore bright yellow, red and other cheerful bubbles.

FAVORITE RECIPE.

PUMPKIN MARMALADE

(Contributed by J. J. Johnston, Roseneath.)

Peel and cut in small squares a pumpkin the size of the average citron and 6 oranges, remove seeds, slice fine, mix together with half the amount of white sugar, as you have pumpkin. Let stand over night, then boil until soft and smooth.

BUTTER TARTS

(Contributed by Mrs. James Cook, Trent River.)

3 eggs,
1 cup brown sugar,
1 cup currants,
½ cup butter,
½ teaspoon soda,
Flavor with lemon of cinnamon.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE HAVE A GUILTY CONSCIENCE

By Mahran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

A guilty conscience is the result of acting contrary to one's beliefs. This accounts for the fact that no two of us have a guilty conscience over the same things except in so far as our beliefs are identical.

The guilty conscience is the reverse of what took place originally. At the moment of the so-called temptation the impulse to do something, to act contrary to one's ideals was uppermost and had the force of an emotion back of it. The ideal or belief opposing the temptation was comparatively hazy and weak, in the background of consciousness. After the act is committed the impulse being satisfied loses its force and is virtually non-existent.

Then it is that the ideal comes back with avenging force and is uppermost in the mind. Consequently there is a sense of guilt and shame because the man is more truly identified with his consistent and utterly foolish.

A sense of loss always accompanies guilt. The man feels that he has been a traitor to his best self and wonders how he could have been such a big fool.

The whole problem resolves itself into the degree of vividness of the conflicting ideas. When the impulse to go contrary to one's beliefs is uppermost and the man identifies himself with that desire we say he is tempted. This means that the voice of suppressed good speaks up.

On the other hand when the belief and moral ideals or judgments are uppermost, as is likely to be the case after the impulse is satisfied, then the man is said to have a guilty conscience. This means that he is ashamed of his act and condemns himself for acting selfishly, foolishly, giving in to a momentary impulse at the expense of his deeper and truer self.

A guilty conscience is the penalty for not being yourself.

PUPILS CAN'T LOVE TEACHER ANY MORE

By NEA Service.

NEWCOMERSTOWN, O., Oct. 19.—The business of falling in love with teacher was taboo here when school started this fall.

The board of education had voted to prohibit "dating" between teacher and pupils. The penalty, in case of marriage, is dismissal, even though the second party to the ceremony is not within jurisdiction of the schools.

The resolution in part:

"Any pupil or teacher of the Newcomerstown School District marrying within the school year automatically withdraws from the school.

"Any teacher of the schools dating with a pupil of her school, automatically resigns her position."

BROKEN

A Story of Revenged Love., by Ruby M. Ayres

CHAPTER—X.

THE STORY THUS FAR:

GILES CHITTENHAM, on his way back to England from the United States to help wind up the affairs of his young half brother, RODNEY, who has recently killed himself for love of the notorious flirt, JULIE FARROW, joins his friend, HARRY LOMBARD, in Switzerland. There, on a lake steamer, he meets Julie Farrow and BIM LENNOX, a straightforward, boyish sort of girl, loyal friend of Julie. Chittenham decides to make Julie fall in love with him and then spurn her, to avenge Rodney. He joins her in a drive through the St. Bernard pass. They are marooned at the inn at the top of the pass by a blizzard, and while there he tells Julie he loves her. When Chittenham returns to his hotel Lombard tells him he has made a silly mistake—that this Julie Farrow is a cousin o the one that broke Rodney's heart. This puts Giles, who is secretly and unhappily married, in a bad predicament. He tells the truth to Julie.

"You mean that you never really cared for me—that all you said last night was just a lie?" Julie asked again.

"At first it was—at first—"

"Please let me go."

He took his hands away and she stood still, her arms hanging limply at her sides, their soft whiteness showing red marks where his fingers had gripped them.

But she still looked at him steadily, and her quick breathing was her only sign of emotion.

Then she asked:

"And when—when did you find out your mistake? That it wasn't—mean—that I wasn't the other Julie?"

"This evening. Lombard told me as soon as we met. I think something Miss Lennox said last night showed him his mistake."

"I see."

Julie turned slowly round, away from him. She walked to the open window and stood there on the balcony, staring out over the lake. It was almost dark now, but the glow from the street lamps shone on the water, and the mountain sides beyond twinkled with a myriad points of light from the little scattered chalets.

Chittenham watched her, whitefaced, tense.

He had expected a scene, but she had made none.

Almost any other woman he had ever met would have cried, raved, stormed at him, or lashed him with her anger. Julie was different, and because she was different it hurt him so much more, made it so much more difficult to voice the platitudinous excuses and defences which were all he could think of.

Suddenly he found himself beside her, holding her unresponsive hand, pleading with her.

"Forgive me. For God's sake say you forgive me. I shall never forgive myself. I'd give ten years of my life to wipe out the ghastly mistake. But it wasn't altogether my fault. Lombard——"

She turned her head and looked at him.

"Can you blame Mr. Lombard because you wished to behave like a cad to a woman who had never done you any harm?"

Chittenham flushed crimson.

"She sent my brother to his death. I had a right to make her pay."

"Your brother was as much of a coward as you are."

The very stillness of her voice was like a knife-cut.

"Brave gentlemen, both of you! The one to die and leave the stigma of his death upon a woman who never wanted him and had often told him so, and the other to break a woman's whole life in order to satisfy his petty pride and the thing I suppose he calls his honor."

"I have told you the truth now at any rate. I have tried to explain—"

"Explain!" There was a world of scorn in her voice, and suddenly Chittenham found himself pleading with her once more.

"Forgive me! You're not the only one who is hurt——"

She caught him up swiftly, proudly.

"Hurt!" She drew a quick breath. "You flatter yourself," she said, but in spite of her gallant efforts her voice jarred and broke.

"Julie!" Chittenham said passionately.

And then somehow without either of them being conscious of having moved, she was in his arms, sobbing, her face buried on his shoulder, her arms about his neck.

"Oh, say you love me—say you really love me!" she pleaded wildly.

It was the only danger she apprehended; the dread that he had taken her kisses and admission of love with a covert smile. Last night's fundamental reason was the only confession she thought he had to make, and now with his arms about her, clinging to him, even the shame of that seemed to lessen and fade.

He had told her of his mistake because he was an honorable man, because he wished to put everything on a straight and sure footing between them, and when she looked up, her face all wet with tears to ask again: "Oh, do you really love me after all?" Chittenham answered between clenched teeth:

"I do, God help me."

It was the truth; a truth of which he had never dreamed. His first emotions had only been shame and anger at the part he was to be forced to play, but now the knifethrust had gone deeper into his heart and he knew that he loved her.

The punishment he had intended for her had rebounded to himself; and now they were fellow prisoners, bound together and yet divided by the same unbreakable chain.

Julie was laughing and crying pitifully.

"You frightened me. Why did you frighten me so? I thought you meant you were still playing. I thought you didn't care. It seemed as if the dread I have always had, had come true, and as if I was to be left. I've never loved anyone before. Do you think I'm very silly? I've never felt like this in all my life—I've never cared. Nobody has ever been able to hurt me. . . . I never cry. . . . I hate crying. . . . ." but she was sobbing again, her arms round his neck, her face buried in his coat.

"Julie." He tried gently to raise her, but she would not let him.

"No. Leave me alone. I'm not unhappy really. Presently, when I've got over the fright you gave me, I'll tell you what I really think of you—but just wait a moment. No, don't kiss me—I look so ugly when I've been crying."

"Oh, my dear!"

He turned her face up to him and kissed her lips.

"I love you—whatever happens, remember that I love you," he said hoarsely.

She freed herself from his arms, wiped her eyes, and pushed back her hair.

Her eyes were red and swollen and her breath came in little gasps, but she managed to smile.

"I hope nothing else is go-going to happen," she said, half-sobbing still. "I think I've had enough for one day. I'm not used to crying . . . it doesn't suit me. . . ."

"Stop, Julie, stop!"

"Crying do you mean—or talking?" She laughed brokenly. "Well, it's your fault. You made me cry. I'm not a bit of a crying person—you ask Bim—I'll fetch Bim."

"No."

He caught her hand, holding her fast.

"Wait! Julie, there's something else; He drew her into his arms again something——" holding her fast for yet another moment then he gently released her.

"I love you with all my heart and soul," he said hoarsely, "but you will hate me when you know all the truth—hate me more than I can ever hate myself, Julie. My dear, I—Julie, I'm not free to marry you. Julie—I——"

It was no use, he could not go on, and the profound silence was unbroken while they looked into each other's eyes.

Then Julie said—at least her lips said it, for no sound seemed to pass them: "You mean—you're married already?"

"Yes."

The world seemed so still, as if all life were suspended, waiting to know what could happen.

From where Julie stood, facing the open window, she could see two little twinkling lights high up on the mountain top that seemed to be watching her like pitying eyes.

"Married!"

A word she had heard so many hundreds of time, and dismissed as being quite unimportant, but now it was as if someone said to her: "You never understood before what this word really means. For you it spells tragedy; it spells ruin for all your hopes—it is the thing that will break your heart and your life for ever and ever."

As in a dream she heard someone tapping at the door—then Bim's dubious voice: "May I be allowed to come in?"

Julie turned slowly round.

"Oh, yes, come in!" She thought that was what she said, but in reality her lips uttered no sound, and Bim went away again, and presently they heard her whistling cheerily the refrain of the song she had played on the piano an hour ago:

"You promised that you'd forget me not,
But you forgot to remember."

Julie thought dully: "What a stupid song! What ever makes people like such stupid songs?" and yet a little while ago she had liked it herself, thought it pretty.

Only a little while ago? Surely a lifetime ago? Now there was nothing in the whole world she liked; there was no world at all except this man with his white, set face and tragic eyes—this married man!

Suddenly she began to laugh; helpless hysterical laughter which she tried in vain to check or control.

"Julie, for God's sake—" Chittenham said.

But she went on laughing.

It was so funny, so intensely funny that she of all people, who had never cared immoderately for anyone, and who had always dreaded caring, should so suddenly have been plunged into this tragedy.

Two days ago she and Chittenham had never met, and now a whole lifetime of events bound them together. They had quarrelled, loved, quarrelled again, then kissed and been happy, and now the end had come.

ROACH GOES TO STANLEY CUP HOLDERS

LORNE CHABOT COMES TO LEAFS

Toronto Club Believes They Can Strengthen Goal by Deal.

ROACH IS PLEASED

TORONTO, Oct., 19.—Determined to build up a winning club at all costs, with harmon and co-operation the keynote, Maple Leafs has made one more trade in their quest for an N.H.L. title.

For some time John Ross Roach has expressed dissatisfaction with terms in Toronto. The Maple Leafs having in mind his record as a net guardian with the Maple Leafs as well as attendance figures, have felt that they had gone the limit, and when this failed to satisfy adranged to transfer the popular little goalies to the New York Rangers, holders of the Stanley Cup and the world professional championship.

The trade which sends Roach to New York for Lorne Chabot and a cash consideration should strengthen the Maple Leaf hockey club for the coming season's campaign.

Roach for five years has played fine hockey in Toronto, but for some reason, luck or otherwise, stopped short of championship class. On the other hand Chabot, a younger and bigger man physically, has had only two years in the N.H.L. being on the championship club in one season and the runner-up in the other one. Previous to that he was a sensation in amateur ranks being with Port Arthur when they won the Allan Cup in two successive seasons, prior to his pro. debut.

The Toronto directorate did not enter into this deal without giving it careful consideration and only the analysis of the records of the two goalies and the knowledge that the cash consideration would enable them to secure another high-class amateur goalie decided them in favor of the trade.

Last season the opposition scored eighty-eight goals on Roach as against seventy-nine on Chabot. "Hap" Day was off the team for a time but not as long as "Taffy" Abel. Besides, Beattie Ramsay defensively was rated higher than Patsy Callighen. Chabot also had eleven shutouts last seasson to four by Roach. As the records of the previous season are approximately the same it would appear that the Leafs will be strengthened, but the Leaf directors and supporters alike will join hands in wishing Roach good luck, at the same time hoping the incoming goalie will justify the change.

Roach, when informed of his transfer, expressed pleasure at being sent to the champion club, at the same time expressing regret at leaving Toronto and the fans who for years treated him so splendidly.

JOHN ROSS ROACH.

TORONTO, Oct. 19.—Determined to build up a winning club at all costs, with harmon and co-operation the keynote, Maple Leafs has made one more trade in their quest for an N.H.L. title.

The Maple Leafs having in mind his record as a net guardian with the Maple Leafs as well as attendance figures, have felt that they had gone the limit, and when this failed to satisfy arranged to transfer the popular little goalie to the New York Rangers, holders of the Stanley Cup and the world professional championship.

gathered eggs are becoming quite scarce, and the market on these is firmer in consequence. Held fresh eggs are fairly plentiful, but the market for this class is dull, with a tendency to depress values in lower grade eggs. Storage eggs are selling at 45c to 46c, in cartons; 43c to 44c, loose; firsts, 41c to 42c, and seconds, 33c to 34c. Storage stocks are quiet and easy.

Bowling
Alley Gossip
By Pin Boy

The little wooden pins are now beginning to click out their annual tune of strikes, spares and blows at both the Duffus and K. of C. alleys.

Miss Gertrude McCarthy seems to have nearly every girl in the C.G.E. backed off the map when it comes to giving the five pins a buffeting, having obtained an average of 173 in the Engineers' League, which is ten points higher than any other member of the fair sex in this league. In the girls' section, Gertie rolled both high single and high three, piling up scores of 209 and 617.

• • •

There are plenty of onlookers at the Duffus alleys who seem to enjoy the games equally as much as the bowlers.

• • •

Six of the teams in the C. G. E. Ladies' League broke up the pins for the second time last night in a manner that bids fair to amass real scores in the future.

The Orioles took two games from the hard-working Bobolinks, although Miss D. Pogue, for the losers, hammered the pins for high single score of 187, Miss Wallace, of the Bobolinks, having high three, 400.

The Canaries were not quite so sociable and blanked the Bluebirds in three games, the honors going to Miss Joyce Alcock, who showed the others how to have a trio of games totalling 476. Miss Condon, her teammate, collected high single, 166.

• • •

The Blackbirds duplicated this feat in a hard-fought battle with the Redwings, taking three games in a decisive manner, with the able assistance of Miss G. McCarthy, who toppled the hardwood for 209 in a single game and 617 for high three.

Bankers' League.

The bankers started the bowling season at the Duffus alleys six teams strong last night in a very sociable manner, all except the Nova Scotians who shoved the Bank of Commerce team into the cellar by taking every game. Chas. Sedgwick was high man of the night with a high single of 279 and a trio of scores that amounted to 613. The Royal Bank and the Dominion Bank teams divided the honors evenly, taking two points apiece, as did the coin handlers from the Banks of Montreal and Toronto.

C.G.E. Shop League.

Stores Dept. bowlers made Test No. 4 team of their group look rather helpless by cleaning up on three games, Playford's clever bowling being a big factor in winning, as he was able to accumulate a total of 243 for single and 628 for three games.

Fitters took the big half of their three-game fixture with Test No. 2. Jeffries and Musther did the heavy work with high single 262 and high three 626, respectively. Jim Newson, for the losers was the only one who displayed much ability as a roller with scores of 236 and 563.

C.G.E. Engineers' League.

Price Setting No. 1 team of this league jumped into the lead in Wednesday night's games by taking two from Induction Motors in a battle that lacked neither pep nor fighting spirit. Thompson, for the winners, was high man for one game with 232, but Shields' consistent bowling earned him high three score, 566.

The Mechanical Engineers are starting to zip along like big leaguers, gaining eight points by Wednesday night's clever work with the balls, which brings their total up to 12 points. Benson continued his good work, rolling 650 in three games. Lowe, for the Switchboard, had high single with 277.

Thanks to the exceptional performance of their stellar bowler, Langley, the Switchboard No. 1 are now in a position to make a bid for the lead in this section, having acquired 8 points by blanking the Laboratory in three games, despite the hard work of Vic. Rutherford, who made 257 for one game. Mr. Langley's single score of 339 is a record for this league and will require hard going to equal. He also rolled high three, 817.

• • •

D. C. are beginning to work their way up among the leaders also, having taken 6 points from Industrial Control in a battle that was featured by consistent rather than spectacular playing. Seaton, for the winners, was the feature player with high single 209 and 539 for high three.

• • •

Price Setting No. 2 took six points from A. C. team, which ties them with the Mechanical Engineers for third place.

• • •

The Laboratory and Industrial Control are both perched side by side on the bottom rung of the ladder, but judging from their enthusiasm, neither one will grace this position very long.

VIEWS ON SPORT

P.C.I. Seniors and Intermediates play out-of-town games to-morrow afternoon.

Seniors at Lindsay; Intermediates at Oshawa.

• • • • •

This weather is suitable for anything else except rugby practices; nevertheless, a goodly crowd have been out at the Collegiate squads' workouts held in preparation for their games to-morrow.

• • • • •

The huddle system has been adopted this year because of the lightness of the team. The play provides greater surprise, and allows the line runner to get away much faster.

• • • • •

P.C.I. are tied with the Oshawa Collegiate for first place, and they must win all their games if they wish to get anywhere in the senior interscholastic group.

• • • • •

The intermediate squad tangle with Oshawa on the latter's home field. Wagar, Ward, and Clayton will do the tackling for the locals, and the game should be a hard fought one from start to the finish.

• • • • •

Two-for-one. Rugby fans journeying to Lindsay to-morrow afternoon will be given a double treat, as a twin bill is slated to be played in the Collegiate Stadium. The Lindsay firsts tangle with P.C.I. Seniors, and the second team will meet Bowmanville in an exhibition encounter. Both games will be well worth watching.

• • • • •

And before closing it would be well to say a word for the benefit of the grandstand players. If you must follow the team, they why not make your support heard on the field. No doubt but that goodly crowds of fans will follow both teams to-morrow, and it is up to them to provide outside support for the respective teams.

• • • • • •

Cobourg Collegiate Institute will be entertained by O.C.I. at the Motor City over the week-end in what promises to be one smart little exhibition of rugby. The home team are as fit as a fiddle for the game, and after their 23-0 defeat suffered here last Saturday, the entire team is out to return to the good graces of the school by keeping in the running for the group honors.

• • • • • •

The boys at Grove School say that the two Eskimo lads don't care much for rugby, but that they are taking to soccer as happily as the Major's fleas to the pup.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Oct. 19.—(Canadian Press.)—Owing to a case of infantile paralysis having developed at the Trinity College school, the games which the T. C. S. first rugby team was to have played against the Woodstock Junior O.R.F.U. team on Saturday afternoon has been postponed. TWO TEAMS TO PLAY SATURDAY

Seniors to Meet Lindsay, While Intermediates Play at Oshawa.

NO GAME HERE

The P.C.I. rugby teams are busily engaged these afternoons in preparing for the two important games to be played to-morrow. Yesterday afternoon coaches C. S. Browne and Ernie Legon lined up the teams for a stiff scrimmage after a snappy signal practice. The ground was wet, gooey and slippery which made the going hard but the falls soft.

The practice showed that coach Browne has a very light but fast hard working bunch of players. He has adopted the huddle system this year which lends the play greater surprise and allows it to be got away much faster. The line is opening up nice holes and the halves seem to break quickly for the extension runs. Gemmel at quarter although the lightest man on the team is the veteran of the whole outfit having three years' rugby experience behind him, and he uses his head in (I nearly said calling but they whisper them in the huddle). Hewitt and Cuthbertson, the halves, are sure-footed and pass nicely. Armstrong and Johnson hit the line and seem to be able to [illegible] the holes.

P.C.I. must win all their remaining games if they want to get any where in the Senior Interscholastic group. They are now tied with Oshawa High School for first place. The standing in the league is:

	Won	Lost
Oshawa H.S.	2	1
P. C. I.	2	1
Cobourg H.S.	1	2
Lindsay C.I.	1	2

The Petes seniors play Lindsay in the Scugog town on Saturday and should take the game handily.

[illegible] Ernie Legon has [illegible] the Intermediate group that is every bit as heavy as the seniors. He has been working on the team with his usual pep and is fast rounding them into a smart squad. He has mapped out some tricky criss-cross plays that should bamboozle the opposition many a time. The team has some good tacklers in Wager, Ward and Clayton.

The Intermediates will journey to Oshawa on Saturday to play the Oshawa seconds at Alexandra Park.

The lineup for the games to-morrow are:—

Seniors

Snap, Preston; insides, Wiman and Hall; middles, Johnson and Armstrong; outsides, Glover and Westbrook; flying wings, Green and Dunkerly; halves—Hewitt and Cuthbertson; quarter, Gemmel; subs, McGee, Reynolds, Lord and Dearborn.

Intermediates

Snap, McWilliams; insides, Weddell and Best; middles, Fraser and Doukas; outsides, Wager and Ward; quarter, Mackay; halves, Young, Braund and Dineson; subs, Chandler, Gaul, Legon and Irwin.

AT THE REGENT.

BIG COMEDY COMPANY SUPPORTS MONTE BLUE

Clyde Cook and William Demarest, the comedy team who furnished many a laugh in "Simple Sis," are doing the same in "The Bush Leaguer," Monte Blue's latest starring vehicle for Warner Bros. directed by Howard Bretherton.

Monte Blue, who is himself second to none as a merrymaker, portrays a bespectacled young inventor and sand-lotter who so suddenly finds himself in professional baseball that he can hardly take it seriously. Demarest appears as the hard-boiled manager of the team who despairs of ever making a ball player out of "that big hick," and Clyde enacts a veteran catcher who is to the pitching squad what a tough top-sergeant is to a company.

Lelia Hymans, who appeared as Monte's lead in "The Brute," supplies the romantic interest and Richard Tucker, the menace. Her father has left her the ball club, and Tucker, her attorney, resolves to marry her or if that is not possible, defraud her of the club. A romance begins between her and Monte and when he discovers the danger, he begins to really play ball.

"The Bush Leaguer" is now playing at the Regent Theatre.

AT THE CAPITOL.

JOHN GILBERT AND RENEE ADOREE IN "THE COSSACKS" AND THE FIRST OF THE NEW 'COLLEGIANS' DRAWS LARGE AUDIENCE AT THE CAPITOL LAST NIGHT.

For the last half of this week, the Capitol is presenting the first of The New Collegians series, and John Gilbert and Renee Adoree, in "The Cossacks." Judging by the reception of the former, the new Collegians series is going to be even more popular than its predecessors.

"The Cossacks" catches the very spirit of the hardiest fighters of all history, and indeed it should, for a troop of them was brought from Europe to stage the sensational rides and enact the people of the Russian town in which the action is laid. A complete town was among the gigantic settings built for the play, with several hundred Russians living in it. Practically all the picture was directed in Russian, as, with the exception of the principals, the actors spoke no English. So it might almost as well have been actually made in Russia—and the spirit of the play shows it.

The central theme, as in "The Big Parade," is the tender love tale of a boy and girl; the same boy and girl, by the way, as Renee Adoree plays the heroine. This love story is set in the thunder of battle and the heat of adventure; massive hugeness of setting adds to this impression. But there is another note; the intense fanatical love of the old Cossack chief, played by Ernest Torrence, for his son. Gilbert is the soft, a swaggering young Cossack soldier to whom the great truths in life come in the smoke of battle and the agony of torture. Grim in spots, compelling in realism, the play is, none the less, one of the most beautiful of romances.

9TH PETERBOROUG TROOP AND WOLF CUB PACK

The 9th (All Saints) Troops and Pack met on Saturday last, October 13, at All Saints Parish Hall at 2 p.m. Everyone was full of vim as a surprise hike had been arranged by Kim's majority. The third majority each patrol leader was handed his sealed orders, and the hike started. The boys being full of scouting and cubbing, soon found their directions, and after a few hours of rough walking over fields and roads they at last found themselves in "Wallace's Woods" where the Scoutmaster was waiting to greet the first patrol home.

When everyone had been rested after the long hike, some very exciting games were played, such as "Capture the Flag", "Blindfold Dis the Scoutamster. Sharp at 3.15 p.m. Man." The Wild Bore Patrol in winning the first game, have got to thank "Second Donald Ross" for his good hunting. After the games everyone began work and we soon tance Judging" and "Finding Your ter supper we held the camp fire, and then home.

One Tuesday, October 16, the usual weekly meeting was held. After the flag break and inspection the patrol leaders took their patrols for instruction in second class and proficiency badge work. The troop has now gained 25 proficiency badges, and Patrol Leader Hope has only to do the last test for his first class badge judging heights and distances, and we hope that before Christmas to have three kings scouts.

The Wolf Cubs are going very strong in their tests. There are 14 first star cubs and three second star cubs and 4 proficiency badges gained by the Cubs. The Pack congratulates Sixer Jack McKone on being the first Cub to win his second star and athlete badge. Donald Ross was second and Ralph Flitton third.

Scoutmaster Harry Wilks and Cubmaster A. Hope are going to pull off some surprises in a short time. The 5th Troop and Pack believe in "keeping at the good work."

On Monday, October 22, a court of honor will be held in the home of Scout C. Burns. The following members are requested to meet at the corner of Hunter and Aylmer street at 7 p.m. sharp: Patrol Leaders Johnson, Hope, Walsh, Gibson and Barry; Seconds Howard, Smedmor, Wilson, Waddell and Wells; Sixers Jack McKone, Ralph Flitton, Keith Hughes and Bill Scott; Seconds Jack Ackerman, Donald Ross, Arthur Rose and Carol Liddle.

Any boy wishing to join the Troop or Pack can do so on Tuesday nights at 7.30 p.m. for Scouts and Friday nights for Cubs at 7 p.m., also a Rover patrol has been started in the Troop, and any young men over 17 years of age will be welcomed by Scoutmaster H. Wilks on Tuesday nights at 8 p.m. in All Saints Parish Hall. And so the merry merry game goes on.

The 5th Troop and Pack have just received from the Chief Scout, Sir Robert Baden-Powell, an autographed photograph of himself, also a letter wishing them good scouting.

WOMEN SHARE TASK.

An inability to visualize conditions of life in Canada, as seen through eyes accustomed to Old World conditions, is one of the main difficulties. The man of the house is trained in farming operations as carried on here, and his wife promises to stay alone while his training is progressing. But, as the speaker pointed out, she promises this her mind's eyes fixed on English conditions, where there is a neighbor over the back fence. hen she comes here and realizes that she will be alone in a hundred acres of land, she often refuses to carry out her promise.

It is in keeping the woman satisfied that other women can help materially. Members of the Settlement Board act as friends, counsellors and advisers to these newcomers, and their problems find a sympathetic ear inclined toward them at all times.

Some of the women refuse to learn and are failures accordingly. Many of them will not think of augmenting the family income by keeping a cow or chickens, while others make a great deal in these ways. Many cannot bake bread, which is a necessity, but women from Ireland and Scotland bring out the ancient skillets, with which they make bread on top of the stove.

Mrs. Muldrew spoke of the discouragement often afforded newcomers by Canadians, who do much to make them unsatisfied with conditions here.

"The average British settler, although many of them do not look prepossessing on arrival, is hearty, healthy and vigorous, and makes an excellent citizen."

Address on Fire Prevention

Fire Chief Gimblett attended the meeting yesterday and spoke briefly and to the point on the necessity of looking after fire prevention work. He spoke of the woman in the home as a prime factor in carrying out such a campaign and spoke of their co-operation as absolutely essential to its success. He quoted many figures that showed the loss sustained from fires in dwelling houses and offered his assistance at any time in getting rid of fire hazards. He also distributed copies of booklets dealing with fire prevention.

Mrs. F. C. Webber gave a very interestinfi and comprehensive review of the work done by the Women's Art Association in this city, from its inception as an organized society, twenty years ago. The work of the various branches of this association was clearly dealt with.

A committee to look after a proper observance of Armistice Day was appointed, with Mrs. J. Mills as convenor.

On representations being made by several members, with regard to careless and disrespectful treatment by school children of the Soldiers' Memorial in Confederation Square, it was decided to write the School Board and the school principals and ask them to draw this matter to the attention of the children. One little boy was lately observed by a visitor to the city, when the child was in the act of kicking the newly-erected memorial.

A resolution sponsored by the Ottawa council was read and approved of, speaking with regret of the advertisements appearing in The Delineator and The Pictorial Review, in which women are quoted as lauding the virtues of various types of cigarettes.

FAIR EXHIBITS

Disabled Men's Work

In the Women's Section of the Produced-in-Canada Fair, housed in the South West room of the Armouries building, are several very entertaining and instructive exhibits. The Women's Art Association display, already described, is companioned by the exhibit of the work of disabled soldiers and sailors, in charge of George R. Spragg. This is a display of painted fabrics done by those, who, in the pathetic words of the sign attached, are "47 men with 56 uninjured arms and 50 uninjured legs."

These painted pieces and articles of clothing are lovely things. There are dresses of many colors and materials, painted in borders and flounces and in all-over effect, with floral designs that are artistic and attractive.

Copies of several georgeous things made to order for members of royal families are on view also. There is a superb robe of wonderful blue satin, a copy of one made for Queen Mary and a robe of Chinese red, with ornamentation of orange and black. Replicas of shawls ordered by the Queen of Spain and the Duchess of York are here also, one a black, one a black, in gilt design, the other a deep crimson, with crimson fringes and gold ornaments.

Runners, cushions, drapes, purses, bags and tea cosies, are on exhibit, all painted in beautiful designs. The display is at once effective and very unusual. Local ladies in charge of it are Mrs. F. L. Robinson and Mrs. R. Cottrell.

On this south wall of this room hang a dozen examples of the painting done by Miss F. Hatton, a member of the Women's Art Association whose recent trip abroad gave her inspiration for several of the lovely little painted sketches of various interesting places in the Old Country. There are a few bits of Canadian beauty also, in "The Old Timer" and "The Lions," a reproduction of twin mountain peaks.

Grenfell Mission

The Grenfell Labrador Medical Mission has a little corner table here, where pretty Christmas cards are on sale and donations accepted for the work of Sir Wilfred Grenfell in the far-off Labrador region, where so much has been done for the isolated community, by this small, eager eyed man.

Miss Alice Curtis

Miss Alice Curtis has a display of pretty things from her Peterborough Fancy Goods Store, in a pretty booth whose borders are arranged effectively with the dark green, spiny leaves and scarlet berries of the bittersweet, autumn leaves and flowers. Here are plenty of pretty and dainty things in fancy work of all sorts, in linens for table, aprons and heart shaped quilted cushions of the latest patterns and designs. The embroideries on view are exceptionally dainty, one very notable runner developed in natural-tinted art weave having an appliqued ornament of green and purple hue, outlined with lasq daisies in yellow and white and an edgeing of black darning stitch.

Children's Work

In the rooms at the rear of this section are displays of work from the city's schools, in boys' and girls' handiwork. From the Manual Training Day Classes come the samples of clever wood-working in bird houses, ships, aeroplanes and household articles like waste paper baskets, jardiniere stands and little tables.

On the walls are exhibits of the children's artistic endeavors, in lay sketches, wall-paper and book cover designs and bits of still life, executed in pen and ink, crayon and charcoal. Examples of fine penmanship, in the alphabet and the National Anthem, are draped on the walls on large foolscap sheets.

The girls have their innings in the exhibit of fine needlework which says so much for their careful attention and care to this branch of work. There are little dresses for self and for the dolls of the juniors, lingerie, linens of all descriptions, red and blue shopping bags with applied pieces of black cloth in conventional floral designs, aprons and tiny bits of work like needle cases and spoon holders. Knitted wool sweaters are also on view.

FORD INTERESTED IN BIG ZEPPELIN

Rumor Given Impetus By Visit of His Chief Engineer to Dirigible.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Rumors that Henry Ford is one of those Dr. Hugo Eckener is attempting to interest in his plans for a trans-Atlantic dirigible mail and passenger service were given impetus to-day by the visit to the Graf Zeppelin of William B. Mayo, chief engineer of the Ford Company. Mr. Mayo denied that his visit was prompted by anything but his personal interest in the ship.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND.

THE DUMBELLS AND BELLES

George Jean Nathan in the current issue of the "Mercury" says that the best kind of revue is simply a dramatization of destructive criticism embellished with some constructive samples of feminity and good tunes.

This statement was made after Captain Plunkett had added a chorus of young and charming Canadian girls to the personnel of The Dumbells, which goes to show that the producer and critic are looking eye to eye, at least in this distance.

After demonstrating to all and sundry for a period of nine solid years, that a company composed entirely of men can win and hold the approval of the amusement seekers of a whole continent, Captain Plunkett has set out to eclipse that record with an organizaton more truly representative of this Dominion, where the sexes are more equally divided than in most countries.

While the girls form a graceful background for the clever sketches and tuneful melodies they are not the hub around which the colorful wheel revolves. The "old guard" still provide the major portion of the splendid enterlainment for which they have become justly famous.

With such tried and true performers as Al. Plunkett, "Red" Newman, Fred Erney, Harry Binns, Morley Plunkett, Jock Holland, Howard Fogg, Charlies Jeaves, Louis Orenar and Scotty Morrison, together with soloists like Jessie Butt and dancers like Aileen Parker, "Why Worry?" their current offering, would be an assured success. News From the Mines

Through Solloway, Mills & Company

Amulet.

Our field man in Rouyn reports that the diamond drill which cut 50 feet of ore at a depth of 200 feet, 500 feet east and 200 feet north-east of the "C" ore body will be moved 500 feet further north. The new ore body which has been found in the last two days will be blocked out by underground work, and no further drilling will be done on it for the present.

Mr. McGregor, the company's geologist, is confident that he will produce another ore body in his new set-up, where he considers geological conditions are ideal. The shaft is now down 220 feet, five feet a day being made. One diamond drill is still being used between the shaft and the "C" ore body, deepening a hole put down last year to 500 feet. This will be extended to 1,500 feet. Three drills are now in operation on surface and the company have decided to install five additional diamond drills.

Mr. McGregor feels that there is a great deal of favorable territory in the neighborhood of the present ore bodies, and he openly states that new ore bodies will be found in the present campaign of diamond drilling.

Malartic.

Many reports have been circulated in the last few days by professional bears on recent developments at the Malartic property, situated in the Cadillac-Malartic area. These rumors have been effectively spiked by officials, who stated that the stock is undoubtedly worth considerably more than its present price. The recent drive on Malartic is attributed to a group of speculators who are endeavoring to accumulate some cheap stock.

Haslett Duck Lake Mines.

Mr. Stewart, managing director, and Mr. F. C. Loring, mine engineer, have just returned from a visit to the Haslett Duck Lake property in the Thunder Bay district. Mr. Stewart states that he was very pleased with the results obtained to date. Something tangible has been found to warrant further expenditure and development of the property. On the No. 1 vein the shaft has been sunk 60 feet and the vein cut at this horizon. The vein is 12 feet wide and contains three large lenses, 8 inches, 12 inches and 18 inches, of high grade lead and zinc sulphides containing gold and silver values. Mineralisation between these lenses is also good.

Work on the No. 2 vein has been very encouraging and it is proposed to sink on this vein in the near future. A shareholders' meeting was held in Schreiber at which the vendors agreed to repool their stock for another year.

Gem Lake.

Mr. H. L. Donaldson, mine superintendent of Gem Lake, reports that sinking on the property has now reached a depth of 185 feet. A station has been cut at the 125 foot level, and cross-cutting is under way. A crosscut is to be run north to cut three parallel veins, after which drifting east and west on all will be begun. Sinking will continue to 275 feet and underground work similar to that on the higher level will then commence. These three veins all showed splendid values on the surface and underground results are being looked forward to with a great deal of eagerness.

Amulet.

Since the report from Rouyn that Amulet cut 50 feet of high grade copper and zinc in an entirely new ore body located approximately 500 feet east and 200 feet north-east of the "C" ore body, no news has filtered out from the camp in the last 24 hours as to whether the drill is still in ore or not. The finding of ore in this diamond drill hole is of the utmost significance in that it opens up an entirely new ore zone which will materially add to the already known ore reserves of Amulet.

Wheat Prices Fall As Weather Improves

CHICAGO, Oct. 19 (Canadian Press).—With excellent rains over the domestic Winter wheat territory and with favorable crop conditions south of the equator, wheat prices averaged lower to-day during dealings. Besides the export demand for wheat from North America appeared to be confined largely to low-grade Canadian wheat at wide discounts under other sorts. Opening at ¼ off to ¼ up, wheat later showed some setback all around. Corn started unchanged to ¾ advance, but subsequently declined. Oats were easy.

Opening prices were: Wheat, December 118¾, March 120½. Corn, December 82, March 84¼. Oats, December 43¾, March 44¼.

Inrush of Buying Orders Soars Prices

NEW YORK, October 19 Associated Press). — "Melon cutting," through the distribution of stock dividends, by the country's large corporations was the magnet which drew thousands of small and large speculators into the stock market yesterday, the inrush of buying orders sending prices of many stocks soaring $5 to $36 a share. So furious was the pace of trading that the ticker was fifty minutes late in recording the final quotation, the day's sales running above 4,800,000 shares.

At least two score individual stocks, including Anaconda Copper, General Motors, American Express, International Nickel and Johns Manville, sold at record high prices. The average of 20 leading industrial issues, compiled by the Associated Press, set a new high record for all time. Nearly half a billion dollars was added to the aggregate market value of the industrial leaders.

The rally was by no means general. Scores of stocks reacted $1.00 to $5.00 a share on selling inspired largely by fears of another huge increase in Federal Reserve brokers' loans. The actual figures, published after the close of the market, showed a gain of $74,507,000, bringing the total to a new high record at 4,654,390,000, or $1,230,000,000 above the total a year ago.

Mine Prices Easier With Malarctic Leading

TORONTO, Oct. 19 (Canadian Press).—Prices were easier in light trading on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange to-day. While there were no declines of much consequence a number of issues which made gains yesterday suffered losses. Malartic continued to lead the market and was down nine to 1.07. Noranda eased off to 48.50, a drop of twenty, and Sudbury Basin dropped ten to 5.55. Mond Nickel showed strength and after touching 40.00, sold down to 38.75. Sales were exceptionally heavy for the Standard Exchange. Hollinger showed strength and advanced 50 to 8.90, while Big Missouri with heavy trading was up two at 58. Newbec dropped a point to 44. Ahana was down five at 3.90. Amulet one down at 3.49.

Toronto Exchange Active; Nickel Shares Leading

TORONTO, Oct. 19 (Canadian Press)—Trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day maintained the intense activity shown during the past two days. The nickel issues continued to lead all the others in activity and buoyancy. Mond created a new high early in the session when it touched 40.00, and International came within half a point of equalling the high mark of 175 set yesterday. They both eased off as the session continued, however, and at noon International was down to 172½, where it had a gain of more than five points over yesterday's close. Mond dropped back to 39. Brazilian had an active session, and at noon was down a point at 69¾. Strength was shown by Canners issues, the Common advancing a point to 22. Massey Harris was unchanged at 51. The oil stocks made a good show of strength on the unlisted section, with British American in the lead.

ROBERT ADAMS WINS SWEEPSTAKE

He pointed out also that a large baby was not always a healthy baby, but might be only over-weight, and the same thing held true with regard to height.

Dr. King was assisted by Dr. J. A. White of Lindsay, Dr. H. G. Carleton of Norwood, and Dr. H. E. Moore of Lakefield. Dr. E. H. Wood introduced Dr. King to the audience.

Nurses in attendance, crisp and spotless in white uniforms, were Mrs. Frank Lynch (convenor), Mrs. F. LaPlante, the Misses L. Simons, Vickers, M. O'Loughlin, Armstrong and Rabie.

John I. Allen, general convenor, was assisted by W. H. Dicken and Charles Saunders.

The babies, who attended seventy strong, in spite of inclement weather, came in all sorts of conveyances, in taxi cabs and in carriages provided by the Kiwanis Club, and in their mothers' arms. They were pronounced to be a healthy, happy group of small men and women, and they laughed and crowed and cried enthusiastically in chorus during the whole of Dr. King's remarks, the good-natured physician raising his voice in spasms as the babies grew louder.

Those taking an interest in the baby show and contributing towards the prizes, included Messrs. G. A. Gillespie, E. A. Peck M.P., J. I. Allen, E. H. D. Hall, K.C., W. H. Bradburn M.P.P., Mrs. R. M. Waddell, J. K. Hughes, Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., W. J. Kent, Gordon Matthews, R. R. Hall K.C., W. C. Beamer and A. Brown. Several shawls were donated by the Hall Store and F. L. Roy presented an oil-color portrait of the prize-winning baby in the sweepstakes event, this prize being valued at $25.

Preceding the Baby Show in the Canadian Legion hall, luncheon at the Empress Hotel was given to the visiting doctors, Dr. Edmund King of Toronto, Dr. J. A. White of Lindsay, Dr. H. G. Carleton of Norwood and Dr. H. E. Moore of Lakefield, to Mrs. Frank Lynch, convenor of the nurses' committee, and to Messrs. J. I. Allen, W. H. Dickin and Chas. Saunders, the hosts being Dr. F. C. Neal, Dr. E. H. Wood and Dr. G. Ray Scott.

FALL BUILDING RUSH RETAINS ITS INTENSITY

Permits For $16,270 Construction Issued During Past Week.

THREE NEW HOUSES.

Two Other Dwellings Being Altered Into Duplex Houses—Garage Being Enlarged.

Fourteen building permits valued at $16,270 were issued by City Engineer Parsons during the past week. Work has been started on the erection of three new homes and two other houses in the city are being changed into the duplex style. An extension is being made to a public garage and there were also numerous other additions and improvements for which permits were issued.

A. B. Cunningham is building a house for A. J. McLeish at 171 Lock street. It will be of the two story six room type 28 feet by 26 feet with a concrete foundation and brick veneer walls. On the inside it will be finished in British Columbia fir and pine. An electric fire place will be installed and a hot air heating system. The estimated cost is $3,600.

M. J. Koster is building a home at 471 Aylmer street, which is just north of his garage and paint shop. The house will be of two storeys with six rooms, finished inside with basswood and heated with hot air. The estimated cost is $3,200 and it is to be completed by March 1st.

Two Houses Altered

R. C. Braund's house at 49 Lafayette Avenue and H. Lacheur's house at 309 Rubidge street are being made into duplex homes.

Philip Johnston is building a new home at 29 Lake street at an estimated cost of $2,500. The house will be frame, two stories high, with six rooms.

Garage Enlarged

George Sloan and Son have the contract to build an addition to the public garage of H. McGee on Hunter street. The new addition will be 48 feet by 44 feet, of concrete block construction.

T. Ephgrave has the contract from the Peterborough Lumber Company to remove the mansard roof from the old Oriental hotel and replace it with a modern covering. The cost is estimated to be $3,000.

Cellars are being put under the buildings at 416 and 418 Water street by T. Ephgrave.

F. Rowan is erecting a double garage for G. A. Gillespie at 477 Homewood avenue, and the store at 211 Hunter street is being renovated with a new front and windows.

LOSES LIFE AT RICE LAKE

Lester Watson, of Toronto, Drowned Near Harcroft.

WAS DUCK HUNTING.

Lester Watson of Runnymede road, Toronto, was found drowned yesterday in Rice Lake.

Together with W. J. Turner of Toronto, Watson arrived last Wednesday to spend a few days duck shooting on Rice Lake. The two men had secured a cottage and, spending the night there, had risen early. Watson had decided to go and try his luck for a short time, and taking the rowboat left Turner preparing breakfast.

When he did not return in the course of a few hours a search was started and continued throughout the day. At four o'clock Thursday afternoon his cap was found floating on the lake, but darkness closed down before the body could be discovered. Early yesterday morning the search was resumed and the body found shortly after 10 o'clock near a break in an old causeway that had been built from the mainland to a small island.

According to Mr. Turner, Watson apparently beached his boat on this causeway and was following it out towards the island with the idea of getting a shot at the ducks, which were plentiful around it.

The only explanation that can be given by the residents around the district is that he had slipped while crossing this break, which is wide enough for a boat to pass through, and the weight of his heavy hunting clothes had drawn him under the water.

Pension Insufficient; Admiral Takes Poison

VIENNA, Oct. 20 (Canadian Press). — Rear-Admiral Baron Von Bouruignon Baumberg and his wife have chosen death rather than attempt longer to eke out an existence on a meagre government pension.

Unemployment, rising prices, and hard times generally made their struggle more and more difficult in the face of their advancing years. They made a pact to destroy themselves and took poison.

In the small dark room where they had made their futile struggle against privation, the two were found clasped in each others arms. They were dressed in furs, as though they were going on a last cold journey together.

NEW CANADIAN PAGEANT GIVEN

Young People Give Songs and Dances of Ancestral Homes.

LAST CONCERT TO-NIGHT.

The special attraction at the concert in the well-filled Legion Hall last night was the presentation of the Pageant from the Canadian National Exhibition, the performance put on by "New Canadians at School," children whose parents or grandparents or great-grandparents, as their leader explained, were natives of the countries which are represented by these children in song, music, story and dance.

The Children's Pageant last year was a feature of the nightly program during the latter days of the week, and this Pageant is another extremely interesting production. It will be repeated again to-night in the hall of the Canadian Legion, as well as the other very fine numbers on the program, with the last appearance this week of Signor Lamberti, Madam Hannigan, Miss Marie Thomson, and the Canadian Singers. The Harmonica Band will also repeat its fine program.

The little Macedonian boy who made such a favorable impression on his audiences here last season acts as chairman for the Children's Pageant and opens the performance with a snappy little speech about Canada.

Dressed in the national costumes of the countries they represent, the children have a series of charming dances, songs, and instrumental numbers. Truly remarkable is the playing of the Polish lad, Anthony Remouch, on the violin, while the other small boy from Canada who plays "Humoresque" on the same instrument, has a wonderfully fine, smooth even tone and mastery of technique.

Clever Dancing.

The series of dances, deft-footed, light, agile, by girls representative of different nations, features a good deal of the ballet type of dancing, this being especially noticeable in the dainty dance by the girl from France. The Hungarian dance number is an unusual thing of swift muscular movements and vivid whirling interludes, illustrating the czardas of the ancient land of Hungary, and is gowned in supple silk of bright yellow and scarlet hues.

Small Doris Elizabeth Hyde, of Toronto, a dainty figure in black and white, does a Winter dance that is very effective, as is the Scotch Highland Fling, the old Hindu dance, in silver and white costume and the brightly colored gowning of the American Indian dance by a small, graceful girl.

The fair-haired child from Ukrainia, little Annie Bolishyn, again captures the admiration of her audience this year with her sprightly national dance, and her little brother, Peter, does a Cossack dance in appropriate costume. The Spanish dance is a vivid affair, done in a pink Spanish shawl and long green stockings.

The closing number, one of the most peppy and jaunty of the lot, is by little Ada Payne, who was "Huldah from Holland" last year and this year makes her appearance as the Belle of Finch's Corners. Her cunning mannerisms and neat footwork, with a jolly little recitation, brought her repeated applause last night. An Irish dance, a Hungarian dance.

Songs in Several Tongues.

Songs were given in Finnish, in Italian, the latter by the sweet young singer, Itala Lamberti, and in Armenian, and there were vocal numbers also in English by a Canadian lad, recitations by another member of the Dominion's family and also by a tiny colored boy.

Repeated and enthusiastic applause greeted the efforts of the small, clever children. Their leader, in introduction, spoke of their prowess in scholastic work. The girl from Russia took ten firsts and one second in

CHINESE ASK ECONOMIC AID FROM STATES

Invite Five Prominent Men To Become Honorary Advisers To Government.

NEGOTIATE WITH JAPAN.

Seek To Settle Troubles Over War Incidents and Gain Treaty Revision.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 20 (Canadian Press).—The newly organized Nationalist Government State Council, headed by General Chiang Kai Shek, which is seeking to bolster the Nationalist Government's China-wide reconstruction program has decided to ask five prominent Americans to act as "honorary economic advisers to the Nationalist government."

The Americans selected for the invitation were Henry Ford, Owen D. Young, Robert Harper, Washington Banker, Edwin Seligmann and Jeremiah Jenks, economists.

Settle Problem

Preliminary discussions have been opened between C. T. Wang, Nationalist Foreign Minister, and S. Yada, Japanese Consul General at Shanghai, with a view to settlement of the outstanding problems between the two countries, especially the Hankow, Nanking and Tsinan incidents and treaty revision.

While no official announcement has been made, Chinese reports state that a basis for settlements of these questions is rapidly nearing completion.

VIOLENT GALES DELAY SHIPPING

Wind Sweeps West Coasts of England and Ireland During Night.

CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE.

LONDON, Oct. 20 (Canadian Press).—A furious gale with a wind velocity between forty and sixty miles an hour and gusts reaching one hundred miles an hour roared over southern and western England and Ireland during the night. Considerable damage was done in scattered localities. The storm also was heavy over western Scotland and was still raging this morning, the wind at times reaching a velocity of seventy miles and causing much property damage.

Shipping movements were impeded and the liner Transylvania, with 900 passengers on board for New York, was unable to leave last night, and was still held up this morning.

BRITISH CABINET TO REVEAL PAPERS

Documents Relating To Naval Accord To Be Published On Tuesday.

LONDON, October 20 (Canadian Press).—A British White Paper containing the documents relating to the Anglo-French naval proposals will be issued for publication next Tuesday morning. This announcement was made this afternoon.

In connection with it, the Evening Standard's political correspondent says there is an eleventh hour surprise in the decision. He asserts that the British Government report will be made simultaneously with the French, but will be separate, and, possibly in some features, distinct.

"There was desire in Whitehall," the Standard says, "that one mutually agreed upon communique should be published. It is understood, however, that the two Governments have interchanged their two versions, which presumably, although differing in make-up, are agreed in tenor."

Citizens' War Memorial Nearly Ready; Unveiling Will Take Place In Near Future

The handsome war memorial to our illustrious dead in the Great War is now beginning to reveal itself to the public. Its erection which has been going on for several months has had some unavoidable interruptions but it is now on a fair way to early completion and will be unveiled with proper ceremonies in a short time on a date to be definitely announced.

While a large number of subscriptions have been received from $1.00 up there is still a balance of over four thousand dollars necessary to be received before the memorial will be paid for in full. It was felt that every home in the city would like to be represented and a general appeal has been made to give all our citizens an opportunity to subscribe. No doubt many have just put off doing so until such time as the memorial took more definite appearance of completion.

The time has now arrived when the funds are actually required and the committee will be very thankful to receive every subscription at just as early a date as possible. Every citizen is invited to send in his or her subscription large or small to G. H. Thompson, Secretary-Treasurer, 497 George street North, Peterborough, this coming week if at all possible.

QUAKER OATS COMPANY BEGINS TO SUGAR FEEDS FOR ANIMALS

Rations Hitherto Fed Cattle, Etc., Have Lacked This Substance.

VERY NECESSARY.

Farm Paper Editors of Ontario Visit Plants For Demonstration of Process.

Imagine Quaker Oats without sugar!

Just plain, unadorned porridge of neutral savor, somewhat like a rose without perfume, a gastronomic deficiency and affront that may have been acceptable in a fading, far-gone age before the possibilities of our refinements of the breakfast table were foreshadowed!

Add cream, and your fastidious sense, that may perhaps quietly and covertly sniff the atmosphere in anticipatory satisfaction, registers an aroma that is not quite ambrosial. But, sprinkle on the sugar, and the morning miracle is complete. The incense of it ascends about you with convincing assurance that the proudest Highlander starts his day with no better food than yours.

But this no paean to porridge. It is merely a random thought by way of analogy, and also introduction to the new sugared feeds the Quaker Oats Company has been making for a month or so for livestock and poultry.

Quaker Oats does not have to be pre-sugared mechanically, for the simple reason that people can provide their own degree of palatability in the trimmings of cream and sugar. But the farmer's livestock exist on a different plane. This is an elementary fact so obvious that it is almost absurd to write it. However, it is also a fact that balanced rations have to be fed to cattle for the most profitable results in dairy and beef production. But in these rations we have been holding back the sugar on the cow, the horse and the hog, and the rest of the barnyard population, and it is only recently that experts in this branch of agriculture have realised that a dash of sugar in molasses form in the live-stock's feed makes it more palatable, and to that very extent more assimilable and generally agreeable.

An Editorial Visit.

Every detail of the manufacture of these feeds was demonstrated at the Quaker Oats Company factory on Thursday to editorial representatives of the agricultural press of Ontario, the combined circulation of which approximates 250,000. The visitors were: Eric D. McGreer, associate editor of the Ontario Farmer; W. H. Porter, managing editor of the Farmers' Advocate; H. B. Cowan, managing director, and A. B. Cutting, editor, of Farm and Dairy; James Henry, associate editor of the Ottawa Farm Journal, and Daniel McKee, editor of Canadian Countryman; also William Findlay of the William Findlay Company, Ltd., of Toronto, who has charge of the Quaker Oats advertising, and Don McCrimmon of his staff.

Although the party was small, it was of incalculable significance because of the close contact of its members with rural Ontario. After luncheon at the Empress the visitors spent the entire afternoon inspecting the immense plant, the greatest cereal mill in the British Empire. They were received in the most friendly manner by Mr. George A. Macdonald, general manager and vice-president for Canada in the Quaker Oats administration, and they were escorted through the factory, from the basement to the topmost roof, by Mr. George Edwards, superintendent, and by Mr. W. H. White, sales manager

Saved His Life By Stunt Flying

OTTAWA, Ont., October 20 (Canadian Press).—The courage and rapidly acquired flying skill of Lieut.-Commander H. C. McDonald, who unfortunately appears to have been added to the long list of those lost in attempts to conquer the Atlantic by air, was recalled here last night by a close acquaintance of the intrepid British flyer.

Flying Officer E. Daine Dawson, Royal Canadian Air Force, who knew "Mac" in his early aerial days, told of an aerobatic exhibition which the now missing aviator put on in Africa before an Arab tribe and which probably saved his life. 'Mac' was captured by the tribe when he was forced down on an attempted flight from the Old Country to China, Officer Dawson related. Despite the fact that he had only ten hours of solo flying experience before he started on that long hop, McDonald staged the flying stunt show. That plan had been decided upon for just such an emergency prior to McDonald's departure.

The flyer crashed his plane during the exhibition, but the tribesmen were so awed and delighted with the peculiar skill of their white prisoner that they allowed him his freedom.

Officer Dawson fears that the chances of his friend having won with his life over the Atlantic are "pretty slim." My only hope is that he has been picked up by fishermen whose boat is too small to carry a wireless, Dawson said.

RANGERS' BAND GETS HIGH MARK

Score 90 Points Out of 100 To Win Shield For First Place.

HIGHLY COMPLIMENTED.

The band of the Peterborough Rangers under the direction of Lieut. W. H. Peryer won high honors in the band competitions of the Made-in-Canada Fair. Playing the well known composition "Poet and Peasant" by Suppe, they won the praise of the judge, Capt. O'Neill, conductor of the Quebec Citadel Band, who gave them ninety marks out of a possible hundred. Capt. O'Neill said that the band was of high standard and especially praised the clarinets and cornets. There was no other band competing in their class but the Rangers' band most certainly won on their merits to win such high marks and compliments.

In another class the Orono Citizen's Band competed, playing the overture "Gala Night" by Chanette. They were the only band in their group and received eighty marks, the number necessary to win the award and first place. The Orono band was also complimented by the judge.

The best silver neuter cat in the local show was owned and bred by Mrs. F. Baille, of the Royal Canadian Cat Club of Toronto. This cat is well worth the prizes he has won at the Peterborough Cat Show. At three other shows under a different judge each time he was chosen as the best long-haired neuter in the show.

URGES WOMAN TO BUY HOME GROWN FRUIT

Miss White Says Canadian Grown Fruit and Vegetables Better.

DEPLORES IMPORTATION.

Large Amount of Work Would Be Furnished By Buying Canadian Produce.

Miss White, the "Bride Broder" of The Mail and Empire, Toronto, was the speaker in the Women's Section at the Produced-in-Canada Fair at the Armories, yesterday afternoon and evening.

Miss White gave an enthusiastic and very interesting address based on "Woman, the Buyer," speaking of the importance of buying Canadian-made products at all times, with especial reference to fruits and vegetablese in the afternoon speech, and to textiles in the evening talk.

Illustrating her address in the afternoon by means of samples of Canadian-grown fruits and vegetables and referring with particular enthusiasm to the pronouncement of one local fruit dealer, D. M. Minicolo, as to the "vitality" of Canadian products in orchard and garden, Miss White deplored the tendency of the woman buyer in the home to patronize such products when imported from the United States to the detriment of our own markets.

"It depends almost entirely upon you whether Canada is to go forward and prosper or send much of her substance over to the United States. A great deal of the blame lies at the door of the housekeepers."

Work for 5,000

Saying that two million pounds of tomatoes came into this country from over the border last year alone, Miss White asserted that this quantity could quite easily have been grown in Canada under glass and would have meant the employment of 5,000 gardeners who, making a conservative estimate of four each in their families, would have brought 20,000 extra people to the Dominion.

Turning her attention to a very fine head of cabbage that illustrated her talk on this pleasant vegetable, Miss White said that imported cabbages at high prices were forced on the Canadian people by an American combine which, she asserted, has a "strangle hold" on the business throughout the entire country, with the fruit companies, the commission men, the small retailers and finally the customers, in a long chain that "has its tentacles in every little hamlet" of the Dominion.

"In war time," said Miss White, "we took enough trouble. We sacrificed time and money and labor. But we won't take any trouble in a question like this which means so much to the progress and prosperity of our own land."

Asking if housewives buying canned goods ever took the trouble to insist on getting Canadian-made products, instead of the American brand, Miss White instanced the case of canned asparagus as an outstanding example of the way in which American goods are forced on the consumer, saying that United States, rather than Canadian, products of this type were usually handed out to the customer.

Speaking of the wonderful work done by the Local Council of Toronto in the days when it agitated for a filtered water supply for the city and got it, in the face of much opposition, and adjuring the Councils of Women everywhere to do some practical work, instead of being content with passing resolutions, Miss White impressed upon her hearers the necessity of making this campaign successful by insisting on every possible occasion on getting Canadian-made goods. "It is a simple matter, if you would but set your minds to it," she said.

In the course of a brief discussion which followed Miss White's address, it was suggested that several factors were responsible in part for the habit of buying imported goods out of domestic reason. One lady averred that husbands wanted these early fruits and vegetables; another thought that an inferiority complex as to our own goods was a factor; while another asserted that the spirit of "keeping up with the Joneses" and having out-of-season fruits and vegetables on the table, as an evidence of financial prosperity, might be an element in the situation.

In the evening, Miss White repeated her address, centering her interest especially on Canadian-made textiles.

Mrs. G. P. Muldrew, of Ottawa, was the second speaker of the afternoon and evening, in an address entitled "Our Immediate Problem," which repeated in substance the excellent address given by her at the meeting of the Local Council of Women and reported in last night's paper.

Mrs. W. R. Morris introduced both speakers, and thanked them at the conclusion of their addresses.

Former Opera Star Commits Suicide

CHICAGO, Oct. 20 (Canadian Press)—Belle Applegate, of Louisville, Ky., the one time "Mme. Psedris Agon" of European opera stages, killed herself yesterday, and in a bitter farewell note said, "My blood be upon America for her treatment of a daughter of Kentucky Pathfinders."

She had come to Chicago for another chance to sing, but she was taken ill a few days ago. She refused to go to a hospital and had registered in an Evanston hotel as "Alice Walton."

After the Great War, in which her husband was killed, she was no longer ranked among the first class artists. She returned to Louisville, disappointed by the end of her stage triumphs.

LARGE MARKET IS HELD TO-DAY

CHICKENS 35c A POUND.

There was a large market this morning, with plenty of produce and numbers of buyers in both sections. Prices of dairy products are on the steady upgrade which characterises them at this time of year, but many vendors were forced to sell at lower figures as the hour advanced and stocks were still heavy.

Chickens were priced in opening at 35 cents a pound and went down to 25 cents later; the same price as hens were offered. Ducks were 30 cents a pound. Eggs sold at 48 to 55 cents a dozen, and butter was 45 cents a pound.

Honey was selling at 13 cents a pound for the light variety and 10 cents a pound for the dark. Combs were 25 cents apiece.

On the open market, apples were plentiful. Spies were $3.50 a bag, Greenings $3, and Malden's Blush, consorting with Wolf River, sold at $1 a bag.

Potatoes were $1 a bag; pork 20 cents a pound; grapes 20 cents a measure and 75 cents a basket; green pears in large sizes $1 a peck and in small sizes 90 cents for a large basket.

Tiny "ground cherries," or little yellow tomatoes, were $1.25 a basket.

Upstairs, in the basket section, a second growth of raspberries was offered at one section, in a few boxes gleaned by a grower near Nicholls Hospital.

Artificial flowers for interior decoration were on view, everlastings or "straw flowers," Chinese lanterns in bright orange, and the little flat, "spectacle" flowers.

LIGHTNING HITS OTONABEE BARN

John Doherty Suffers Loss of Building and Much Grain.

The big electric storm that swept the district last evening did not pass without doing some damage. The large barn of John Doherty, near Drummond's Station, was struck by lightning, and was totally destroyed by the fire that resulted. The first flames were seen shortly after seven o'clock, and quickly the fire spread until the whole building was blazing madly. Neighbors quickly gathered, but no attempt could be made to save the barn from destruction.

Fortunately there was no stock in the barn. However, the loss was considerable, as there was considerable grain which had not yet been threshed.

WESTON WOMAN WINNER OF WAVE

Mrs. R. N. Hill Holder To Ticket 150—Donated By Mme. Merriam.

The lucky winner of the raffle at the Kiwanis Produced-in-Canada Exhibition received a permanent wave donated by Madame Merriam. Ticket number 150 won the prize, and Mrs. R. N. Hill of Weston held the ticket. The proceeds of the raffle are being used for the Kiwanis under-privileged child work.

Madame Merriam has also given a second permanent wave which will be drawn for at the Armouries on Saturday night.

Air brake trouble detained the Canadian Pacific passenger train running from Toronto to Montreal for about 15 minutes near Myrtle station last night.

Churchill Calls on Poincare

British and French Officials Confer With U. S. Financial Magnate.

NOT MADE PUBLIC.

Churchill Reported As Saying He Is Quite Satisfied With Negotiations.

PARIS, October 20 (Associated Press). — Efforts looking toward complete and final settlement of the Reparations problem began at Geneva last September, enter a decisive phase in Paris yesterday.

Conferences were held yesterday morning at which Premier Poincare, Winston Churchill, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, and S. Parker Gilbert, Jr., Agent-General for Reparations, were present while yesterday afternoon there was luncheon at the British Embassy at which Mr. Churchill, Mr. Gilbert, and J. P. Morgan were guests of Sir William Tyrrel, British Ambassador. While the deepest secrecy surrounded the negotiations, Mr. Churchill previous to his departure for London late yesterday said that he was "quite satisfied."

The presence of Mr. Morgan at the negotiations is interpreted as showing that both France and Britain desire to confirm the decision taken ten days ago to request that the United States unofficial member or members participate in the deliberations. While an official communique issued after yesterday morning's conference says that the question discussed was the constitution of a committee of experts, the creation of which was decided at Geneva on September 16," it may be safely asserted that the very basis of the reparations problem in its new phase, namely revision of the Dawes plan, was considered at length.

The viewpoint of both France and Britain is that the United States must be represented on the new committee, but neither country appears to have receded from its previously announced positions concerning the reparations problem itself.

THREE KILLED DURING FUNERAL

Car in Cortege in Collision Near Barrie—Six Persons Hurt.

CARS BADLY SMASHED.

BARRIE, Ont., Oct. 20.—(Canadian Press).—The death toll in a collision between two automobiles, including one belonging to a funeral cortege, was increased to three this morning when Miss Mary Coleman, of Toronto, succumbed to her injuries at the Royal Victoria Hospital Miss Dorothy Watson and her brother-in-law, Thomas Armstrong, both of Toronto, died as result of their injuries shortly after their admittance to the hospital last evening.

Mrs. Thomas Armstrong and Miss Rebecca Watson, also of Toronto were seriously injured but were said to be doing "pretty well" at the hospital to-day. Four other persons suffered slight injuries but were able to proceed to their homes after medical treatment. An inquest will be held, but no date has yet been set.

Unaware of Accident

When the funeral of Mrs. Hugh Finlayson left Toronto, the hearse and three automobiles made up the cortege. The last car in the procession was driven by Carter, and when he and his companions met with their accident, those in the front were unaware that anything unusual had happened. The hearse and two cars drove on to Barrie and proceeded to the cemetery. There they waited for an hour, expecting the Carter car to arrive with its occupants at any moment. When the hour had passed and the car did not arrive, they decided to proceed with the ceremony. Mrs. Finlayson was buried; and the party returned from the cemetery and were still unable to get any information as to the whereabouts of the missing car.

While motoring south from Barrie they saw indications that there had been a wreck by the side of the road. A tire was left in the ditch and there were other signs of an accident. With that, the funeral party returned to Barrie, and it was another hour before they learned of the fatality.

William Laurier, of Agincourt, driver of the other car, received slight glass cuts, while one of his companions, W. J. Russell, of Unionville, was knocked unconscious for a time and received an ugly gash in the head. R. Sheppard, of Coldwater, aged 10, escaped without a scratch.

Industrial Magnate Transfers Large Plant

FORD TO MOVE TRACTOR PLANT ACROSS OCEAN

Will Supply Entire Demand From Factory at Cork.

MACHINERY ON WAY.

Manufacture at Detroit Ceased When New Car Orders Forced Expansion.

DETROIT, Mich., October 20 (Special to The Examiner). — By January 1, the principal seat of manufacture of the Fordson tractor will have been transferred from the Fordson plant of the Ford Motor Company here, to the company's plant at Cork, Ireland.

Manufacture of the tractor at Fordson was discontinued about a year ago. So imperative was the need of additional factory space for the manufacture of the new Ford car, that the shops engaged in making tractors were evacuated of tractor machinery. This was not done, however, until an ample number of tractors and parts had been made to take care of all orders for the immediate future.

Meantime, orders for the tractor from England, Ireland, and Continental countries of Europe, particularly from Germany and Russia, increased far beyond the capacity of the Cork plant. It was recently decided, therefore, to move the tractor making machinery and equipment to Cork. About half of this immense shipment is aboard the Ford steamship Lake Gorin, which sailed ten days ago. The balance is being loaded on the steamship Lake Benbo, another Ford vessel, which it is expected, will clear for Cork next Saturday or early next week. When the machinery is installed at Cork, that plant will be operated on a basis of two eight-hour shifts a day, turning out 300 tractors daily.

The Russian Soviet Government recently placed an order for $1,000,000 worth of tractors, in addition to large quantities which it has been purchasing from time to time during the last eight years. The Government loans the tractors out to agricultural towns and villages, and schools for training operators of the Fordson tractor have sprung up all over Russia.

TWO SMALL BROTHERS FALL THIRTEEN STOREYS FROM ROOF OF HOTEL

NEW YORK, October 20 (Canadian Press). — Two small brothers yesterday fell thirteen storeys to their deaths from the roof of the Hotel Surrey, East 76th Street. Their mother, Mrs. Hazel Waldeman, had taken them with her to the hotel roof.

A painter who saw the tragedy said she had held Benjamin, 14 months old, in her arms to let him look over the three-foot wall. Then Terrance, 4½ years of age, climbed up on a bench and apparently tried to make his mother pick him up also.

The baby fell from his mother's arms, and after him topples the other child. The mother fainted. The painter summoned help, but the tiny bodies lying on the roof of a three-storey building were lifeless.

(Examiner Correspondence)

HAVELOCK, Oct. 20.—The regular meeting of the School Board was held on Wednesday, with Trustees Anderson, Roche, Rigby, Scully and Jamieson present.

E. Carr addressed the board, asking the reason why his girl was not permitted to attend this school, and it was pointed out by Mr. Yuill that Mr. Lees ruled that where capacity of school and teachers were taxed non-residents would not be allowed to attend Havelock School.

It was moved by Trustees Roche and Jamieson that a committee be appointed to look into the matter and take it up with Mr. Lees. Carried.

The chairman appointed Trustees Scully and Roche to act as committee.

On motion by Trustees Scully and Roche, the following accounts were ordered paid:

CHICKEN THIEVES FRIGHTENED AWAY

St. Andrew's Musicians Elect Officers and Begin Practice.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 20.—Yesterday morning about three-thirty, three men in a car tried to make off with some of the chickens from Robert Lee's farm near Bradley Bay. They were noticed before they got dangerously near the chicken house and made their get away.

As far as can be learned, the thieves made their appearance at the Lee farm shortly after three o'clock in the morning. There were three of them in a motor car. Two men stayed in the car while the third went to reconnoitre. But they were seen by a neighboring farmer, who immediately telephoned to Lee that something unusual was brewing. Lee seized his shotgun and rushed out to defend his property against the invaders, but the lights warned the men of his coming and they made good their escape before they could be captured. It was also impossible to get a description of the car which they were driving. The night police in Campbellford were notified and watch was at once set for the men should they come to town, but they apparently detoured well outside the corporation limits.

Soon after receiving the notice of the affair, there was an officer at the boundary watching the road leading from Bradley Bay. A car approached with brilliant headlights and driving at a good pace. The officer stepped into the road and called a halt but the driver either failed to understand or took the matter as a practical joke. The glint of a blued steel revolver, however, held in the hands of an officer of the law, did not have all the earmarks of humour and he stopped. But the motorist was none other than a local physician returning from a late call into the country. Further waiting failed to bring results and with the coming of daylight the watch was removed.

On this occasion the farmer was at no loss other than a few minutes' sleep. In this he was more fortunate than another gentleman who resides in the vicinity of Myersburg. Only about ten days ago, thieves visited a chicken house there and got away with forty-five birds. The farmer wakened to hear the marauders and gave chase, but their car was already headed for the open road and by the time the angry owner got his car started, they had disappeared from sight. The night was very foggy and the escape was not a difficult matter. On this occasion also the police were notified, but there were no chicken thieves entered the town.

So far no definite mark of identification has been ascertained other than the fact that the party consists of three men and that they drive a motor car. It is not known whether or not the car is a closed or open model, old or new. Precautions are being taken to ensure the capture of these men should they again put in an appearance in this district.

26 PLOWMEN ENTER MATCH

Peterborough County Match Very Successful—Held at Warsaw.

GOOD PLOWING DONE.

WARSAW, Oct. 20 (Examiner Correspondence).—The Peterborough County plowing match was held on Allan Payne's farm on Wednesday. It began in a downpour of rain and ended at twilight. The fields were in much better condition than the men expected to find them after the heavy rain during the preceding night.

There were twenty-six entrants, horse and walking plow; and one tractor.

William G. Henderson of Otonabee had the tractor.

Edward Carlaw, aged seventy-six, was the only entrant in his class, over sixty-five years. He did good work.

Harold Payne, aged sixteen, and Trevor Watts, aged fourteen, were the only boys under eighteen, who entered. Trevor lent his own team, and afterwards decided to enter; consequently he had to work with a strange team.

Eight tried their skill on a stubble field; four of them using double plows, and eighteen plowed in a sod field; three of them using English plows.

The sweepstakes, Peterborough County, Burnham Cup, was won for the second time by John O'Brien of Indian River.

Retains Peck Cup

Wilfred Short of Woodville won the Peck Cup in the first class, which he keeps. There were three in this class who had won it before, and any one of them winning this time would keep it.

Mr. Fisher of Agincourt was an efficient judge and all seemed contented with his decisions.

There were many spectators and the officials reported that they had never seen a happier crowd.

The Woman's Institute served hot dinners in Mrs. Allan Payne's large summer kitchen, which she kindly offered. It had a tent beside the fields, where lunches, hot dogs, sandwiches, pies, chocolate bars, soft drinks and tea could be obtained. Both places were well patronized.

J. B. Nelson, Agricultural representative was unable to be present. Roland Dixon of Otonabee acted in his place. Warsaw school children were allowed off at afternoon recess to witness the match.

Corn cutting is still delayed. There are still several fields of buckwheat which cannot be gotten in, and one field is still uncut. The unfortunate thing is that these fields are of exceptionally good crops.

Fred Morgan has corn eighteen feet long.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

STIRLING, Oct. 20. — St. John's Anglican church was filled to capacity Thursday evening when the Right Rev. Dr. Seager, Lord Bishop of Ontario, confirmed fourteen persons. A full choir under the leadership of Mrs. Dr. Alger, led in the singing of Hymns 594, 601, 435 and 658, used throughout the service.

The Scripture lesson taken from parts of chapters 8 and 19 of the Gospel of Acts was read by Mr. L. Hamel Cook, lay reader. A sermon of intense interest was given by His Lordship, who took his subject from 1st Corinthians, chapter 13 and verse 227. The great need of living close to Christ was stressed. Too often Christians play fast and loose with Christ. At all times we should be willing to sacrifice our time and pleasure in His cause.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wickett was baptized by the Rev. Dr. Seager.

Many of the pupils of the Public and High schools are practicing after school for the 8th annual Hallowe'en concert to be given under the auspices of the Stirling Women's Institute.

POOR CROP YIELD.

Farmers at Bailieboro District Preparing Land For Next Year.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BAILIEBORO, Oct. 20.—The farmers of this district are not discouraged with the poor crop this season. They are busily engaged in working their land and preparing for a bumper crop next year.

There has been very little threshing in the vicinity up to date but the crops are yielding poorly. F. C. Jewison had twenty acres of oats that yielded about eleven hundred bushels, but this is a very large yield for this season.

Personals.

ROYALTY ATTEND FUNERAL OF DOWAGER EMPRESS MARIE OF RUSSIA

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 20. — (Associated Press). — Only a small group of people were admitted to the mighty Roskilde cathedral yesterday to witness the final ceremonies at the burial of the late Dowager Empress Marie of Russia, but these included two kings and one queen and many other royalties.

The company made an impressive spectacle. The gorgeous costumes of the Russian priests constrasted curiously with the sober garments of the Danish clergymen who walked before the coffin. This was carried by officers of the Royal Guards, and accompanied by two of the Empress' Cossacks, with huge beards and bristling with strange weapons.

Then followed King Christian, the two daughters of the Empress, King Haakon, the Duke of York, the Swedish Crown Prince, and finally the Royal Ladies, preceded by the Queen, Danish Princess, Russian Grand Dukes and members of the Russian colony. Most of the Russians wre in ordinary dress, but a few of them wore the old Russian Senatorial attire, with ancient decorations.

Later there was a special farewell service by the Russians which was attended by all the members of the Royal Families.

Campbellford

(Examiner Staff Correspondence).

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 20.—Mrs. Earl Kingston and son Jack have returned to their home in Niagara Falls, N.Y., after spending the past week with Mrs. Kingston's mother, Mrs. James Dickson.

Mr. Prynce Nesbitt, Merrittown, has taken up residence on Canrobert Street, and will assume the duties of organist of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church this Sunday.

Mrs. George T. Dickson and Mrs. F. de F. Free were in Peterborough last night to attend the Kiwanis Fair, and especially to hear the Canadian Singers.

Between the Made-in-Canada Fair and its attractions and the Dumbells at the Grand Theatre, Peterborough proved a place of interest for many citizens of Campbellford last night.

Unsettled weather conditions have among other things, effected the usual efficient work of the street cleaning department. The hundreds of shade trees which made the town so attractive during the summer season are shedding their leaves, and the streets are far from appearing tidy. In order to cope with the situation another man has been added to the department and much progress is being made.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

SALUTATIONS! Grace be yours and vast peace and deep abiding joy. If a certain celebrated Governor could begin an after-dinner speech in such a fashion, surely it is quite fitting that I do it from the manse window after an absence of several weeks.

Could words express all that I feel toward those who profess to have found both pleasure and profit in reading my rather hurriedly written musings, the space allotted to me would not be enough in which to say all that should be said.

It is a privilege as well as a pleasure to be with you again. If the past summer has meant as much to you as it has meant to me neither of us have any cause for complaint.

It has been my good fortune to travel far, even if I have not always travelled fast. Crowded cities and roomy rural places have each contributed something of lasting value. I carry with me lovely mental pictures of lakes and rivers and ocean. The mountains, the valleys and the plains, have all ministered to the well-being of body, soul and spirit. In mingling with friends, old and new, I have profited far beyond all human computation.

However, it is not about these that I want to write at this time, but about some of my summer reading.

THE READER'S REWARD.

Milton says:

"Who reads
Incessantly, and to his reading brings not
A spirit and genius equal or superior,
Uncertain and unsettled still remains,
Deep versed in books and shallow in himself."

Doubtless most of us remember Bacon's famous utterance: "Reading makes a full man, conference (or conversation) a ready man, and writing an exact man;" and the suggestion that we should read, not to contradict and confute, nor to believe and take for granted, nor to find talk and discourse, but to weigh and consider. Our reading should employ our judgment even more than it does our memory. He is a happy person who enjoys a good book, and to whom the day does not seem long enough for reading.

Knowledge of books, and a habit of careful reading, is still a most important means of intellectual development. It will give mental breadth, poise and authority.

One, well qualified to speak, has told us that the moral influence of good books is very great. He claims that they purify the taste, elevate the character, make low pleasures unattractive, and carry the soul up into a region of noble aims and generous purposes.

A REMARKABLE BOOK.

During the past summer I have been reading a book which has stirred me to the depths of my soul. It has meant so much to me already and promises to mean so much more that I feel the best service I can render to my readers at this time is to bring it to their attention. Some of you may have seen it. If so, you don't need any words of mine to enable you to appreciate its worth. Judged by the best standards in the literary world, it is a gem. For prose at its best some of its passages deserve a place with the best in English. With the most delicate touch it uncovers a great modern tragedy. It pays tribute where tribute is due, and pays in the finest literary currency. There is something of prophecy in it which those who rule would do well to read and ponder.

PUBLISHER'S NOTICE.

This book is published by Doubleday, Doran & Company, Inc. That is enough to know that there will be nothing "cheap" about it. On the outside cover I find the following announcement which is an excellent analysis as well:

Herbert Booth
A Biography By Ford C. Ottman

Herbert Booth!—prophet, stupendous evangelist, "renegade" son of General Booth who founded the Salvation Army—the story of his life is the story of the Salvation Army, perhaps the strongest religious machine on earth to-day. How he served the Army valiantly for twenty-five years—how he concluded that his father's regime was destructive of democracy—how he went to Australia and carried on two battles, the battle against Army autocracy and the evangelical battle to save souls—is brilliantly recorded in this biography, which is the amazing picture of an epoch; of an incredible organization whose materials were human emotions, hopes, fears, souls; and of two powerful personalities, father and son, pitted against each other, each with the unalterable conviction of infallibility.

Dull indeed must be the imagination which, having been brought into contact with the above, would not want to read every bit of the book.

AUTHOR'S NOTE.

Some excerpts from this section of the biography I now permit to speak for themselves. They will serve as an introduction to what we shall leave for another day.

"In delineating the life and character of Herbert Booth, the central figure of the narrative, the writer is guiltless of intentional exaggeration. The Commandant's achievements are incontestable and of undeniable luster. Out of the heart are the issues of life and they are the indices and criterion of the fountain from which they flow. Herbert Booth gave his heart to God and trusted in the blood of atonement to keep it pure. His faults, never glaring, in contrast with his virtues were to a degree insignificant.

"A voluminous correspondence, official and personal, has drawn the veil aside and opened the way into the otherwise remote and inaccessible Sanctuary of Truth. Were his most inveterate enemy to read that correspondence the last ember of his resentment would at once expire in ashes.

"The writer is confident that Herbert Booth would seriously deprecate and deplore any denunciation or disparagement of the Salvation Army, and nothing written in this book should be so interpreted. The Army's soul-saving objective and its glorious achievements have carried it far beyond the shaft of adverse criticism

"Exception taken to its system of government is another matter of momentous import. Against that system Herbert lodged a complaint and without reference to it no record of his life could be impartially written.

"Since the days of Cunningham Geike, more than forty years ago, the absolute centralization of control over the Army has been viewed with apprehension by the soldiers and with growing distrust by the public. Unless remedial measures are taken the institution may yet founder on that rock of offence. Let it be removed and the gallant ship will right itself and under the old-time gales from heaven sail on to the rescue of perishing souls."

WELL REVIEWED.

The book has been very favorably received by some of the outstanding reviewers. When a great daily like the New York Times devotes several columns in its Sunday Book Review to any book you can rest assured that it is of more than ordinary worth in the world of books. The reviewer, among other things, has this to say: "Of special interest just now is this biography of Herbert Booth. For it comes with its dynamic exposition of the rebellion of its subject against the autocratic rule which has always characterized the management of the Salvation Army at the psychological moment when there is on foot in the Army itself, though carried on diplomatically and quietly, an important effort to democratise its organization.

REBELLION IN THE ARMY.

"Herbert Booth was not the only one of the children of General William Booth who rebelled against his autocratic management. Every one of them inherited from him so much of his own great ability and strong personality that chafing under his iron rule more or less downright rebellion were inevitable.

"Now for the first time is told the full account of one of those rebellions that ended in complete severance of relations with the Army. For all Salvationists it will have keen interest, for it tells in detail the inside story of the break that has been a major incident in the history of the Army. Its tragic human qualities and poignant sufferings give it a universal appeal to the sympathy and interest of readers outside the Salvation Army circles, while the personality of Herbert Booth, who appears to have been endowed with unusual charm, adds to the attraction of his life story."

For lack of space we are compelled, with much regret, to stop, for the present, at this point. However, if our plans do not miscarry, we shall return to the biography of this saintly soldier next week.

ALLAN FAIRBAIRN.

The Minister Remarks—

—If some people expended as much energy in working as they do in wishing they would accomplish more.

—The reason why some people fail to rise is because they haven't heard the alarm and they lack ambition.

—Some people would succeed if they would throw away their crutches and learn to walk on their own legs.

—Inherited respectability, good as it may be, will never count for as much as the kind we earn.

—Idleness is a disgrace, and always runs the risk of becoming a curse.

—If you are in the procession merely for spectacular effect, you'd better go home for your ascension robe and migrate to the moon. —A. F.

THE BRIGHTER DAY

THERE are a hundred reasons why we may entertain the largest hope for humanity, and the chief reason is that God is active among men. He is not an absentee God. He is taking a hand in human affairs. But He is working through His church, and there can be no higher honor than to co-operate with Him as a member of the visible body of Christ in bringing to a final consummation the purposes of the Almighty.—"Jesus Christ at the Crossroads."

—Dr. A. Z. Conrad.

POPULARITY

THE people always either applaud or condemn in the gross. For a discriminating judgment they have neither leisure nor capacity, therefore they can never be nicely just. When they are roused they swell like the tide, and till their impulse is exhausted; then their ebb is likely to be as deficient as their flow was superfluous.

—John Stuart Blackie.

Children's Corner — TELL US A STORY

WHEN General James A. Garfield was inaugurated President of the United States, he insisted that his aged mother should be at his side when he took the accustomed oath and delivered his inaugural address. As soon as he had been invested with the powers of the high office he turned to his mother and kissed her. And when, a few months later, the bullet of the assassin had laid him on a bed of great suffering, his mother, then necessarily at a distance, was often in his thoughts, and loving, comforting messages he often sent to her. The last letter which he ever wrote was to her.

A DEFINITION

TRUE theology is God's view of human affairs, false theology is man's view of the divine procedure. Of the former, we can know only enough to suffice for our habitual wonder, worship and obedience. Of the latter, we know that it must always be inadequate and always partial, generally presumptuous and often pernicious. —Professor Blackie.

A SPLENDID SPEAKER AND INTERESTING PROGRAMME

Going To School

SOME of our thinking needs correcting. Ask the average individual what a school is, and more than likely you will be told that it is an academic building, with text books, class yells, and an encyclopedic atmosphere. In that case all our school-days would be confined to that period when we are attending such an institution. If such be our thought, we are mistaken. Our school may be an office, a workshop, a bit of farm land, a factory, a store, or a seat on a delivery waggon. All our days are really school-days.

Every life needs training if it is to be lived to the greatest possible advantage. Greatness is never accidental. Abraham Lincoln never happened. Genius has never been able to get along without hard work. There has never been any such thing as extemporaneous success. Moses had to spend eighty years getting ready to do forty years' work. It is the man or the woman who has been well educated in the school of experience who rides opportunity to success.

Don't allow impatience to spoil your chances. The school term may seem long, but it is necessary if you are to matriculate with something more to your credit than a piece of parchment giving you the right to add certain letters to your name. There are no short-cuts to the jobs that really count for most. Better to lengthen your period of education than shorten your career.

Never be ashamed of your text-books. Overalls and a kit of tools are no humiliation to any real man. Don't waste your time and strength in envying those who have inherited wealth. The best capital is not money—it is brains, character, energy and consecrated manhood. —A. F.

A Pen Picture

IT is late at night, and the city is quiet. Most people are in their beds, but the room in which we stand is full of visitors. Many, if not all of these, are friends of the landlady, and they are certainly all of one mind.

Some great anxiety weighs upon their spirits, and nothing else is worth thinking of but that which has brought them together to-night.

One seems to ask another—"Is there any hope?" Perhaps the reply is in words like these (for though we see we cannot hear them speaking): "Our help is in the Lord who hath made heaven and earth." They seem to miss a beloved friend, and "an horrible dread hath overwhelmed" them. We observed that they had come for a purpose—so, like watchers at a sick man's bed where life is ebbing away, they feel that now indeed "vain is the help of man," and all unite in fervent prayer to God. Earnest truly they are—as the dim light from one or two lamps falls upon the faces nearest us we can see how their hearts are wrung with a certain nameless fear.

But, hark to that noise! Whence does it come? What does it mean? Some of the timid ones feel a thrill of undefined fear.

Look at the same persons — how changed are their faces! All are talking together—questions — exclamations—thanksgivings, following one upon another; their eyes are fixed on one individual, and all their thoughts centred upon this sudden and unlooked-for visitor.

The key to this Pen Picture of Bible History will be given next week. In the meantime try and find it for yourself.

How Love Reveals Itself

ALL the love and generosity and bountifulness of a father's or a mother's heart comes from God as surely as all the luster and glory of a diamond or a dew-drop come from the sun. If they are kind, it is only because God is kind. If you trust them, that is the reason for trusting him who made them. But do not forget that love sometimes reveals itself by withholding as well as by bestowing. The eagle shows her love as much by not giving her young ones a fresh rabbit every hour or two as by giving it. Perhaps more! Perhaps I would rather give my boy ten dollars than see him get down into a ditch and dig it out. But I should show my love more by letting him earn it for himself. "If ye then being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your heavenly Father." (Matt. 7:11). —C. F. G.

Stewardship makes every job a divine mission.

GOVERNMENT

THEY who would rule the many must serve the many. Therefore, kings, politicians and editors of party newspapers are sometimes slaves.

Apart from the Second Coming of Christ you have not a single fragment of Scripture which, under legitimate exegesis, warrants you even to expect the resurrection.

CHARACTER EDUCATION

While there may be some objection from those who feel that the school curriculum is already full of more subjects than the pupils can digest, there is much in the suggestion of Chief Inspector Greer in regard to the teaching of character education in the schools of Ontario to commend the proposal.

In spector Greer would definitely incorporate such instruction into the regular work of the schools, with a period each day assigned for this purpose.

He points out that daily discussions under this head should not be abstract but should be linked up with the experiences of the pupils both in and out school.

The program he suggests would care for a discussion of morals on Monday; of manners on Tuesday; safety, Wednesday; patriotism, Thursday, and respect for property and thrift on Friday, with many subjects naturally coming directly under these headings.

The possibilities offered by such a course are obviously great.

Efficiently planned and intelligently handled, daily instruction on such subject could not fail to develop a more enlightened and a more useful citizenship.

From that viewpoint Inspector Greer's suggestion offers tempting potentialities.

ANOTHER FLYER GONE

The path of adventure, like that of glory, leads often to the grave. And so it has proved, it seems certain, with Lieut.-Commander McDonald, young British flyer, who three days ago hopped off from St. John's, Newfoundland in a tiny Moth plane with the British Isles as his goal.

His attempt was probably the most daring in the history of aviation.

The airplane he selected to span the Atlantic with was a midget compared with Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis," weighing only 860 pounds and driven by a 85 horse-power motor as compared with Lindy's 250 horse-power.power.

Naturally it was impossible for the young aviator to carry wireless equipment or floats for landing on the water.

And, to cap it all, McDonald was a flyer of comparatively little experience, despite the fact that he had succeeded in piloting a Moth plane from London to Bagdad.

There will be universal regret that such a brave spirit has been snuffed out in a desperate venture that had but little chance to succeed.

And success, after all, would have contributed little or nothing to the development of aviation.

BOTH PROTECTIONIST NOW

The outstanding feature of the Presidental election across the border is from a Canadian viewpoint is that no matter which party wins on November 6, Canadian producers need not hope for an easier entry to the United States of commodities originating here.

The Republican party of course has always been protectionist, but until this election the Democrats have exhibited low tariff tendencies, and the Underwood tariff pressed much less heavily upon Canada producers than the Fordney-McCumber tariff at present in force.

The Democrats have on this occasion, however, gone frankly over to protection. Abandoning their traditional policy. And judging from Governor Smith's addresses there is at present no important difference in the attitude of the two candidates toward the tariff.

Mr. Smith is as openly protectionist as his opponent.

He proposes to "leave the tariff where it will give full protection to the present standard of wages and to industry and business," while Mr. Hoover is definitely against "any change in the present policy of protection."

Between these two position there seems to be no choice, and Canadians have little to hope for so far as the United States market is concerned which ever candidate is elected next month.

THE MAURETANIA FOR US.

If passenger Zeppelins cannot cross the Atlantic any faster than the Graf Zeppelin, then the White Star and Cunard and Canadian Pacific line owners need not prepare to close shop. On the principle that it's all right to try anything once, one might get a lot of adventure out of one trip in a Zeppelin, but once, we fancy, would be enough. The big liners, to begin with, are not much more than a day slower than the airships—and they leave on time, regardless of weather. Why, in the circumstances, anybody would want to miss the charm of life on a big liner, with its great promenade decks, its spacious rooms and luxurious accommodation, for four days and nights cooped up in an airship where a cigarette may not even be smoked, is more than we can say.

Flying from London to Paris is a different matter. By jumping into an aeroplane in London after lunch, one may arrive in Paris in time for dinner, and escape the inconvenience and sea-sickness of a nasty trip across the Channel. But this business of being four days and nights between heaven and earth, just to save a few hours, is hardly the sort of thing to appeal to most people. Personally, we're all for the Mauretania.—Ottawa Journal.

THE VALUE OF RESEARCH

The emphasis placed on the value and importance of research work by George L. Moore, assistant to the President of the Sherman Engineering Corporation, in a recent address, will be appreciated by those citizens who have been endeavoring to arouse Canadians to interest themselves in this matter.

Mr. Moore, addressing the Toronto Lions, declared that Canada's greatest economic need is a new kind of competition. A competition in creation instead of competition on price and terms.

"The only unchanging fact in business," declared the speaker, "is the fact of change and the fundamental requisite for continuing prosperity in the Dominion is the increase of the use of research, the organized means for meeting change."

There is much truth in that statement, and also in Mr. Moore's contention that the business organizations which are showing increases in profits are those dominated by the spirit and method of research.

Canada has long lagged behind in this respect, but there are encouraging developments that promise splendid results.

The willingness with which manufacturers in Ontario have fallen in line with the research organization launched by the Provincial Government and headed by Sir Joseph Flavelle is a very healthy sign.

MR. DAVIS ON THE PEACE PROBLEM.

Secretary of War Davis tells the American Legion that America does not contemplate any reduction in its armed forces as a result of the Kellogg multilateral peace treaties. To take such a step solely on these treaties would be to jeopardize the national security.

This announcement indicates a correct valuation of these instruments by which nations have pledged themselves to renounce war as a national policy. Such renunciation, good as it may be in turning the minds of people a bit more toward peace, is no guarantee that the peace will not be broken. Civilization long ago renounced murder, but murder continues to occur.

Mr. Davis is careful to indicate that he is not against peace efforts. The program for world peace must go on. Also, the program for disarmament. But he adds, "It is obvious that any disarmament to be effective must be universal." Whether the Secretary of War intended it or not, that is a pretty sweeping condemnation of the piecemeal limitation plan we carried through at the Washington conference and tried to extend at Geneva. It is, in effect, a condemnation of America's whole course since we declined to participate further in the peace councils of the world and offered our substitute as "something just as good."

It is to the credit of the Secretary of War that he sees two things clearly: First, that a moral gesture for peace, such as the framing of the Kellogg treaties, is not a guarantee against the securrence of war. Second, that when we get around to framing something that will be a guarantee, the plan must be universal in its application and support.—Milwaukee Journal.

BRITISH MOTOR SHOW IS HELD.

A great motor car show at Olympia, London, has caused not only a general traffic jam but an overcrowded hostelry. London, it is said, has witnessed nothing like it. And the motor car industry in Britain has come to be one of the bright spots in the industrial situation and holds out promise of becoming even better, because British manufacturers, studying their home market have evolved types of cars which are more suitable to the average man than the American. In the space of a few short years, British sales have far outdistanced the American, and one reason why this is so, is because of the protective tariff which has been given by the Government under the Safeguarding of Industries Act. Another reason is that the British have made their cars conform more to the tax requirements.

An American correspondent, writing of this revival in England sends the following colorful picture to the New York Sunday Times:

"Even if one had never seen British week-end traffic it would only be necessary to visit this motor show to realize how mass production has come to the British automobile industry. In one way, it is another flivver age come to England, fifteen years after it was first experienced in the United States.

"Soon there will be 1,000,000 private cars on British roads, but that is only a drop in the bucket compared with the vast potential British market.

"British manufacturers remember there is only one private car in England for every fifty-six persons. The mere fact that they are thinking of the other fifty-five is a sure sign of the tendency in automobile production here.

"Analogy with American low-priced cars will not go far. Alongside their American sisters, these British 'flivvers' are like bumblebees buzzing along the narrow English country roads or flitting through London's traffic. Sturdy, durable and efficient, they are so small that four people have to squeeze to get inside them. Yet they have advantages to make up for the crowding. They require little parking space, they are economical in gasoline consumptions and they are fitted for the peculiar English traffic conditions. Most important of all to the British buyer is that they have low horsepower and therefore cannot be taxed as heavily as more powerful American cars.

"There is no mystery, therefore, about why the British baby cars have successfully challenged the American low-priced product on the British road. One sees superb American cars at Olympia this week, and they will always be in demand here among that section of the public which in America can afford $3,000. As long as the present tax restrictions continue, however, there is little chance that they will upset British supremacy in England."

—St. Catharines Standard.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT

Make the last night of the Produced-in-Canada Exhibition the best of the week.

Ex-Constable Brien has the Government on the defensive in regard to the enforcement of the L.C.A. in Waterloo County. His challenge cannot safely be ignored.

The statement that the United States Presidential fight is a whispering campaign, does not apply to the radio features of the contest.

Very little new legislation is expected at the next session of the Legislature. Fewer bills and better administration is the policy most people would prefer.

The Produced-in-Canada Exhibition ends to-night. The attendance for the final performance should be the largest of the week.

Naval activity on the Niagara River front seems to be increasing. The capture of seven rum-runners, however, is not likely to slow up the shipments into the United States.

As an entertainer Governor Al. Smith wins the radio honors.

Mrs. Lottie Moore Schoemmell has set a new swimming endurance record. She would do well in the kind of weather we have been having here this week.

An Arabian claims to be able to see double. We understand he refuses to get married because he is afraid of being charged with bigamy.—Ottawa Journal.

Western Canada has a healthy climate, except for alleged slayers from Los Angeles and absconding Georgia treasurers.—St. Catharines Standard.

News of Our Own Village

The streets is full of fallen leaves and motor cars these days.

The Dumbells is visiting the opry house this week. The Plunkett lads have quite a show, and you don't have to prove it; they'll admit it.

There is no truth in the rumor that Confederation Square is to be cemented over. They will be still room for some grass between the sidewalks, your scribe learns.

Ross Dobbin, of the village Utilities, has been in Montreal, east of here, this week confabbing with a lotta other engineers. He reports Montreal quite a busy burg.

Mart. Chenhall's singers from St. Paul's Church win most of the prizes here this week at the Kiwanis musical competitions, and Mart. seemed to be quite pleased about it when seen by your scribe.

Some of our citizens got air mail from Germany this week, though no postcards from Wilhelm himself is reported.

They was a cat show in connection with the Kiwanis Fair here this week but your scribe knows of several cat that won't get no show if he catches them.

This paper had a booth at the Kiwanis show this week, and we was glad to meet so many old friends. This paper is nothing if not enterprising say we.—Advt.

Harry Denne, brother of our worthy Mayor, who has a tough time every year between his Stoney Lake cottage and his winter home in Florida left last week to visit Italy, east of here. If you see Mussolini, Harry, give him our best, say we.

Charlie Ackerman, our intrepid aviator, flew to Ottawa, east of here, Mon. and mothed it back the next day. It is figured the hops Charlie has made this year would keep a brewery running.

Sir Joseph Flavelle was here on Mon. to open the big fair. Sir Joe commented on the changes he noticed since he was a barefooted lad on these very streets, but had nothing to say about the Teco stores.

Sandy McTavish reports he passed outa the new collegiate Monday night—through a window. He sez the Kiwanis show was good, too.

Malcolm McIntyre is the new chairman of the village Board of Health. He ain't issued any bulletins yet about the sewage disposal plant.

Mickey Murray, whose slogan is, When better goal-keeping is done I'll do it, visited this office this week. Mickey is going to winter in Providence, R.I., United States of America, which shows what tough breaks those pro players get.

If any of our hunters has lost any wild ducks we hope they'll remember they didn't have them in this office.

A Thought

I'M WONDERING.

I'm wondering what would happen if it were possible for a man unconsciously to record each and every thing he says during the day, and at night, when all alone, have the record of his angry words, his pleasant sayings, his grouchy cracks, and his genial comments all reeled off to him in their infuriated inflections or kindly tones.

We talk too much about seeing others as others see us, but what a wonderful influence our words would have on our minds if we could only hear ourselves as others hear us, particularly at a time when the door of contact with others is closed and we are alone—alone in the stillness of that hour when the crickets sing and our conscience is calling!

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 20 (Canadian Press).—Sudden new upturns in corn prices yesterday whisked all grain to a higher level, but last-minute rushes to collect profits forced values to react. Indications pointed to a decided broadening of corn export business, and exporters both of Baltimore and New Orleans were asserted to be outbidding the Chicago basis for corn by as much as 1½ cent a bushel.

Corn future deliveries closed irregular, ¼ cent net lower to ⅝c advance, with wheat at ¼ to ⅝c decline, oats unchanged to ⅛c off, and provisions varying from 15c setback to a rise of 10 cents.

Big buying orders for corn future deliveries, December in particular, took the corn trade by surprise yesterday in the late dealings, and disclosed that temporarily the speculative pit was about bare of offerings. Some of the buying came from sources which seemed to imply a more active export demand. Meanwhile, advices were current that the corn crop of Jugo-Slavia was almost a complete failure in certain regions, and that the yield for the country as a whole would be far below average. Word was also at hand that Spain had authorized corn imports of 6,000,000 bushels.

Price bulges that ensued in the corn market were sharply at variance with a downward trend which had prevailed earlier during most of the day. This downward trend was largely due to corn belt weather conditions which were in general reported as better than of late for the handling of corn. Various influential traders were also apparently inclined to hold back from purchasing until there is a freer movement of the new crop. It was under these circumstances that the late buying flurry developed and then another right-about-face action of the market.

Wheat, rye and oats were responsive to the upward swing of corn values, but otherwise showed a disposition to sag. Recent good rains over domestic winter wheat territory together with favorable crop news from south of the equator, were bearish factors. Export business in North American wheat yesterday was estimated at 600,000 bushels, largely low grade wheat from Canada.

Lower quotations on hogs weakened the provision market, and lard fell to a new bottom price record for the season.

September...

Greatest Month in all Chrysler History

—Spectacular New Record for Chrysler Sales

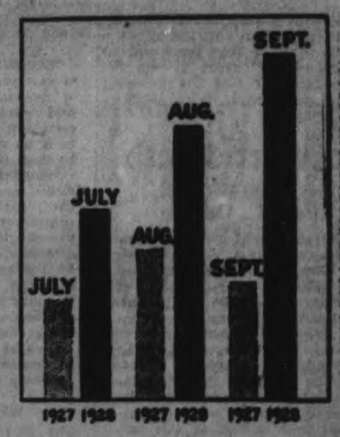
PUBLIC demand for Chrysler products, after creating new sales records month after month, reached a most significant and spectacular climax in September.

Usually a month when automotive production declines, September for the Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Limited, was not only the month of largest production throughout 1928, but the largest also throughout the entire history of Chrysler.

The demand for new Chrysler and Plymouth models, in fact, exceeded everything in Chrysler experience and requires even more than the vastly increased facilities of the Windsor plant to cope with the flood-tide of orders.

Chrysler is gratified by such an overwhelming expression of public confidence—and appreciative of the opportunity it offers to extend production facilities still further in order to satisfy the demand which is ever widening.

In the months and years to come, Chrysler is firmly resolved to continue true to the Chrysler ideals of leadership—in pioneering the new and important improvements in motor car design; in developing new ways of progress in scientific engineering and precision manufacture; in discovering new methods of raising quality and thereby constantly increasing the purchasing power of the automobile dollar.



Note the significant increase in Chrysler production for July, August and September this year, as against the same months last year. In September, when production of most motor car companies declines, Chrysler shipments rose to a new record, being nearly 3 times as many as for the same month in 1927.

WOMAN SUES LOS ANGELES

Held By Police in Hospital For Ten Days—Public Indignation Grows.

CITIZEN SEEK INQUIRY.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Oct. 20.—(Canadian Press).—A cloud of public indignation hovered over the Los Angeles police commission to-day, the outcome of its investigation into the holding of Mrs. Christine Collins in a city psychopathic ward for ten days because she doubted the identity of a boy who police had insisted was her son.

While the mother prepared to prosecute a $500,300 damage suit against the city a group of women, the Grand Jury, and the city public Welfare Committee and another band of citizens started efforts toward public airing of the case.

The sudden turn of events travelled close upon the decision of the commission clearing police officers of liability in imprisoning Mrs. Collins, who is the mother of the missing Walter Collins, named in murder indictments as one of the victims of Gordon Stewart Northcott. The boy whom police insisted was Mrs. Collins' son has since been identified as an impostor.

WEAK AND NERVOUS.

A Condition Due To Watery Blood — Easily Corrected Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Thin, pale girls lack the power of resistance to disease that rich, red blood gives. Nervous breakdown is the result of thin blood. So is indigestion, headaches, backaches and many other troubles. Girls suffering from thin, impure blood need just the help Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can give. For many years Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been a world-famous blood-builder and nerve restorer. They actually make new, rich, red blood which imparts new vigor and life to all the organs of the body. Their first effect is usually shown by an improved appetite; then the spirits revive and restlessness at night gives way to health restoring sleep. For sufferers from anaemia, nervousness, general weakness or physical exhaustion Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a restorative of the utmost value. This is proved by the experience of Miss Sarah A. McEachern, R.R. No. 3, Brule, N.S., who says: "About three years ago I became very weak and nervous. I had pains in my side and back. I also had frequent pains in the back of my head and neck. I was very pale and very weak. I had attacks of nervous irritability, and at times I was so nervous that life seemed hardly worth living. While in this condition a friend strongly advised me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I began taking these pills and used them for about two months with the result that there was such an improvement in my condition that friends would ask me what I was taking, and I was only too glad to tell them it was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I am now enjoying good health and am glad to give this statement for the benefit it may be to some other sufferer."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BASKETRY CLASS MEETS.

A meeting of those interested in the Y.W.C.A. Basketry Class was held this week to make arrangements for class work. It was decided to meet each Tuesday from 7 to 9 starting October 23. Mrs. R. M. Dobson will again teach the class and the necessary orders for reed and material have been sent in, so that everything will be ready for the first class. The class plan to make fern baskets, sandwich trays, serving trays, window baskets, and waste paper baskets, and thus at the end of six lessons pupils will be able to follow weaving instructions and make any article they wish. New members will be welcome at the Tuesday class.

AUXILIARY CLUB.

The Girls' Auxiliary Club of the Y.W.C.A. met last evening for supper meeting. Fourteen members were present. Plans are being made for a very interesting year and new members will be most welcome. This club has already started their fund for the "Y" foreign work, and hope to have a splendid contribution.

Through the courtesy of Messrs. Riley & Hickey, Limited, 337 George street and of R. THE ADVENTURES OF SECKATARY HAWKINS AND HIS CLUB

The Secret of The Three

We boys put our foot in trouble when we let Rufus Rogers get away with that stuffed raven from Judge Granbery's house. Of course, we gave the Judge his ten dollars back, which he had paid us for the bird, but he was very angry. He took back the ten—believe me, he never says No when you hold out any money to him; but when we came down to our headquarters after school on Monday, we found our little club-house locked up with a new padlock and chain, and there were boards nailed across the door and every window. It made us all feel awfully blue.

We marched right up to Doc Waters's house, and asked him who had done it. Doc smiled at me.

"Hawkins," he says, "you know it was coming. I told you the Judge ordered that you boys be chased off the river bank, and he doesn't want any boys loafing there any more."

"Gee! That's pretty tough on us, Doc, after all we've done for the Judge," I said.

"Well," said Doc, "the Judge got sore when you gave his stuffed raven back to that strange boy."

"Maybe so," I said, "but didn't we give the Judge his ten dollars back?"

"Sure you did," said Doc, "but the Judge wanted that raven, and now that it's gone, he's blaming you boys for it. He's on the outs with you for fair. That's why he told the Sheriff to go down and nail up your clubhouse, and to see that you didn't meet there any more."

"All right, Doc," I said, "but don't you or the Judge ask us fellows to do anything for you again"

"Well, I'm sorry," says Doc, "but I can't do anything about it, I'm sure."

So we boys went down to the river bank and made a campfire and sat around it. Our captain tried to give me the dickens for letting Rufus Rogers get away with that stuffed raven, but I shut him up quick. I told him he would have done the same thing, if he had liked that poet boy as well as I did.

"What!" shouted Roy Dobel, "you mean you are going to stand with those three wild west boys who have been causing all kinds of trouble around here?"

"I only mentioned the poet fellow," I answered; "he's a pretty nice boy."

Jerry Moore nodded his head as though he thought the same as I did, but the rest of the fellows just sat there, quiet, until a voice behind us said: "Come, come, you kids, come on and scatter now—go home, like good little boys."

We looked around, and there stood the Sheriff. "I mean it!" he said, "you heard what I said."

We got up and brushed the dirt off the seats of our pants, and started up the bank together.

"Scatter!" yelled the Sheriff. "Don't stay in a bunch like that. It's orders!"

I took Bill Darby and Jerry Moore by the arm, and we went in one direction and the others went their way, in twos and threes. We went on without a word. When we came to my house, Jerry said: "It's a sad day for our club, Hawkins, when they make us stay away from one another."

I took Bill and Jerry by the hand. "How are they goin' to do it?" I asked, "when we boys make up our minds to stick together?"

"They can't," says Bill. "Not in a thousand years," says Jerry.

Then I said goodbye and went in. But oh, boy! how bad I felt! All these years we boys had stuck together, through thick or thin and nobody had ever tried to break up our club, and now we had to have this kind of treatment.

* * *

On Tuesday I was down at the old sycamore at 4 o'clock. I knew the other fellows would be afraid to gather at our old camping place, but I thought they would have enough sense to remember the old sycamore tree, in which were the initials of every boy in our club, cut in the bark. But there was no one there. I looked around me, and the silence made me feel blue again—to think that all of our happy days on this river bank had come to an end! Oh, boy! Suddenly I caught sight of Jerry Moore coming—good old Jerry! I knew he wouldn't let anybody bust up our club if he could help it.

"I knew you would think of the old sycamore tree," I told him, as he came up.

"Sure," he said, "I know you like a book, Hawkins. I thought you would be here."

And hardly had the words left his lips when Bill Darby came into sight. He was another who had some sense, and I looked for Johnny or Roy to show up, too, but it got dark before we knew it, and no one else had shown up. We made up our minds that we'd just as well go back home, when all of a sudden I noticed a light in a window down in the hollow—it was in the little old shack that the three wild west boys had built.

"Look," I said, "the three wild west fellows are still here—else there wouldn't be a light in the shack."

We walked down and peeped in the window. Homer, the knife thrower, was sleeping in a bunk against the wall. The poet fellow, Rufus Rogers, was sitting at the little rude table writing a letter or something. The other boy was sitting on the floor—he had some cards he was laying down and picking up, like solitaire. Up on a wooden shelf sat the stuffed raven, looking down at the poet fellow just as though it was a live bird and could really see, instead of being only a stuffed one, with glass eyes. I had to laugh. "Funny fellow Rufus is," I said. But Jerry doesn't care much for fellows who write poetry. "Let 'em alone," he says, "let's go home."

Wednesday at school we passed the word around to meet at the old sycamore tree. We felt sure the old Sheriff wouldn't think of looking for us there He would keep a watch on our old clubhouse, but we knew he wouldn't think we had another place to meet. So right after school I slipped down through the woods, and when I came to the old sycamore the boys were already there.

"Hawkins," says our captain, "we've just got to get into our old clubhouse again. There's a lot of things in there we have to get out."

"Yeah," I said, "and there's 6 dollars and 63 cents in our tin box under the floor boards—all the dues we collected and everything."

"Well, we've just got to square things up with old Judge Granbery so he will let us have our clubhouse back."

"How you goin' to do it?" I asked.

"That's for you to figure out," answered our captain; "it was you who let that poet fellow get away with the stuffed raven."

"Well," I said, "I guess there's only one thing to do—we will have to sneak into the shack of those three wild west fellows and take that raven out."

Nobody said anything for a few minutes. Seemed like none of the boys cared to do any sneak work. I'm sure I didn't like it myself, but what else was there to do? "And," I said, "we've got to draw straws to see which of us will go and sneak the bird out of the shack."

Roy Dobel wanted to go home right away, but I grabbed him by the arm and said: "You're going to stay here and draw your straw, the same as anybody else." So I got some twigs and we each drew. We decided the one who drew the shortest was to go and get the raven. Bill Darby—good old Bill—he got the shortest one. He didn't seem to mind—he smiled a little, and I said: "Don't worry, Bill, I'll see you through."

"Now, look here," says our captain, "it's your duty, Bill, to get that stuffed bird without making any trouble—mind that—without trouble."

And our captain left at once with the others, except Jerry and me—we stayed with Bill there by the old sycamore tree. Bill kept his eyes on the ground and studied for a minute. Jerry and I just stood by without a word and let him think good. Then he looked up and said to me: "It's a nasty job, Hawkins, and I hate to do it."

"I know it, Bill," I told him, "but it's for the good of the club."

I felt as though I just had to help Bill out. And the next day after school I told him he had better let me do the job for him. But he shook his head. "No," he says, "I drew the short straw and I'll play my part." I liked him much more for saying that, and I sneaked away from him, saying to myself: "When it gets dark tonight I'll go and get that stuffed raven and bring it to Bill and let him give it to our captain.

So after dark I started out alone. I headed straight for the shack in the hollow. There was a light in the window, and I heard music inside. I peeped in the window and saw the poet fellow, Rufus Rogers, and Homer, the knife-thrower. Rufe had a banjo and Homer was playing a guitar. They had the walls of their shack decorated with college colors and pennants, and Rufe was smoking a pipe. I knocked on the door. The poet fellow opened it. "Come in, Hawkins," he sings out, "you're just the fellow for us. Come in here and stay till we go up town and get something to eat."

"Why do you want me to stay here?" I asked. "I'll go with you."

"No, no," says Rufe, "those Pelham fellows are sneaking around here all the time—they've got it in for us since we cut loose from their gang—and they'd steal everything we have if we don't have somebody watching all the time."

"Where's your other pal?" I asked.

"Oh, he's gone up to Watertown for a letter," says Rufus, with a grin. And then when he realized how silly that sounded—to go way up to Watertown for a letter when he could have had it delivered right here at our own postoffice, he put his hand on my shoulder and said: "Listen, Hawkins, you fellows thought we come from the wild west and were tough guys, didn't you? Well, I'm going to tell you the truth, now. I know you're a good fellow—we are in trouble, Hawkins—you see, we ran away from college."

"Oh," I said; "that was a foolish thing to do."

"You bet it was," said Rufe, 'but we didn't think so, at first. We thought we would have a bully time—but we got our foot in it, that's all. We can hardly get enough to eat now that our money's run out—that's why Phil has gone to Watertown, to ask his uncle to write a letter to the professor at our college and ask him to take us back."

"I hope he takes you back," I said; "it isn't right for you fellows to live like bums out here."

"No," says Rufe, "but gee! we are hungry. Come on, Homer, Hawkins will watch the place."

They didn't give me time to say no. The door slammed behind them, and there I was, alone in that little old shack with that old stuffed bird looking down at me with eyes that never went shut. It wasn't a very nice feeling—I didn't like these woods at night, anyhow, and this old hollow was full of owls and things that make a fellow's hair stand straight up every time he hears a sound. But I sat there and took up the banjo and picked at it, and just as it went "plinkety-plank-plink," there came a tippy-tap-tap on the window pane. I blew out the lamp and jumped under the table, and bumped my head on a box of books. I waited. Nothing happened. I think I waited a half hour. And then there came the sound of footsteps. I heard a voice in the dark—it was Briggen—the leader of the Pelham fellows. "Watch out, Ham, only two of 'em came out. They must ha' laid a trap for us. Watch out—don't be a fool."

"No," came another voice, and I recognized Ham Gardner's, "they ain't goin' to git me in there in the dark."

* * *

And then they dropped their voices and talked in whispers, and it seemed as though there were more boys with them, but I couldn't hear what they said. I wondered if they were getting ready to burn down the shack or something. But in a little while I heard their footsteps going away, and then all was quiet again. But I was afraid to come out. I thought maybe they were just waiting for me to light the lamp again. And finally I got enough spunk to crawl out, but even as I started, I heard the door open slowly, the hinges giving a rusty squeak. Then footsteps came tippy-toe across the floor. I saw a flashlight move along the walls. Then it went out and as I didn't hear any more footsteps coming in I knew there was only one fellow there in the dark beside me. I could see his shadow pass the window pane where the moonlight came through. I made one flying jump and landed on him. He struck me on the top of my head with his fist—I nearly went over—I staggered back against the table and the next second I hauled back my fist and let him have it. He fell back against the wall beneath the window. I ran over to the door and put a chair under the knob so nobody else could come in. Then I took a match and lit the lamp on the table. Great grief! It was Bill Darby!

I ran over and knelt beside him and lifted him up. "I'm sorry, Bill," I said, "but I thought you were one of the Pelhams. They've been sneaking around outside."

He smiled as he raised himself on his elbow. "You've surely got a wallop in that fist of yours," he says, "but I don't blame you—serves me right for sneaking around like a thief in the night."

He got up and sat on a box beside me. I felt awful, for I never would have hit Bill for anything in the world. "You surprised me," he said, "I didn't think there was anybody in here, and when you landed on me I thought it was that knife thrower." I had to laugh with him, and then I told him about the three fellows being runaways from college. After I told it all, Bill looked up at the stuffed raven and said: "It's a funny world, Hawkins—all this fuss over a stuffed bird."

"Yeah," I said, "there she is, sitting up there ready for you to take."

"Well," he says, "a fellow would do anything for his friends, wouldn't he? I did come down here to sneak that raven out of here. By George! I'm glad you hit me. I came near stealing, that time."

"You drew the short straw," I said; "it's up to you, Bill. Now's your chance, if you're going to take the raven—grab it now and get—"

"Not on your life, Hawkins!" says Bill, looking up at the bird. "I feel different about it now. I don't think there's any excuse for stealing anything any time for anybody—and I'm done." He got up. "I'm going," he says, "I'm goin' to get out before those wild west boys get back."

"Watch out for the Pelhams," I said, as he slipped out of the door and was gone in the dark.

I sat down and picked up the banjo again. In a little while Rufe and Homer came back. They thanked me for staying, but I didn't feel like talking—I just said "Goodnight" and beat it for home. I turned around a couple of times and saw Rufe standing in the door, looking out. I guess he was wondering what kind of a guy I was. But I felt all mixed up. I didn't know what to think.

Saturday morning the boys wanted to go for hickory nuts. They all got sacks and we met at the old sycamore. Our captain went up to Bill Darby and said: "Aren't you ever going to do the work for which you drew the short straw?"

"Not yet," said Bill, "I haven't had the right kind of a chance—"

"Oh, you don't expect those three fellows to make you a present of that stuffed bird, do you?"

"Never mind that kind of talk," says Bill, "I'm not going to steal it, that's all."

We started through the woods, and just as we turned toward the hollow we met the three wild west fellows—but we didn't know them until we were close to them, because they didn't have on their wild west hats any longer—they wore nifty college caps, and each carried a suit case.

"Hello, Hawkins," says the poet fellow, "we've been looking for you—went up to your clubhouse, but it's all nailed up."

"Yeah," I said, "we got shut out, and the Sheriff won't let us play there any more, and we haven't got any meeting place now."

"Don't worry about that," says the poet fellow, "you can have our old shack. That's what I wanted to tell you. Phil's uncle fixed up things with the professor at our college, and everything is all right, so we are going back."

"Gee!" I said, "I'm glad of that."

"What!" says the poet fellow, with a laugh, "glad to get rid of us—"

"No," I broke in, "but I think you will write better poetry if you go back to that college some more."

"I guess you're right," he says, "but we won't forget you fellows, and you can have our shack and everything that's in it."

So then every boy in our club shook hands with the three. We kind o' hated to see them go, now. They had fooled us, to be sure, and had given us plenty of excitement, but I guess on the whole we had lots of fun out of it. And when the handshaking was all done, Rufus came over to me once more and shoved something into my hand as he shook it once more. "Good old Hawkins!" he says, "never forget you as long as I live." Then they turned and went. I heard a steam boat whistle down at the river, and Rufe and his pals started running. We watched them till they disappeared around the bend in the path. Then I looked at the thing Rufe had shoved into my hand—it was the key to the shack! I went over to Bill Darby and slipped it into his hand. "You drew the short straw," I said to him in a low voice; "do your stuff."

We all went down to the shack. Bill opened the door and went in. We waited till he came out again. Then he called our captain and we followed them inside. Bill pointed up to the shelf on the wall, where the stuffed raven sat staring down at us. "You see," says Bill, "a fellow doesn't have to steal to do his duty—there's the raven I said I would get back for this club."

And so it was. Good old Rufe Rogers knew that we were in bad on account of that raven. And he left it there for us, so we could square ourselves again.

"Hey! you guys," yelled Jerry Moore, "get that old bird off o' that shelf and let's take it back to Judge Granbery right away."

Which we did.

A Letter From The 'Seckatary'

Dear Club Members:

Our next contest is going to be entitled "Armistice Day." It happened only ten years ago, but it will live forever in the memory of the world as one of the most important days in history. It was the end of the Great War, which is also called the World War, or the Battle of the Nations. In a way Armistice Day is one of the world's greatest holidays, for it is celebrated or commemorated in every part of the world.

Most of our members were very little boys and girls during the world war, and some of them were only babies, but I am sure that your teacher will tell you, pretty soon now, all about the Great War to which it put an end. There was great rejoicing all over the world on that day. As soon as the news spread, whistles began to blow, bells began to ring, the people began to cheer and dance, all places of business were closed, and throngs of people paraded the streets shouting and singing, showing how happy they were that the terrible war was over.

This year's Armistice day will probably see the unveiling of the War Memorial in Peterborough, and The Examiner will have a splendid special edition for the occasion. So, you see, the 1928 Armistice Day will be more important in this district than for many years.

Now, then, look up in your history books all that you can find out about this subject, and ask your teacher to tell you about it. That is the best way, because teacher knows everything and is always glad to tell pupils what they want to know. Then sit down and write your letter or story about Armistice Day. If you prefer, write a verse. You'll find the rules in another part of this page.

Letters on "One Good Turn"

Ruth Evans of Indian River wins the prize this week with her splendid little story about a boy and a dog. The dog did a real good turn and the boy repaid it nicely. A dog like that is worth having!

"Dear Seck:

This is the first competition I have tried and I hope to win a prize.

ONE GOOD TURN

Jack was a little boy of eight years. One Christmas he got a pair of skates. He decided he would learn to skate that winter, going to a river nearby where he thought the ice was very strong. He got along successfully until he became more daring and thought he would go over the rapids. The ice was thin and in places water could be seen. Crack! went the ice and Jack felt himself going into the cold water. He called for help and a stray dog heard him and pulled him out to shore. Jack was very thankful and took the dog home with him and kept it a long time. So, one good turn deserves another."

Yours fair and square,
RUTH EVANS."

It surely was a good turn for the unfortunate girl who sprained her ankle when the girls carried her home, Richard. Thanks for the new members, Indian River is surely strong for our Club, isn't it?

"Dear Seck:

I appreciate the book you sent me very much and I am very sorry that I could not send you a letter because I am going to school every day and as I am trying for my entrance I have not much time to spare. Anyway I got a chance to write this letter. Here is my letter about "One Good Turn."

One day as we were playing ball at school and as some of the girls were very big and lively they had joined in with us. One girl got as far as third base and another as far as second. The girl on third tried to get home and the girl on second tried to get to third but the girl trying to get home turned back so the girl on second had to turn back also. While she was turning back she slipped, fell and sprained her ankle. We had to stop playing ball and take her home. Two big girls carried her home and if that is not a good turn, I don't know what is.

I am sending in the membership form for a boy and I wish to get your picture. Your password this week is "gratitude." I am sending in the names of eight new members and hope to get a picture of the gang.

Yours fair and square,
RICHARD CARVETH."

Yes, indeed, Phyllis, your C.G.I.T. Group is doing a splendid good turn by entertaining the dear old people in the House of Refuge. Keep up the good work.

"Dear Seck:

I have searched for quite a time trying to find the password which is 'gratitude.' I am twelve years old and I now send in my application to your Club. Here is my story for 'A Good Turn.'

I belong to the C.G.I.T. Girls. Each Christmas we remember the old folks from the House of Refuge by taking them flowers and a treat of candy, nuts, and oranges.

We entertain them with music, songs and recitations. We are well repaid for our "one good turn," by seeing the smiles on their faces.

Yours fair and square,
PHYLLIS CHARLTON."

Wasn't it wonderful of the lady to send food to this snow-bound train free? I think it was really a good turn.

"Dear Seck:

This is my first letter and I am going to tell you about a very good deed that I shall always remember. We were on the train going to Peace River, Alta. It was snow-bound for two days and there was no food to be had on the diner. Two little boys from a homestead near by shovelled a path through very deep snow from their home to the train and their mother sent down milk, warm porridge and hot

A TOPICAL PASSWORD

Last week our password was "Jack-o-Lantern." Now, with Hallowe'en coming on, it was easy for most of our members, and just because so many of you worked it out successfully, we are going to make another easy one for you this week. Here it is:

A CANE; A MAD DIN

The letters are all mixed up, as usual, but if you have been enjoying yourself this last week you will find it easy to uncover the three words hidden here. Just think what was the most enjoyable event of the week—

Know Her?

You ought to know this lovely New York City girl because her blonde beauty has been displayed on so many magazine covers. She's Marion Dahl, 35 Clarkson St, Brooklyn. Artists say she's a "type!" They fairly rave over her delicate flesh tints and the golden glory of her hair!

Miss Dahl says: "Everyone I know, tells me how wonderful my hair looks, nowadays. I don't feel like it's a personal compliment, however. I take it more as a compliment to the method I'm using to care for it. It's the rage among girls here in New York. All you do is put a little Danderine on your brush each time you use it. My hair was wiry and hard to keep in place but Danderine makes it soft and easy to dress and holds it like I arrange it, for hours! My scalp fairly tingles with vigor after I use it, and it keeps my head so clean I don't need to shampoo half so often. It brings out the color of my hair marvelously, making it fairly glisten!"

Every application of Danderine tones and refreshes your scalp. It removes the oily film from each strand and make dull, stringy hair gleamy, soft and easily manageable. It dissolves dandruff and keeps it out of your hair. It isn't sticky or oily. It doesn't show. All drug stores have the generous 35c. bottles.

A Precious Asset

IN 1856 The Bank of Toronto opened its doors with the most valuable asset it has ever owned. That was the decision of the Board of Directors that the policy of the Bank would proceed upon safe and conservative lines, based upon the soundest banking principles.

The standard then set has prevailed for more than 70 years. The Bank has steadily grown and widened its scope and has demonstrated that to serve well is to prosper. It is one of Canada's strongest Banking Institutions, with Surplus of $12,600,000 above all its liabilities to the public.

"Dear Seck:

I have been reading the stories on your page in The Examiner for some time and find them very interesting. I am sending in my application to join your club. In working out your password I found it came to 'gratitude.'

A GOOD TURN

One day I was up tobogganing with my friends. It was nearly five o'clock and we were going down the hill for the last time. Alas and alack, I broke my leg! Soon my friends had carried me off and sent for the doctor.

It's always better to repay evil with good, as Edith Patterson points out in this little story. It's called "heaping coals of fire," and that's the fair and square thing to do.

"Dear Seck:

I am reading in my application for membership, also a story. Here is my story and I hope it will receive a prize.

ONE GOOD TURN

As Jimmy was going home from school he was planning how he could "get back" at Bob Smith for the mean trick Bob had played on him.

Just as he was passing the swimming pond he noticed that Bob was in swimming and had evidently got beyond his depth. Jimmy knew that Bob was not a good swimmer and as Jimmy watched Bob began to sink. Jimmy, who was a good swimmer, took off his coat and shoes, jump ed into the water and soon brought Bob to shore and so "got back" at Bob. Bob was much ashamed of himself and very grateful to Jimmy.

Dorothy Disney tells us about a brother and sister who seem to get on very well together. It IS nice to be helpful, isn't it?

"Dear Seck:

I am watching for that watch competition this Saturday, and hope I win the prize. Enclosed you will find the names of two members. Here is another story:—

ONE GOOD TURN

Alice and Billy were out playing. They ran down a steep hill,each trying to beat the other, when Billy tripped on a stone and fell. Ker Plop! down to the ground, and got all scratched up; but he didn't cry. He just smiled and sat down on a big stone while Alice said she would run home and get mother to help him walk home. Billy said his ankle hurt and he couldn't walk.

When mother came she put some salve and bandage on and took him home. The doctor said Alice was a very good girl and Billy said when his sprained ankle got better he would be sure to help Alice if she got hurt.

Mother said "One good turn deserves another,"

Well, I guess I'll close now, so 'bye till next week.

This was, indeed, one good turn that Tom did for Dick. Edith and Dick must have felt very sorry for leaving Tom in the hole on the day before.

"Dear Seck:

I am very much pleased with my book and am trying the competition this week again.

ONE GOOD TURN

One day two little boys, Dick and Tom, were playing in a garage with some wrenches when Tom fell into the hole that the mechanic used to fix the bottom of the cars, and he couldn't get out, so he asked Dick to help him but he just ran away laughing, so Tom had to stay in there till his father came and helped him out.

The next day was a picnic and both boys were going. So about ten o'clock they all assembled at the picnic ground and each of their fathers had a skiff and they were both out on the lake sailing when the skiff that Dick and his father were in hit a stone and started to go down. Then Tom said to his father, not far away, 'oh let us help Dick and his father, but Dick would not help me the other day' but they went over and saved their lives. Then Dick said that he was sorry that he didn't help Tom when he had a chance, but both Dick and his father thanked them for the good turn they had done and Dick said that he advised everyone that had a chance to do a good turn to do it.

Yours fair and square,
EDITH ROSE,"

It was a very kind act, indeed, Beatrice, to take the little girl home. You must be a thoughtful little girl.

"Dear Seck:

I am trying your competition. I hope it will win a prize.

ONE GOOD TURN

One cold evening in late November I was returning from my office. The city streets were crowded with working people, all hurrying home. I was startled to hear the sob of a small child.

I turned back and saw a little girl standing on the corner. She was about fours year of age and wore no hat nor coat to keep her trembling body warm. Her blue eyes were flooded with tears and her beautiful golden hair hung over her tear-stained cheeks. I did not know the child but I asked her what was the matter. She told me she wanted her mother. I told her I would take her home if she told me her address. "I forget," she said.

I thought I would have to take her to my home till I found her parents. Just then I saw around her neck a ribbon to which was attached a card giving her address. I then took her home to her mother. They thanked me but was glad to be able to do "One Good Turn."

I will close now.

Yours fair and square,
BEATRICE O'GRADY."

This is a wonderful story about a good turn that Gordon Kirkwood tells us. I'm very pleased to have you as a member of the Club, Gordon.

"Dear Seck:

I am enclosing a membership application to your club. I have read nearly all the stories and I think they are great. I will try to send six new member's names some time later.

I am entering the competition for next Saturday.

ONE GOOD TURN

I once knew a boy whose name was Robert Brown. His name is common indeed, but Bob seemed to me very uncommon, for I never had a more faithful and considerate chum.

One day Bob and I were having a walk, when we passed some boys playing on the road. While we were passing them, they seemed quite ready to quarrel with us, but we pretended not to notice them. When we were past, they started to throw stones in our direction, not to hit us, but merely to scare us. I turned around, and saw a stone coming towards Bob's head, too fast for him to dodge. I stuck out my hand, and received the blow on the thumb. Of course it hurt, but not as much as it would have hurt Bob's head. He said that I had probably saved his life, but I don't think it would have been that bad. He said he would try to repay the debt.

Some weeks later, George Shaw, a friend of mine, accused me of stealing a wallet containing five dollars. I denied this statement, as I knew it to be wrong, but he said that Frank Newton, a fellow whom I had quarrelled with, had seen me taking it. And all my friends deserted me, except Bob Brown, and he stayed with me firmly. The boys all scorned an d despised me, now, and life to me was misery.

Bob seemed to be doing heavy thinking these days, and I saw little of him. About a week after I had been accused, we all found what he had been doing. He, while watching Frank Newton, had seen him putting five dollars into a purse the same as George Shaw's missing one. Bob pounced on Frank, and forced him to admit that he stole the money. When this was heard, my friends all came back to me, but they never seemed quite the same. I never felt more relieved in my life than then.

In reply to my thanks, Bob said that I had done him a good turn and that one good turn deserved another. I think he returned my good turn with heavy interest, don't you!

I'm sorry if Lloyd's letter was omitted. Perhaps it was printed on Tuesday or Thursday last week—you know I use some in the junior Examiner.

"Dear Seck:

I wish to know why you didn't put my letter in the paper last Saturday night?

ONE GOOD TURN

Dear Seck: It was Tag Day; and I had no money. There was a kind boy sitting behind me. He had ten cents; and gave me five. I wish to thank him.

ONE GOOD TURN

'A little mouse through the woods did roam,
Far away from its cosy home;
When all at once a loud bellow
Scared that little wee fellow.
He looked all around,
And on the ground.
He spied a captured lion.
"Please help me," said the lion with a cry.
"I will help you by and by."
Mousie gnawed with all his might
And had the lion out before that night.

Yours fair and square,
BETTY McCARTHY."

Ada Riel, who has written so many nice poems for our page, tells about a bird and how it was released.

"Dear Seck:

A GOOD TURN

As sister and I
Went to school one day,
We saw in a haw tree
That grew by the way.

A dear little bird
With head towards the ground,
His foot in a trouble,
With a brave hair was bound.

My sister ran quickly
The bird to let loose;
He perked at her hand,
Gave all sorts of abuse.

"Take pain to the hearth
Where a wise fire does burn:
My dear little chatelaine
You have done a good turn."

Yours fair and square,
ADA RIEL."

In Five Million Homes Tonight

What will happen in your household tonight if Baby can't sleep, and won't stop crying? It may be serious, if you've only medicines meant for grown-ups. You needn't worry, if you have a bottle of Castoria. A few drops, and the little one is comforted; a few moments, and all is serene once more. Yet you have given nothing but a vegetable product which doctors approve for the tiniest babies. Just a gentle, soothing preparation the very taste of which tells you it is harmless.

Castoria is always a boon in the home where there are children of any age; for the little everyday ills, fretful spells, or any upset. And a blessing when a sudden attack of colic or acute constipation demands relief. Never be without Castoria; some mothers keep an extra bottle put away. Buy yours now, and have it always ready. But don't regard it as something you must save for emergencies. It is one thing a mother may use freely, as often as needed. A safe and sensible form of comfort for any baby, or twenty-five million bottles would not have been bought last year!

"Dear Seck:

I am delighted with my book, "The Yellow V." It is a great story. I would love to have another, so here is my story:

A DAY IN OCTOBER

The sun was a regular bi-shed, banked about by clouds and curtains of mist this October morning. But suddenly he threw off the bedclothes and so did Helen and Jean. They quickly dressed and rushed downstairs to find the rest at breakfast.

When the meal was over the twins ran into the pantry and began to pack sandwiches and goodies into a basket. By 10 o'clock they were ready and went off to meet their chums who were waiting at the corner.

As the ten merry boys and girls reached the top of the hill they got a view of the woods where they were going. The trees were all red and yellow and orange and green.

"It just looks like a sunset," cried Jack.

By the time they reached the woods the boys declared they were hungry so the girls began to get the dinner ready. The squirrels were very angry at the intruders and sat above them, chattering and scolding. When dinner was ready and they sat down it was not long till the plates were empty.

Then they took their baskets to gather beechnuts. The tree they found was big and the branches were high so Jack had to get up and shook the limbs. The girls picked up the nuts and soon had their baskets filled. They sat down and ate some and then, they had great fun playing all kinds of games.

When 5 o'clock came they gathered up their spoil and started for their homes.

Yours fair and square,
MARGARET LANCASTER."

WONDERFUL "LITTLE GREY BOOKS"

Famous Author's Tribute to Pelmanism

HOW THE PELMAN COURSE WILL HELP YOU.

Everywhere Pelmanism is winning popularity and enabling men and women to achieve "better results."

All over the world people of every type and occupation are increasing their efficiency and, consequently their earning power by this means, and are training their minds and developing their intellectual and business powers with the aid of the wonderful "Little Grey Books" issued by the Pelman Institute.

HOW TO USE YOUR MENTAL FACULTIES

This excellent sign of the times promises well for the future, for as that accomplished writer, the late Jerome K. Jerome, pointed out, Pelmanism should be the basis of all education.

"Every youngster," he wrote, "comes into this world provided with a fine box of tools necessary for his life's work. It is neatly packed, and nothing is missing. He carries it in his brain. It contains CONCENTRATION, OBSERVATION, IMAGINATION (the mother of enterprise), ORGANISATION—quite a number of useful tools mostly ending in 'tion.' And above all, MEMORY.

"Properly employed they will enable him to accomplish any task to which Fate may call him. But nobody shows him how to use them.

MAKING FULL USE OF THE BRAIN

"Oh, that's all right," we say, "he'll find out in time." So he does, with luck, towards the end of middle life, after years of bungling and despair. But by a little help in the beginning, by the help of Pelmanism, by showing him —how to employ and become deft in the use of his brain;

—how to observe truly and perceive rapidly;
—how to concentrate his attention and arrange his ideas;
—how to think and how to reason;
—above all, how to remember,

he might have been a useful member of society from the beginning.

"As it is, he has to trust to hearing about Pelmanism. I am more than willing to help in making it known to him. He ought to have been taught it when he was young. The sooner he takes it up the better for him and his country. It won't turn him into a genius. It won't put more brain into him than the Lord gave him. But—it will enable him to make full use of the brain he has been given.

"Most of us at present are wasting it."

WHAT OTHER PROMINENT PEOPLE THINK OF PELMANISM

Jerome K. Jerome is only one of innumerable men and women of prominence who advocate Pelmanism for everyone. Among them are renowned writers, statesmen of world-wide reputation, military and naval officers of the highest rank, leaders of finance and industry whose names are known all over the world. No movement of modern times has received such endorsement from men and women of the highest intelligence and distinction.

Here are some typical comments:

Judge Ben B. Lindsey, the famous founder of the Juvenile Court of Denver, has written several articles on Pelmanism. In one of these he said:

"As a matter of fact, Pelmanism ought to be the beginning of education instead of a remedy for its faults. First of all, it teaches the science of self-realization; it makes the student discover himself; it acquaints him with his sleeping powers and shows him how to develop them. The method is exercise, not of the haphazard sort, but a steady increasing kind that brings each hidden power to full strength without strain or break."

H. Rider Haggard, the famous novelist, one of the most ardent of Pelmanists, said: "Pelmanism can and does improve the mental capacities of great numbers of men and women in all classes. I recommend it to those who really wish to learn and to become what men and women ought to be."

Lieut.-General Baden-Powell, organizer of the Boy Scout movement, is another enthusiastic Pelmanist. "The Pelman System" he writes "appeals to me because it deals with the individual and because it offers to him in a practical form the cardinal steps to the development and strengthening of mental character, which is the foundation of success in any line of life."

Mr. T. P. O'Connor, known the world over as "Tay Pay", so long a member of the British Parliament that he is now "the father of the House of Commons", and for years a force in the world through his brilliant speeches, says:

"Of two young men in business, one takes the "Pelman Course and the other does not. Other things being equal, the young man who takes the Pelman Course will quickly be the one who has most availed himself of this advantage in the race of life.

"Not one person in a thousand who takes this course but will find it a distinct benefit, as many thousands have done before him.

"The Pelman System is not only unique in itself, but deserves well of the country and of the world."

Other famous men and women who have advocated Pelmanism are of such diverse types as Harry Lauder, the well-known comedian; Prince Charles of Sweden; Admiral Lord Beresford, England's renowned old sea-dog; Sir Frederick Maurice, director of military operations for the British General Staff during the war; W. L. George, the famous novelist; Granville Barker, the theatrical manager and actor; General Sir O'Moore Creagh, V.C., G.C.B., G.C.S.I., and others too numerous even to mention.

But in every field of human endeavor you will find men and women "at the top" who endorse and advocate the scientific mind-training methods of Pelmanism.

APPLIED PSYCHOLOGY

Pelmanism is a system of practical Psychology which develops the Reserve Forces which exist in every mind.

A short course of Pelmanism swiftly and surely eradicates such mental defects and "handicaps" as:

Forgetfulness	Mind-Wandering
Brain-Fag	Indecision
Inertia	Lack of System
Weakness of Will	Shyness
Lack of Ideas	Procrastination

which interfere with the effective working power of the brain, and it develops in their place such valuable qualities as:

—Concentration	—Organising Power
—Observation	—Directive Ability
—Perception	—Judgment
—Judgment	—Powerfulness
—Initiative	—Self-Confidence
—Will-Power	—Self-Control
—Decision	—Tact
—Resourcefulness	—Reliability
—and a Reliable Memory	—Salesmanship

Above all it develops Driving Power, Energy and Mental Power—"Power that Endures."

Pelmanism is quite easy and simple to follow. It only takes up a few minutes daily. The books are printed in a handy "pocket-size," so that you can study them in cars or in trains, or in odd moments during the day. Even the busiest man or woman can spare a few minutes daily for Pelmanism, especially when minutes so spent bring in such rich rewards.

BROKEN

A Story of Revenged Love., by Ruby M. Ayres

CHAPTER XI.

THE STORY THUS FAR:

GILES CHITTENHAM, on his way back to England from the United States to help wind up the affairs of his young half brother, RODNEY, who has recently killed himself for love of the notorious flirt, JULIE FARROW, joins his friend HARRY LOMBARD, in Switzerland. There, on a lake steamer, he meets Julie Farrow and BIM LENNOX, a straightforward, boyish sort of girl, loyal friend of Julie. Chittenham decides to make Julie fall in love with him and then spurn her, to avenge Rodney. He joins her in a drive through the St. Bernard pass. They are marooned at the inn at the top of the pass by a blizzard and while there he tells Julie he loves her. When Chittenham returns to his hotel Lombard tells him he has made a silly mistake—that this Julie Barrow is a cousin of the one that broke Rodney's heart. This puts Giles, who is secretly and unhappily married, in a bad predicament. He tells Julie the truth, and admits that he loves her, but is married.

He was a married man all the time! It seemed like one of the sordid intrigues which one always connected with the other Julie! How disgusting! How degrading! Julie shivered as if with sudden cold. She had always been so proud of her independence; she had always boasted so happily that no man had ever caused her a sleepless night or a single heartache. What could she say now?

Cold rage filled her heart. That he should dare to treat her so! Every nerve in her body longed to be revenged.

She turned slowly round and met his eyes, so desperately unhappy, so bitterly ashamed.

Her own indignation and sense of outrage died. She only remembered that she loved him—loved him with all her heart, this man who had a wife already, this man who last night . . .

Suddenly she spoke; she felt as if she were choking.

"Please go away."

"Not like this. I can't go like this, Julie, there must be some way out. I'll do anything—anything."

She laughed with white lips.

"What can you do? I don't want you to do anything except go away."

She made a sudden little rush to the door, but he intercepted her.

"You've got to listen to me. I know that everything I say will probably only make you think me a bigger cad than you do already, but my wife——"

She interrupted him harshly.

"I suppose you didn't really want to marry her, is that what you are going to tell me? I suppose it is. I suppose you'll say anything and expect me to believe you. I suppose you'll say that you are unhappily married and ask me to be sorry for you? Perhaps you will even offer to divorce her?"

"She would be as glad of her freedom as I should," Chittenham said curtly.

Julie laughed in his face.

"I don't wonder, if you treat her as you have treated me. I cannot imagine that any woman would want to keep you once she had found out what you really are. Bim warned me, and I wouldn't listen. Bim always understands about men. She was treated badly herself once, and she warned me. I wouldn't listen. I wish I had—oh, I wish I had!"

She was shivering and shaking from head to foot, and Chittenham broke out again desperately:

"Julie, I'd give my life if I could wipe out last night."

"Would you? I'm sure you would. It's not a thing to be proud of. I'd give my life to wipe it out, too. I'd like to cut my arms off because I was happy to put them round your neck. I'd like to tear my lips out because I ever kissed you. I'll never forgive you as long as I live. I'll go down to my grave hating you."

"Julie!" He caught hold of her so roughly that she cried out. "Do you think you're going to be the only one to suffer?" he asked savagely. "Do you think it doesn't rebound on me, too? Do you think I wanted to care for you, or for any woman. I set a trap for you and I've been caught in it myself."

She flung back her head and looked at him with blazing eyes.

"I'm glad, glad!" she said fiercely. "If I could do anything to hurt you more I would do it gladly. How dare you spoil my life? I was quite happy till I met you. I didn't want anything except just to go my own way and be free; but now—now——"

"And now you'll never be free again," Chittenham said exultantly. "I'm glad to know that. I'm glad that at least we shall suffer together. You say you'll always hate me—you won't, Julie. You'll always love me as I shall always love you. You'll always remember last night as I shall always remember it, and you'll long for it to come over again as I shall."

She tore herself free of him.

"I wish I could kill you—I wish I could kill you," she panted desperately, and was gone.

Gile's mother leant back in her chair and applied an absurd lace handkerchief to her eyes.

"It's only what I always expected," she moaned softly. "There is no gratitude in the world. Here have I given up my whole life to my children, and this is my reward! One of them is taken from me, and the other has no sympathy with my great sorrow and goes to live in an hotel instead of sharing my home. I don't know what I have done to deserve so much trouble. I wish I were dead and out of the way. Nobody wants you when you are old and tired."

Giles frowned and moved restlessly over to the window.

"You're not old," he said as patiently as he could, "and I only went to an hotel because I thought you would prefer it. You used to say I was untidy and a nuisance in the house and so——"

"That's right, throw the past in my face!" his mother wept. "Remember the few little impatient things I may have said to you, and forget the love and care you always had from me——"

"It's useless arguing like this," Giles interrupted, "I'd better go away and come back some other time."

He had all a man's dislike for a scene, and for the past three days he had been treated to one every time he was in his mother's presence.

"If we are always going to get on each other's nerves, the sooner I go back to America the better," he said bluntly.

"Go back!" Mrs. Ardron dropped her handkerchief and rose to her feet. She was still a handsome woman of a weak, helpless type, and had she spoken the truth she would have admitted that she was rather enjoying herself.

It was so long since anyone had been patient enough to listen while she unburdened her soul that she was finding it an enormous relief. This was the manner in which she had treated both Giles's father and Rodney's.

"So you have no intention of staying with your heart-broken mother," she said in a voice of deadly calm. "I might have known it. But I had hoped, I must admit I had hoped for just a little kindness and consideration in my old age."

Giles turned round from the window and his contemplation of the quiet dull, expensive street.

"If other people dared to call you old you would never forgive them," he said bluntly. "Don't be absurd, mother. You're quite young still, and you know it." He went across to her and took her hand, a typically pretty, useless-looking hand that had never done anything more strenuous than spend money. "Do try to look at things more cheerfully," he urged. "I know it's been hard for you, but there are good times still to come——"

"Good times—with my boy gone!" She began to weep again. "You don't understand, Giles. You were always hard. You have never cared for anyone—not even for me! Some day you will meet a woman who will touch your heart, some day you will have to face trouble yourself, and then you will remember how unkind you have been to me. Not that I am blaming you——"

"Oh, mother, for God's sake——"

Mrs. Ardron recovered her handkerchief and mopped her eyes, which were singularly free from tears.

"And please do not blaspheme in my presence," she said with dignity.

Giles shrugged his shoulders.

"We're arguing in circles," he said.

He paced up and down the room—a very charming room with rather an early-Victorian air about it which vaguely irritated him. There were too many ornaments about; too many foolish little chairs which a man of his size and weight had to avoid; too many light water-colors in gilt frames; too much silver; too much of everything useless and tiresome.

He found himself remembering the barely-furnished room at the hotel on the heights of St. Bernard—the isolated top-of-the-world room in which he had held Julie in his arms.

He had been able to breathe there. He had known a wonderful sense of freedom and aloofness. He looked back to it as one would look back on some magic city wiped out by disaster, as one might remember a loved one long dead.

Yet it was only a month ago that he and Julie had climbed the steep road in Charon; only a month, and he felt himself to be many years older and wiser!

He had been forced to leave Switzerland without seeing her again, although he had made several attempts. Bim had always been Julie's ambassador, and she had looked at him with calm, understanding eyes as she said:

"I am sorry. It is useless coming again, Mr. Chittenham. Julie will not see you."

She hesitated, then reading the question in his eyes she had added almost kindly:

"Julie has not told me anything, and I don't wish to know, but don't you think it is a case of the least said the soonest mended?"

But in spite of that, he had tried again, only to be told by the little maid with the rosy cheeks and the smile that the two ladies had left early that morning and had gone she did not know where. Lombard had already returned to Paris.

"I suppose you've got some bee in your bonnet," he grumbled to Chittenham, "and if you won't tell me what it is, how the devil can I apologize and put things right?"

"I don't want you to apologize," Chittenham answered curtly. "There's nothing to apologise for."

So Lombard went back to Paris and Chittenham came straight on to London.

Is Constipation Coming Back?

It's only natural that your liver slows up these days. Soups replace salads; canned things are served instead of fresh vegetables. You are eating more meats and hearty dishes, but taking less exercise. And you feel it. Your liver is getting lazy, bowels are irregular. Perhaps the head feels heavy, and you don't get up in the morning with the pep you had in July.

ABBEY'S will help your system adjust itself to heavier foods, heavier clothes and lack of exercise. ABBEY'S will quickly arouse the sluggish liver—sweeten the stomach—regulate the bowels and kidneys.

Astrologers read this as a fortunate day for most persons who dwell on the planet Earth.

Women now come under a sway that is stimulating and encouraging to fine creative work in all the arts.

This should be an auspicious sway for lovers, and engagements that are contracted under this direction of the stars are almost certain to lead to marriage. Breach of promise suits are not likely to be while this configuration prevails.

Music should be especially potent as part of church services today, and artists who are distinguished interpreters should benefit greatly.

While this planetary government prevails bigotry and religious prejudice should diminish.

Although the seers divine indications of religious war that will affect other countries they foretell tolerance and better understanding in the United States.

A partial eclipse of the Sun next month is supposed to affect Russia, especially, and to foreshadow important changes for the better in that country.

The eclipse of the Moon in November, which is thirteen days after the eclipse of the Sun, is held to cause the sound of war in the Far East, which will have its effect on Europe.

There is a sign of promise for the wearing of new garments under this rule of the stars and women should benefit, for they are to achieve more and more beauty as the months pass.

With the close of last summer's silly season positive forces for change have been strong and the girl of the future will be more modest and more charming than her prototype in the period following the World War.

Religious interest is to be strong this autumn, when many teachers will profess extraordinary spiritual vision.

Persons whose birthdate it is should nurse their jobs in the coming year, which may be precarious for employes. Women should benefit at this time when they will probably find new thrills in life. These subjects of Libra may have Scorpio tendencies which bring them pleasant experiences.

Children born on this day should be lucky all through life. Many will have a gift of eloquence. Successful clergymen belong to this date in October.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1928

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Adverse planets appear to be strong in their influence, according to astrology, which reads for today warning to be cautious in all important matters.

It is well to defer financial matters. If investments are considered they should be carefully investigated for the stars seem to presage changes in banking policies.

Under this sway there may be strange secret alliances between persons and organizations. Intrigue is supposed to be encouraged by the positing of the stars.

Women may be especially difficult to understand at this time when they may be capricious and uncertain regarding their policies.

Mars is in a threatening aspect, making for dissensions and even bitter contests for power in the family as well as in public affairs.

There is one sign of promise today which presages clearer mentality and keener intelligence on the part of the public, which is ever inclined to evade public service.

Educational matters are well directed and again honors are foretold for college professors and heads of big institutions.

Women are to partake of the thirst for knowledge and to find new wisdom for the conducting of their personal affairs.

Domestic problems are to assume an importance which indicates favorable conditions for the home and reaction toward the simpler relations of humanity, the seers prophesy.

Color is to be understood as never before, according to astrology, and for this reason dress and interior decoration will assume a new significance.

This evening may be an unfortunate time for those who desire to promote business or political projects.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a prosperous year, but they should avoid litigation. The subjects of the signs that rule today are likely to indulge their love of ocean travel.

Children born on this day probably will have a bent toward books. They often excel in surgery and even girls may be successful, for great skill with the hands is often a special gift of the people who come even faintly under Scorpio influences. With Libra's good offices added superb attainments are possible.

When Food Sours

Sweeten the stomach—instantly

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention. It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any druggists

Old Uncle Eben Jones went into a life insurance office and requested a policy.

"Why, Uncle," said the president, "you are too old for us to take the risk. How old are you?"

"Ninety-seven come next August,' said the old man, and added testily: "If you folks will take the trouble to look up your statistics, you'll find that mighty few men die after they are ninety-seven."—Earth Mover.

BUTTER AND EGGS

TORONTO, Oct. 20.—On the Toronto wholesale market a new top price of 48c a dozen was quoted by one of the leading firms for country eggs, fresh extras, delivered Toronto, ungraded, cases returned. The range on fresh extras now is between 44 and 48c. For fresh firsts the prevailing quotations still are 40 to 43c, and for seconds 30 to 35c.

WEDDING BELLS

INGRAM—BULLOCK

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 20 (Examiner Correspondence).—A very pretty wedding took place at twelve o'clock noon on Wednesday, October 10th, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Peter Bullock, Jr., at Young's Point, when her elder daughter, Edith May, was united in marriage to Robert Arthur Ingram, only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ingram of Baltimore, Ontario.

Rev. S. A. Kemp was the officiating clergyman and performed the ceremony under a red cedar arch which was decorated with white streamers and bells. The bride, who was given in marriage by her eldest brother, Mr. Albert Bullock, wore a becoming gown of French beige georgette trimmed with brown silk velvet and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses. She was attended by her youngest sister, Miss Violet Bullock, who wore pink brocaded crepe and carried pink carnations.

Mr. Charles Blezzard, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man.

Mrs. Milford Bullock played the Lohengrin Wedding March.

Following the ceremony the wedding party to the number of sixty, sat down to a sumptuous luncheon, the dining room being tastefully decorated with streamers and wedding bells.

The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a white gold wrist watch; to the bridesmaid, a brooch, and to the best man, cuff links; and to the pianist, a string of pearls.

The young couple left amid a shower of confetti for their new home in Baltimore early in the afternoon, the bride wearing a strawberry broadcloth coat with fur trimmings and a sand velvet hat with touches of brown.

The young couple are the recipients of the good wishes of a large circle of friends.

LANNER—MORGAN.

(Examiner Correspondence).

BONARLAW, Oct. 20.—A very pretty church wedding was solemnized at 11 o'clock Thursday at the Anglican Church on the 8th Concession of Rawdon when Anna Viola, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morgan of Harold, Ont., became the bride of James Lindsey Lanner, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lanner of Harold, Ont. The bride, who was given away by her father, was charming in a gown of white georgette. Miss Hazel Bird acted as bridesmaid, and Miss Essie Jeffry, maid of honor, while John Courtney performed as best man. The wedding march was played by Miss Edna Lanner, cousin of the bride.

The Rev. Mr. Levason of Bonarlaw performed the ceremony in the presence of one hundred and fifty guests.

A reception immediately following the ceremony was held at the home of the bride's parents, where a beautiful wedding dinner was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Lanner left by motor for Ottawa, Montreal and the United States, the bride travelling in a beautiful dress of brown georgette over satin, with hat and shoes to match; she also wore a handsome rat coat, a gift of her father. On their return they will reside at Minto.

CHOIR ORGANIZES FOR YEAR'S WORK

Three Men in Car Noticed While Approaching Hen House.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 20 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — After having been several weeks without an organist or choir leader other than those secured for the occasional service, the choir of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church met last night for the purpose of appointing an executive and other officers for the present year and also 1929. Prynce Nesbitt, Merritton, was present in the capacity of organist and presided over the meeting till the new officers were elected. The meeting was at seven-thirty and the regular choir practice a half hour later.

Miss Hazel Atkinson will be president of the organization, with J. S. Dickson as secretary, and Miss Jessie Neale as treasurer. Miss Mary Watson will have charge of the music with the official title of librarian. The choir wardrobe will be in charge of Mrs. John Shand. To Dr. O. C. Watson was accorded the honorary president's office. It appears that the choir treasury has fallen to a low mark, and plans were discussed for raising funds. When eight o'clock arrived, there had been no definite plan decided upon, and the matter was left in the hands of the executive.

Something different also appeared at the regular choir practice, when it was decided that a processional and recessional hymn would be employed at the regular morning and evening services. This change will have to be approved by the Kirk session, but will be employed in the services this Sunday, pending the approval of the elders of the church.

After the choir practice, the members of the executive met for a few minutes to discuss possible new members, and it was decided to invite certain singers who are not now members of any of the local similar organizations to join the choir.

Obituary

MRS. JOHN MORGAN.

(Examiner Correspondence).

WARSAW, Oct. 20—Mary Elizabeth Scollie, widow of Mr. John Morgan, died at the home of her son, Mr. Fred Morgan, near Warsaw, early on Tuesday morning, Oct. 27th. Mrs. Morgan was born in Otonabee, a little over eighty-two years ago, and has lived in or near Warsaw for about sixty years. She had been ill about four years. An injury to her foot, from which she never fully recovered, seemed to be the start. She and Miss Morgan have lived with Mr. Fred Morgan for about two and one-half years, and while she was not actually bed-ridden all that time, she was seldom able to leave her room.

One son, Mr. Fred Morgan, and one daughter, Miss Maude, are left to mourn a mother to whom they were devoted. There are three grandsons: Harry, Arthur and Fred Morgan, and one granddaughter, Mrs. Howard Patterson; also she leaves one brother, Mr. Robert Scollie, Peterborough, and four sisters: Mrs. James Wilson, Peterborough; Mrs. Fowler, Rockville; Mrs. Kemp, Orillia, and Mrs. Garlick, Alberta.

Mrs. Morgan was a member of the Anglican Church, Warsaw, and a woman of sterling worth and character.

The funeral took place from the family residence on Thursday afternoon. After a short service at the house the body was taken to the Anglican Church, where she had so often worshipped, where Rev. J. T. O'Conor-Fenton read the beautiful service for the dead, and preached the sermon. The interments took place in Warsaw Cemetery, where her husband was laid twenty-four years ago. Mr. Fenton conducted the service there.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs. Albert Cooper, William Hawthorne, Uriah Payne, John Rose, William Davis and Bruce Douglas.

There were many beautiful flowers, among them a wreath of galax leaves.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

That three types of shoe needed for the little girl — at top, play shoe of the soft mocassin type, in center, black patent leather for dress-up occasions, and below, stout tan leather for school.

The mother who favors high shoes for her children during cold weather has a hard time of it these days—because that sort of shoes—which our English friends would simply call "boots"—are seldom found. So it sometimes happens that a child who has worn canvas shoes high enough to cover the ankles during the summer on the sandy seashore wears nothing but low-cut shoes during the cooler weather. The advantage of the high canvas shoe has been that it keeps out the sand more effectively than the lower sort of "sneaker," but it is too light in weight to do much else, and the notion that children's ankles need support and grow straighter and stronger if held in high laced or buttoned shoes is looked upon as a trifle old fashioned. To be sure there are very weak or slightly deformed little ankles that need special support, but that is a matter for the orthepedist to settle.

If you do manage to get the high cut shoes for school wear, then there is the possibility that ankles so coddled will feel chilly when low-cut shoes are put on for more dressed-up occasions.

The sketch shows three types of shoes as offered by one smart shoe dealer for school, play and party wear. The party shoes are of the oxford type made with wide silk lacings to give them a rather festive note. For both boys and girls black patent leather seems to be accepted for formal wear while for school and play shades of tan are preferred. There is very little difference in the thickness of the soles of these three different types of shoes—a wise precaution since going from thick soles to very thin ones may cause chilling of the feet and consequent colds.

CITTA DI MILANO RETURNS TO ITALY

Nobile's Base Ship Stayed in North Till Search Was Abandoned.

SPEZI, Italy, October 20 (Canadian Press). — The Citta do Milano, base ship of General Umberto Nobile's ill-fated airship expedition to the North Pole, arrived to-day from King's Bay, Spitzbergen. The authorities and crowd warmly greeted the vessel, which stayed at King's Bay until the search wis given up for the six men who drifted off in the balloon part of the Italia after its crash last May.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

By MARION

TO-DAY I AM GIVING you an interesting little poem contributed by one who signs herself merely "?" It is a "Song of Love," and you will find it under that heading.

• • • •

Here is another little poem, by Austin Dobson:

"In after days when grasses high
O'er-top the stone where I shall lie,
Though ill or well the world adjust
My slender claim to honored dust,
I shall not question nor reply,
I shall not see the morning sky,
I shall not hear the night-wind sigh;
I shall be mute, as women must,
In after day.

But yet, now loving, fain were I
That someone then should testify,
Saying: "She held per pen in trust
To Art, not serving shame or lust."
Will none?—Then let my memory die
In after days.

• • • •

This is sent to me with this notation: "I think your ideals are very high; I think your columns are splendidly composed; I conceive your ideas to be as I have set out in this little poem."

• • • •

Mr. Dobson has, indeed, struck the right keynote; and not alone in my writing, but in the efforts of many others, too. We who write for publication must cast our efforts to the winds, hoping that something we write may interest someone; our endeavor is to write something that will interest everyone.

• • • • •

Few of us know whether we accomplish even a little of our purpose!

• • • • •

I am happy, Mr. Dobson, however, in that I receive many letters from neighbors expressing appreciation of what I am able to do in leading the way in this neighborly page. It is indeed encouraging, and with his support I am well content; let what will come "in after days."

• • • • • •

I am very sorry indeed that because of the pressure of work in connection with the Kiwanis Fair I have not been able to give proper attention to the mail column this week. I hope to improve next week, and must beg the pardon of all those whose communications have gone unanswered this week.

• • • • • •

For those who live in the district the notice will be too late, but here is still time for city folk to visit the Fair, and I would sincerely urge them to do so. I think that there is not only ample enticement in the Women's Section proper, but also in other departments.

• • • • • •

For instance, probably no booth in the entire Exhibition has attracted more attention than Miss Mamie McCarthy's, where paintings of local scenes and sketches of local people are shown. It is wonderful to see these sketches actually grow under one's eyes.

• • • • • •

And whether one contemplates having a permanent or not (I didn't win mine yet!) it is certainly interesting to see OTHER people get them at Madame Merriam's booth.

• • • • • •

Then there are the exhibits of Teco, Barrie's, Hall's, and the other local stores, with their wealth of suggestion as to dress and appointments. To which one would you give the prize—if there were one offered this year?

• • • • •

One thing I noticed at the Fair was a lack of thoughtfulness on the part of the crowd. It may be the part of the crowd of to thoughtless, but how nice it would be if it were otherwise!

• • • • • •

Last night there was a man—a Kiwanian, I think—carrying a huge load of prizes for some of the games. Very few, if any, made way for him, and he had to be constantly begging to be excused as he weaved in and out through the crowd.

• • • • • •

In certain sections of Canada it is an unwritten law of the road that the loaded vehicle has right of way over an unloaden vehicle. It seems a sensible rule, and it might well be applied here. How much easier it would be for individuals to step aside than for the heavily-laden man to walk around them!

• • • • • •

A little thoughtfulness goes SUCH a long way!

• • • • • •

There are thoughtful and thoughtless people in every congregation, of course, but how much nicer it would be if everyone would observe the Golden Rule, which is the guiding maxim of Kiwanis Club.

• • • • • •

There are some, too, who are affable and gracious to everyone so long as things go according to their wishes; but if they meet with contradictions, if an accident, a reproach, or less, should trouble the serenity of their souls, then all around them must suffer the consequences.

• • • • • •

They grow dark and cross; very far from keeping up conversation in good humor, they answer in monosyllables those who speak to them.

• • • • • •

A good rule to follow is: "Keep the corners of your mouth turned up"—and I noticed that most of the Kiwanians, even those who had most responsibility, had learned the rule by heart.

• • • • • •

Few could be disgruntled in the presence of Dr. Craig's infectious smile!

• • • • • •

Even on a night when it was pouring rain, and the crowd wasn't big enough to fill an aisle! Such enthusiasm; such optimism; surely deserves support.

• • • • • •

After all, what difference would it have made if Dr. Craig had frowned? It would merely have made the night seem darker.

• • • • • •

And therein lies a good moral for every one of us. S-M-I-L-E!

• • • • • •

If you can smile in the face of adversity you achieve two triumphs—you conquer circumstance and you make others feel that whatever you sponsor is, after all, worth while.

• • • • • •

I have a letter from "Somebody" which requires more thought than I can give it at this time (4 a.m. Saturday). I hope to reply to it on Monday. Forgive my inefficiency, please, "Somebody"!

• • • • • •

The Hallowe'en Party help will be published next week. If you are planning for the occasion, by all means send for next week's help.

• • • • • •

In the meantime, if you want to make a little hat for yourself that is really a turban but may be drawn down to suggest the bonnet contour, please send in the coupon to-night, and I will mail a diagram and instructions for making. The original we received from Paris is of wool jersey. I am sure you will find it useful.

• • • • • •

If, on Saturday night, you hear a sigh of relief, you may blame me; the work incident to the big Fair will then be over, and I can get down to normalcy again. I've enjoyed every minute I've spent up at the Armouries, but—there is SO much there, it means a lot of work!

ESCALLOPED ONIONS

Onions and potatoes, in alternating rows, are delicious escalloped. Butter the baking dish, put in raw sliced onions and potatoes, season, cover with milk and dredge with flour. Put a little butter on top. This dish has the advantage of not being as fattening as an all potato dish.

GILT FRAMES

You can make your gilt frames or gilt furniture shine brightly if you go over them with a soft brush dipped in a mixture of egg white and chloride of soda.

RUST REMOVER

If your bathroom pipes are rusted, a woolen cloth saturated with gasoline or ammonia will clean them up. Such pipes and nickel holders for towels, soap and so on should be re-coated with nickel and kept shining.

LITTLE SONGS OF LOVE

COME WALK WITH ME

(By ?)

Oh! walk with me in my garden;
Come, Stranger, enter and rest;
Love you the scent of the roses,
Or like you the violets best?

I love all the flowers in your garden—
Rose red and Larkspur blue,
But the sweetest flower in all the bower,
Is YOU, my dear, just YOU.

LYRICS OF LIFE

GIRLHOOD'S GIFTS

Life gives to every girl a gem
To wear, whoever she may be,
Sets on her brow a diadem
Of modesty and purity.
And proudly women wear that crown
Who kept it bright in girlhood days,
Not soiled by all the hands in town,
The plaything of the cabarets.

Life gives another jewel, too,
A woman wears with head erect,
If she has kept, her girlhood through,
The jewel of her self-respect.
But how a woman's heart turns sick
To see herself, in memory's light,
Caressed by Tom, and hugged by Dick,
And out with Harry half the night.

Life gives another gift, a name,
As clear as crystal, frail as glass.
The richest gift that ever came.
And yet the quickest gift to pass,
Life gives us gifts of many a kind,
And yet, if careless hands let fall,
The girl who loses one may find
In losing one she loses all.

CARE OF CANARIES

Canaries should be given a little window garden of green. A bit of bird or mustard seed, scattered in a pot or can will sprout in a few days and grow into little plants. Daily, if possible, remove the bottom of the cage and set over the pot of green. Other things birds love are nasturtium blossoms, cuttle bone and cayenne pepper pods.

WOMEN'S PAGE

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright,
Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet,
Or dims the radiant light.
No unkind word our lips shall pass,
No envy sour the mind,
But each shall seek the common weal,
The good of all mankind.

CAVAN

One of the most interesting conventions of the series of Women's Institute Conventions, was held recently in Emo.

The account of the resolutions passed, the year's activities and discussions make very good reading.

It is particularly gratifying to the older Institutes of old Ontario, whose offspring, these Institutes in the newer settled districts, are, to note the thoughtful, wise resolutions passed and the extent of work accomplished.

It is also a matter of satisfaction to read of the wonderful tributes paid to Institute Work, by men in high positions in the government and courts of our country. They recognize the great benefit that this women's organization is to the country.

The following is the account of the Convention:—

A very happy, fruitful Convention was held in Emo on September 26-7. The main street of Emo stretches out on the Ontario side of the Rainy River, which separates her from Minnesota.

There were two hundred delegates present from the five hundred mile stretch of territory between Hornpayne and Manitoba.

There was dignity and courage, also a keen sense of humor, among those delegates from Northern Institutes, who were the Creators of Prosperity—not merely the Creatures, as the lively discussions revealed. They were there to tell what they had done the past year, to state their problems, to receive and give help.

Northern Ontario has suffered greatly this year from too much wet, but they were not pessimistic, rather the reverse, full of dauntless courage.

The Institutes are profoundly respected by the men up there, too, as was shown in the addresses on Agriculture, Health, and Education from Agricultural Representative Garner, Dr. Young, M.O.H., Emo, and Inspector Yewr, Ft. Frances.

"If the train connections weren't so impossible, I'd be with you to give this in person, for there's no gathering in Canada I'd rather discuss things with," said Judge Stubbs of Winnipeg, sending his wonderful paper on the League of Nations which Mrs. Peter Heenan supplemented by an account of the visit she and her husband, Minister of Labor for Canada, made to Geneva this summer.

The resolutions give an idea of the needs and opinions of the Institutes.

1st—Thanks to Hon. J. S. Martin for the efficient help given through the Institute Branch to Northern homemakers.

2nd—Appreciation and congratulations to Superintendent G. A. Putnam, who has led the Ontario Institutes to their place as world leaders in rural education for nearly twenty-five years.

3rd—To the Department of Education, that school books be not changed so often. Parents of good-sized families cannot afford it.

4th—To the Attorney-General:

Pay married prisoners for work, the pay to go to their families.

5th—To the Ontario Government, asking support for an Old Age Pension Bill. Others asked for the supervision of all schools at noon, the exclusion of minors from courts where criminal cases were being tried, and a "Women's Institute Magazine."

A standing committee on Girls' Work for Rainy River was formed to consist of the District Presidents and Secretaries, two girls chosen from each District and the Agricultural Representative. A five-year programme is to be planned.

Thunder Bay had the largest Girls' Judging Contest this year in the Province, while O'Connor Juniors tendered their mothers a banquet and Emo has a flourishing Garment Club.

A striking thing is the scarcity of women, but what amazing things are accomplished.

When the Department query comes, "Why aren't there more members in your branch?" The reply comes "We're all the women there are here!" In one place a member, before she joined, hadn't seen a neighbor for six months, nor been to town for three years. In another branch the President was a Swedish woman who could neither read or write English, yet all turned in and bravely raised funds to help their school fair, the needy and fire sufferers of the neighborhood.

The government preventative serums are a boon to rural Ontario. Miss Emily Guest gave a talk on foods and feeding which brought forth a lively discussion.

The Convention concluded with a banquet, toasts and music.

MILLBROOK

One of the many suggestions put forward by Mr. Putnam, Superintendent of Institutes for Ontario, is that friendly feeling of co-operation be established between the local branches and the County Agricultural Representative, this proving always mutually helpful.

Evidence is not lacking that such an understanding has been a fact with the local Institute for some time past, since it is the custom each year to provide prizes for competition at the Rural School Fair; catering has also been done for banquets, following events for which the Representative and the Department of Agriculture were responsible, such as the Junior Farmers' Judging Competition which was held here this week, the supper taking place in the Armouries the same evening; and when the request was made that the Institutes of East Durham offer $20.00 toward making worthwhile prizes in connection with the Girls' Judging Competition, the local Branch willingly co-operated with the others of the district in voting the amount mentioned.

Some of the ways for raising money advanced at a recent Institute convention might be followed by other Branches; one member told of buying powder puffs at 15 cents each, adorning these suitably, and selling same for 50 cents. In that same Society they have a birthday box, but do not insist that members tell their age when they drop in the pennies, or silver, as the birthdays come round; there are always more than one each month who will give in this way, and the funds grow accordingly. The men have their interest and support stimulated by the holding of a winter social, under Institute auspices, when they are invited to come and contribute the admission fee; a summer gathering has been successfully tried along the same line.

Mr. Putnam never fails to emphasize the fact that charitable assistance be given in the home locality first, before contributions either of cash, fruit, or clothing, are sent to outside points. In some communities the Institute forms a committee of a stated number of members who take turns in offering to relieve shut-in mothers, taking care of the home and the children, while the mother is free to attend a church service, or mid-week missionary meeting, or perhaps a concert; the committee may have its membership changed twice or three times a year.

"Do not forget that when you are looking after needy families you do not neglect to see if the children require special medical care or treatment; and if there are members of these families that need decent clothing so they may attend school, have a committee who will see that they are outfitted properly.

WARSAW

In connection with the quarter century of Women's Institutes in Warsaw, a few First Things might be interesting.

The first meeting after organization on October the third, was held on October the eighth at Mrs. A. F. Choate's home, with the first president in the chair.

The meeting was opened by singing the Doxology and repeating the Lord's Prayer. There were seven who had signed as members at the organization present, and four others. Just who the first seven members were it is difficult to ascertain, but apparently they were Mesdames A. F. Choate, Campbell, S. R. Payne, Matthews, A. Fraser, Ellen Brown and W. Payne. The four new members evidently were Mesdames W. Wasson, E. Hamblin, Foster and Miss B. Choate.

The first motion was made by Mrs. W. Campbell, and seconded by Mrs. W. Payne, that the topic for discussion at the November meeting be "Beautifying our Homes for Winter."

The cash on hand was $2.00.

"A very nice program, consisting of orchestra music, readings and songs," was enjoyed. Mrs. A. Fraser is the first signature which appears as having recorded a meeting.

These meetings were held in the evening.

At the second regular meeting held in November, 1903, an executive consisting of Mesdames A. F. Choate, W. Campbell, S. R. Payne, Robert Matthews, A. Fraser, was appointed.

The first board of directors consisted of Mesdames Smith and E. R. Hamblin.

This meeting was held at Mrs. Ellen Brown's home and thirteen new members joined.

When the Institute was organized it was a branch of Lakefield. At the March, 1904, meeting a question arose as to whether this Institute belonged to Lakefield in West Peterborough, or should be by itself in East Peterborough. A letter was sent to Mr. Putnam, Supt. of W.I. and an answer was received and read at the April meeting, stating that as this Institute was in East Peterborough, it was not a branch of Lakefield, and would therefore send the reports direct to the office of the Agriculture Department, Parliament Buildings, and it is not until after this that Warsaw records can be found in Mr. Putnam's office.

MOUNT PLEASANT

In a number of neighboring communities, a Girls' Institute is carried on.

Girls' Institutes or Junior Institutes are organized on exactly the same basis as Women's Institutes, with the same district officers, the only difference being that they take up work of direct interest to girls rather than to women. In an institute community where there are not enough girls to have a strong organization of their own, the Women's Institute usually organize a "Girls' Circle," or committee as a part of the senior organization.

The Junior Institute program is fourfold, planned for the training of the Head, the Hand, the Heart, and the Health. Valuable "head" training is acquired through taking part in the monthly study programs, through debates, dramatics and public speaking contests. The girls have also made splendid use of travelling libraries and university extension courses in English literature.

Hand training, or skill in home craft, is developed through courses in cookery, home nursing, sewing and millinery; through household science judging competitions; through giving demonstrations in household work at regular meetings and through applying in their own homes what they have learned through economics extension courses. The girls are also taking a more active interest in poultry, bees, horticulture and gardening as a result of the agriculture taught in the courses conducted by agricultural representatives.

Health development comes largely through outdoor recreation and team games organized by the Institutes. Most of the branches give at least one meeting during the year to the study of personal health problems. They also learn considerable of this in their courses of home nursing.

The fourth of the four "H's", the heart training, is taken to mean a training for more unselfish citizenship. The Junior Institutes are exercising this through such local charity as sewing for poor families, making layettes for charity cases, assisting sick or busy mothers in times of emergency, sending gifts of their own production to children's shelters, hospitals, and houses of refuge as well as contributing to such community needs as libraries, community halls, athletic grounds, skating rinks, etc. Perhaps an even more importane evidence of their awakened social conscience is the responsibility they take in seeing that their own social gatherings are well chaperoned and conducted along lines which are a credit to their organization.

ENTERTAINING GUESTS

A Series Giving Hints on Arranging Parties.
By LAURA.

REFRESHMENTS FOR HALLOWE'EN

Marion has collected together a number of games and suggestions for Hallowe'en entertaining for a household help for next week, so I thought instead of giving any more suggestions it might be a help to some who are planning to give a party, to have ideas pertaining to menus for the occasion.

Your party may be large or small with young or old guests, but no matter how many you plan to have or what you intend to serve, it should be carried out almost entirely with the Hallowe'en color combinations. This is one time in the year when it isn't hard to combine colors for decorations. If it is a fairly large party, lunch would be easier served buffet style, the boys helping their partners or with a few waiters. This might consist of:

Cream Cheese and Nut Sandwiches.
Cold Meat. Potato Salad.
Brown Bread. Doughnuts.
Punch
Salted Nuts.

The table from which lunch is served should be attractively adorned in black and orange paper with innumerable black cats, witches, owls, etc., which can be arranged in so many different ways.

If your guests are fewer in number and the lunch is served by a maid or waitress for the occasion, it would be more simple such as:

Assorted Sandwiches
Olives. Pickles.
Doughnuts Cheese.
Cider
Salted Peanuts. Candy.

Then, again, if you are appointed convenor of a church supper, your menu might be something like this:

Fruit Cocktail
Broiled Chicken
Mashed Potatoes. Orange Ice.
Pickled Carrot Salad
Cheese Crackers
Individual Butterscotch Pies
Orange Bonbons
Coffee.

The cocktail would be very attractive if served in oranges with a face drawn on the side. If the chicken is served from a platter, decorations of paper fastened over the wings and legs, adds a finishing touch. The pickled carrot salad is served on lettuce; the cheese crackers are made attractive if centred with an olive, and the butterscotch pies "faced" with raisins.

MARION'S MAIL

Address correspondence to Marion at The Examiner Office.

DEAR MARION:

I received the helps which you sent and wish to thank you very much indeed.

I also want to thank "Bobbie" for her splendid answer to my request for a baby's coat. I hope she will not think me ungrateful for not doing so before. I have made my baby a coat almost the same excepting that I used elderdown instead of chinchilla and I put sleeves with buttoned flaps.

I am sending you a recipe for Cheese Biscuits which I like and hope some of the neighbors will find useful. Here is a suggestion for a Christmas gift which you may be able to use. I gather milkweed pods late in the fall after they have opened and are hard and crisp. Then, with some oil paints I paint them all different shades, blending the colors together. I find that ordinary aluminum paint, which can be bought at any hardware store, gives a silvery touch and goes nicely with rose and other colors. These make a nice decoration for winter when cut flowers are scarce.

I am enclosing the coupon for this week's help and will thank you now in advance.

Sincerely yours,
COUNTRYWOMAN."

Thanks, "Countrywoman," for your very wonderful helps. I am sure that a lot of the neighbors will appreciate them, and I am glad that you liked the instructions sent by "Tobbie."

"Dear Marion:

Although I have never before expressed my opinion regarding your page, I think it is really wonderful. What a brain you must have to keep your page so interesting day after day!

I am reading the essays on "After Five Years" with great interest, as the subject always puzzled but yet appealed to me.

Members of our household have tried several of the recipes and find them real good. Wishing your page success and thanking you in advance.

Colborne. ROSEBUD."

I'm glad that you like our neighborly page, Rosebud. Write again.

"Dear Marion:

Thank you for previous helps very much. The rose jar is lovely and is becoming more fragrant every day. Your page is very much appreciated. Wishing you continued success.

"Dear Marion:

That was another good topic I thought showing interest in the children's home work.

I know one clever mother who had bought a nice study table for her little girls and a fine dignified looking inkwell. I'm sure they must be glad when it is time to do homework.

CHILD LOVER."

That's a real idea, Child Lover, and well worth following.

"Dear Marion:

I think it was in August someone wrote up an interesting paper on the scenery down at Indian River. It seems there is a beautiful hill down there with samples of nearly all the trees native to the province and a regular wall of balsams a little further on.

I wonder if some of your many correspondents would write us more of such scenes?

There is a swamp up in Dummer and another in Cavan; I wish someone would tell us all about them. To me it is all very interesting and it may be to others.

NATURE LOVER."

This is indeed a hint to our correspondents, Nature Lover, and I hope they will take advantage of it.

"Dear Marion:

Thanks for the printed instructions for making short cape and ribbon flowers. I am sending in the coupon for this week's help. I sent in one way to use safety razor blades, and here is another way to use them. They are excellent for taking dried paint spots off glass and they do not scratch the glass.

I noticed a call for muffins a few days ago, so I am sending in two recipes. Wishing you heaps of luck with your page,

MAYFLOWER."

Thomasburg.

Thanks, Mayflower, for the idea about razor blades, and for the recipes, which I shall use as soon as possible.

"Dear Marion:

This is my first letter to your delightful page. We all enjoy it very much since you organized your new mail bag on the Women's Page. You have my best wishes for continued good luck.

Will you please send me your instructions and diagrams on making the new autumn hat of Jersey Cloth.

I am sending a good tested cake recipe. Thanking you, I remain,

Yours sincerely,
ROSE MARIE."

I certainly appreciate your good wishes, Rose Marie, and the cake recipe. I have been so busy this week with the Kiwanis Fair that I have not been able to give proper attention to the mail column. I promise, however, to mend my ways.

"Dear Marion:

In lifting cookies from the board to the pan I use an egg or pancake lifter. The advantage is that the cookies hold their shape. Do any of the country women use bon ami for lamp chimneys? It is easier to use and much more effective than any other method.

OTONABEE."

"Dear Marion:

I also am asking for helps from you. I read your letters nearly every day; they are splendid. The helps are good, too. I am sending a hint which I hope will be of some use to someone.

When varnishing in the spring, I varnish the door and window screens; it keeps them from rusting.

Good luck to you, thanks.

Bonarlaw. E. R."

"Dear Marion:

Many thanks for the wonderful hints and helps to be found each day on our page. We country folk who watch so eagerly for the mail man appreciate them all.

I am enclosing a coupon for the Wool Flowers, and if you would please send me the other items marked I would be grateful.

Here is a little hint that may help someone: When wanting to paste anything and having run short of glue, try using the white of an egg. I have used this several times and find it excellent.

Yours sincerely,
MRS. D. D."

THE SATURDAY MARKET BASKET

There is still a variety in fruits and vegetables, although not nearly as good as earlier in the season. It is getting rather late in the season for some fruits and vegetables, while some are at their best.

Peaches still continue to ask for attention, large baskets being 98 cents. Apples, pears and plums still remain. Apples sell according to their variety, Wealthys at 40 cents a peck; Snows at 60 cents a peck; Spies, 60 cents a peck, and McIntosh Reds at $1.00 a peck. Large blue plums sell for 15 cents a quart. Pears are priced at 60 cents for a 6-quart basket and 98 cents for the 11-quart basket. Grapes, blue and white, are 50 cents a basket. Tokay grapes are 2 pounds for 25 cents. Crabapples are 50 cents a large basket.

Bananas vary in price, but are mostly about 35 and 40 cents a dozen. Oranges range in price from 40 to 80 cents a dozen and lemons 30 to 40 cents. Grapefruit are 4 and 5 for 25 cents.

Potatoes are 15 and 18 cents a peck and sweet potatoes are 5 pounds for 25 cents. Carrots and beets are selling at 30 and 40 cents a peck. Turnips are 5 cents each, and cabbages are 10 and 15 cents a head. Cauliflowers, large firm heads, are 15 and 20 cents a head.

Iceberg head lettuce is 15 and 20 cents a head. Green and red peppers may be bought 2 for 10 cents. Tomatoes, which are becoming very scarce, at 65 cents a basket. Celery is priced at 15 and 20 cents a bunch, while celery hearts are 15 cents a bunch. Spinach is selling 2 pounds for 25 cents. Cranberries are 25 cents a pound.

Honeydew melons are still on the market at 30 and 35 cents each; cantaloupes 10 and 15 cents each, and watermelons, small homegrown ones, 20 and 25 cents each.

A LAUGHING BABY IS A GREAT JOY

What can give more joy in the home than a laughing, happy baby. The well child makes everyone happy with his tuneful gurgle and bright laughing eyes. It is only the sickly baby who is not a laughing baby, for it is the little one's nature to be happy when well.

Mothers, if your baby is cross, if he cries a great deal and no amount of attention seems to make him happy, give him a dose of Baby's Own Tablets and he will soon be well and ready to radiate that happiness through the home again.

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative. They regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach and thus banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and correct those troubles which accompany the cutting of teeth and in doing those things—and doing them well—they make baby happy and keep him happy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Eggs (Continued).

"If only hard, an egg will please,
No reason we should spoil it;
A hard-cooked egg digests with ease,
So long as we do not boil it."

Some of the ways of serving eggs are:

1. Raw, plain or in egg nogs.
2. Raw-beaten plus fruit juice (albuminized drinks).
3. Soft and hard cooked.

Boiling temperature is not necessary to the coagulation of eggs. Albumin begins to coagulate at 134 deg. F. and at 162 deg. F. (50 deg. below boiling point) coagulation is complete. Boiling toughens white and makes yolk mealy, while frying makes both yolk and white difficult to digest.

The practice of dropping eggs into boiling water and letting them boil three minutes is not to be commended.

The following are better methods:

Soft-Cooked Eggs.

1. Boil water—a pint for 1 or 2 eggs, ½ cup extra for each additional egg.
2. Set back where water will keep hot; put in eggs; cover.
3. Let stand four to six minutes for one or two eggs, five to eight minutes for several.

Hard-Cooked Eggs.

Method I.:

1. Boil water—1 pint for 1 or 2 eggs; one cup extra for each additional egg.
2. Put in eggs, cover, set back and let stand where they will keep hot 30 minutes.

Method II.:

1. Put eggs into cold water, heat slowly to boiling point, set back where water will keep hot, let stand 20 minutes.

At no time should eggs be subjected to intense heat while cooking. If it is applied, it has toughening effect on the albumin of the egg. This is why soft custards such as floating island and salad dressing are cooked above water, and firm custards are set in a pan of hot water in the oven.

In speaking of the digestibility of food we usually have three things in mind:

(1) The ease and comfort of the process.
(2) The length of time taken.
(3) The completeness of absorption.

With regard to eggs experiments show:

Two lightly cooked eggs leave the stomach in 1¾ hours.
Two raw eggs in 2¼ hours.
Two poached eggs plus 5 grams butter in 2½ hours.
Two hard-cooked eggs in 3 hours.
Omelet (two eggs) in 3 hours.

Lightly-cooked eggs are more quickly disposed of by stomach than raw ones, but are not best for stomach needing rest. Raw egg is scarcely digested at all until it reaches the intestine. It is such a bland fluid that it does not excite the secretions of the gastric juice nor the movements of the stomach and so may linger longer than if slightly cooked, but it is less irritating and makes less demand on the stomach.

Though they take longer, hard-cooked eggs are as completely digested as soft-cooked or raw. If whites are chopped and yolks mashed and served hot or cold on well-browned toast, we have a dish of average digestibility.

Some people cannot take eggs because the digestive juices act upon them to form poisons.

Eggs leave small residue. They should be served with food which supplies carbo-hydrate and roughage.

McGILL WINS TRACK TITLE FROM VARSITY

MONTREAL TEAM WIN NINE FIRSTS

Victory Puts End To Three Year Reign of Toronto Athletes.

RUN RELAY TO-DAY.

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 20 (Canadian Press).—Track and field athletes of McGill University swept all before them in yesterday's annual intercollegiate meet and compiled a point score of 78, as against University of Toronto's 41, and seven garnered by the little band from Queen's of Kingston. McGill's victory, predicted in many quarters, but which was surprising in the overwhelming manner in which it was accomplished, put an end to a three-year reign of the Toronto athletes in this branch of intercollegiate sport.

McGill's total was attained by means of nine first places, nine seconds, and six thirds, in fourteen events. Fifteen events were scheduled but the relay race was held over for to-day, and will be run off at the half-time interval during the Qeuen's-McGill football game. Its result, however, will have no bearing on the final standing owing to McGill's commanding advantage.

The University of Toronto team scored five firsts, three second places and seven thirds. Queen's obtained two seconds and one third place. "Chuck" Agnew, of Queen's football fame, scored four of the seven points obtained by the tri-color representatives.

The outstanding individual performance of the day was turned in by Charlie Drew, a newcomer to McGill ranks, who formerly performed for Amherst College. Drew obtained two firsts and two seconds for a total of sixteen points. In winning the 120-yard high hurdles, he established a new mark of 15 4-5 seconds, as against the old record of 16 1-5 seconds, set in 1923 by Syd Pierce, McGill star. Drew also won the shot put, and finished second in the high jump and the broad jump.

In all, eleven new intercollegiate champions were crowned, only three of nine of last year's winners, who were entered again this season, retaining their laurels. Jack Blemer, of McGill, retained his title in the 220-yard low hurdle event; L. T. Horn, also of McGill, retained his high jump championship, while J. L. Davenport, of University of Toronto, retained the pole vault title which he had won for the past three years.

The McGill athletes placed in every event, while the Torontonians failed to score in three events: the 120-yard high hurdles, the shot put, and the 220-yard low hurdles. Varsity's best individual event performance was recorded in the discus throw, in which the Blue placed first and second, W. R. Finlayson winning with a heave of 106 feet, 11¼ inches; G. A. Peaker was second.

One of the most decisive victories of the day was scored by W. A. Gilbert, of Varsity, in the three-mile event. Gilbert ran a beautifully-gauged race, fininshing the distance in 15 minutes and 39 seconds, which compares favorably with the old mark of 15 minutes 12 3-5 second, established in 1926 by S. Trenouth, of Queen's.

Other Toronto victories were scored in the 100 yards dash, won by R. W. Finlayson, and in the 440-yards event, won by R. M. Mitchell. Mitchell captured first place by only a couple of inches from Hands, of McGill, who spurted in the stretch to come from fourth place.

Rugby is the big sports now with tentative plans being made for hockey and basketball. Locally, the hockey and basketball season promises to be the busiest in many seasons. There will be more teams in both sports and there will be something doing almost every night during the winter season. The prospects for hockey were never brighter with a surety that three leagues will be formed in the city not counting the church and school leagues.

Boxing has taken a big increase in popularity in the last twelve months and under capable guidance and good matchmaking can be made to pay. A rep ort of the Shamrock A.C. shows an increase in attendance from 58,000 last year to 104,000 this year. The gate receipts were considerably more than doubled. Referee-in-chief Cooper Smeaton has a new idea in regards to the refereeing of the N.H.L. games for this coming season. He plans to have referees located in the various cities represented in the circuit and this will avoid the long and frequent jumps which were necessary in past seasons as result of the officials for the most part being residents of Toronto or Montreal.

LOCATE REFEREES IN VARIOUS CITIES

N.H.L. Officials Plans To Avoid Long Jumps Necessary in Past Seasons.

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 20. —(Canadian Press).—The Montreal Gazette in its sporting columns yesterday says:

"Plans of referee-in-chief Cooper Smeaton, of the National hockey league, apparently are to have referees located in the various cities represented in the circuit and thus avoid the long and frequent jumps which were necessary in past seasons as a result of officials, for the most part, being residents of Montreal or Toronto. "In this connection two Montrealers are likely to be found this winter officiating in the majority of the games in New York. Redvers MacKenzie, golf professional at Marlborough here, has accepted a position for the winter months in New York. He has been added to the N.H.L. board of referees and probably will figure in many pro hockey contests at the Garden. The other Montrealer is Donnie Grant, who has been residing in New York for the past three years. Grant has already done a bit of whistle blowing for the pro hockey teams across the line. A former star with the M.A.A.A. senior amateur hockey team here, Grant should become a first-class official as he knows his hockey perfectly. MacKenzie has had experience with independent leagues and teams, which is the chief asset of a capable official."

BABE RUTH IN FAVOR OF SMITH

Says Democratic Candidate is Greatest Friend of American Sport.

HELPED BASEBALL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (Associated Press).—Bable Ruth came to bat again for Governor Alfred E. Smith last night—this time in a radio address over a nation-wide hook-up. It is because Governor Smith, the greatest friend of American sport in public life to-day, and because he has never forgotten his boyhood friends that the Yankee's home run king would like to see him elected.

"Governor Smith is the type of man who appeals not only to the baseball fan, but to all red-blooded lovers of American sport," he said. "When I was a little kid I admired the great Teddy Roosevelt just like I admire the great Al Smith to-day. I have been to a lot of prize fights, but I have never seen Governor Smith at a prize fight. In ten years in New York, I do not think I have ever seen him at a ball game, and yet he is the greatest friend of American sport in public life to-day.

"The thing that makes him so great is the very fact that he does not personally care for baseball or boxing, but is so broad and considerate of the other fellow's wishes and of the great good that all forms of athletics can do.

"Up in my old home town of Boston the Red Sox and the Braves, once great ball clubs, are now nearly starving to death because they cannot get the crowds and they cannot get the money to pay good salaries. Sunday baseball is on the ballot in Boston in November and they tell me Sunday baseball is going across in good old Massachusetts, just as Al Smith put it across in New York.

"I am for Governor Smith because he is a friend of sport, because he has a clean record and because he helped the ball players get large salaries, there is another reason.

"The other day I took a ride down to Oliver Street in New York City just to look at the little 'two by four' home that Governor Smith was born in. It reminded me of my own two by four home in Baltimore, and what a wonderful thing it is to think that whether you were raised by poor parents in Oliver Street, New York, or by poor people on the river front in Baltimore, that there is a chance for every boy to get to the top in America, whether he wants to be a president or a ball player.

"The greatest thing of all about Governor Smith is that he never forgot his love for Oliver Street. He has never left his home town or his home state or his old time friends on Oliver Street, but for 25 years has been their public servant. And here is the worst of it, Alfred E. Smith, who has done more for New York than all the ball players in captivity, does not get the salary of many big league ball players. While some men desert their old friends, their home town and their obligations to the public for great big salaries. Al Smith, four times Governor of New York, has given his life to the public."

Bowling
Alley Gossip
By Pin Boy

The Fall and Winter game is now in full swing with three alleys crowded every night with seekers for a little recreation and some good wholesome fun.

Five-pins at present are holding the centre of interest, although at the Water Street alleys several bowlers still prefer to push over ten.

K. OF C. ALLEYS

F. Pepe added eight more points to his already high total by taking every game and total pinnage from Kylie's gallants in last night's fracas with the tumbling ability of his followers especially the Cupoli brothers, who scored 654 and 536 in three games. J. J. Duffus' team are still occupying the cellar position in the Wednesday Night League as a result of the trimming administered by Grady and his alley bumpers, who collected eight points, which improved their position greatly.

The feature playing of the night was displayed by Kelbrick for the winners, whose card showed 240, 235 and 185 scores, which included high single and high three.

Primeau by dint of hard work saved his team from a shutout by McGarrel, who took six of the eight points assisted by the consistent bowling of McKennon, who chalked up 199, 179 and 217. Dundas had high single with 219 pins.

C.G.E. SHOP LEAGUE

Tool Room No. 2, in Group 6 of the Shop League, are apparently better bowlers than softball players, as they took two games from the Porcelain sexteete headed by Reg. Dyer.

Structural Steel, under the captaincy of Reg. Green, swamped the Industrial Control No. 1 team, in three games, which places this gang at the top of Group 6, as they duplicated last night's work the week before with Industrial Control No. 2.

Lawrence Heath's Braves took the small half of a three-game fixture with Tool Room No. 1, led by Jim King, who claims he's going after the Works' Championship with a vengeance.

Industrial Control No. 2 were unable to shake the jinx that has been trailing them and dropped three points to Tool Room No. 3, but wait until next week.

QUAKER OATS CO. SWEETEN FEEDS

of the flour and feed department.

Most of the visiting editors are Bachelors of Agricultural Science with degrees from the O.A.C. at Guelph or from MacDonald College, and because of their knowledge of the progress that is being made in the various branches of agriculture they were fully prepared to discuss the details of the Quaker Oats feeds and their ingredients.

"We have no secrets," said Mr. White. "We want you to see everything and to know all we know."

"We have a new conception of what the Quaker Oats Company is doing in this work," Mr. Porter remarked, "and it is too bad every farmer in the country could not see the quality of the ingredients that are used and their uniformity of mixture."

Feed in Modern Terms.

Some farmers might have been sceptical auditors to the conversation in Mr. Macdonald's office that ranged extensively over the subject of feed mixtures, their constituents and the special properties of them. Such terms as carbohydrates, protein, fats, nitrogen, sugar, iodized salt, cod liver oil—these were for the most part foreign to old-fashioned farming, but they are generally understood by the intelligent and progressive farmers of the new dispensation.

The particular value of molasses in the well-known feed Quaker Sugared Schumacher, which has an appetizing smack to the very sound of it, have already been indicated. Cod liver oil has been a household remedy for many years and a specific cure for rickets. Now it is used in Quaker Full-O-Pep and other poultry feeds. The visitors were also told about the quality of the bone meal, meat scraps and other feed ingredients.

Up in the heart of the feed mill possibly the most interesting operation in the plant was observed. Briefly, it may be described as a mechanical feed mixer. Reaching up from it to overhead bins are metal pipes almost numerous enough to suggest a big organ. It also incorporates a weigh scale. The employee operating this mixer had before him yesterday afternoon a formula for a 2,000-lb. batch or mixture of Sugared Schumacher; so many pounds of this ingredient and so many pounds of that. He simply pulled out the lever or stop in the pipe connecting with one bin, meanwhile watching the scale in front of him, and repeated this operation on other bins until he had filled out the formula or prescription.

This action was only preliminary to the important phase of mixing which is done mechanically, attaining a uniformity of the compound and a thoroughness of mixture which a farmer working with a shovel could not hope to accomplish.

A Dry Sugared Feed.

The outstanding feature of the Sugared Schumacher is that it is perfectly dry after the molasses has been added. Other feeds containing molasses have been made in this country, but they were sticky and objectionable. By the new Quaker process this fault has been avoided. The meal comes out dry, wholesome to smell, and with notable self-preserving quality. This was the first time the farm periodical editors saw the sugar operation. The new Quaker process has been used here only a month or more, and incidentally during the first month orders switched to the Sugared Schumacher to the extent of 82 percent. The company imports its molasses from Cuba, arriving here in 8,000-gallon tank cars, which lasts for eight to ten days. It is pumped from the basement level to the seventh floor, and is heated to 165 degrees before it is blended into the feed. The mixing operation, like so many of the mechanical processes in this amazing factory, has to be seen to be appreciated. It is beyond description.

Ingredients Displayed.

On that same floor named samples of the ingredients of the many Quaker feeds were displayed. Some of these ingredients, just by way of example were: Barley meal, oat meal, hominy, ground alfalfa, fish meal, cod liver meal, cod liver oil, bone meal, meat scraps, gluten meal and calcium carbonate (lime). The editors spent half an hour or more at this table exchanging opinions and information on the feed constituents.

One of the questions Mr. Macdonald asked was why the consumption of such feeds was twenty-five times greater in the United States than in Canada, even on the basis of equality of population. In reply it was stated that one factor was education, as in the United States, and the advantages had not yet been brought home to farmers.

Mr. White stated that the company did not hope to supplant the ordinary rations with the mixed feeds. They were intended chiefly to supplement the rations farmers are now using and which they produce themselves.

The tour of the factory with Mr. Edwards was a succession of mechanical marvels. Up in the long room that stretches its hundred yards or more atop the concrete elevators, into which the visitors gazed down to their fearsome depths, two long conveyer belts were rapidly carrying wheat that had been elevated from the cars on an outdoor siding and was being poured into the great concrete containers.

An Eerie Office.

Located at the top of these elevators is the highest office in Peterborough—surely in all Central Ontario—that of Mr. J. Mackin, who as the representative of the Federal Department of Trade and Commerce has charge of the huge 120,000-pound scales which weighs the cars of grain as they are unloaded.

But the internal efficiencies of the Quaker Oats factory deserve a special story. Thursday's experience was a revelation of a few of the results of applied science in the production of better hogs, sheep, dairy and beef cattle, horses, poultry, yes, even chinchilla rabbits. The Quaker Oats Company owns a model farm of 210 acres at Madison, Wis. It is under the supervision of the University of Wisconsin. On this farm are carried out the feeding experiments by which feeds are subjected to prolonged tests before they are offered to the public. Experts are in charge of departments such as poultry, live stock and so on.

All these details comprise the gigantic industrial and research organization whose feed by-products are especially designed to assist agriculturists, dairy and stock men, poultry breeders and others to accomplish the highest results from their work and investment by the use of these mixed feeds as an adjunct to their ordinary, every-day rations.

And incidentally there are such hints, established as scientific facts, that sugar, for example, adds relish not only to Quaker Oats for humans but also to the feed of livestock that also prefer and thrive in clean quarters.

The swine of Epicurus knew the standard groceries of their day.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, barring the news that the new permits is going to be in book form, they ain't a thing stirring in sporting circles this week. Sir Hank Drayton's publication is likely to be among the best sellers between now and Christmas.

However, the weekly epistle to the customers gives one the chance to thank Carl Browne's Collegians for a enjoyable exhibition of football here last Sat. The boys from Confederation Square tossed the Oshawans for a total loss, and doing this they played some smart, fast football that was nice to look at. The boys up in front clipped wide holes in the Oshawa line, and the ball-carriers hit the openings for plenty of gains during the day. Oshawa had plenty of beef, but looked muscle-bound both above and below the shoulders and they only threatened a couple times. The local students was good value, as our best soccer experts put it, for their 23 to 0 score.

Oh, yes, Mac, I promised to say something about hockey this week. Sorry to disappoint the customers, but the truth is they ain't been nothing doing yet. Mister Sammy Lowe, the genial mgr. of the Oshawa intermediates, was here the other day and admitted Oshawa would have a pretty fair team. All last year's talent is there yet and the reinforcements include Mister Crossett, the human tank from Port Hope, and Mister Jack Bond, who has often played baseball and hockey against the Petes, the first for Deloro and the 2nd with Osgoode Hall and other Toronto teams. Mister Bond is a fast skating forward and will help the Oshawa line, while, according to all the dope, this Mister Crossett is a bear cat, what I mean. Anyway Mister Lowe expects his athaletes to form a group with Peterborough, Port Hope and Belleville, and if that comes off Peterborough hockey bugs should oughta see plenty action here this winter. Local magnates claim they is talent here for a real fighting intermediate team, and they is even talk of a coach to learn the boys the inside stuff that makes a winning team outa good material.

The robust form of Mister Mickey Murray was seen on our streets this week. Mister Murray is sojourning under the family roof for a short time before he migrates to Providence, R. I., where he will again perform in the cash and carry loop down that way. From him it is learned that our old friend, Mister Jake Solomon, is doing well in Philadelphia, Pa. Mister Solomon is the proud possessor of a automobile that is a real boat and threatens to steer it over in this direction some of these days.

A report from Belleville says the Kingston Ponies will be back in the Central ball loop next season. If the Central magnates ever throw the doors open to them babies again they deserve to have the league bust right in their faces. The Ponies forfeited their rights when they dropped outa the picture before the season finished, and they should be counted out from now on. With Deloro, Belleville, Oshawa and the Petes to operate a 5th team ain't a necessity but a nuisance.

Well, Mac, when they's nothing to say, why say it?

So here's the well-known signature:

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

NEW LEAF GOALIE GIANT IN NETS

Lorne Chabot, Who Comes To Toronto, Starred in Amateur Ranks.

TORONTO, Oct. 20.— Hockey fans were discussing yesterday the deal by which two well known professional hockey goalers will exchange uniforms. Lorne Chabot of New York Rangers, comes to the Maple Leafs in a trade for John Ross Roach who has been with the Toronto club ever since he broke into pro hockey about eight years ago.

The uniforms will hardly fit as Chabot is a giant and Roach is a little fellow.

Both players are high class men in their positions and the change may work out to the advantage of both. The Toronto club received $10,000 in cash in the deal.

The Leafs are out to strengthen their team to the utmost and Manager Connie Smythe stated yesterday that Goalkeeper Kearney of the Port William team may also be signed by the Toronto club. Kearney played against the Varsity Grads in the Vancouver series for the Allan Cup, and he made a distinct impression on the Toronto players. The local N.H.L. club has been negotiating with him for some time and he is expected to leave Port William and arrive to-day for a conference in connection with signing a contract.

The Rangers think they have got the prize package in Roach, whom they describe as "the greatest goal tender in professional hockey." Chabot has been with the Rangers two years and before that was with the Port Arthur club when they beat Varsity for the Allan Cup two years in succession, due to his good work in goal.

In two years in the N.H.L. Chabot has twenty-three shut-outs to his credit, twelve in his first season and eleven last year, while in the same length of time, Roach had but eight. Chabot is a bigger, heavier man than Roach, and is not as old.

AT THE CAPITOL.

Next Week is "Take-A-Chance-Week" at the Capitol. Everything a Secret, Everything a Surprise—Stage Treats—Yes! It's Some Show.

Next week the Capitol will present their first "Take-A-Chance-Week" by this is meant, nothing on the program is announced in advance. Everything is a secret. It will be a great show, Manager Stewart promises that. A little bird has whispered that there will be stage treats and musical surprises. This same little bird has also whispered the advise, to come on Monday as when the news spreads about the show on Tuesday, the Capitol will not be large enough to hold the crowds. There will be a complete change of program on Thursday. Matinee every day.

AT THE GRAND.

"WHY WORRY?"

Arriving appropriately enough to crown a Produced-in-Canada week with a Produced-in-Canada production, the Dumbells scored a triumph at the Grand last night in "Why Worry?" Captain Plunkett's tenth annual revue. Neither a thunderstorm nor the pull of other attractions could keep Dumbell admirers away, and the new revue was greeted by a capacity audience, which enjoyed every number.

The new feature this season is the introduction of a chorus of pretty girls, an innovation that demonstrated Capt. Plunkett's well-developed showmanship. The girls are young, lively and well-trained, running through a snappy dance routine in clever style, and not one of them is a bit difficult to look at. Their presence in the revue undoubtedly strengthens the show.

Otherwise, "Why Worry?" follows along the usual Plunkett lines, with splendid effect. The production, handsomely staged, travels at top speed, and the cast of well-established favorites are at the top of their form. Notably is this true of Fred Emney, whose comedy is as infectiously funny as ever, and who keeps the audience convulsed every minute he is in sight. Emney is seen in a number of funny sketches, as a baseball rookie, a novice barber and other amusing characterizations, and even wanders out into the audience on one occasion. "Red" Newman makes his usual hit in a military skit, as well as in his song numbers, and Scotty Morrison, given more work to do in this production, makes good in his fun-making. Charlie Leeves is of great assistance in the sketches. He is a very effective "straight."

Al. Plunkett has a wealth of new songs, "She's a Great Girl" and "You're Wonderful" among the best of them, and he puts them over in his usual engaging manner. Other vocalists who score heavily are Harry Binns, the tenor, whose singing of "Laugh, Clown, Laugh," is a high light of the performance, and Cameron Geddes, whose deep bass voice is displayed to great advantage in "Nut Brown Ale" and "Old Man River." Jessie Butt appears most successfully in several duets with Mr. Burns

The half-hour which opens the second part of the programme, entitled "A Night in the Barracks Room," is perhaps the outstanding feature of "Why Worry?" The Plunkett brothers are all their best here; Howard Fogg plays the violin delightfully, Lou Crerar and Fred Emney stop the show with their clever work at the piano, and Harry Binns and Cameron Geddes sing with great success, and the Dumbells quartette supply a rousing finale.

There is plenty of clever dancing. The chorus does some of it, a snappy Tiller number and a study in Black and White, a novelty offering, being outstanding. Aileen Parker scores in solo dancing, and in a number with Morley Plunkett. Dorothy Stock and Teresa Corrigan contribute some clever tap dancing, and Scotty Morrison and Red Newman combine in an eccentric dance that makes a real hit.

"Why Worry?" from every angle, must be listed as one of the greatest of Dumbell successes. It is lively, varied, fast-moving and clever, and last night's audience apparently enjoyed every feature of it.

The Dumbells are the attraction at the Grand again to-night, and a sell-out is a certainty, in view of the success of last night's performance.

Correct Answer Unknown

To guarantee to every one taking part in this contest that no one holds the correct answer to the puzzle, several figures were erased after the original drawing was made and before the puzzle form was printed. These figures were removed by Messrs. Ferry J. Giffen, Toronto Star Weekly; William Houston, Regina Leader-Post, and T. B. Godfrey, chartered accountant, who kindly consented to act as judges of the contest. The figures were removed from the chart at different times, and the judges hold the total of the numbers which they erased. No one knows what numbers were erased. Notes of the missing numbers were made and are now under lock and seal. When the contest is over, the numbers erased from the puzzle chart will be added together and subtracted from the original total. The contest department knew the correct answer before the figures were taken out, but now nobody knows the correct answer. The answer now will be the sum total of the figures appearing in the chart above.

There are no tricks to this contest. It is merely a matter of skill in finding all the numbers shown and then adding correctly. We wish it clearly understood that there are no hidden figures. Every number can be plainly seen. The degree of your care and skill will determine the prize which you will win.

The ONLY requirements for entry to contest are those listed here. You will note their extreme simplicity, and a careful reading now will avoid any possible confusion later.

Secure Correct or Nearest Correct Total of Numbers Above to Win La Salle Car

The problem is to add together all of the numbers shown above. Each figure is clearly indicated, and they run from two to nine; the sixes have a curved stem; the nines a straight stem; all are single numbers, there are no combinations; add them as if each figure stood one above the other in a single column. Every figure in the picture is complete. If in doubt about any of the Figures, send in the chart with a figure marked, to the contest department, who will gladly tell you what it is.

This new 1929 model 5-passenger McLaughlin-Buick Sedan is first prize if the winning contestant forwarded his solution under the conditions noted in Prize List found in this Advert.

Extra Bonus Prize of $350

Twenty times the subscription remittance will be paid to the candidate sending in the first correct or nearest correct answer to the puzzle, received in Goblin Contest Office between the dates of October 15th and November 3rd, 1928. Bonus not to exceed $200.00.

Ten times the subscription remittance will be given the second nearest solution by this date. Bonus not to exceed $100.00.

Five times the subscription remittance will be paid the third nearest solution by this date. Bonus not to exceed $50.00.

The contestant winning a Special Bonus Prize will not be barred from winning one of the regular prizes. Special Bonus Prize winners will be announced along with the regular winners.

Goblin is the most strikingly original publication in Canada. Its humor is native and spontaneous. The drawings interpret with kindly wit and whimsey, the more amusing episodes of our daily life. It is thoroughly Canadian in its entire viewpoint. It is wide-awake in its outlook, penetrating, yet always fair in its criticisms, and the most entertaining and amusing publication in the Dominion. Goblin reflects in humorous perspective the life and thought of this country, as seen through the vigorous pens and brushes of many gifted Canadians.

Through this Great Contest you will secure the most brilliant of Canadian publications at the regular subscription price, and at the same time, if you are accurate, win one of the major prizes absolutely without cost.

In this, Goblin's Fourth Great Puzzle Contest, the value of the awards has been increased to over $10,000.00; this is the greatest Prize List ever offered in Canada. In a few weeks the division of these prizes will be made. Someone will win this luxurious, magnificently appointed La Salle Car. Will it be you? Your decision NOW will determine whether you will be that fortunate person! The first prize represents a modest fortune in itself. Someone will win it. You alone must decide whether you will be that person!

ASPIRIN

The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know that there is only one genuine Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. If the name Bayer appears, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it is not! Headaches are dispelled by Aspirin. So are colds, and the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Aspirin—at any drugstore—with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) indicating Bayer Manufacture. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assure the public against imitations, the Tablets will be stamped with their "Bayer Cross" trademark.

For the Preparation of

The Perfect Anti-Freeze

Never has there been an anti-freeze that has met with such overwhelming success as Eveready Prestone. The enormous demand last year made it impossible to supply everyone. This season every motorist can protect his car with the perfect anti-freeze. Do it now! Eveready Prestone lasts indefinitely and your car needs its protection right now as cold weather begins.

Driving without anti-freeze or depending on an anti-freeze that boils off or loses strength while in service, exposes your car to the costly hazard of freeze-up—a ruined radiator, cracked castings, a broken pump. Why take such a chance when one supply of the perfect anti-freeze, Eveready Prestone, will mean safety and peace-of-mind all winter? And NO ODOR inside the car or outside. Odorless as water in summer time!

Nickel Loses Seven Points After Touching New High

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—(Canadian Press).—After a strong opening International Nickel suffered a lapse on the Toronto Stock Exchange today and closed the week with a drop of seven points from yesterday's close at 179½. Sales totalled nearly 14,000 shares and the price touched 190¼ shortly after the opening, the highest yet for the Toronto exchange. Mond Nickel also opened strong and reacted with International to lower levels at the close. The rest of the list was firm, with a good volume of trading. British American Oil provided the active trading on the unlisted section and was down ¼ at 47½. Hiram Walkers, with a heavy turnover, was up 2¾ at 74.

Wheat Prices Decline Following Liverpool

CHICAGO, Oct. 20 (Canadian Press).—Much lower wheat quotations to-day at Liverpool than were looked for led to an early downturn in wheat prices here. The Liverpool weakness was ascribed to predictions of large world shipments. Opening ¾ to one cent off, Chicago wheat later showed additional declines. Corn, oats, and provisions, as well as wheat, all underwent a downturn with corn starting ¼ to one cent lower, and subsequently continuing to sag.

Opening prices were: Wheat, December 114, March 118½. Corn, December 81⅝, March 83⅛. Oats, December 43½, March 44.

News From the Mines

Through

Solloway, Mills & Company

GRANADA

Mining operations have been delayed at Granada for six days due to a broken pinion in the hoist. The present depth of the shaft is 600 feet and it is to be deepened to the 625 foot horizon, where a level is to be established and considerable lateral work done before deepening the shaft further.

NEWBEC

Newbec's new plant is now installed on the property and ready for turning over. The new hole being drilled on Newbec is not expected to be in the favorable ore zone before the 30th of the month.

TOUGH-OAKES-BURNSIDE

We have been advised that Tough-Oakes-Burnside, both mine and mill, will be closed down very shortly. Trading in Tough-Oakes was unduly heavy some two weeks ago, when the stock registered a sharp decline, dripping over 15 points in one day. It is felt that those in the know have already lightened their commitments in this stock.

Mining Briefs

A Special Service to The Examiner

The shaft at the Bathurst is now reported to be down about 230 feet, with a station established at the 250-foot level. Lateral operations at this horizon are said to have been successful in cutting a 5-foot width of $13.05 vein material.

West Shining Tree advices are to the effect that the vein recently encountered in the east drift at the 100-foot level of the Buckingham is shaping up nicely. This was five feet wide and showed considerable free gold.

Windfall-Rouyn and Grover Daley are understood to have thrown up their joint option on the silver-lead-copper property in Scadding Township, northwest of Sudbury, where they have been prospecting.

It is stated that developments have taken an interesting turn in South Lorrain as a consequence of the discovery of silver in the work at 1,425 feet in depth. The amount of silver so far encountered at this horizon has been comparatively small, but the fact that minearilzation has been found at this early stage of exploration is regarded as encouraging. The work is being done under an arrangement with Mining Corporation in which operations are carried through from the deep winze in adjoining property of Mining Corp.

Keeley is another company which has a particularly ambitious program at this lower level, and will carry out at least half a mile of work in search of silver at or in the vicinity of the lower side of the diabase sill.

The new find at Pawnee is reported as widening and enriching. This follows their announcement to cease work on what was then considered a new find some distance to the north. It is hoped that Pawnee will not halt on these discoveries.

The shaft at the Salmo Consolidated, operating in British Columbia, is now down 100 feet, and the adit-tunnel at the head of the shaft is now in 150 feet, from which a crosscut has been driven for 30 feet. Crosscuts have also been driven for from 30 to 40 feet from stations established in the shaft. High values have been obtained during this work, officials state.

Report Hollinger Have Hit High-Grade.

Reports coming through from Porcupine say Hollinger recently cut 120 feet of ore averaging $20 in gold to the ton, at their Schumacher property. This ore is supposed to have been reached by a crosscut from the Schumacher shaft, and Hollinger officials are understood to be much encouraged by this latest discovery. So far they have not been able to tell whether the 120 feet as the width or length of the ore body, but work is proceeding to prove this.

Hollinger has been engaged for some time in sinking a shaft on the Schumacher property to an immediate objective of approximate 4,000 feet. Several good veins were encountered on the upper level in sinking, especially on the 600 foot level, where a real pocket of tellurides was found. Tellurides are supposed to indicate ore deposition. If the new discovery of $20 ore turns out to be an ore body of any important size, it would rank as one of the highest grades in the Hollinger mine.

Empire Interests Control International Nickel Co

NEW YORK, Saturday, Oct. 20.—Canadian and English interests, according to the New York World today, have acquired control of the International Nickel Company, which will be merged with the Mond Nickel Company, thereby bringing about a combination controlling 90 per cent. of the world's nickel, which is one of the most basic metals in war time.

Although brokers believe control of nickel may now rest in Wall Street, bankers thoroughly familiar with the company insist control now lies in Canada and London. Hereafter it is said a majority of nickel directors will be Canadians. This would seem to indicate that the consolidated company will have a Canadian charter so as to avoid being amenable to the Sherman Anti-trust Act as the combination of International Nickel and Mond creates a world monopoly.

The merger plan is said to provide for the creation of a holding company which will acquire both of the existing companies through an exchange of stock.

Reported Merger Terms.

Merger terms, according to financial circles, are said to include a cash payment of $7,500,000 to the Mond Company, J P. Bickell, sole Canadian director of Mond, who attended the meeting of Mond, and nickel officials with Lord Melchett at the latter company's office at No. 67 Wall Street to-day, could not be reached to-night to verify such terms were offered to the Canadian interests.

In addition to the cash payment, preferred stockholders of the Mond company, it is understood, will receive $8,750,000 par value of cumulative 7% preferred stock in exchange for the various outstanding issues of Mond preferred. For the common stock the Mond shareholders will receive common stock of the holding company share for share.

The International Nickel Company's stockholders will receive preferred stock on a share-for-share basis, it is expected, while the outstanding common will be exchanged for common stock of the holding company in the ratio of 4¼ shares of new stock for one share of old Nickel common.

London Market Becomes Easier

LONDON, Oct. 20.—(Canadian Press Cable).—An easier tendency was apparent towards the end of the week on the London stock exchange in those industrial stocks that have been popular of late. Some profit-taking set in, though realizations probably did not create any great impression. British funds remained firm but the enquiry for these at present is slack and almost the only feature of interest in the foreign bond market is an improvement in Turkish bonds.

In outstanding industrials the feature was the rise in Mond Nickel, which despite doubt cast upon reports of fusion with the International Nickely Company, made a creditable spurt. Chemaphone shares were easier in nearly every direction, the market in this particular being governed almost entirely by New York influences.

It is expected that next week there will be an issue of $5,000,000 in six per cent. debentures of Baldwins the noted steel and iron concern. The price at issue will be 96½, redeemable at 102.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR

Jesus said, Who is my mother and who are my brethren He stretched forth his hand towards his disciples, and said, behold my mother and brethren; for whosoever shall do the will of my Father in heaven, he is my brother, sister, or mother.

A disciple or learner of Jesus is not above his teacher; it is enough for the disciple to be as his teacher. The disciple of Jesus can, like his Master, speak with authority.

The importance of recognizing the work of the Holy Spirit is made clear in John 6, 44-45.

We can see clearly without the agency of the same there is no opportunity in this age or the age to come to obtain eternal life.

The Holy Spirit and the "Word that was made flesh" agree. When we hearken to and obey the Holy Spirit we are taking heed to and obeying Jesus.

Those who walk in obedience to the Holy Spirit have fellowship one with another, and the blood of the Lord Jesus cleanseth them from all sin. —M. T. BUTCHER.

Federal General Election in 1930?

RECORD OF KING GOVERNMENT TO BE ISSUE IN FEDERAL CONTEST IS FORECAST IN OTTAWA CIRCLES

Provincial Rights As Issue in 1929 Scouted By Well-Informed Persons.

1930 CUSTOMARY TIME.

Government Will Have Served Four Years and Can Choose Issue Itself.

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Oct. 22.—A general election early in 1930 with the record of the King government as the issue is the forecast in ministerial circles at Ottawa, and the report that there will be an election next year with provincial rights as the cause of the war are dismissed as far-fetched.

The government has been through two sessions of Parliament, and the 1929 session will be the third. Parliament is elected for five years and strong governments usually go to electorate after the fourth session, as this leaves the choice of fighting ground in their hands. To go five terms means that in the fifth session some minor issue may crop up and be seized on by the Opposition as an election issue.

The present government claims to be in a strong position. There is no reason, Liberals declare, why it should resign and there is no issue looming up on which it is likely to be defeated in the House. The Provincial rights question, which in some Conservative quarters is considered as ideal fighting ground from their standpoint, has been delegated to the courts. By the end of the next session Privy Council decisions will probably be available in the Alberta school question. It would be unusual for an election to be fought on the question as to whether the Privy Council was right or not, especially as the present opponents of the government have in the past opposed the abolition of the appeal to the Privy Council.

Liberals declare that the opposition would hardly be likely to stultify themselves in an election by fighting a decision of the Council.

Rumors Of Revolt In Ukraine Revived

KISHINEV, Rumania, Oct. 22.—The rumor of a revolt by Ukrainian peasants against the Bolshevist authorities is again current here.

The present version is that armed bands seized the municipal buildings in the Ukranian towns of Zaterki and Orte and troops were sent against them. The soldiers were driven off and according to one rumor, "hundreds" were killed or wounded in the engagement.

Booths Fall Rapidly; Armouries Cheerless

The Armouries was a bedlam of noise this morning. There was the din of hammers in full swing, the rip, zipp of saws and the rattle of falling lumber. The beautiful booths that had charmed the visitors to the Kiwanis Made-in-Canada Fair were being torn down and carried away. The whole scene was one of swift destruction. Booths standing dismantled of their bright trappings, only wooden skeletons of their former brightness and cheer, cast a gloomy chill on the inactive spectator. Nothing is so dismal as the deserted ball-room after the dance. But the workmen went cheerily with their job with their only thought, one of speed. So the last chapter in the great 1928 Made-in-Canada Fair closed.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES HELD BY LOCAL UNITED CHURCHES

Speaker Tells of Progress Made in West By Pooling of Church Resources.

Rev. J. H. Dudgeon, the Pastor, Preaches at St. James' Church.

MUSIC A FEATURE.

Galt Maple Leaf Quartette Sings Many Favorite Sacred Selections.

Rev. Dr. R. J. Wilson preached the anniversary services held in George Street Church yesterday. In the evening Dr. Wilson preached an inspiring sermon on the co-ordination of forces now existent through Church Union and the resulting good work throughout Canada.

Choosing his text from Paul's Epistle to the Romans, chapter 15, verse 1, "We then who are strong enough to bear the infirmities of the weak and not to please ourselves." Applying his text to the great United Church the speaker said that the text explained why there was a United Church, which has not only a dynamic but a glorious destiny. Speaking from his experience and outlook gained in six years' work and forty-two trips across Canada he brought a message from the Third General Council. "It has as big and as great an outlook as the First and is making a great effort to bear the infirmities of the weak."

The speaker gave graphic examples showing how the members of the old churches had lost their identity in the great work of the new United Church. "If you want to find criticisms you cain find them, but if you cisms you can find them, but if you the things of earth slip away as a rat," he said.

Resources Pooled.

Illustrations of what has happened in the west as a result of the pooling of forces and money were given. The gospel is peached in one thousand more places where there was formerly no church, Protestant, Roman Catholic or Jewish. The same work is now being carried on in some of the newer parts of the west as was done by the circuit riders in this part of Canada 100 years ago. The speaker said that over half of Can-

Rev. J. H. Dudgeon, the pastor of St. James' United Church held its anniversary services, with the Pastor, the Rev. J. H. Dudgeon, in charge of both morning and evening sessions. The special feature of the services was the singing of the Galt Maple Leaf Quartette, who delighted the congregation with various sacred number.

In the morning, Mr. Dudgeon took for his text the 10th verse of the 41st chapter of Isaiah, "Fear thou not, for I am with three; be not dismayed, for I am thy God; I will strengthen thee; yea, I will help three; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness."

Three main points taken from the text formed the basis of the sermon; first, Divine Presence; second, Divine Possession, and third, Divine Promise.

"We feel the Divine presence chiefly through prayer, and in time of suffering. Some people do not believe that God answers prayer, but we have proved it here in St. James'," he said.

"What would happen if God should cease to answer prayer for forty-eight hours? What a dilemma the world would be in!" he continued, telling several instances of answered prayer.

"God is especially near to those in trouble; if the heart is crushed, God is not far away. We must try to get away from the idea of God helping us, and let God use us to answer prayer.

The answer to prayer is possession by God,—'I am thy God'. The God who is sufficient for every problem, for every trial, every day and every hour. He is able to do exceeding abundant—more than I can ask or think. There is no condition or place in life but that He is there. 'From everlasting to everlasting, Thou are God.'

Diamond "Rush" In Pennsylvania

FRANKLIN, Pa., Oct. 22 (Canadian Press).—A postal inspector to-day was collecting the diamonds which disappeared in a "rush" on the burned remains of an air mail plane in which an Anadona air transport pilot fell to his death near Polk, Pa. The diamonds were part of the mail cargo in the plane.

The plane, piloted by William G. Hopson, crashed and burned some time Thursday night. Wesley L. Smith, superintendent of mails, and the Air Transport Company salvaged part of the mail and what he thought was all of the diamonds, and then announced that the plane had been abandoned.

Souvenir hunters found a few diamonds in the wreckage and the rush was on. One man scooped up earth near the plane and took it home and sifted to find four diamonds. Some skeptics sold their finds for $2 to $3, only to find they were worth $85 or more.

Douglas Dent Falls Fatally Injured by His Brother's Gun

Accident Attends Hunt When Victim Steps From Cover at Same Time as Rabbit—Shot Strikes Right Side and Enters Lung.

BLOOD TRANSFUSIONS GIVEN BY BROTHER IN ST. MICHAEL'S HOSPITAL, TORONTO

Vacation Party at Home of Councillor Dent of Clarkes Township Thrown Into Mourning—Lad Lived Until Sunday Morning.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

PONTYPOOL, October 22.—While hunting rabbits on his father's farm, five miles south of here, on Saturday, Douglas Dent, 16, was accidentally shot by his brother Gordon, and died as a result yesterday morning.

Gordon Dent, a fireman in the Toronto Fire Department, had come with his friend to spend a vacation at the home of his father, Lionel Dent, a councillor of Clarke Township, and formerly a sergeant of police in Toronto. With a companion, the three young men went out on Saturday to shoot rabbits. Douglas, it is said, stepped from cover of a bush just at the same instant as a rabbit, and when Gordon fired a charge from his shotgun at the rabbit, his brother was struck, the shot penetrating his lung and right side.

Rushed to St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, the injured boy showed signs of recovery, and every hope was held until early yesterday morning. A transfusion of blood was given by his brother, Gordon, at eleven o'clock on Saturday night, but at four o'clock yesterday morning the boy expired.

ORRIE HERRON WINNER OF WATCH IN SECKETARY HAWKINS CONTEST

Leads Big Field of Competitors With 375 New Members.

GORDON CLARKE NEXT.

Prize Donated By V. J. Tully For Made in Canada Week.

The wrist watch donated by V. J. Tully Charlotte street jeweller, for the largest number of new members obtained for the Seckatary Hawkins Club during Produced-in-Canada Exhibition week was won by Orrie Herron, 575 Stewart street, with 375 names. Second and third prizes, Seckatary Hawkins adventure books, were won by Gordon Clarke, 269 Thomas street with 225 names, and Gertrude Stabler, 623 George street, with 219 names. The fourth in order was Margaret Loucks, 480 Donegal street, with 214 names, and because she brought her total to within so few of the third prize winner, an adventure book has been sent to her also.

The contest added a total of 2,331 names to the roll of the Seckatary Hawkins Club and all Club members, as well as the Seckatary and The Examiner, will be very grateful to Mr. Tully for his splendid idea and gift.

On of the rules of the contest was that the forms bearing the names must be handed in at the Produced-in-Canada Exhibition, and this doubtless prevented there being a larger entry from the country. Three district members, however, prepared their lists of names, and two fo them brought the lists to the Fair. The third, unable to come, sent the list and a letter explaining that he knew he was not eligible for the prize but wished his friends to become members just the same.

The totals printed here may not be exactly the numbers of names sent in, as there was some duplication. Several members, for instance, sent in the same name; some sent in names of boys and girls who are already members. These were, of course, deducted.

The Totals

The following is a list of those who entered the contest, and the total number of names sent in by each:—

Orrie Herron, 575 Stewart street, 375 names; Gordon Clarke, 269 Thomas street, 225 names; Gertrude Stabler, 623 George street, 219 names; Margaret Loucks, 480 Donegal street, 214 names; Margaret Weir 215 Dublin street, 105 names; Isabel Cowan, 292 London street, 103 names; Alfreida Logan, Box 8, Havelock, 87 names; Eva Smith, 617 Aylmer street, 86 names; Billy Ellis, 482 Mark street, 74 names; Gerard Fontaine, 492 McDonnel street, 61 names; Wesley Phillips, Front street, Campbellford, 60 names; Pauline Huppe, 372 Downie street, 53 names; Alma Thompson, Hartley avenue, 50 names; Morris Wearing, 75 Benson avenue, 44 names; Pearl Armstrong, 372½ Water street, 44 names; Doris Ferguson, 126 Lansdowne street, 35 names; Mary Terrace, 105 Auburn street, 35 names; Audrey Emery, Lakefield, Ontario, 32 nams; Arthur Barns, 107 Auburn street, 29 names; Florence Lemmings 64 Auburn street, 25 names; Donald White, 515 Bonaccord street, 25 names; Adelle Morrow, 13 Russel street w., Lindsay, 25 names; Edith Burnham, 269 McDonnel street, 25 names; Wilfred Conners, 478 Mark street, 25 names; Mary Marrocco, 483 Elm street, 25 names; Ruth Pogue, 369 Edinburgh street, 23 names; Alvin King, 210 Antrim street, 20 names; Beatrice Kidd, R. SHOOTS PIGS; MUST PAY $60

Harold Elliott of Asphodel Says Neighbor's Swine Damaged His Crops.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED.

Taking the law in his own hands and shooting two pigs which were damaging his crop resulted in a country police court action this morning when Harold Elliott of the Township of Asphodel appeared before Justices of the Peace S. R. Armstrong and Frank Adams. A plea of guilty was entered by the defendant's counsel, J. A. O'Brien, and Mr. Elliott was let go on suspended sentence, provided that he pay $60 to the owners of the pigs and the costs of the action.

Provincial Constable Harry Thompson investigated the case in the township of Asphodel last week and found that two pigs, owned by Alfred Bongard, and the other by Wesley Chamberlain, both neighbors of Elliott, had been missing for some time. He instigated a search and found one of the pigs in the bottom of the well on Elliott's farm. The defendant claimed through his solicitor that the pigs had damaged his crop and he had asked the owners to keep their pigs at home but they did not so one day he took the law in his own hands and shot the animals.

18,737 PERSONS ATTENDED FAIR

Mrs. M. R. Harrison Wins Clock Donated By Belleghem's For Closest Guess.

The lucky winner in the ballot contest of guessing the total number in attendance at the Made-in-Canada Fair was Mrs. M. R. Harrison, 545 Bethunte street. The right number was 18,737 and Mrs. Harrison's guess was 18,736. The beautiful mantel clock presented by D. Belleghem and Sons was delivered to the winner this afternoon.

The ballots were checked up by John I. Allen and John Gillespie, who had charge of the door at the Armouries. The numbers on the ballots ranged from the quess of 8 to that of 587,000,000. When Mr. Gillespie received the ballot marked 8, he said, "The marker of this ballot thought we lived in a village." When Mr. Allen came across the ballot marked 587,000,000, he remarked, "The person who marked this ballot must have thought we lived in China."

SMITH STARTS DRIVE IN EAST; CONFIDENT HE WILL WIN WEST

Will Spend Last Ten Days of Campaign in Five States.

VERY OPTIMISTIC

Expects To Win in South—Says Minorities Are Making All Noise.

ALBANY, N.Y., Oct. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Confident that he has lined up under his banner all of the states touched in his 3,600 mile tour just ended, Governor Smith now is pinning his hopes on the five strategic Atlantic seaboard states with total electoral vote of 123, or ten less than half the number needed to place him in the White House.

Starting on Wednesday with a speech at Boston, the Democratic Presidencial nominee will carry his fight to Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and New York, making his final ten days of campaigning before the election a whirlwind affair closely paralleling his past Gubernatorial battle finishes.

Pressed for further comment on the results of his trip through the south, border states and mid-west, and his prospects in other states the Governor said his optimism also embraced Virginia, Alabama, Texas, Florida, Missouri, Indianna and Illinois. Referring to anti-Smith sentiment in some of southern states, the nominee said all that were heard from in those states "are the noisy minorities."

"They are loud, but not numerically strong" he added.

To Number 12 of Douro and Dummer, under Everett Sloan, went the honors in the rural school parade and exercises at the Made-In-Canada Exhibition, held Saturday afternoon. Ten schools entered the parade, which formed up on the market square and then paraded north on George street to Confederation Square, where they went through various drills and physical exercises. Practically every school was a winner in some part of the exercises, but it was only because the Warsaw school carried out everything with a little more precision and exactness that they were placed in the honorable position.

Number 11 Cavan, or Millbrook, school along with Number 10 of East Emily were tied for second position. Millbrook school, under its teacher, Bruce Dawson, gave probably the best physical exercise demonstration of the

WOMAN IS NOT MEANT TO BE CLINGING VINE, SAYS SPEAKER

Created as Helpmate for Man, With Her Own Fields of Service.

OUTLOOK BROADER.

Mrs. C. Macoun of Campbellford And Mrs. J. F. Allan Give Addresses.

"Woman was not created to be a toy or a clinging vine, but to be a helpmate for man" said Mrs. Macoun of Campbellford, speaking in the Women's Section of the Produced-in-Canoda Fair, on Saturday afternoon, in one of the concluding addresses of the series devoted to women throughout the past week, in connection with the Kiwanis Club's Fair. There were no addresses on Saturday evening.

Basing her fluently-worded discourse on the subect of "Women's Responsibilities," Mrs. Macoun, who is Provincial Secretary of the Women's Institute, adjured her hearers to avail themselves of the opportunities for service awaiting them in many fields of endeavor. She said that the women of to-day have a broader outlook than their forbears and with this broader outlook they have additional responsibilities.

Most Interested in Home

"The woman is the person who is most interested in the home, the place where we can protect those we love. When she becomes a creature of man, incapable of exercising her will power and other faculties, then we find that the nation suffers. If woman does not avail herself of the manifold opportunities awaiting her, they will in time be denied her, just as the disuse of any faculty of the body means its gradual disintegration. The great nations of olden times fell into ruins because their people failed to learn the secret of remaining fit and putting forth their best efforts, along mental and moral as well as physical lines. The downfall of the great German Empire was predicted long ago by Queen Victoria when she returned from a visit to that country to write down in her diary her impressions of the warlike spirit of its people. She had seen the little boy who was to be Kaiser kneel at prayer and ask that Germany be made a great warring nation and she knew that the ideals of German women centred about the rearing of men children to be warriors for their land. It has been truly said that 'no empire can rise any higher than the homes from which its people come.'

Women Have Always Voted

"When the Canadian Parliament gave votes to women, I said that it had only given her a second vote," went on Mrs. Macoun. "Since the days when Eve controlled Adam's actions in the Garden of Eden, women have always had a vote, although it was a silent one.

"Women can bring to politics a saner, clearer outlook than men, because they are uncontrolled by partizanship or party affiliations.

"The moral standards of the nation lie in the hands of its women.

MRS. MACDONALD HAS HOPE LEFT

LEFT MESSAGES.

LONDON, October 22 (Associated Press).—"Never give up hope," was the parting message which Commander H. C. MacDonald gave to his wife before he embarked on his venture of flying the Atlantic from Newfoundland to Ireland in a moth plane. Although experts and the public have relinquished virtually every thought of seeing the aviator again, Mrs. MacDonald clings to the advice left by her husband.

The existence of the message was revealed in an article by Mrs. MacDonald, written for the London Sunday Express. She said it was contained in a letter which the commander left with her before he sailed for Canada and which he told her not to open until two days after his flight began. Much of this letter, she said, was too intimately sacred for publication, but she quoted the following:

"I know that you are against the flight. I know that people will say that I am a suicidal fool. But I do not think so.

"I have enough petrol, and if I do go under it will be through engine trouble. The machine is a good one, and you know I have had considerable experience in navigation.

"After all they called Lindbergs 'The Flying Fool.' If an American could do it, an Englishman can do it.

"I know you will look after Ian (the small son of the couple). He has always been keen about soldiers. If he wants to go into the army, let him. I think the business is all right. You know as much as I do about it.

"After all, Harry Hawker was found after five days. Never give up hope. If I make a mistake, I am sorry. It will be terrible for you."

Heavy Clay Bank Falls Into Bottom of Cut On Workmen Laying Track.

Three men managed to escape the avalanche and were slightly injured by flying clods. The other seven were caught between the bank and two dump cars and practically buried.

Rescuers Work Long

Rescue work was immediately undertaken and crews with pick and shovel released six of the seven men caught. Rescue workers came across his body after all the others had been released and taken to hospital for treatment.

Mike Korsa, Thorold, was so badly injured that doctors were forced to amputate his severely mangled right leg. He failed to rally and died at St. Catharines General Hospital yesterday morning. The other injured men are expected to recover.

MANY ATTEND ANNIVERSARY AT BURNBRAE

"Scotch Church" Taxed To Accommodate Large Crowds at Both Services.

FOUNDED 89 YEARS AGO.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence)

BURNBRAE, Oct. 22.—At both morning and evening services yesterday, St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Burnbrae was filled to overflowing on this the occasion of the eighty-ninth anniversary of the founding of Presbyterianism in this district. The minister for the occasion was the Rev. R. G. Stewart of Belleville and the church choir was augmented by the Quinte quartette of the same city. The church, which ordinarily has a seating capacity of more than five hundred, was not large enough to meet the demands on it yesterday. Chairs were placed in the aisles and both in front and rear if the pews, Many were forced to stand at the back of the church during the entire service. The freewill offering amounted to $1,234.91.

Morning Service

In the morning the Rev. Mr. Stewart selected his text from the book of Exodus, chapter twenty and verse twenty-five, "And if thou wilt make Me an altar of stone, thou shalt not build it of hewn stone; for if thou lift up thy tool upon it, thou hast polluted it." As well as preaching a most memorable sermon, Mr. Stewart complimented the people of Burnbrae on their fine church. He described it as a land mark for the surrounding district and the centre of a most prosperous community. It was a minister from Burnbrae whose preaching had decided for him that he should enter the ministry.

Evening Service

In the evening, Mr. Stewart chose his text from the book of the Acts, chapter twenty-seven and verse twenty three. "For there stood by me this night, the angel of God, Whose I am and Whom I serve." The sermon might have been subdivided into five parts, each dealing with different phases of the Christian life, and represented as an angel. There were the angels of good conscience, good constitution faith, optimism and common sense. These represented the character-

FAILING TO USE PARACHUTE DARING FLIER LOSES LIFE

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 22 (Canadian Press).—Lieut. Edward C. Snell, Michigan National Guard officer, who a few weeks ago leaped from an upper deck of the Leviathan in New York harbor, at the dare of a girl, plunged 1,900 feet to his death in an airplane here Saturday, when he failed to use a paarchute strapped to his back.

A fellow-officer, Major Floyd Evans, pilot, escaped death by jumping from the falling plane.

The accident occurred in the outskirts of Detroit while the two men were flying here from An Arbor, Mich., in a National Guard plane.

According to Major Evans, they were flying at an altitude of about 1,900 feet when the right wing of the plane suddenly collapsed. As the plane started to fall, Major Evans shouted to Snell to jump, and himself prepared to leap, both had parachutes strapped to their backs. Snell, apparently excited and stricken with fear, did not move from his seat and Evans, after again warning him to jump, leaped to safety, his parachute opening in time to prevent him from being injured.

Snell's body was found in the wreckage of the plane.

Lieut. Snell was a son of the late Lawrence Snell, former State senator and wealthy Detroit dairyman.

The cause of the collapse of the airplane wing was not learned.

Edison Is Returned Original Model Of Phonograph By British Government

WEST ORANGE, N.J., Oct. 22 (Canadian Press). — Thomas A. Edison recalled Saturday night how more than fifty years ago he stood before a flimsy little contraption of his own invention, recited "Mary Had a Little Lamb," and heard the inanimate machine repeat his words, the world's first phonographic reproduction.

The occasion of his recollections was the presentation to him of a Congressional gold medal at exercises at which the British government returned to him that same first phonograph.

"It is indeed a source of much gratification to me," he said, speaking over a nation-wide hookup over which laudatory remarks about him had already been broadcast by President Coolidge and Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, "to regain possession of my first and original model of the phonograph, which I loaned to the British Government some forty-five years ago for exhibition in its patent office museum at South Kensington, London.

"This little machine, which was made from my sketch by my faithful associate, the late John Kraesi, more than fifty-one years ago, bring to my mind many pleasant memories, especially the remembrance of the fact that it worked perfectly on the first trial when I shouted into it, "Mary Had a Little Lamb," and heard the reproduction of these words.

"I greatly appreciate the courtesy of the British Government in returning this first phonograph to my possession. My original electric lamp is still in the museum at South Kensington, but that will remain there as it was a present from me."

THREE NEW MEMBERS JOIN MILLBROOK W.M.A. SOCIETY

Interesting Addresses Given at Meeting of Saint Thomas' Church Society.

TREASURER RESIGNS.

Wide-Awakes' C.G.I.T. To Hold Usual Hallowe'en Social.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, October 22. — The Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of St. Thomas' Church held its October meeting last week at the home of Miss Needler, Anne Street, with a good attendance of members and the president, Mrs. (Canon) Allen in the chair.

Following the devotional period, three new members, Mrs. H. R. Scott, Mrs. Howard Jordan, and Miss M. B. Turner, were welcomed, and their names added to the roll.

Mrs. C. McNeil, who has been treasurer of the W.A. for some time past, sent in her resignation, as she expects to spend the winter out of town. Regret was expressed by the president and others at losing Mrs. McNeil, as she has always been actively interested in the welfare of the Auxiliary, and her resignation was reluctantly accepted. Mrs. J. A. Vance was appointed to the office for the remainder of the year.

Miss M. B. Turner, who was appointed as superintendent of the Junior Auxiliary when Miss Muriel Smith resigned, gave an interesting report of the first meeting held since the holidays, and asked financial assistance with the work which the younger folk wish to carry on during the winter months. On motion, the sum of $4.00 was voted the Juniors to buy materials, etc., for their supplies for sewing activities which will shortly be under way toward the bale always sent in the spring to the Diocesan House at Toronto, the contents to be packed with those from other Junior workers and sent to some needy mission field. Mrs. W. Hilton is the assistant superintendent of the Junior Auxiliary.

Shortly after the new members had been welcomed, Mrs. Allen requested Mrs. C. M. Westmacott to explain the work of the local W.A., and outline the various undertakings to which it gives support as well as the pledges of a financial nature which must be met each year.

Tells of Work Done.

Miss Annie Armstrong took up the chapter in the study book on "Africa," and at the request of the president, Mrs. H. R. Scott, gave a brief account of the work done by the Auxiliary at Gelert, near Minden, where her former home had been. As the church in this northern part of the diocese is a mission, the W.A. activities are largely directed to helping with this immediate part of the home field, rather than undertaking assistance for outside points as is usually the case with Auxiliaries in this section of the Province.

The usual pleasant social hour was spent at the close, during which Miss Needler served refreshments.

The formal vote of thanks to the hostess was moved by Mrs. J. E. Allen, seconded by Mrs. Whyte, and heartily endorsed by all present.

The November meeting will be at the home of Mrs. J. A. Vance.

The Wide Awakes C.G.I.T. group held its regular weekly meeting on Thursday evening at the home of the leader, seventeen members being in

Cedric Hands Captures Mile Relay Honors For McGill In Intercollegiate Track Meet

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 22.—(Canadian Press).—With one of the most sensational finishes in the history of inter-collegiate track meet Cedric Hands captured the one mile relay for McGill University here Saturday. The race was run during the half time interval of the McGill-Queen's rugby game.

Hands ran a magnificent race to take the four points for the Red team. McGill wre slow in passing the baton, and on the first three exchanges Toronto Varsity runners drew into a ten yard lead when the last two men started around the oval. There were few that thought Hands would overtake R. M. Mitchell, the crack varsity quarter miler, inter-collegiate champion for the 440, and a runner who had defeated Hands Friday over that distance.

The McGill man ran his usual steady race, a sustained speed that saw no spurts, but gradually cut the distance between himself and his opponent. Inch by inch he crept up on Mitchell and as the huge crowd thundered its encouragement, Hands finally drew abreast of Mitchell and beat him to the tape by a few steps.

CROP REPORT

Below will be found a brief synopsis of telegraphic reports received at the Head Office of the Ban of Montreal from its branches. The Branch Managers have complete and intimate knowledge of each local situation and are in close touch with crop conditions in all sections of the districts mentioned.

General.

Threshing has continued under ideal weather conditions and is practically completed in Manitoba and nearly so in Saskatchewan. About 10 per cent to 15 per cent of the wheat and 25 per cent of the other grains have still to be threshed in Alberta. Deliveries have been unusually heavy. In Quebec Province harvesting is about completed and threshing generally is well advanced although in some districts unsettled weather has delayed operations. In Northern Ontario continuous rains have practically ruined the late cereal and root crops but in the rest of the Province favourable weather for farm operations has prevailed and farmers are well advanced with their work in Maritime Provinces. The garnering of good crops is proceeding satisfactorily. In British Columbia harvesting of all crops except late apples and roots is practically completed. Details follow:

Prairie Provinces.

ALBERTA WESTERN AREA—Threshing should be finished in a week. Grades run from two to six. Digging of sugar beets has begun. The beets are in good condition and the yield is expected to be about 50,000 tons. ALBERTA NORTHEASTERN AREA—From 50 per cent to 75 per cent threshing is completed. The remainder should be finished in ten days. Most of the wheat has been affected by early frost and the grades are ranging from three to six. ALBERTA SOUTHEASTERN AREA—Threshing is nearing completion; wheat is grading from one to four. SASKATCHEWAN NORTHERN — Under ideal condition threshing has been practically completed. SASKATCHEWAN SOUTHERN AREA—Continued favourable weather has advanced threshing to near completion. Better than average yields have been realized throughout the Province but grading reflects the seriousness of the early frosts and the bulk of the wheat will be number three and lower. MANITOBA—With exceptionally fine weather during the last two weeks threshings has been practically completed except in a few isolated cases. Some frost damage in the Northern districts has affected yield and grade. Wheat is grading mostly two and three northern the latter predominating.

Province of Quebec.

Threshing operations indicate an irregular yield of grain somewhat below average in grade. Oats have suffered damage from frost and rains. Potatoes have been affected to some extent by rot. The crop, except of high lands is below average. Other roots are satisfactory. The cutting on corn is about completed with a fair average yield. Pastures continue in good condition. The yield of tobacco is average and is drying under normal conditions.

Province of Ontario.

Threshing operations continue and all grains are yielding satisfactorily except oats which are below expectations. The corn crop is a good average and is now being cut and placed in silos. Root crops are good especially turnips and mangels, but sugar beets are below average. Potatoes are a heavy crop, but there is considerable rot in those grown on low land. Peaches, pears and grapes are plentiful and in the Georgian Bay district there has been a decided improvement in the apple crop in the past month. The loss from frosts to the tobacco crop is not more than 3 per cent to 5 per cent. Pastures are good. There will be plenty of rough feed for winter use.

Maritime Provinces.

An average crop of oats and an above-average crop of hay are already harvested. Potato digging is well under way; yields generally running from 75 to 100 barrels per acre; making a good average crop of good quality. Apples are ripening and coloring well and a high percentage is packing out number one and number two. Pasturage continues to be good.

British Columbia.

Potatoes promise a good average crop of splendid quality. Tomatoes will yield only 80 per cent of average having suffered from frost damage. The apple crop is still estimated at 120 per cent but heavy culling is necessary on account of scab and worm. Packing of winter varieties will commence at the end of the week. Recent rains have benefitted pasturage.

LIKELY REACH UNDERSTANDING ON DIFFERENCES

Indicated Disputes Might Be Settled To-day When Conversations Are Resumed.

WILL WITHDRAW TROOPS.

Discuss Matters Relating To Tariff Autonomy and Treaty Revision.

NANKING, China, October 22 (Associated Press). — Settlement of outstanding problems between China and Japan appeared appreciably nearer last night at the conclusion of the second day's session of negotiations between C. T. Wang, Nationalist Foreign Minister, and H. Yada, Japanese Consul-General.

Although no official statements were issued Chinese official quarters indicated that the Nanking and Tsinan incidents might be settled on Monday (to-day) when the conversations are resumed.

Matters such as tariff autonomy and treaty revision were discussed on Saturday. Immediate settlement of these questions did not appear likely, but it is expected that some sort of an understanding will be reached before the conference ends.

In connection with settlement of the Tsinan incident, it was strongly believed that Japan would be likely to withdraw her troops from Shantung.

Saturday night's conference ended in great excitement. The electric lights went out, throwing the conference hall into darkness, and as candle were lighted in the emergency, several pistol shots rang out nearby. Nationalist soldiers surrounded the building and the immediate vicinity, and made a search for the disturbers, but could find no one.

SIX CONFIRMED AT CHANDOS

Lord Bishop Has Charge of Ceremonies in St. Stephens.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, Oct. 22.—The pretty little church of St. Stephens, Chandos, was filled with worshippers on Thursday evening when the Lord Bishop of Toronto administered the sacred rite of Confirmation to six candidates presented by the rector, Rev. C. A. G. Spence. The Bishop gave a beautiful and inspiring address on the ideals of the Christian life, based on the words of St. Paul in his epistle to the Phillipians, first chapter and twenty-first verse, "For me to live is Christ and to die is gain." His Lordship was assisted in the service by the Rev. G. J. Bousfield, rector of St. Luke's, Peterborough, who read the Preface, and A. H. Cuttle, finance commissioner, who read the Scripture portions. After the service Mr. Cuttle gave a delightful address, the central thought being the part that the small congregation in the outlying districts played in the large activities of the Diocese, reaching out into the uttermost parts of the earth.

On Friday morning the Bishop confirmed two other candidates in St. George's church, and also celebrated Holy Communion, assisted by the rector and Rev. G. J. Bousfield, leaving at half past ten in a heavy downpour of rain for Wilberforce and thence to Haliburton and other points in the northern part of the country. Three days' incessant rain will make the trip over the rough trails of the north country in a rickety car anything but a pleasure jaunt, and will tax the Bishop's strength severely.

AEROPLANE CRASH FOLLOWS GOLF COURSE OPENING

HENDON, England, Oct. 22.—(Canadian Press).—The opening of a new golf course here Saturday afternoon was strangely interrupted by an aeroplane crash in which the two young women occupants of the plane were badly injured. Miss Sicele O'Brien, daughter of Sir Timothy O'Brien, a noted flier, and the first woman in England to operate an air taxi, was the more seriously hurt, and at the hospital her condition was causing great concern, it was said to be critical.

Her passenger and companion, also of a titled family, Mildred Katharine Leith, half sister of Lord Burgh, also suffered severely. The plane came down in a nose dive.

An exhibition match between four famous players, Cyril Tolley and Roger Wethered, amateurs, and Abe Mitchell and Charles Whitcombe, professionals, had gone eight holes, when a moth plane flying low over the course suddenly developed trouble. The engine stopped and the little craft came spinning down and was wrecked on the sixth tee.

WOULD FORM NEW COMMITTEE ON REPARATIONS

Agreed Six Great World Powers To Have Reparations.

WILL DISCUSS REVISION.

Development of Recent Conversations Between European Officials at Paris.

PARIS, October 22 (Associated Press). — Another sort of experts' committee will be working with a few weeks on the question of revision of reparations, it appeared yesterday from conversations which have been going on between Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the British Exchequer, and Premier Poincare.

The suaject under immediate discussion is the composition of a new body of experts agreed upon at Geneva last month and the limits of its mission.

The first point definitely agreed upon is that France, Great Britain, Italy, Belgium, the United States, and Japan should be represented on the committee of experts.

One or two United States citizens of the highest standing in the financial world will be requested to participate and care will be taken not to invite anyone who might for any reason be objectionable to the United States Government. Thus, it is held, the American Government will have an "official" right of veto.

Limit of Negotiations.

The second point with regard to the committee of experts, that is the scope of their negotiations, remain to be determined definitely. There has been considerable progress in this direction, however, and it was said yesterday in semi-official circles that the composition of the committee and the outlines of its mission may be announced before the middle of November.

When the committee submits its report, this will be referred to all the governments represented, and, in addition, to Rumania and Jugo-Slavia, the other creditors of Germany under the reparations settlement.

The idea of commercialization of the debt is said in some quarters to have ultimately in view an offer by France of her share of bands in immediate extinction of the war debts to the extent that they will go. Under this France would propose to hand over to Great Britain and the United States her share of the German bonds bearing five per cent. interest. Great Britain and the United States, should they agree to this arrangement, would thus become creditors of Germany to that extent in place of France.

There is now talk of commercializing not only 16,000,000,000 marks of railroad and industrial bonds, but the total amount on which the governments may finally agree Germany must pay.

GOVERNORS OF BOXING

Here are some of the men who are governing boxing in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Porto Rico, Cuba and South America. The ninth annual meeting of the National Boxing Association was held in Toronto this week and the twenty-five odd delegates attending the session are the official representatives of boxing and other professional sports in 27 American centres—some station commissions, some city commissions — Canada and the other countries named And these men are all successful business men of a calibre which makes it plain why professional boxing has been so successfully restored to the ranks of "clean" sport all over the continent. COURSE ACROSS OCEAN

The map above shows the route followed by the dirigible Graf Zeppelin in its 6,000 mile, 111½ hour flight from Friedrichshafen, Germany, to Lakehurst, N.J., U.S.A. The course originally planned would have been shorter and more direct, but storms on the Atlantic prevented the air liner's adhering to it.

Blame Film for Cloudy Teeth

You must remove film twice daily. Now dentists urge a special film-removing dentifrice.

THE teeth of 9 people out of 10, it's proved, are dingy because a film coat covers them.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel this film. It absorbs stains from food and smoking. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It is the chief cause of the commoner tooth and gum disorders. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Film must be removed each day. Ordinary brushing fails to do it successfully. So dentists urge the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent.

No other way will make teeth as sparkling white. Write for free 10-day supply to The Pepsodent Co., 191 George St., Toronto 2, Ont., Canada, or ask your druggist for full-size tube.

To sell Pepsodent for less would mean removing the costly agents for which dentists recommend it.

THE WAR MEMORIAL.

The appeal that is being made to Peterborough citizens to subscribe the comparatively small amount needed to complete covering the cost of the citizens' war memorial should be promptly and generously answered.

There must be both in the city and county many people who have not yet subscribed to this most worthy cause who would not like to be deprived of the privilege of helping to do honor to the memory of the hundreds of Peterborough soldiers who gave up their lives in the Great War.

The greater part of the money needed has already been raised, and it is the desire of the committee that the offerings for this community memorial should be as representative as was the response of the men of this district when the call to arms was sounded.

It is felt that the families who are not yet represented in the subscriptions will want to do their share, and to have the satisfaction of knowing that they have a part in making possible the beautiful and impressive memorial now nearing completion in Confederation Square.

BUYING AT HOME.

The advice given Peterborough women by Miss White of the Mail and Empire in her address at the Produced-in-Canada Fair last week that they should buy home-grown fruit and vegetables whenever possible would do more for the Canadian producers if followed generally than the anti-dumping regulations they are demanding.

Canadian markets in these products have been very materially affected by imported fruits and vegetables, and for this condition the housekeepers of the land must accept much of the blame.

As Miss White points out, we imported two million pounds of tomatoes last year, and their sale in Canada grievously injured the Canadian producer.

The same condition applies to many other fruits and vegetables that are grown in Canada, and in the cultivation of which many millions of Canadian money are invested.

Early importations from the United States and sold at high prices kill the Canadian market for many of these home-grown products, satiating the appetite of the consumer before the Canadian article comes on the market.

The Canadian housekeeper can do much to prevent such a development by insisting upon products that are grown in this country.

LOW SPEED IN SCHOOL AREAS.

The Ottawa Public School Board is asking the Ontario Government to give municipalities the power to create low-speed zones adjacent to schools.

It is doubtful whether such a regulation would do much good.

In most municipalities now school zones are marked by warning signs, but it cannot be truthfully said that very much attention is paid to the signs by motorists.

Nor is there any reason for believing that a low-speed regulation in these areas would be any more effective.

The statute books are full of regulations that are not obeyed and that are not enforced.

The speed limit at street intersections is ten miles an hour; it is a matter of every-day observation that this rule is ignored by many drivers.

If a similar speed limit were set up for school areas, the result would probably be the same.

But regulation or not, all motorists, especially at the hours when schools are being dismissed, should drive with more than ordinary caution on streets adjacent to schools.

And school staffs should do their part by impressing upon children the need of being careful.

There is much in the contention of the Ottawa Journal that "by raising up a traffic-wise generation the School Board can accomplish more than the police court to prevent accidents and encourage safety."

CARELESSNESS AT CROSSINGS.

The Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada, concerned over the large number of grade crossing accidents, is appealing to the press of the country to help educate motor drivers and others to be more careful at crossings.

In proof of the need of this education a bulletin issued by the board shows that in many cases such accidents are due to the negligence of those driving automobiles and of other vehicles and of pedestrians, and that this negligence is found both at unprotected and protected crossings.

The Canadian National Railway lines from April 1, 1927, to August 31, 1928, show 302 cases where there was danger at protected crossings due to the negligence of those using the crossings. Four of these cases were reported from Peterborough.

The Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo line from March 16, 1927, to August 31, 1928, show 52 cases.

The Canadian Pacific Railway lines from January 1, 1927, to July 31, 1928, show 375 cases, one reported from this city.

"Notwithstanding safety devices and cautionary signals," declares the bulletin, "people take chances and disregard safety."

An investigation of the grade crossing accidents during 1927 reveals the fact that there were 263 accidents, involving the death of 80 people and the injuring of 401, with 45 accidents occurring at protected crossings.

Seventy-four motorists actually drove into the sides of trains and attempting to beat trains, disregarding hand signals and running through crossing gates were responsible for 21 accidents.

The bulletin mentions in each case the dangerous practice of which the driver was guilty.

Here is some typical examples of carelessness:

"Crossed over crossing in front of passenger train and nearly knocked down the watchman and his warning sign."

"While gates were lowered for train, auto running at high speed ran through, warning bell ringing at the time."

"Auto crashed through crossing gate which was down and scraped left side of engine on fast freight. Red light on gate; engine whistle sounded and bell ringing. Driver said he did not know railway crossing there."

OUR PUBLIC MEN.

The move by Canadian Liberals to present to Mr. Lapointe a fund of $125,000 recalls other actions of similar kind in Canadian political history. A subscription of $100,000 was given by Canadian Conservatives to Lady Macdonald. Sir John, his salary excepted when he was in office, had nothing. Sir Wilfrid Laurier was as poor. The house now occupied by a Liberal Prime Minister was presented to Lady Laurier, with in addition a sum of money, supposed to have approached $100,000 for maintenance. In recent years, $100,000 was subscribed by Liberals and Conservatives both for Mr. Fielding, who was a poor man.

Few among the public men of this country have been wealthy. To attain prominence in politics, an early start in life is usually necessary; once in politics, little time is left for anything else. And until perhaps recent days, there has been no money in politics. By this we do not mean that there is money in politics now in any unfair way, but that in modern financial affairs it sometimes happens that valuable advice from financial men may assist a public man to investments which may prove profitable. At any rate, such is reported to sometimes happen.

If one casts a glance over the list of Prime Ministers of Canada since Confederation, no name of a man wealthy by modern standards presents itself, and only one or two who might be considered wealthy by any standard. Macdonald, poor; Alexander Mackenzie, poor; J. J. C. Abbott, moderately well off; Sir John Thompson, poor; Mackenzie Bowell, hardly well off; Sir Charles Tupper, comparatively poor; Laurier, poor; Sir Robert Borden, rather better off than his predecessors; Meighen, poor; Mackenzie King, not wealthier than Meighen was.

Such is the complete list of Dominion Prime Ministers. An examination of the case of the whole personnel of Dominion Cabinets since Confederation would discover few cases of wealthy men; the same would be the finding in regard to Provincial Prime Ministers and Cabinets.

And the great majority of our public men since Confederation have not only had little means except salaries when in office, but those who have passed away rarely left much money behind them. They were honest men. The purpose of the Journal in rehearsing these personal matters is to bear tribute to the high standard, the very high standard, of our Canadian public men in the matter of personal honesty. Hardly ever, in the sixty years of Confederation, has the breath of scandal touched the personal honor of a prominent public man in regard to money, or any personal gain other than office and power. Keen about power they have been; and for power, office is necessary. For power or for party—and again, for power, party success is necessary—public men have gone pretty far at times. But the motive was ambition, not greed.

These were politicians. It is a fashion to use the word politician with a sneer. The fashion is a poor one. The public business of the country must be carried on, and it must be carried on by politicians. The word politician should be one of honor, save in the case where something of dishonor is known beyond peradventure. The politicians of Canada have been—and are—among the best men of our country. We ought to be proud of those who are gone. They did a tremendous work, and they did it honestly. There is every reason, we think, to be proud of the great majority of those who lead us now, so far as their personal integrity is concerned. And to come lower in the scale of public life in this country, let us say that what has been claimed above with regard to the men who occupy representative positions in public life applies to our Canadian municipal life. Our city and our municipal councils are as honest as our political councils. There are thousands of such councils in Canada. Who remembers so much as a single serious scandal in connection with them? The Canadian people are an honest people.

Let us close this claim with a story which may illustrate what may be the case sometimes of a man who intensely gives his life to politics and his country. Sir John Macdonald, a few months before his death, sent word to the Journal that he wanted to see a certain member of the staff about some current political matter. The visitor was shown into the library at Earnscliffe. Sir John was alone, seated at a little table at one of the windows, playing a game of solitaire with himself. Strange occupation for the old ruler of Canada! Looking up, and catching a stare of surprise on the visitor's face, the old man said, "You seem a bit disturbed. Let me say that you behold one side of the rewards of public life. Occasionally, when Parliament is not in session—when it is, we generally have a Cabinet meeting between lunch and Parliament—I like to amuse myself for half an hour with a game of Patience. It is practically the only recreation I have had for thirty years."—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Ex-Provincial Constable Brien's charges are being amplified. Is the Government satisfied to let him do all the talking?

After Saturday's victory at Montreal, Kingston people doubtless feel once more that life is worth living.

And now they talk about a provincial election in June. Perhaps that explains the announcement in regard to old age pensions.

Fortunes have been made in International Nickel during the last few days. But the public shouldn't jump at the conclusion that it is always possible to make money that way.

The United States apple crop this year exceeds that of 1927 by 55,000,000 bushels. The surplus will be dumped into Canada if Canadian fruit growers are not successful in having the anti-dumping regulations made effective.

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

Peterborough, Oct. 18, 1928.

The Editor,
The Examiner:

Sir.—Re a letter in The Examiner of Monday's date signed "Civic Spirit," regarding a civic band for Peterborough, one part read as follows:

"It is mortifying to see smaller cities, towns, and even small villages carrying off prizes at big exhibitions and festivals, while Peterborough has for so many years been definitely out of the arena."

I sat in a building on Tuesday evening and heard the only band Peterborough has (that is eligible to enter contests) play a selected overture, under contest rule, well enough to be awarded ninety points out of a hundred by Dr. O'Neill, a recognized authority on military bands. Incidently, I also heard a Peterborough orchestra play a selected piece under contest conditions and receive ninety points out of a hundred by the same adjudicator.

After hearing these two organizations, and recalling the letter printed the previous evening, it appeared somewhat ironical to me, that the very thing "C.S." was bemoaning (Peterborough bands not winning any prizes) two musical organization go straight away and accomplish that same thing.

I appreciate the fact there was no opposition to either organization from outside bands, but, had there been competition, ninety points out of a hundred would have been satisfactory to me, even if another band had gained more; the difference being hardly enough to argue about.

However, my point is this: With two such organizations in Peterborough, why the idea of trying to raise a new one?

Might I respectfully suggest, that instead of going to the expense and difficulty of trying to form a civic band, would not "C.S." form a ways and means committee to assist and help support the band Peterborough already has?

Yours, truly,
"INTERESTED"

BUTTER AND EGGS.

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—Quiet conditions in the Toronto wholesale butter market at the week-end revealed no change in values of 38¾c to 39c a pound for finest No. 1 creamery, delivered in Toronto. Lower grades were also inactive, but the easier undertone in evidence during the latter half of the week was still a factor and somewhat emphasized by the general lack of demand. Prices for No. 2 grade creamery remained at 37¾c to 38c, while wholesale quotations to the retail trade stood at 42c to 43c for No. 1 creamery prints, with No. 2 prints at 40c to 41c. A feature of the butter situation is found in the fact that dealers in some instances are receiving prices as high as 39¼c for fancy stock in the face of a market which rules generally below that level.

Cheese values were steady at the week's decline of half a cent. Demand was moderate and dealers' quotations remained at 31½c to 32c a pound for finest No. 1 Government graded new large waxed cheese, delivered in Toronto.

Egg Prices Are Firm.

The diminishing flow of egg receipts arriving in Toronto is having a strengthening effect on price, and Saturday's market was firm at a general range of 44c to 48c a dozen for fresh extras, delivered in Toronto. Firsts ranged from 40c to 42c on the same delivery basis, with seconds at 31c to 34c. Quotations to the retail trade were steady at 52c to 55c a dozen for fresh extras in cartons with firsts at 44c to 47c. Storage eggs were unchanged.

Calico is corrupted from Calicut, in India.

LEAVES GOVERNMENT.

Lord Birkenhead, secretary of state for India, is relinquishing his position with the government to enter private business. As secretary of state for India, Lord Birkenhead received $25,000 a year. In business he could make, it is believed, $125,000

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 22 (Canadian Press).—Collapsing prices plunged the wheat market downward Saturday to within but little more than a cent a bushel above the lowest figures heretofore reached this season. Indications of a big harvest soon in countries south of the equator adding to huge supplies of wheat already available in Canada and the United States were among the factors putting the market here under evident strain.

Closing quotations on wheat were heavy, 1⅞ to 2c under Friday's finish. Corn closed ⅜ to 1⅛c down; oats, ⅛ to ⅝c off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 47c.

Efforts which holders of wheat made Saturday to stop losses by letting go at various fixed limits gave additional impetus to the downward swing of the market. Selling pressure was manifest right from the outset, and received special force from the fact that wheat values at Liverpool Saturday were much lower than expected. Besides, there was a forecast of large world shipments of wheat, and rains were reported from dry sections of India.

The first shadow of the rapidly approaching harvest in the southern hemisphere made its appearance Saturday in reports of Australian selling at Liverpool. This news served as a signal for increased selling here, and for consequent tumbles in prices, regardless of assertions that because of overestimates or wasteful usage the wheat carry-overs from most large crops in the past have turned out to be a good deal smaller than looked for. It was in vain also that bulls gave out statements showing the new domestic winter wheat crop is starting in relatively poor shape as compared with last year.

Meanwhile sales of 350,000 bushels of wheat into store here Saturday reflected dearth of commercial demand. Word was also at hand that export business yesterday in wheat from North America continued slack. Under such circumstance, prices of future deliveries of wheat in Chicago failed to develop rallying power, and the market closed at almost the day's bottom level.

Corn went lower with wheat, but there was good buying support for corn on the breaks in price; houses with eastern connections taking December delivery of corn rather freely. Excellent weather over the corn belt, however, gave an advance to sellers, although country offerings were small, shipping demand good, and receipts of corn in Chicago yesterday only 31 cars. Oats were responsive to the weakness of other cereals.

Scattered selling weakened the provision market. Lard touched new low record prices for the season.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Oct. 22 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in grain here Saturday was extremely dull but a moderate amount of business was done with local buyers in the domestic cash grain market. Prices were steady.

The trade in Spring and Winter wheat grades of flour was fair and values were firm.

A feature of the millfeed trade was the stronger feeling that developed for bran and shorts, and prices were advanced $1 per ton. This was attributed to the limited supplies available and the good demand. Prices for middlings were unchanged.

The inquiry for standard grades of rolled oats showed a slight improvement and a moderate trade was done at steady prices.

Despite an inactive demand, the tone of the butter market was steady. Receipts Saturday were 1,862 packages.

The undertone to the cheese market was easier owing to the limited demand from all sources. Receipts were 8,525 boxes.

The demand for all grades of eggs continued good and values were firm. Receipts were 867 cases.

Imported beans were unchanged, with a small trade passing in choice white hand-picked grades at $4.50 to $4.60 per bushel, ex-store.

Potatoes were in good demand. New Brunswick Green Mountain sold at 70c per bag of 90 lbs, in bulk, ex-track, while Prince Edward Island white, grade "A," changed hands at the decreased price of 80c per bag, ex-track, Montreal. Quebec white sold in bulk at 60 to 65c ex-track.

You buy Sea Food in Saskatoon

CANADA'S great fishing industry is perforce, one of the most uncertain elements in national business. To-day the nets may be empty. To-morrow the fishing vessels come into port loaded to the gunwales with the sea's mighty harvest.

Modern methods offset this uneven condition. Refrigerator cars deliver their valuable sea food freight thousands of miles inland. Western housewives who have never glimpsed the ocean, purchase Nova Scotia cod and halibut and British Columbia salmon with perfect confidence in its wholesomeness.

Long Distance helps.

Fish is perishable freight. A few hours delay in shipment may result in heavy loss. The waiting market must be, always, in close touch with the sources of supply.

Long Distance brings them into such immediate contact that from Nova Scotia to Saskatchewan is a matter of minutes only.

As between profit and loss for Canada's great fisheries industry, results are delicately balanced by Long Distance. The steady growth of Canadian fisheries has been fostered, in no small degree by extensions of telephone facilities.

A large part of the service which the Bell Telephone Company renders to the Canadian people consists in the careful plans which are made years ahead, to meet changing conditions and abnormal growth in industry. It is not sufficient that telephone accommodations should be abreast of commercial development. They must be ahead of it; and they are.

Business follows the telephone.

Employees of The Bell Telephone Company, with their dependents, number over 70,000 persons—enough people to populate a city the size of Calgary Edmonton or London.

Two girls—twins, singularly sensitive to each other, singularly congenial, singularly lovely.

And both with the same ideal of the man they would marry. A Gallahad sort of man. A man who embodied the perfection of all the heroes of fact and fancy since the beginning of time.

One of them found him.

FROM the time they had first lifted their voices in squalls, "The Allyn Twins" were destined for local fame. Taken each by themselves, there would have been sufficient cause for recognition of an outstanding personality. But here were beauty, brains and individuality happening twice in the same place.

The Allyn twins caused a dent in the world in which they lived.

They were not exactly identical. That is, they could readily be told apart. They did not dress alike, they did not necessarily resemble in manner, but in temperament, in reckless charm of personality, they were similar as two peas in a pod, as well as in the way their carried their heads . . . small, somewhat patrician heads, beautifully balanced on slender necks.

Eve was somewhat taller and perhaps more beautiful. Her violet eyes were fringed in longer, blacker lashes, her skin the whiteness of a magnolia-leaf without blemish. Iris, almost imperceptibly less fair, had a softer, more perfect mouth than her sister.

As is inevitable in such cases, there were those who thought Eve more beautiful than Iris, and vice versa; there were those who thought Iris more characterful than Eve, and vice versa.

In any event, they were an arresting, gorgeous pair of creatures, filled with the hopes, the dreams, the ideals, the nonsenses, the courage of youth. They wanted Life. They were eager for it. Hungry for it. And full of curiosity about it.

IN the pretty town in which they lived, the social life of the community whirled to a large extent around the fine old homestead of Judge Allyn.

The twins kept the rambling mansion lively. Lights blared from its windows, nights. Dances took place there. Eager youths ran up the broad front steps. It was a house of merriment.

There was no mother. She had died giving birth to her twins. Eve and Iris ruled there.

They were curiously inter-dependent, these two girls.

Certain similarities of temperament bound them closely. Even at twenty-two, they were like school-girls awaiting the coming of a Gallahad. Even while the picked youths of the town milled around them and it was said locally that every young eligible in the community had proposed to one or both of the Allyn twins, the two of them clung tenaciously to the dream of the Gallahad.

The Gallahad of their imaginings was a glorious, fair young deity. A combination of all they most romantically admired in the men they had seen, all they had most wistfully desired in the heroes of fiction, myth and history they had read about.

A knight "sans peur et sans reproche". A god-like creature who combined all the virtues, all the gallantries, all the wisdom and beauty of all the heroes of all the ages.

The old judge, whose indulgence toward his girls seemed to know no limit, shook his wise old head at the nonchalance with which they turned their slim young backs on what seemed opportunity after opportunity for worldly and wise marriages.

Between them, the girls had created the ideal. Between them, they held out for the coming of the youth who would embody this ideal, and of course, into the snug little world in which they moved, he did not enter.

It was Eve who first capitulated to the realization that these sophomoric yearnings belonged to the schoolroom. She was jerked to this awareness by a young fellow named Pat Ryan, whom she refused on Sunday and eloped with on Monday.

It was one of the social sensations of the town. Pat Ryan was the only son of a highly successful local builder and an up-and-coming successor to his father. He was a normal, healthy-minded, sound-principled young fellow, minus practically all of the Lothario-qualities with which the twins had invested their hypothetical hero, but filled with what the old judge regarded as "good horse sense." It was a match after the old judge's heart.

The marriage of Eve was the most devastating event that had ever come into Iris's life. It left her stunned, lonely, disillusioned, even tragic. She considered that Life's firmest prop had been dashed out from under her.

Eve had failed her. Eve was common clay.

BE that as it may, the Pat Ryans rented a bungalow in the new part of the town and started housekeeping on the young fellow's salary. It was pretty much of a struggle because one of old man Ryan's theories was that his son should earn his way into the business, rather than inherit it. The judge agreed.

From the very start, it might be said that Eve began what she regarded as the pleasant task of reforming her husband. Time and time again, she assured Iris that if Pat was not the prototype of their ideal, half the fun of marrying him was in making him conform to that ideal.

Pat himself was such fun, imbued as he was with a merry good nature that was characteristic of him. He gave in where it did not matter, but stood firm in larger issues where his judgment overruled. Essentially different, it was as if Eve was a complement to those qualities lacking in Pat, and he in turn began to act as prop to several little characteristics in Eve that even her family agreed needed jacking up.

They joked and squabbled and made up. They criticized and blamed and praised. And each day, out of their happy or troubled adjustments to each other, grew a better understanding, a surer foundation for life-long companionship.

And yet—Pat was not the man Iris and Eve had dreamed about. Not the Sir Gallahad sort of man that people meet only in books and their imaginings. Just a blundering, imperfect, striving, altogether desirable young man—as full of faults as he was full of ambition, energy and enthusiasm.

It was surprising, even to Iris, to whom the marriage was still anathema, the compatability these two managed to eke out of their incompatability.

It was left to Iris to carry on the quest for the golden fleece, to find the ideal that she and Eve had dreamed out through the long, sweet years of their girlhood.

Eve had failed.

Failed not only to find her Gallahad—their Gallahad—but failed in a truce with their youth, with their faith in the perfection of life and love.

It was this sense that Eve had failed her—that Eve, after all, was content with something short of perfection, like the countless millions of other women that had kept the world going through the generations—that disillusioned Iris. Disillusioned her, hurt her, stunned her, but made her vow again, though this time to herself, that she would go through life alone unless she found the realization of their girlhood dreams.

And then Iris found him.

There came to town to execute a park statue of the governor of the State, a young sculptor with a name already distinguished on two continents by the high quality of his work. Even his name, the first time she heard it, struck thrill to the heart of Iris. Orlando Blake.

He was tall, he was handsome, he was sensitive. He was blonde. Four fundamental characteristics that girls had woven into their sophomoric visions. He was as close to their hypothetical hero as can be reasonably expected of a flesh-and-blood young man subject to the daily wear-and-tear of a planet called Earth. They were married in a garden and the old judge stood by and Eve, in pink organdy and lavendar sweet peas, and Pat, who was big and restless and good-natured and kept jerking his head about in his collar as he always did under stress.

It was said locally that Iris and Orlando were the most stunningly-handsome young couple in the history of town annals. The old judge and Eve and Pat and a swarm of friends who had known Iris since she could lisp, threw tried-and-true old shoes and rice after the honeymooners' train.

WHAT happened subsequently is not to be recorded as the fault of Orlando. He measured up pretty fairly to the ideals of two giggling young girls who had created him in effigy before he had ever arrived on the scene.

It was just somehow that Iris and Orlando had no compatibility. He was there, ready-made, so to speak. To Iris, it was like walking into a complete home. There was nothing for her to do or create. The hangings were up at the windows . . . the right color. The rugs were on the floor. Nothing to do. Within two years, their marriage was a public failure.

Iris lives with the Pat Ryans now. Orlando has married again. Eve has three youngsters. It's a merry household. Eve and Pat have their squabbles. It hasn't been easy, inculcating in him some of her ideals of what he ought to be. But helping and making him, has drawn them very close.

The Pat Ryans have made a go of it.

BURGLAR TAKES RING AND CASH

Sneak Thief Enters Lindsay Merchant's Home On Saturday.

FAMILIAR WITH PLACE.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LINDSAY, Ont., Oct. 22. — Some time during the shopping hours on Saturday night a sneak thief entered the living quarters of Charles Lamantia, fruit merchant, over his store on Kent street, and stole $700 and a diamond ring.

Mr. Lamantia discovered his loss after he had occasion to go upstairs for sufficient cash to make change. The police are inclined to believe that the theft was committed by a local person, one who was familiar with the surroundings. This is the second theft of a somewhat similar nature during the past fortnight.

THREE NEW MEMBERS

attendance, three of these having been added to the roll at the last group gathering.

The newly-elected president, Miss Wilma Fallis, was in the chair, and among the business items discussed was the arranging for the usual Hallowe'en social evening on the last day of this month. The program will largely be of a musical character, followed by games and contests appropriate to the season. There will be a booth where home-made candy will be sold in five and ten cent packages, and a silver collection taken to add to the group funds.

A letter from a former member, Miss Margaret Howard, of Warkworth, was read, and the matter of contributing to the thankoffering at the church anniversary services on Sunday, October 21, was left with the president and the leader, as the treasurer, Miss Alvira Davis, was not present.

The devotional period was opened with the usual ritual, the leader's talk centering round the words, "power to become," as found in John 1. The matter of tithing was given special consideration, the importance of forming the habit in early life, and the delight of giving which follows its practice, being stressed. The development which would certainly follow in the group meetings and in the individual life of the members, was brought out by suggestive questions as the thought of what Christ would give power to become was dealt with in the concluding part of the discussion together.

At the close of the meeting the usual social good time was enjoyed, games, music, etc., with the service of light refreshments filling the time happily before the girls left for home.

The dedicatory service for the reception and initiation of new members will be followed at next week's meeting, when from eight to ten girls will be received into full connection with the group.

Among those from Millbrook who motored to Newcastle on Monday and attended the Young People's Rally in the United Church were: Rev. W. W. Jones, Misses Beatrice and Francis Jones, Mrs. V. C. Lambert, Miss Edith Sheppard, Miss Jean L. Burnham, Miss Martha Lunn, Miss Mary Moise, Miss Marjorie Skitch, Miss Wilma Fallis, Miss Annie McMahon, Messrs. W. Byam, R. Willis, and J. Larmer. The gathering was addressed by Rev. Mr. Carter, of London, England, who is touring Canada, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, addressing particularly the younge people of the land in the interests of temperance. Rev. John Coburn was also one of the speakers.

Miss M. E. Needham, of Toronto, is spending the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Needham. As president of the Ladies' Aid Society of the United Church, Miss Needham will give her usual very efficient assistance with the annual fowl supper being held on Tuesday, October 23.

H. W. Johnston has taken over the music store formerly okned by the late H. R. Armstrong, and has disposed of his flour and feed business to the Millbrook Coal Company.

The Cosmos Rink Company is holding a masquerade dance in the Armouries on Monday, October 29, and is offering good prizes for costumes, etc., and promising a good orchestra in attendance. A pleasant evening is assured.

Mrs. Stowe of Winnipeg, and Mrs. Hudson, of Montreal, are visiting their sister, Mrs. C. M. Westmacott, arriving on Saturday.

Miss Elizabeth Jones, of Glen Ridge, New Jersey, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Russell. There have been a number of social events given in honor of Miss Jones since her arrival in town.

Members of the A.Y.P.A. of St Thomas' Church who motored to Peterborough and attended the District Council this week were: Miss E. Grandy, Miss Maretta Gray, Mrs. W. Hilton, Mrs. Russell Smith, Mrs. H. White, Messrs. H. Jordan and H White.

Mr. A. A. Needler has been spending a few days in Toronto the guest of his brother, Dr. G. H. Needler, and other friends.

BROKEN

A Story of Revenged Love., by Ruby M. Ayres

CHAPTER XII

Chittenham had given Sadie the name of the hotel at which he intended to stay, and the day following his arrival a letter came from her.

"Fellow prisoner" (she began flippantly), "This is just to inform you that I am going to Europe for a month or two with Chrissie Fortnum. Address at present unknown, but I should say that will not worry you! Keep smiling, but I suppose that's easy in the circumstances."

She did not even sign her name, and Chittenham burnt the letter as soon as he had read it.

Sadie and he had done with one another; he wondered what she would say if he were to ask her to divorce him.

Julie Farrow's passionate words came back to him cuttingly:

"I cannot imagine that any woman would want to keep you once she had found out what you really are——"

It was strange how faithfully he remembered everything she had ever said to him, everything from her first friendly words on the boat to her last despairing goodbye.

"I wish I could kill you—I wish I could kill you."

There had been moments when he almost wished it, too—moments when life seemed to hold nothing worth striving after, nothing to which he could look forward. He remembered how intolerant he had been of Rodney.

"Why the devil can't you leave women alone?" he had said to him scores of times, and Rodney had answered:

"You'll be caught yourself some day, my boy, and then you'll sing a different tune; you've been clever so far, but your turn will come."

His turn had come now, and for the second time. First there had been his hurried, inexplicable marriage with Sadie, and how this tragic meeting with Julie—this real thing in which he had never had any belief and which had robbed him of happiness and peace of mind for ever. She had said she would never forgive him—that she would go down to her grave hating him.

He tried not to believe it. Julie was young, and she would forget him, or at least forgive him. Not that he wished her to forget—God alone knew what he did want!

Even if they ever met again and she forgave him, he was still tied. A thousand times since he left Switzerland he had thought of asking Sadie to divorce him. She had often declared that she would be glad of her freedom, but Sadie was a mass of contradictions, and Chittenham knew her well enough to guess that if she thought he wished to get rid of her she would never allow him to do so. All these thoughts were passing through his mind as his mother went on wailing and complaining.

"I had hoped we should be able to go about together. My life is lonely enough. Anyone would think you were ashamed of me. You have never once offered to take me out anywhere since you came home."

Giles turned round.

"I thought you were too miserable to wish to go anywhere," he said harshly. "I'm hanged if I know what the devil you do want——". Then as she burst into tears he repented and apologized remorsefully.

"I'm sorry. I shouldn't have said that. We get on one another's nerves. I'm sorry, mother. I'll do anything you want me to do. I hate to see you moping and miserable. Rodney would be the last to wish it."

"Rodney loved me," Mrs. Ardron said with a fresh burst of tears. "Rodney was always pleased to take me anywhere. I don't understand you, Giles. You're so harsh. I suppose it's because you've never cared for anyone, but your turn will come."

"I've heard that before," Chittenham said dryly, "and it's beside the point anyway. Stop crying, for heaven's sake! Tell me what you want me to do and I'll do it. Shall we run over to the Continent for a week or two, or what would you like to do?"

His mother dried her eyes and smiled faintly.

"You remind me so much of your father," she said, "he would always bully me until I cried, and then he would have given me the moon to dry my tears."

If she had spoken truthfully she would have said that Giles's father would have given her anything for peace, a thing which, poor man, he never found till the grave closed over him.

"Very well, then, I'll give you the moon, too, if you can tell me where to get it," Giles said. But he had no real hope of drying his mother's tears effectually,so it was an agreeable surprise when quite suddenly she began to be cheerful.

After all, she was only a butterfly, and when the clouds crossed the face of her sun, she knew of no remedy save the poor one of tears.

"I daresay you will be shocked," she said almost coquettishly, "but I should love to go out to dinner and then to a dance somewhere. I can dance quite nicely," she hastened to explain with the suspicion of a blush, "and really, Giles, I don't look anything like my full age when I'm in evening dress and the lights have been well chosen."

Chittenham had to laugh. She was very young at heart, after all, this mother of his, and he would rather have had her frivolous than morbid; he felt that he could deal with the situation more capably.

"Very well, we'll go out to dinner and a dance," he agreed. "Where would you like to go—the Savoy?"

"Oh, no!" She was looking quite eager. "To a night club. I've never been to a night club, Giles, not to a real one that is open all night, and where you eat eggs and bacon at three o'clock in the morning. It would be quite all right with you, wouldn't it?"

"It would be quite all right anyways" he answered amusedly. "These places are only what you choose to make them. Very well, what time do we start?"

"What time is it now?"

Mrs. Ardron put her handkerchief away and produced a powder puff.

"Seven o'clock."

"Call for me at nine. I don't know that I really want a dinner. I can have a little something on a tray before I dress. We might have supper at the club about eleven, don't you think, Giles?"

"Anything you like. I'm agreeable to anything."

She smiled suddenly, showing a baby dimple in one cheek.

"You know you're just like your father," she told him again. "You can be the sweetest thing on earth when you like and you can be the biggest bear when you like." She slipped a hand through his arm. "You won't have to be ashamed of your mother tonight, Giles."

"Who said I was ever ashamed of you?" Giles growled. He looked down at her with pretended severity, then suddenly he smiled, and bending, kissed her. "You've never grown up, that's what's the matter with you," he said. "Well, I'll be off and put on my best bib and tucker for the great occasion."

He was immensely relieved at the turn of affairs and yet in a queer sort of way he felt disillusioned.

Which was the real woman—the one who had cried and wailed for Rodney and declared she could never be happy again, or the smiling butterfly with the baby dimple who so easily grew excited at the thought of a night club and ham and eggs at three o'clock in the morning? Giles had lived in night clubs for weeks, in order to please Sadie when they were first married, and he had found each one only varying in degrees of boredom. He knew exactly the type of people whom one encountered there; the unsexed-looking women and effeminate youths; the elderly men who imagined themselves irresistible to girls young enough to be their grand-daughters, and the middle-aged women who fondly imagined that short skirts and shingled hair took them back again to their 'teens.

He was sick of cocktails and foxtrots; sick of jazz bands and flirtations, but they bored him one degree less than floods of tears and the bewailing of things which could not be remedied, so it was almost light-heartedly that he went back to his hotel to dress. After all, she was his mother, this poor little weak woman, and deep down in his heart there was the kind of affection for her which a big shaggy dog will feel for a tiny kitten. She existed, and she must be treated kindly, and therefore if it pleased her to spend an evening amongst the blare and glare of a night club, he would take her and make the best of it.

ALEXANDER SMITH, K.C.

PORT ELGIN, Ont., Oct. 22 (Canadian Press).—Amid tributes from friends in every walk of life, the body of Alexander Smith, K.C., former Liberal organizer, was carried from the family homestead to Port Elgin Cemetery for burial Saturday. Death occurred at Ottawa last Wednesday, after a two-day illness.

Funeral services were conducted at the family homestead, Lot 14, Concession 5, Saugeen Township, about two miles south of Port Elgin, and were attended by many men prominent in politics and other friends from all parts of Canada."

Rev. C. N. Padden, pastor of St. Andrew's United Church, Saugeen, where Mr. Smith attended Sunday school as a boy, conducted the service. He was assisted by Rev. D. H. Gallagher, pastor of Port Elgin United Church, who read the scripture lesson; Rev. Dr. Fraser Smith, Toronto, who led the prayer, and Rev. Dr. D. McGillivray, Toronto, who delivered the funeral sermon. Glowing tributes were paid the life of Mr. Smith, to his unswerving loyalty and love for his country and friends.

A group of men and women who had attended school under Mr. Smith before he took up the study of law, were present to do honor to the memory of their former schoolmaster.

Floral tributes were numerous and beautiful and included baskets from Premier Mackenzie King and Hon. James Malcolm, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Among the chief mourners were Miss Annie Smith, a sister, and Dugald Smith, only brother, ex-Reeve of Saugeen Township.

Others who attended included Hon. James Malcolm, Minister of Trade and Commerce; Senator Jas. Spence, Senator the Rt. Hon. George P. Graham. These men, representing the Dominion Government, acted as pall-bearers, together with Kirk Cameron, Montreal, an intimate friend of Mr. Smith, and C. M. Bowman, former members of Parliament for South ampton.

Others present were: Hon. Duncan Marshal, Wellington Hay, members of Parliament for North Wellington; Watson Sellers, secretary to Hon. James Robb; H. E. M. Chisholm of the Department of Trade and Commerce; Ross Munro, Toronto; A. P. Mewhinney, M.L.A. for North Bruce; W. P. Telfer, former member of Parliament for North Grey; Dr. W. A. Hall, member of Parliament for South Bruce, and representative men from every municipality in Bruce County.

The body was conveyed from Ottawa Friday in a special car which carried a number of intimate friends of Mr. Smith.

istics of mankind which were most to be desired.

The Music

The Quinte Quartette of Belleville added greatly to the musical part of the service. They sang at both services and also gave a concert after the evening hour of worship. Quartette consists of Messrs. G. Cobley, W. Lister, H. Howard and R. J. Murray. George Robson, also of Belleville, played the accompaniments. The two quartette selections at the morning service were, "I've Found a Friend," and "Sometime, Somewhere." There was also a duet by Messrs. Howard and Lister and a solo by Mr. Cobley. There were also two quartettes in the evening, "Saviour Comfort Me," and "Softly Now The Light of Day." Other numbers were: "The Watchman" a solo by Mr. Howard and "Thou Who Liftest Thy Divine Petition," a duet by Messrs. Lister and Cobley; from Stayner's Crucifixion. Both at the regular services and at the concert after evening church, the work of the quartette as a whole and by the individual members won much approval by a congregation that is well versed along the lines of church music.

Centre of Presbyterianism.

Burnbrae is the oldest centre of Presbyterianism in the district. Eighty-nine years ago, the late Rev. Dr. Neill arrived in the little clearing of Burnbrae and the following year the first Presbyterian church was erected. Previous to this there was no official church building and Dr. Neill was ordained and inducted in either a store house or a barn on the English Line, on the property of the late James Allen. This was before there was a church at either Rylstone or Campbellford and even before there was any settlement at all where Campbellford now stands. Burnbrae is, really, the first church, the pioneer church, of the Presbyterian faith in this district.

The first church, completed in 1840, was of frame construction. The community grew in numbers and prosperity and twenty-six years later, 1866, a second building was erected. This time the material used in construction was stone. This was not replaced by the present structure till the year 1896, ten years after the retirement of the late Dr. Neill, who was the minister of Burnbrae church for forty-four years.

Standing on a rise of ground close to the road and surrounded by a church yard wherein are many tombstones marking the graves of pioneers, the "Scotch Church" is a landmark in more ways than one. The modern brick building represents the trend of prosperity of the community from the time almost ninety years ago when the first unpretenious house of worship was erected in the little clearing that has grown to where it is known as a rich farming district and occupied by successful tillers of the soil. Recently the entire interior of the church has been redecorated It is finished with two tones of buff and the wood work throughout has been refinished and varnished. The ends of the pews which are made of iron have been retouched with a deep red, almost a black and edged in gold. The entire interior presents a much more cheerful, bright and prosperous appearance than it previously did.

FIRST HONORS WON BY WARSAW SCHOOL

whole parade, and Emily school, led by Miss Doris Parker, was exceptionally good in its identity and in the parade. Number 3 school of Harvey, or the Lakehurst school, with Miss Isabel Sutton as teacher, carried off fourth prize.

The judges, R. M. Glover and A. F. Hagerman, had a big task on their hands to decide the winners; the schools were so close and to each school which did not win a prize Mr. Glover contributed the sum of $5.00 for the excellent showing it had made.

The Millbrook school was the largest in the parade, being 28 strong, with the girls all dressed in blue skirts and white middies, while the boys had blue trousers and white shirts. Each wore a blue and white skull cap and they marched to the time of their own drummer. The Emily school was twenty-one strong, and all carried little flags. Number 9 of Smith, under Miss Nellie Davidson, was twenty-four strong, and made a most excellent showing with their large red and blue sashes and the figure 9 pinned on the chest of each pupil. Pleasant Plains school was there with ten pupils under their teacher, Miss Vera McIlmoyle. Each pupil wore a large red sash with Pleasant Plains written across it, and all were in blue and white. Millburn's, or Number 3 Smith, had twenty-three pupils and were led by a little girl dressed in white representing Miss Canada. Miss Dobbin is the teacher of this school. It was the fine demonstration of physical training exercises that No. 3 Harvey gave that put them in fourth position. The school's marching was no so good as the other winners, and it had its own drummer.

No. 7 Smith, taught by Miss Muriel Boyce was there, with nineteen pupils. They were all dressed in blue and white with red bands on their heads with the identification marks No. 7 on them. Number 1 of North Monaghan, taught by Miss Lilly Kay, was the first school to be called upon to go through its exercises. Its marching was exceptionally good, parading in twos, fours and eights, and gave the Lakehurst school a close run for fourth position. Number 17 Otonabee, under Miss Dorothy Wyman's instruction, also made a fine showing.

None of the losing schools need be ashamed on the showing their made. They all gave their best and everyone showed that the teachers had spent hours in training. The winners were just a little bit better in every position, while the losers, although strong in one or more exercises slipped in one just enough to let one of the other schools squeeze in ahead of them.

Catchacoma News

Word has been received from the surveyor-general of the Department of Lands and Forests (Oct. 3rd, 1928) officially declaring that the 66 feet of government reserve running round Lake Catchacoma is to be measured from high water mark and that high water mark is to be ascertained by a height of 8 feet above the top sill of the dam at the mouth of Gull lake. This declaration by the department will mean that the "strip" which belongs to the public runs considerably farther inland than has been supposed. The high water mark referred to is just about the usual spring high water mark and can be pretty well gauged by the mark to which inland from this mark of level that the public land-strip or "street" is measured. It would be well for people desiring to buy or sell properties on these lakes to get a copy of this official declaration from the department.

A very jolly dance was held jointly on Friday evening by Miss Viola Harvey and Miss Jeanette Allen, when a variation to the usual program was afforded by the dance held at Miss Allen's home and the refreshments served later at the home of Miss Harvey, on Sherbrooke Street. Decorations for the dance were carried out with a profusion of lovely autumn leaves and excellent music was provided by Mr. William Steer. The "lucky number" dance was won by Miss Margaret McCulloch and Mr. Pat Hall. At Miss Harvey's home, decorations were in the Hallowe'en colors of black and yellow, and a decidedly popular innovation was the palmistry fortune-telling by a gaily costumed gypsy (Mrs. K. Wightman), who read palms in a dimly-lighted grotto. Mrs. C. S. Browne poured coffee and Mrs. H. Clifton cut the ices. Among those present were the Misses Evelyn Armstrong, Margaret McCulloch, Mary Westbye, Grace Caddy, Grace Cunningham, Mildred Morphet, Mary Comstock, Barbara Foster, Helen Hodgens, Katherine Hodgens, Violet Davidson, Isobel Davidson, Helen Caddy, Lorraine Middleton, Dorothy Kelly, Doris Kelly, Gwen Sorby Beatrice Denston, Arleigh Comstock, Sidney Mervin, Mary Denne, Margaret Warne, Muriel Wilson, Minnie Ebbs, Dorothy Foster, Grace Comstock, Gwen Hewitt, Sybil Sharpe, Marion Hall, Pat Hall, Neil Gemmell, Keith Copping, Ronald Fleming, Jim Gimblett, Clayton Ruth, Wilfred Preston, Richard Cowan, Crawford Hall, Howard McDonald, Bryan Copping, William Widdess, Francis Hewitt, Hugh Waddell, Wilmot Gordon, Grant Breckenridge, Gordon Roper, Melville Robinson, Douglas Fraser, William Sangster, Alan Heideman, Jack Patte, Lionel Sorby, Max Sauer, Hedley Vickers, Ralph Cox, Stanley Elliott, Ralph Clark, Vaughan Elliott, Max Middleton and Dick Green.

WON'T ASK DIVORCE.

Mrs. Mortimer Davis, better known as Roszika Dolly, who announced flat'- at Nice, France, that she had no intention of seeking a divorce from the son of the Canadian tobacco king. Rumors became current after publication of her father-in-law's will which barred her from participating in his $150,000,000 estate. "I see no reason why I should discuss my finances with the public," she said. "But I am virtually forced to say that more than generous financial provision, covering every eventuality, was made when I was married."

HEALTH NURSE DOES GOOD WORK

Answers Calls At All Hours of Day, No Matter What Weather.

Through sunshine or storm, snow, mud or dust, the district nurse drives her car, which was purchased and is maintained by the Health Association. It may be mid-day or midnight, if a call comes in the hard working nurse is ready to respond without paying the least attention to the clock. Her visits take her to all parts of the city where she is eagerly welcomed by anxious ones who are awaiting her administrations. Some idea of the magnitude of her work may be gained when it is realized that thus far this year she has made over two thousands calls and the year is not yet over. This is only one feature of the work the Health Association is so quietly doing, and the maintenance of the nurse and car is but one item in their yearly expense.

CUCUMBER JELLY

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

By MARION

WELL, THE PRODUCED-IN-CANADA EXHIBITION is over.

• • • • • • •

I have taken so much in during the past week that it is difficut to get it all untangled in my head. I am sure the members in charge must be glad ,too, so much has been their responsibility—just depending on the good citizens of Peterborough to carry it through.

• • • • • • •

And they did, too; to a glorious success!

• • • • • • •

The women are not to be forgotten, either. I hope the members of the Club have extended to them their well-earned thanks.

• • • • • • •

And the weather—wouldn't it give anybody the hebygeebees"? I don't know whether that is the proper way to spell it or, but it expresses my feeling toward rain and wet weather. It was even worse than the Industrial Exhibition; but still the people didn't seem to mind, and turned out well.

• • • • • • •

But I suppose we can't expect wonderful weather all the time, especially when it is almost the end of October, and with the end of October comes Hallowe'en—arrangements are already being made for the annual Examiner Party, so don't forget to get your costume made for the big parade.

• • • • • • •

And just as I was meditating on games and suggestions for Hallowe'en, which are being offered this week, I thought of the insides of grapes which are somethimes passed in a dark cellar as eyes of some weird person who has supposed to have passed on, and it sprung to my mind where I had last seen single grapes used—they had the skins on them, of course.

• • • • • • •

It is often rather hard to know what to do with the loose grapes one finds in the bottom of the basket, but recently I saw them served loosely in a dish, as one would serve nuts or olives. They were a rich purple grape, set in a bed of chopped ice and presented an attractive color effect in a delightful dish of light green.

• • • • • • •

Such a dish is as suited to the breakfast table as any other meal, and though it does not take the place of the regular morning fruit, it provides an attractive addition. At luncheon or dinner small dishes may occupy the corners of the table and taken as nuts or olives.

• • • • • • •

Speaking of using grapes as a table decoration, I discovered a plant the other day—easily grown and which is used as a table centre.

• • • • • • •

And one could never guess what it is produced from—the most unthinkable thing on earth in my estimation—grapefruit seeds.

• • • • • • •

The seeds are soaked in cold water for twenty-four hours and are planted in a small jardiniere filled with earth. In about three weeks there will be a dark green shiny plant suitable for a table centre.

• • • • • • •

This plant isn't as perishable as the ordinary table fern, either, and I hope mine grows for I have been cherishing one of the so-called table ferns for about five years, and it is just exactly the same height as when it was ushered into the house.

• • • • • • •

Aspirin tablets and plant food and fertilizer apparently take no effect.

• • • • • • •

Did you notice at the Fair last week the number of lamps used in the booths? What a difference lamps make in a home, too! It doesn't matter whether they are floor lamps or table lamps, they add distinction and comfort to the home.

• • • • • • •

But then, some person protests and says, "It is all very well for those living in a new house, where they have all sorts of outlets, but it is very expensive to have all the wiring done for an old residence."

• • • • • • •

I have discovered an extension device which might help out a little. In addition to the five or six feet of silk cord, the wires extend through a piece of flat rubber tubing about three quarters of an inch wide. This lies flat on the floor and can be slipped under the rug and your lamp can be across the room from your wall socket.

JEWELLERS OFFER PRIZES FOR SLOGAN

Diamond Ring Worth $1,000 First Prize in This Competition.

Many industries have found it advantageous to use slogans, and some familiar to all of us are "Save the surface and you save all", "Fifty-seven varieties", "Say it with flowers" and "Gifts that last."

The Canadian Jewellers Association who have used the last one have never been wholly satisfied with it, as it only features one phase of the jeweller's service to the community. Both in Canada and the United States there has been a more or less definite attempt to secure and appropriate and inclusive slogan, but to date nothing has been found which will fill the need.

Feeling that it is difficult to phrase in a few words a better slogan for the industry they are now featuring a slogan contest, offering $1,500 in prizes for the best slogan submitted any time up to November 30th. The first prize is a thousand dollar diamond ring, the second prize a cabinet of silverware and the third a sterling silver tea set, and the fourth a lady's or gentleman's watch, pocket or wrist style, solid gold case.

All Canadian Jewellers Association and Canadian Jewellers Publicity Association members are displaying window cards showing these articles and any who deem they are capable of phrasing a winning slogan should ask any of these jewellers for a card upon which to enter their slogan.

It is expected that there will be a keen competition for these prizes, and the results will be announced through the newspapers as soon after the contest is closed as possible, and the prizes will be distributed previous to the Christmas season.

The Canadian Jewellers Association should be congratulated upon this method of providing Christmas gifts for at least four persons who are original enough to think out the best slogans.

CAMPBELLFORD, October 22. — Mrs. Ross Ryder is suffering from injuries she received when she accidentally was pushed off her balance and into a chair when attending a sale yesterday afternoon.

Mr. A. D. Dickson is spending the week at his home here. He has just returned from the district north-west of Red Lake.

Practically the entire choir and a large number of the congregation of the Anglican Church attended the service in St. John's Anglican Church at Warkworth last night.

Many people from town attended the anniversary services at Burnbrae Church yesterday morning and evening.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall

Tailored frock showing interesting pockets on hips.

If I were Louiseboulanger, Vionnet or Jeanne Lanvin I'd provide one of my new full-skirted evening frocks with an old-fashioned pocket. It would be one of the deep pouch pockets that used to be set between the side gores on the right sides of women's skirts. There surely is room enough in the new full skirts to hide such a pocket and to have such an old-fashioned pocket in one of these new ultra-modern frocks would, I think, be rather amusing.

Pockets have been revived this season, but so far as I know they are never pockets of this sort and they do not appear in evening or afternoon frocks but on sports frocks and tailored suits. As pockets they don't amount to much because one would hesitate about using them lest the bulk of even a small handkerchief or the weight of a powder puff them lest the bulk of even a small handkerchief or the weight of a powder puff might spoil the effect.

An interesting little imported belt I saw the other day was made of fine strands of natural-colored raffia, knitted on rather fine needles in old-fashioned garter stitch. The belt was about an inch and a half wide and provided with a neat little metal buckle at one end. It cost rather more than you or I would care to spend on such a trifle, but it occurred to me that if I had some fine knitting needles and some raffia I would make one for myself. The raffia would have to be split so that each strand would be barely more than the size of a coarse thread.

At one of the fashionable "beauty parlors" lately I was assured that women were spending relatively more money on their faces than they have spent for several seasons. "If a woman has fifteen dollars to spend," the expert told me, "she will not spend it all on her hair—as some women did last year, when so many went without proper facial treatments in order to have frequent hair treatments." I asked for an explanation of hats whichshowed more of the forehead and eyebrows and made it necessary to have a fine complexion and faultlessly shaped eyebrows.

OLYMPIC STAR WEDS

When Miss Ethel Smith, who represented Canada at the Olympic Games this year, was married recently to Harry F. Hogarth, there were many who wished her long happiness, but none who congratulated her with more sincerity than those who ran with her for world's championship honors. The bride and bridegroom are shown leaving after the ceremony, under the batons of her companions of the Canadian relay team.

NO FROZEN NORTH WOMAN DECLARES

Wife of Governor Intends To Spend Winter at Fort Smith.

EDMONTON, Alta., Oct. 22.—(Canadian Press).—"I wish I could get people to forget the term "Frozen North"—to stop applying it to our country. It gives the impression of desolation, and the country is anything but desolate," says Mrs. John A. McDougal wife of the governor of the Mackenzie district of the North West Territories, who has been spending a few days in the city. Mrs. McDougal is reversing her usual custom of going north for the summer, and is going "in" for the winter this year. Five years ago she spent a winter at Fort Smith where government house is located, and since then has found it necessary in the interests of her children's education to remain in Vancouver. In the intervening years she has gone "in "on the first boat in the spring, and come "out" on the last. And because she has enjoyed the northern life, she would like others to understand and appreciate it.

Winter has its long nights, it is true, but such wonderful moonlight, and glorious nights! What if the roads are closed for automobile traffice then? Are there not the dog teams? And it is very pleasant to hear the jingling of the bells and the crack of the whip as the teams swing out on the long trail to the next post office! Or when one goes out riding. The weather reports may give sixty five degrees below zero suggest real cold to one who does not know the climate from experience, but Mrs. McDougal says it is no colder there than in Edmonton, because the atmosphere is drier there than here, and last year a picnic was held at Fort Smith on May 10. Though the ice was still on the river the day was warm and beautiful. Fort Smith has a mail once a week in the summer and fortnightly in winter, and some of the old-timers grumble at that, what with wireless and radio and mail, they are getting altogether too much news, and the peace of the wilderness is gone!

Last summer Mrs. McDougal and her daughter accompanied her husband north as far as Aklavik on a trip of inspection. Mr. McDougal went on from there as far as Cambridge Island, 1,200 miles beyond Herchels Island. It was a wonderful experience, the novelty of visiting all the posts and seeing the people, white, Indian, and Eskimo, who had come, as is their custom, to meet the first boat, all left their impression. At one post they saw the election of an Indian chief. At Aklavik she saw Eskimos for the first time, and was astonished to find radios and victrolas in the igloos of the northern natives. There are no automobiles at Aklavik, but there is one at Herschel Island. It went up on the boat on which Mrs. Mcdougal travelled.

The Indians at Fort Smith do not lag behind the times either, says this interesting visitor. Many of them have their own radios; victrolas are common; and three Indians own automobiles. Indians are a carefree people. They give no thought to the price or to the tomorrow's needs if they have the money at the moment.

LYRICS OF LIFE

IN THE THRONG.

I search the crowd not for the proud,
Not for the painted lass,
Nor even youth abloom with truth,
For fairer faces pass.
For now and then I see again,
As sweet as some old song,
A face more fair and saintly there—
A mother in the throng.

I do not seek the rosy cheek,
I seek a head of gray.
The good, the pure, a faith more sure,
Is what I need to-day.
I need to know God's word is so,
To know God's love is strong.
These things return when I discern
A mother in the throng.

And then I press the others less,
I crowd not quite so much.
In life's hard race of wealth and place
We know not whom we touch.
I'd rather choose the right, and lose,
Than win the world by wrong.
One cannot see—and there might be
A mother in the throng.

NETTLE RASH.

Many people are troubled with the appearance of a rash on the skin, accompanied by an intense stinging, burning sensation. This rash is in the form of wheals, and they may become maximum size, varying from that of a pinhead to that of a half dollar, within a few minutes, and they sometimes disappear as rapidly as they form.

These lesions may appear on any part of the skin, and they sometimes occur inside the throat on the epiglottis, giving a choking sensation or feeling of suffocation. When they appear on the tongue, they may cause it to become greatly enlarged.

The itching is so intense that it is almost impossible for the patient to resist scratching, which only increases the size of the wheals.

Attacks of hives can only occur in people who are suffering from a form of chronic acidosis, and each attack is preceded by a period of lassitude, digestive disorders, coated tongue and possibly headaches. A fingernail drawn over the surface of the skin of these patients usually leaves a red line, and it is possible to write words on the surface of their bodies in this manner.

Poorly fed and undernourished children are most frequent sufferers from this disorder. The eruptions are usually small and appear about the hair follicles, accompanied by the usual intense itching.

In some forms of this disease, technically known as urticaria, there are also large swellings under the skin like small eggs, occuring most frequently on the face. The disease has a variety of forms. In some cases it occurs at regular intervals. Sometimes the irritations leave brownish discolorations or stains. These people usually become badly swollen as the result of mosquito or insect bites.

One susceptible to this disorder may suffer an attack from a number of causes, but there is almost always some irritation of the digestive tract. The foods that are most frequently blamed for bringing on these eruptions are shellfish, cheese, sausage, pork, strawberries, cucumbers, and an almost endless variety of foods and drugs.

This disease may occur as a complication in the course of many chronic diseases, and in susceptible people the irritation of various substances applied to the skin will bring on an attack. Some of the substances which bring on this rash most frequently when in contact with the skin are rotogravure ink from newspapers, the content of certain plants such as the primrose, various types of essential oils and gases. Worry and nervous irritation are also likely to bring on the eruption.

Such eruptions are readily cured, since all that is required is to thoroughly alkalinize the blood. This is accomplished through the use of the acid fruit diet, such as apples, grapes, oranges or grape-fruit for a period varying from five to ten days and followed by a well-balanced diet as outlines in my weekly articles in the newspapers.

One should be particularly careful to avoid fermentation in the intestines, and I am convinced that wrong food combinations are more responsible for skin troubles than most of the foods that are blamed by the sufferers. One with a tendency to such a disorder must be particularly careful in this respect. I will gladly send without charge my article on food combinations to those who are interested, provided they will send large, self-addressed, stamped envelopes.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Mrs. H. writes: "I have been told by a friend that a rolling-pin is good for reducing. Another friend contradicted the statement, saying that it was very injurious. Is it or is it not? I am five feet, five inches tall, thirty-two years old, and weigh 126 pounds. Am I underweight or overweight?"

Answer: The only correct way to reduce is through diet and exercise. Massage with a rolling-pin is not very effective, and only tends to break down the cellular structure. Your weight for your age and height seems to me to be about normal.

Question: I. L. writes: "I am very interested in your articles, and would like very much to see a write-up on 'Alcoholic Drinks'."

Answer: I cannot elaborate on this subject in a short answer in this Question and Answer Department. Alcoholic drinks should be used carefully, if at all. They are stimulating and helpful in certain cases and under certain conditions. Where too much is used, stimulation stops, and depression or intoxication begins.

Question: G. H. asks: "What would you advise for gall-bladder trouble? I am having sick headaches, and vomit often."

Answer: I have written a great deal on this subject, and will be glad to send you complete information about the cause and cure of various forms of gall-bladder trouble if you will send a request to me, inclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. In the meantime, cut down on the amount of food you are using, and to begin with, try a short fast on fruit for a few days.

HAS PERILOUS VOYAGE

The ocean-going tug George W. Yates of the Department of Railways and Canals, has arrived safely in Nelson Harbor after having been four days overdue on a twenty-four journey and giving the officials of the Department the most anxious time they have had in years. She sailed Sunday, October 7, for Nelson but was overtaken by a terrific storm. Out of sight of land and with compasses affected by the serious magnetic variations of the bay she could not get her bearings and was tossed about for four days, before a glimmer of sun shone through and she was able to get her position and make her way into Nelson. In the meantime the engineers on shore had sent aeroplanes searching for her but they could find no trace. Aboard her were D. C. McLachlan, chief engineer of the Hudson Bay project and the chairman of the Canadian section of the joint board of engineers of the St. Lawrence waterways, and 23 other men in addition. ABOVE are shown two views of the tug, a side view and a view of the bow with members of the crew on deck.

Today: Bedtime Story

MAN'S RELIANCE UPON WATER

The earliest nations of men originated in fertile valleys like the Euphrates and the Nile. In lands periodically inundated with the waters of these rivers, man could rely upon his crops of grain and vegetables. Civilizations of the past and present have followed where water was abundant.

The most uninhabited portions of the world are those dry and rocky places where the least water exists in an available form, such as the great deserts of the world—the Sahara of Africa, the Gobi of Mongolia, and the Majave and middle western deserts of the United States. On these arid lands, parched by the glaring sun of countless centuries, no plants will grow.

The first jelly-like beginnings of organic life, both vegetable and animal, came from the sea, and perished whenever they were cast upon dry land; and from the Palaeozoic jungles to the present time, organic life has been changed and controlled by the varying balance between the elements of water and sunlight. Life had to remain near the shores of beaches and shallows.

No creature can breathe or digest its food without water. Water-living creatures wave their freely exposed gills by which they extract their oxygen from the water. Every plant and animal that escaped from the sea had to develop a tough outer coat around its breathing apparatus to retain its moisture and the vertebrate animals developed their lungs encased within their bodies. Even the lungs are somewhat on the principle of gills, since the oxygen of the air is absorbed by the moisture of the lungs before it can reach the blood.

Many of the lower forms of life are born and live in water. Some, such as the amphibians, come forth and live upon the land. The frog lays its eggs within the water. The eggs hatch into tadpoles. The tadpoles develop legs and lungs so that the frog can live and walk on the land.

All animals living in sunlight and air must have a protective skin to regulate and retain their moisture so that they will not dry up.

A higher form of life than the amphibian, the reptile, has its life beginning in eggs on land, but the egg is principally water, and is surrounded by a hard shell that prevents evaporation by preserving the precious moisture until the egg is hatched.

The highest form of life that has developed on this planet is the mammal, a form where the egg is retained and protected within the body of the mother until it has developed into a miniature adult.

With the aid of water, which is the greatest solvent in the world, the nourishing elements locked in the soil are dissolved, so that when the sun shoots forth its shaft of infra-red and pierces through the fertile earth, stirring the germ of life within the seed, there will be food for the seed to grow, and bud and blossom into full maturity.

There can be no life without water. The highest forms of living things exist where the water supply is regulated to meet the demands of both animal and vegetable life.

Questions and Answers.

Question: J. L. G. asks: "Will you please explain how bacteria can produce disease if the fault is really as you say caused by our bad habits of living?"

Answer: Bacteria are microscopic fungus growths and are really of vegetable origin. They grow in much the same way as yeast cells or mold. They increase in numbers by dividing, so that they actually "multiply by dividing." Bacteria cannot grow except in suitable soil, and the person with bad habits provides this soil usually on some of the mucous membranes, such as in the nose and throat. Bacteria grow rapidly and often produce poisons of their own, some being more violent than others. There are good bacteria and bad ones, but each must have suitable soil for growth. Bad habits cultivate the growth of the injurious bacteria, while good habits promote the growth of the friendly bacteria.

Question: Mrs. A. N. writes: "My husband is troubled with eczema. He always eats oatmeal for his breakfast, and I have heard that it is bad for eczema. Should he stop eating oatmeal?"

Answer: Those troubled with eczema should avoid all starches and sugars until the tendency to such skin eruptions is entirely overcome. Oatmeal is undoubtedly more irritating to this class of disorder than are the other starches.

Question: L. J. B. writes: "For some weeks now my knees have been swollen, giving a sharp twinge when I move. There is also a cracking noise in the joints. Is this serious, and could you advise me what to do?"

Answer: You are developing a case of articular rheumatism and should take a fruit fast to cleanse your system of the gather of rheumatic toxins. I have written a special article on dieting for rheumatic troubles. If you wish for a copy of it, send your request with a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope to me, in care of this newspaper.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1928

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Early today benefic aspects are strong, according to astrology which reads in the stars fair promises to women.

The morning hours may be depressing to women who work and housekeepers may feel weary of humdrum tasks, but as the day advances better conditions prevail.

This should be a lucky wedding day, prefacing years of companionship in work rather than the prosperity that brings about divided interests.

The theatre should benefit, especially where civic interests have focussed. This is an auspicious date for new plays.

Music continues under a promising direction of the stars, but it may be handicapped by new inventions and new fads that enthrall the people, it is foretold.

It is not an auspicious rule under which to argue and lawyers may have an especially bad time today.

The sway is supposed to emphasize differences of opinion and to accentuate dissensions of every sort.

The radio is the safest medium for speechmaking while this planetary government prevails, for it foreshadows heckling and even riots at public meetings.

It is well to rest from important endeavors after sundown, for there is an aspect that will cause disappointment, the seers warn.

Under this rule the mind may be inclined to harbor small enmities and to exaggerate trivial matters. It is most unfortunate for family peace.

Again the stars presage increase of divorce and hasty remarriages, but there is a sign that seems to indicate a stern new face on the part of the public.

Under the planetary changes which seem to presage serious national and international problems there will be a higher standard of loyalty to family traditions, astrologers predict.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of rather a commonplace year in which they should combat an inclination to be restless and bored. They may be rather difficult to live with and should cultivate the domestic virtues.

Children born on this day probably will have large ideas and will be keen on far travels. They should be exceedingly bright and entertaining, for unusual gifts belong to the subjects of Scorpio. They also have a great regard for their personal appearance and usually are dignified.

P.C.I. TEAMS WIN OUT-OF-TOWN GAMES

Intercollegiate Squads Tied For Honors

SENIORS WIN BY 19-1 SCORE

Defeat L. C. I. Rivals 19-1 To Take Lead of Group.

GROUNDS BALED OUT.

Lindsay Students Carry Scores of Pails of Water Off Field.

The Peterborough Collegiate senior rugby team stock took a big jump as a result of the behavior of that outfit in their game against Lindsay Collegiate on Saturday afternoon. Leaving here at noon, they motored to Scugogtown, and at three o'clock, despite several heavy showers, went into battle on the Kawartha Park campus —the opposition's own stamping ground—and when the smoke, or rather the mud of battle had cleared, they were sitting out in front by a 19—1 count. Their standing at the top of the group with three wins and a loss, is still a very real thing. Lighter than their rivals, they made up for this deficiency with a speedy attack and careful organization of plays that proved far more to their advantage than did the heavy line plunging of the homesters to the Red, Old Gold and Blue. The single point scored against them came in the last quarter on a kick by Miles, L.C.I. quarterback.

Going Was Heavy

The Petes proved good mudders, as the score indicates. The grounds, off which more than a hundred pails of water had been taken by energetic home-town students during the morning, were still in poor condition, and aggravated by a first game between Bowmanville and L.C.I. Juniors (which the latter team won, 6—0), but, as one of the boy remarked, "If it had been in Belleville, they'd have poured it down in front of their own citadel."—Just a memory.

At any rate, despite the threatening rain clouds, there was a goodly attendance of students and citizens on hand when the rival outfits pushed off, and they got plenty of action.

First Half

The Petes climbed in right at the start, but met heavy opposition in the line-plunging homesters. In fact, they were right down on their own thirty-yard line when Stauffer, a Lindsay back, failed to get his kick away before being tackled. The Petes, in possession of the ball, went into action pronto and with a beautiful end run play, finally ended up on the Lindsay ten-yard line. Three plunges, and the count stood 5 to 0 for the invaders. That was half way through the first quarter, and Gemmill's good boot accounted for the sixth Peterborough point before the whistle. He did it from thirty yards out.

There was little change in the relative strength of the teams as they continued in the second quarter, but a kick over the Lindsay line made the score 7 to 0. A repetition of this added yet another, and then Gemmill took the ball after the kick to make a beautiful run to the Lindsay ten-yard line. A line plunge put Green over, and the Petes were leading, 13 to 0 at the middle recess.

Pete's Final Scoring

Varying the order just a little, the Red and Grey got their next point when Gemmill booted the ball for the last twenty-five yards and later, taking the ball on Lindsay's fifteen-yard line, put Johnson over for their final counting. The last quarter, with Lindsay's point staving off the calsomine, witnessed both teams tiring under the heavy going.

Carl Browne of Peterborough refereed, while Art Carew of Lindsay was umpire. The teams:

Lindsay.—Quarter, Miles; outsides, White and Hall; middles, Maunder and Brethour; insides, Reeves and Gregory; flying wing, Galway; Snap, Beatty; halves, McLean, Fulton and Stauffer. Subs, Johnson, Adams, Seaton and Groves.

Peterborough.—Quarter, Gemmill; outsides, Glover and Westbrook; middles, Johnson and Armstrong; insides, Hall and Wiman; flying wings, Dunkerley and Green; snap, Preston; halves, Cuthbertson and Hewett. Subs, McGee, Dearborn, Lord and Reynolds.

The Intermediates won easily in Bowmanville.

C. G. E. BEAT DELORO 3 TO 1 PECK TROPHY

Burgess Made All the Openings —Mitchell and Parkins Marksmen in First Half.

PENALTIES MISSED.

Brooks Got Visitors' Only Tally —President Vincent Stewart Presented Trophy.

A good crowd of spectators faced the cold breeze on Saturday afternoon to witness the E. A. Peck Cup final between Canadian General and Deloro when the former won the soccer trophy by three goals to one. Yates in goal for visitors, standing nearly six feet high, gave an excellent account of his ability and had no chance to save any of the shots that passed him. At the end of the game, President Vincent Stewart presented the cup to Captain Blowers who made a suitable reply. Mr. E. A. Peck was unable to be present.

FIRST HALF.

A few minutes late, the Deloro centre-man kicked off against a very strong wind that was blowing right down to the east end-end goal. They were to first to become prominent through W. Brown the ball across to Brooks on the wing, he evaded the defence nicely to bang a rocket drive past the post. Then the Petes come into the picture with a well-planned attack that found Yates stopping a hot one in below the bar. From the throw-out, Nicholson relieved the pressure with a punt up-field that left the alert forwards in possession, Brown accepting an opportunity to test Bolton at short range.

Mitchell Opened Scoring.

Quick as a flash, Mann carried the ball to the other end where Laidler manipulated an excellent position to let Burgess trick the full-back nicely. He travelled right along the line the near the goal, then lifted the ball across his pivot who headed the sphere into the net, along the ground. Encouraged by their success, the C.G.E. forwards returned again to bombard the Deloro goal from every angle for the next ten minutes. At this point, Yates in goal was giving an excellent display of goal-keeping.

Wind Spoiled the Play.

Aided by the wind, the Petes had no difficulty in keeping the visitors confined to their own half which brought out the clever tactics of the half-back line. Flag-kicks in abundance fell to the home team without any damage being done. This was interspersed with occasional visits to the C.G.E. goal. A sudden change took place thereafter when the visitors replied with a similar bombardment that they had been put through and for the next ten minutes had the local defence in many a mix-up.

Penalty Brought No Success.

On one of these raids, Brooks got the better of the argument against Westwood on a close tackle and travelled into goal with the ball at his foot but just as he was in the act of shooting, the latter upset him illegally. This brought a spot kick to the visitors who made no use of the chance to score, even getting two chances to do so. W. Brown took the kick but he had to take it over again because an infringement was made by the opposing forwards. The same player again tried his luck but he was penalized for kicking the ball the second time without an opposing player having touched the ball.

Parkins Made It Two.

A great surprise was sprung on the visitors when Clark beat along the wing to test Yates with a lightning drive that ultimately found Parkins' foot to make it two to nil, five minutes before the interval. Canadian General 2, Deloro 0.

HALF-TIME.

Deloro raided the local goal on resuming and Cousins shot behind. A. Brown also having a fine drive that Bolton cleared in the nick of time. It was noticeable that the C. G. E. were taking no chances against the wind and confined their tactics to ground play.

Goal in Four Minutes.

A visit to the Deloro goal was frustrated by Murray who punted up the field to his forwards. Brooks accepted the chance to make progress against the opposition and was successful in letting A. Brown beat Bolton from close range. Soon the Deloro team began to assume the upper hand the visiting custodian getting very little to do, except for an occasional pass back. They kept up a continuous pressure for the rest of this half but could not get a break that was profitable while the local boys made use of the over-eagerness of the visiting full-backs who were inclined to go too far up-field thereby leaving their positions in a qaundary and an open run towards goal.

Opportunities Went Abegging.

Deloro halves kept up steady tackle to prevent the C.G.E. forwards from becoming dangerous but they must have been discouraged many a time when Brown would break through the defence to see him try aimlessly at goal or shoot the ball into the goal-keeper's hands. Time and again the visiting forwards would work the attack inside the defence then finish poorly in front of goal. Their method no doubt proved their downfall in the cup tie.

Petes Made It Three.

With five minutes to go, Burgess beat along the wing at a fast pace to leave the opposing halves behind. He drew the defence away from goal to swerve around again to finally let his mate do the needful, and full time was announced, with the score standing: Canadian General 3, Deloro 0.

Deloro—Yates, goal; Murray and Nicholson, full backs; Savage, Kelly and Hart, halves; Brooks, A. Brown, W. Brown, Brawley and Cousins, forwards.

Canadian General—Bolton, goal; Dickinson and Westwood, full-backs; Houston, Mann and Blowers, halves; Clark, Parkins, Mitchell, Laidler and Burgess, forwards.

THREE TEAMS IN UNION TIE

Queens Defeat McGill 4 To 2 in Intercollegate Senior Rugby Series.

WON ONE AND LOST ONE.

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 22.—(By Canadian Press).—Queen's defeated McGill 4 to 2 in the third inter-collegiate senior rugby game here Saturday, thus creating a triple tie for the first place in the standing, all three teams of the union now having won one and lost one game each. University of Toronto beat Queen's in Kingston, then McGill travelled to Toronto and trounced Varsity, and now, Queen's turns around and hands the red team a beating.

Saturday's game was unimpressive from the standpoint of a good senior exhibition of Canadian rugby football. Neither team showed anything out of the ordinary, Queen's winning solely on the advantages they gained in the punting duels, in which Carter and Warren, the tricolor hoofers, clearly outclassed Lovering, the McGill kicking half, who assumed that role in the absence of Tremain, the rangy half, who did not start owing to an injured knee. Tremain, who can kick with the best in the inter-collegiate league, got into the game late in the fourth quarter, but made his appearance too late to be of practical value to his team. At that, Tremain was only used because Lovering was injured. Four single points for Queen's against two single markers for McGill made up the scoring summary. McGill, taking advantage of a wind at their backs in the first quarter, punted across the Queen's line twice, and at the first change-over, held a 2 to 0 margin. Queen's got one in the second quarter, added two in the third, and another in the final session. The red team was within striking distance several times after the first quarter, but short punts ruined their scoring opportunities.

Neither team could gain appreciably through the line or around the ends. Queen's showed flashes of fast breaking by their halves on end runs and after receiving punts, but these flashy efforts were inconsistent. Warren was the most consistent ground gainer for the Kingston team. On the line, Stuart proved to be the most consistent plunger, while Sutton, at quarter, managed to sneak through cntre a couple of times for gains ranging from five to ten yards.

The Queen's team was at full strength for the fray, the "crippies" notably Sutton, Captain Britton and Monohan, all being back in harness.

On the other hand, McGill injured list included Moar, flying wing, Jacquays, a useful utility man, and Tremain. Moar was not in uniform, while Jacquays, is out for the season.

Tremain's long punts were sadly missed, as it was really only in the punting department that the tricolor showed any distinct edge. Even at that, Queen's kicking was not of consistent high class order, but it looked good in comparison with the weak display of Lovering. The latter, however, can be excused for his lack of useful long punts, as he was pressed into the service on rather short notice, and is not a kicking halfback under any conditions. Otherwise, however, he played a useful game for his Alma Mater, and gave a game display until removed from the game in an injured and utterly exhausted condition.

On of the few features of the rather drab contest was supplied by Lovering, who after kicking off to start the third period ran up to grab the bounding ball on Queen's forty yard line and run ten more yards with it before being downed. It was a good chance for the red team, but Queen's line held and another of many poor kicks spoiled their scoring chance.

McGill's line play was featured by the work of Captain Littlefield and Moteer, the former's defensive work in particular being outstanding.

Loose ball handling indulged in by both teams tended to add a little excitement to a contest which was dull as compared with other inter-collegiate games at the stadium in the past few years. The day was as dull as the game, but nevertheless, a crowd of close to 15,000 persons witnessed the fray. Only intense partisan interest and the closeness of the score, however, gave any of them anything to cheer about.

TIGERS PLAY GOOD RUGBY

Yellow and Black Gladiators Take 9-3 Decision Over Montreal.

BEST GAME OF YEAR.

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 22.—(Canadian Press.)—Hamilton Thistles triumphed over Toronto Scottish here Saturday in the first of home and home final games in the Ontario competition. The margin, so far as goals were concerned, was small. The final score was 2-1, but there was little comparison between the teams. Taking the game all through Thistles were always top dog and thoroughly deserved their win. Indeed they should have won by a wider margin and should never have been scored against. Good defensive work by the Scottish back and goal keeper, coupled with indifferent shooting by the Thistle forwards, kept down the score.

It was a good fast game, a typical cup tie, with some real good football by both teams at times. Thistles had by far the most of the play in the first half when they played with the advantage of a stiff breeze and led by a goal scored by Dewar after thirty-eight minutes. In the second half Scottish started well but were soon repulsed and Thistles again took up the running.

After fifteen minutes of this period, Laurie scored a great goal for Thistles with a drive from twenty-five yards out and it was not until three minutes from time that Scottish scored.

Mosher had stopped a hard drive from Crawley but dropped the ball and Anderson rushed the ball into the net before the goalie could recover. A bad foul by Crawley on Leslie marred an otherwise good display. The next game will be played in Toronto on Saturday next and Scottish will have to play much better than they did yesterday.

The line-up:

Thistles— Mosher, Lodge, McLean, Crawford, T. Lodge, McDonald, Munroe, Dewar, Laurie and Leslie.

Scottish—Halliwell, Crawley, Nokes, McDonald, Muir, Condie, Anderson, Grant, Simpson, Dawson and McIntyre.

Referee—A. Currie, Toronto.

CUBS WIN FIRST GAME

Defeat De Laval Crew 16-2 in Lakefield Softball Rink League Fixture.

PLAY GOOD GAME.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, October 22. — A very fair crowd turned out in spite of the pouring rain and inky darkness on Friday night for the second evening's play in the Rink Company's Softball League.

The first game was played between the De Laval team of Peterborough and the Lakefield Cubs. The De Laval team were newcomers in the league, and made an excellent impression for good sportsmanship with their opponents and also with the fans. The Cubs' team has been reorganized and the vacancies filled with first-class players and the strength of the team is materially increased in many ways.

The game see-sawed back and forth and was anyone's game to the last, the teams were well balanced, and the game was good, clean, and had plenty of thrills. The umpires were R. C. Chittick on the plate and B. Blewett on bases.

The line-up was as follows:

Cubs — W. Elliot, p; R. P. Payne, c; H. Stabler, 1b; H. Hamblin, rss; P. Payne, ss; E. H. Northey, 2b; C. F. Webster, 3b; K. Junkin and G. Nicholls, fields; E. Northey, sub.

De Laval — F. Dyer and W. Simmons, p; E. Simmons, c; Fowler, 1b; B. Jones, rss; E. Woodhouse, ss; H. Stanley, 2b; R. Evans, 3b; K. Miller and T. Griffin, field; R. J. Miller and J. Cooper, subs.

The score by innings:

Cubs .. .. 300140215—16

De Laval .. .. 302500210—12

The second game was between the Cement Company and the High School, and both teams played well, much better than on Tuesday night. The players were better placed, and played a much snappier brand of ball than at their initial game.

The first home run of the season was was a feature of the game, and was made by Ronald Kemp of the High School in the third innings. The third and eighth innings were rich ones for the boys. A general shake-up resulted in the Cement team when Teddy Briant gave place to Braden Blewett, who was playing sub. Green took the catcher's lace, and Clayton Maralle pitched. R. J. Miller guarded the plate, and R. C. Chittick the bases.

The line-up was as follows:

Canada Cement Company — E. Green, p; T. Briant, c; C. Maralle, 1b; W. Wingett, rss; D. Hill, lss; Stonebridge, 2b; O. Abrams, 3b; K. Junkin and J. Charlton, fie..; B. Blewett, sub.

High School — T. W. Chaplin, p; R. Kemp, c; H. Schwark, 1b; G. Wannamaker, rss; E. Kemp, lss; J. White, 2b F. Allen, 3b; R. Elliott and D. Dever, field.

Score by innings:

THISTLES DRAW FIRST BLOOD

Win First Game of Final Series From the Toronto Scottish 2-1.

FOR ONTARIO TITLE.

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 22 (Canadian Press).—With both teams playing almost faultless rugby, the inter-provincial encounter here Saturday between Montreal and Tigers, proved, without doubt, the outstanding game of the season. The Yellow and Black gladiators, coached by M. J. Rodden, truly earned the decision in the gruelling contest with a score of 9 to 6.

The game was witnessed by one of the largest crowds to attend the H. A. A. grounds in several years. Though a stiff breeze swept across the field from the west throughout the playing time, it did not cause any great handicap and the entire play was marked by an absence of anything in the nature of fumbling. The backfield players on both teams caught with certainty at all times, and in the case of Montreal, some great chances were taken with passes from line plays.

Hamilton outshone the visitors on the line with it's more experienced warriors and extra weight, but at no time were these a direct factor in scoring. Except for the touchdown scored by the victors in the first period, when Boadway crashed through from about 15 yards out, the Bengals had to depend on the kicking of "Huck" Welch, last year's collegiate sensation, to win the game. This lad booted for three single points to break the existing tie in the final frame. He was paired up with Bert Gibb, a kicking and plunging half, who, in the second period, lifted the ball for an intended onside. Moore, the sterling half-back of Montreal, was forced to rouge.

The winged-heelers got their six points as a result of two drop kicks by Fred Wright, a product of Dundas, who attended Queen's University for two years. Wright did all the punting for the Montreals, and he handled his duties well. Particularly was this the case in the first half of the game when his booting was every bit as good as that of Welch. He faded a trifle on end, however, but not to an extent that made any difference in the result. His first field goal came about five minutes after the commencement of play, when after a miscue that held his team stationary, he lifted the oval directly over the centre of the cross arms of the goal posts. His next success, which was his second and only other attempt, was registered in the final period when the homesters were leading 6 to 3. It was executed from a more difficult angle, but, nevertheless, went over the bar with the same accuracy.

Among Hamilton patrons of the fall pastimes, the consensus of opinion was that this year's Montreal crew is the strongest sent out from the Quebec city in several years. For a comparatively young wing line, the opposition offered to the more experienced Tigers was most creditable and there was a sneaky feeling that the result of Saturday's game might easily be reversed when Hamilton pays the return visit to Montreal. Evidence of the team's ability was contained in the fact that, even though the Bengals seemed able to shove them back any time it was desired in the third quarter, they were able to hold the attackers scoreless.

In that fifteen-minute session, the winners made distances no less than five times in succession but were unable to tally. The red and black displayed almost heroic effort in that final period to get in the necessary range to permit of Wright getting the triple count.

All through, members of both teams attended strictly to their duties, and as a result, very few penalties were imposed. It was undoubtedly one of the cleanest games staged. The fact that such care was shown in the matter of observance of the rules indicates plainly the importance placed on the outcome. A victory would have kept Montreal very much in the inter-provincial race, while a loss for the Tigers might have meant demoralization. As things stand, the Hamilton team can hardly fail to repeat the success of last year when it qualified to enter the Dominion finals.

For the winners, the work of Welch and Gibb, being more of the spectacular, was, naturally, outstanding. However, Boadway, flying wing; Timmis, Elford and Baker, plungers, and Simpson, outside wing, gave championship exhibitions in their respective spheres. To the credit of the Tigers, it is worthy of mention that not a substitute player was used during the game.

"Red" Moore, of whom much was expected from Montreal, was far from being an absolute disappointment, but, it so happened, he was unable to get away with runs for which he has become famous. He was worked too much in the first three periods to show the effectiveness that might have meant the difference between loss and win in the final stanza. Wright not only showed ability at hoofing them high and far, but he has developed into a fine ball carrier. Gabardino, outside wing for the losers, did some remarkable tackling, while Perry, half-back, shone many times at carrying the ball.

CANADIANS WIN IN POLAND

Pair Of Scissors And Sheet Of Paper Give Young Woman World - Wide Fame

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 20.—(Canadian Press).—A pair of scissors and a sheet of black paper have made a young woman internationally famous and this city has welcomed the news that the Viennese artist, Lisl Hummel, deft wielder of the shears, is to live here in future. She is at present visiting her sister, Mrs. L. Simon, and will be married before very long to Dr. Henry Borsook, Ph.D., a member of the Medical Faculty of Toronto University. He is engaged in research work in bio-chemistry, but it is also known in dramatic circles for his plays. One of them, a very realistic sketch of Jewish life, was put on at Hart House Theatre: "The Three Weddings of a Hunch Back." Toronto has another interest in Miss Hummel's work, for it was she who illustrated "Toy Ships" child poems by Florence Stoiner, a well-known member of the Canadian Women's Press Club, Toronto Branch.

The development of the scissor-cut silhouette, which has won universal acclaim for Miss Hummel, has been exemplified in such books as "The Heart of London" (H. V. Morton) and in "The Rose Fyleman Calendar," "Letty", and "A Little Christmas Book" by the latter author. "The Good Natured Bear" (Home), "The Little Pagan Taun" (Chalmers) and many English, American and Continental magazines bear her illustrations.

Miss Hummel is at present working on a book to be published in the United States this season: "Poems About Peter", by Lysbeth Boyse Borie. The New York Forum recently arranged a competition for the best poems written around her silhouettes, this being won by Tristram Coffitt; the book to be issued shortly.

CHRIST CHURCH PEOPLE SHOW FELLOWSHIP

Rector, Choir, and Congregation Hold Service at Warkworth.

ON SUNDAY EVENING.

Rev. James Belford Preaches Fine Sermon On Music and Religion.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence)

WARKWORTH, Oct. 22.—As a concrete expression of good fellowship existing between two sister congregations the rector, choir and congregation of Christ Church, Campbellford, visited St. John's Anglican Church here for the evening hour of worship last night. This is the second occasion upon which the local church has welcomed the visitors from Campbellford. Four years ago, when the church was being reopened, the gratitude of this congregation was extended to those from Campbellford who so materially assisted. Last night the service was conducted by the Rev. N. Clarke Wallace, rector of Campbellford, and A. J. Jenkins, lay reader, read the lessons. Major the Rev. James Belford preached the sermon. The anthem by the choir began with the words, "I was glad when they said unto me."

The remarks of Major Belford were not a sermon, he said. First he wished to express his personal appreciation as well as that of the congregation of St. John's Church to the rector, choir, congregation and friends of Christ Church, Campbellford, for their assistance during the service. He recalled the fact that this was the second visit of a similar nature, and reminded those present that St. John's had once been a large congregation and might be so again. The visit last night was such as would promote a Christian fellowship which would be beneficial to all concerned.

Music In Religion.

Music was the subject rather than the text which the speaker selected. He dealt with it with regard to its relation to the church. Although practically all men worshipped differently, there was one thing in common, music. And although there was a difference, it was not for one man to ridicule another's form of worship. It was rather for him to try to make his own conform as nearly as possible to the example set by the Holy Spirit.

All the fine arts had had their origin in the church. They represented the religion of some men. Music in the church had begun before the time of Moses and first appeared in the form of a drum. Wind instruments resembling the fife were the next to appear, and later came the stringed instruments. Even as far back as the days of Solomon's temple the choir had stood on either side of the chancel, and sung first from one side, then from the other. The same psalms which were sung in the modern church to-day were sung in those ancient times. The creed originated as a statement of faith and was chanted as a response to God, just as it had been chanted at the service last night.

God's Presence Needed.

There was always the question of what was the best way to worship. If the people were here and God was not present, then there was a mistake and the service was only a waste of time. But with the presence of God, the hour of worship became something wonderful. Men were not judged by the Almighty by their outward actions but by their innermost thoughts and their very souls. If they did not come to the house of worship in all sincerity, they were wasting their time.

It was also necessary to offer to God the most perfect service and the most beautiful. All men were not possessed of the same talents. Some could sing while others could not. Those who could not sing were more fully qualified to fill another place. All had some particular ability which should be used for the glory of God. But one thing was practically essential to worship, that was music. In his closing remarks Major Belford recalled the description of heaven as St. John had set it down. There was music, he had said, continual singing before the throne of Gdo.

Congregation Prospering.

The present building, which is St. John's Anglican Church, dates back about forty-three years. At that time it was built at a cost of approximately $4,000.00. There was no rector, but the congregation received the services of the clergyman from Campbellford, and later from the village of Hastings. Occasionally there have been no services at all. The congregation has been small and unable to meet the expense of a minister. After the church had been closed for some time, Major Belford, B.D., decided to hold services here and in St. George's Church, Wooler. His decision was made known to Campbellford churchmen and they gave the Major as much support as possible. The church here now has evidence of prosperity in the new Coleman lamps which have replaced the old coal oil lighting system. Considerable repairs have been made to the building during the last few months.

In the choir last night was W. J. Baker, a faithful member of the church for more than sixty years. Sixty years ago Mr. Baker was a choir member and church warden. He is still an active and energetic member, and sang his part of the service last night as only a devout churchman with many years of experience could sing.

EXPLORER USES WILLYS-KNIGHT

Martin Johnson Says His Cars Gave Valuable Service.

FOUR YEARS WORK.

Cites Invaluable Service Rendered by Knight Engined Cars in Unexplored Jungles.

Marked interest is being shown by thousands throughout the country in the new Martin Johnson film "Simba" (native name for lion), which gives one of the finest portrayals of wild animal life in the jungle of Africa, and at the same times discloses the important part played by a group of automobiles in reaching hitherto unexplored regions of that vast country.

Prior to the sailing of the Johnson expedition, the noted explorer secured as part of his equipment a small fleet of Willys-Knight Sixes for the purpose of carrying the party over roadless tracts into the innermost depths of the jungles.

For four years Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and their scores of native aides worked their way through almost impenetrable wilds with the Willys-Knight Sixes responding to all demands despite every adverse condition. Over the trackless rock-bound stretches, across streams, up steep mountain sides, through heavy growth of the jungles, the Willys-Knight Sixes carried their human freight.

Day after day, month after month, and year after year these Knight-engined Sixes literally beat their way through the dense forests, blazing new trails into the virgin wilderness with the explorers in quest of wild game in their native haunts.

At the end of four years, when the exploration of the vast jungles came to an end, Mr. Johnson said this about the Willys-Knight cars which he used in the daring enterprise:

"The Willys-Knight Sixes we used throughout our expedition in the African jungles never faltered and never failed, and provided us with the utmost in faithful service. The Willys-Knight is my first and only choice where the maximum of rugged strength and power is the prime requisite."

OTONABEE.

(Examiner Correspondence)

OTONABEE, Oct. 22.—Mrs. Joseph Manley spent a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Lowther, of Peterborough.

Mr. Allan Hayes has something of a novelty in silos. It consists of a square enclosure of the size of an ordinary silo built from floor to roof in a corner of a straw-barn and is, of course, filled from the outside. Mr. Andrew Evans gave the idea and says there are many such in a locality adjacent to Toronto where his brother, Herbert, resides. The great advantage of this type of silo is its cheapness of construction.

Continued wet weather makes ploughing impossible in many stubble fields.

Mr. John C. O'Brien, who has been a winner in so many ploughing matches was again a winner at the county match held at Warsaw on Wednesday.

Several local farmers attended the ploughing match on Wednesday at Warsaw.

An interesting visitor to this locality recently was Mr. Alex Connell of Alberta. He has not been here for over thirty years. Among others whom he visited besides his brother, Mr. John Connell, were his cousins, Mrs. James Eason and Mr. James Hope.

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Garvey were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Devlin of Peterborough.

Mr. Allan Hayes has had the exterior of his house cemented recently.

P.C.I. JUNIORS TRIM OSHAWA

Win Out 7-2 in Game Featured by Great Deal of Kicking.

ERROR DECIDES GAME.

OSHAWA, Ont., Oct. 22 (Special to The Examiner). — While Oshawa Collegiate's senior rugby team was winning in a smart tussle on Saturday from Cobourg, the local junior aggregation was soundly trounced at the hands of Peterborough Collegiate junior squad by a 7 to 2 count, eliminating the Oshawa youngsters from the running and giving the P. C. I. aggregation every reason to hope for the championship of the junior loop in the first year it has been in operation.

Peterborough juniors, showing almost as much superiority in weight as does the Oshawa Collegiate senior team over Peterborough's senior aggregation, had the margin of the play throughout in Saturday's game, and deserved their victory. Their plays were well carried out, and they showed good coaching in every department.

A heavy wind blew over the field and a strenuous kicking game featured the play, Oshawa scoring their two points by this route while Peterborough counted once. Peterborough's remaining six points, the six which gave them the game, came on a touchdown which came when the Oshawa centre snapped the ball wide while the team was in kick formation only ten yards out from their goal posts. The ball bounced over the line and a Peterborough wing man dove for the pill and came up at the bottom of the pile with the pigskin safely under his arm.

The touchdown came in the first quarter, and although both teams endangered the goal line on several occasions thereafter, the only further scoring was through the one point aerial route.

Young, left half-back for Peterborough, was outstanding for the visiting team, while Corrin, Deyman and Marks shone for the losing Oshawa Collegiate men.

The line-ups were:

Oshawa Collegiate: Snap, Little; insides, Leckie and Guiltinan; middles, Myres and Deyman; outsides, Marks and Hazlewood; flying wing, Bradd and Hicks; quarter, Hare; halves, Corrin and Armour; subs., Henley, Gamble, Broadbent, Brown, Black, Engle Black, A. George and James.

Peterborough: Snap, McWilliams; insides, Waddell and Chandler; middles, Doukas and Fraser; outsides, Ward and Wager; flying wing, Hamilton; quarter, Mackey; halves, Braund, Clayton and Young; subs., Dixsen, Irwin, Legon, Clark and Gaul.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

ARE YOU GAME? ARE YOU WILLING TO TAKE-A-CHANCE WHEN IT IS FIXED SO THAT YOU CAN'T LOSE? THEN COME TO THE CAPITOL TO-NIGHT AND SEE A GREAT SHOW, ITS THE OPENING NIGHT OF "TAKE-A-CHANCE-WEEK"

Everything a secret! Everything a surprise! This is the slogan at the Capitol this week. It's "Take-A-Chance-Week." A great show is promised ...Sh-h-h-h, stage treats, screen surprises, and musical treats. We won't tell you another thing about it; but we will add a note of warning. Come to-night, and don't be among the disappointed ones who will be unable to get in on Tuesday and Wednesday. There will be matinees every day, and a complete change of show on Thursday.

AT THE REGENT.

This week will be Take-a-Chance-Week at the Regent—Nothing on the program is announced in advance. Everything is a secret. It will be a great show.

Now our advice to you is if you are going to take in a show this week, make it the Regent.

Try and make it today for I am sure that after to-night's show we will be unable to handle the big crowds that will be there all the rest of the week.

Close up your radio and tune in on the Regent's wave length to-night. Dick Lush will announce.

LITTLE GIRL HIT BY AUTOMOBILE

Clelia Southwell More Frightened Than Hurt, Doctor States.

WAS CROSSING STREET.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence).

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 22.—More frightened than injured was the diagnosis of the physician to whom nine-year-old Clelia Southwell was taken when she was knocked down by a motor car on Saturday afternoon. It appears that at about half-past two, the little girl ran out into the street and ran into the side of a touring car driven by Arthur Merrill from the Wilson Settlement. The girl was knocked down and a bystander hastened to take her in his arms to Dr. Haig's office, a few yards distant. A few minutes later the child walked home, very tearful but apparently not badly hurt. The driver stopped at once and later pulled into the curb and gave his name and address to the police. The scene was on Front Street, immediately south of the intersection of Bridge. Merrill had come across the bridge and was turning south on Front, when the girl ran out from the east side and the accident happened.

If milk is properly sterilized and bottled, it is claimed to keep fresh for two years.

WHAT WILL THESE LADIES DO NEXT?

By NEA Service.

HEREFORD, England., Oct. 22.—Add this one to the modern woman's record in aviation, sports and politics.

Miss Ellen Jackson was arrested for a minor traffic violation. She appeared in court and was ordered to pay a small fine. Being somewhat short on ready cash she petitioned the judge to administer a spanking instead "because that will do more good than a fine." The court refused the honor.

Hissing is not permitted in Parliament. The rule forbidding it—"Whoever hisseth shall answer for it at the Bar as a breach of order and contempt"—dates back to 1604.

A SPEEDY MANITOBAN

There was at least one case of insufficient experience that cost this country points at the Olympics. Jimmy Ball was the unfortunate victim. Although track races are even worse than the ponies for not running to form, it's more than a tough problem to say for sure that inexperience beat the speed Winnipeg boy. In the eyes of Canada's greatest and best sporting writers and critics, Jimmy is the world's fastest 400-metre man and certainly Canada's fastest.

Jimmy finished, as everybody knows, second to Ray Barbutti of the United States. Credit must be handed to the plucky Yank who was beaten by Ball in a heat earlier in the day. In the finals apparently Ball considered his worries over as far as Barbutti was concerned. Some say that Ball merely misjudged his sprint and did not break soon enough to pass his man. However, whatever the trouble was, Ball showed enough ability to win favorable comment from all who saw him run.

FIGHTS SCHOOL EDICT

DENVER, Oct. 22.—The Colorado Supreme Court has been asked to decide whether a pupil can be forced to wear clothing specified by school authorities. S. Julian Lamme of Walsenburg, has appealed decision upholding the Hyerfano County School Committee's edict for uniform clothing in the schools.

New View of the Heart of the Empire

This photograph of Trafalgar Square shows the development of the Canadian quarter in London. On the left can be seen the commanding position occupied by Canada House, the seat of the Government representative in London. Adjoining it is the new Head Office for Great Britain of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada. This building conforms to the architecture of Canada House and extends from Cockspur Street to Pall Mall. The insert is a new photograph of the Rt. Hon. L.M.S. Amery, M.P., Secretary of State for Dominion of Affairs, who has just opened the new Sun Life building.

USES PLEASANT WAY TO END STUFFY COLD

Many Here Who Try Hospital Method in Own Homes Get Almost Instant Relief.

Instead of enduring the needless misery and pneumonia risk which often results from neglecting colds, numbers of Peterborough people are getting rid of head and chest colds in a few hours by a hospital method which doctors are now recommending for home use.

The pleasant experience of C. H. Perry is typical. For three days the different remedies he used failed to check a cold which began in his head. Then he consulted his doctor who advised double strength doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral — a medication of wild cherry, terpin-hydrate, etc., which is used even in extreme hospital cases.

Relief began almost instantly, the doctor reports. By night congestion was clearing up rapidly and the "feverish," "achy" feeling was gone. He continued the treatment as his doctor directed and in a day or so the cold was entirely gone.

Note: Other cases reported daily—all certified by attending physician.

This hospital certified medicine quickly penetrates and heals inflamed linings of the air passages. Absorbed by the system it helps get rid of congestion, reduce fever and drives out the cold from the nose passages, throat and chest.

Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral now and you, too, will feel like a different person to-morrow. At all druggists—50c and twice as much in $1.00 hospital size.

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

VICTORY CLAIMED BY BOTH SIDES

Dries Say Runners Didn't Cross—Wets Say They Did.

BRIDGEBURG, Oct. 22.—Both dry and wet forces claimed victory yesterday after Wednesday night's attempt to run the dry fleet blockade on the Niagara River. Rum-runners and dry leaders declared they were satisfied.

Rum-runners here intimate that the seven boats captured by the United States patrol were simply decoys sent ahead to draw the attention of the waiting navy, while the real shipments of liquor proceeded unmolested to their destination. Only one of the seven was heavily loaded. It carried 440 cases of ale. Only one man was captured when the seven small boats were seized and this, it is said here, tends to substantiate the decoy theory. The one man captured was John Blackson.

The claim of Lieut. Martin W. Rasmussen, in charge of the United States coast guards, that the dry blockade was so complete he was satisfied no substantial quantity of liquor would get across, was disputed last evening.

Every morning large boatloads leave the Canadian side in plain view of the United States customs offices —go down the river—and are back, empty, within a few hours, it is said. One Sunday morning within the past six weeks 10,000 cases of liquor were successfully landed on United States shores up to noon, it was claimed. One man claimed that two rum-chasers placed strategically in front of the loading dock here in United States water would effectually stop the runners. Instead, he pointed out, 62 rum-chasers ply somewhere up the lake, with one or two occasionally entering the river to look things over. All loading at Bridgeburg, he said, is now done in the daytime.

WHAT'S THE DIFF?

LONDON, Oct. 22.—The former mansion residence of Sir Milton Sharp, M.P., near Bradford, Yorkshire, is now being used as an experiment station for tramps. An attempt to learn "how many tramps are actually genuine and how many just ne'er-do-wells" is the motive.

Dread Messenger of Misery

UNDERMINING the well-being of millions, is that spreading plague—constipation. Men just fail to measure up because their health is below par. Women fade because faulty elimination steals away their bloom.

Heed your doctor's warning: you—everybody—must have sufficient roughage in your diet because lack of roughage is a chief cause of constipation. Eat Post's Bran Flakes regularly. You'll get the right kind of roughage in the right amount in an appetizing, tempting form.

Make this two weeks' test and note the difference

It is dangerous to experiment with patent medicines and drug laxatives. They bring only temporary relief and may make matters much worse. Ordinary cases of constipation brought about by too little roughage in the diet should yield to Post's Bran Flakes. If your case is abnormal, don't experiment. Consult a competent physician.

Constipation must not be neglected. Start a two weeks' test now. Order a package of Post's Bran Flakes from your grocer.

Start by eating a dish of Post's Bran Flakes for breakfast. Eat it as a cereal with milk or cream. You will like it as well as any cereal you ever tasted. Do this every day for two weeks. We predict you will find a real difference in the way you feel, and that you have been "regular" all the time. But don't stop at the end of two weeks. Eat Post's Bran Flakes every morning for health and regularity. Post's Bran Flakes is sold by all grocers in a wax-wrapped package. Ready to eat.

Wheat Prices Drop While Corn Goes Up

CHICAGO, Oct. 22. — (Canadian Press.)—Lower prices for wheat and higher prices for corn proved to be the rule to-day in the early dealings. Lack of any aggressive wheat buying in the face of increasing supplies tended to depress wheat, whereas wet weather over the corn belt gave strength to the corn market. Opening 1-8 to 1-2 cent off, wheat recovered somewhat but then sagged again. Corn started 3-8 to 7-8 higher and subsequently advanced a little more. Oats were firm. Opening prices were:

Wheat, December 112 5-8, March 117 7-8. Corn, December 82 1-4, March 83 1-8. Oats, December 42 3-4, March 44.

Mine Prices Move Up In Brisk Session To-day

TORONTO, Oct. 22 (Canadian Press).—Prices moved upward briskly in heavy trading on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange to-day. Substantial gains were recorded in Noranda, Sherrit Gordon, Hudson Bay, Sudbury Basin and other leading issues. Noranda, with a turnover of more than 57,000 shares, touched 63.00, but receded at noon to 57.50. Sudbury Basin was a close second to Noranda in activity and advanced to 7.60. It later dropped back to 7.15 for a net gain of 35. Touching 7.00 for the first time in many weeks, Sherritt Gordon provided trading in 20,000 shares. At noon it sold at 6.85, a gain of sixty over Saturday's close. Hudson Bay advanced 95 to 19.45, and Jackson Manion five to 90. Lakeshore was up 1.00 at 20.25, and Teck Hughes 30 at 8.70. Malartic stiffened up after its recent weakness and advanced six to 1.21.

Toronto Trading Quieter With Leaders Receding

TORONTO, Oct. 22 (Canadian Press).—After a strong opening, prices tended to weaken on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. Trading was not on as hectic a scale as on the closing days of last week. The nickel stocks and Noranda were the dominant issues on the board, though Massey Harris also experienced heavy trading and made an exceptional show of strength. International Nickel, after reaching 184 soon after the opening, receded to 176½ at noon. This represented a drop of two and a half from Saturday's closing price. Mond's performance was similar. Early in the session it sold at 38½ and at noon it was down to 36¾, a drop of 2¼ for the day. Massey Harris held up well throughout the session, the noon price of 54½ being the highest point touched and a gain of four. Noranda was dealt in in unprecedented volume and after touching 60.75 in the early part of the session relapsed to 58.00.

Canada Biscuit Co. Working Overtime

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 11.—Continued improvement is being made in the operations of the Canada Biscuit Company, which corporation is the merger resulting from the consolidation in 1926 of several of Canada's largest biscuit and confectionery companies, including McCormick's, Perrins, Marvins, Montreal Biscuit, Paulin-Chambers of Winnipeg and the Northwest Biscuit Company of Edmonton.

No actual figures have recently been made public, but it is unofficially stated that the company's sales volume is being substantially maintained. Operating costs and expense ratios have been reduced, and the profit margin for 1928 to date shows material improvement, compared with the same period in 1927.

The London plant has been working overtime, including Saturdays, in order to keep up with incoming orders, a condition which has not previously existed since the merger in 1926. It is stated that indications point to an unusually large business in the sweet biscuit and confectionery departments during the remainder of 1928, not only throughout Ontario, but in Quebec, the Maritime Provinces, and particularly in Western Canada, where another successful crop year is already reflected in the company's increased sales at its plants in Winnipeg and Edmonton.

At the time of the merger the capitalization of Canada Biscuit Company, Limited, consisted of $2,200,000 6½ per cent. first mortgage bonds, $3,519,000 7 per cent. preferred stock, and 87,280 no par value common shares. Due to the operation of the sinking fund in 1927 and 1928 it is understood that close to $100,000 of the first mortgage bonds have been retired. The first mortgage bonds were the only securities of the company outstanding in the hands of the public, both the preferred and common shares being distributed among the shareholders of the old constituent companies.

FINANCIAL BRIEFS

Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada

The rise in Smelters, the rich man's stock, to 275 raises the question as to whether something interesting is going to happen. There is plenty happening in relation to operations, but when the stock moves up abruptly, the street looks for some development that has to do with the stock.

That Smelters is one of the cheapest stocks in the list is demonstrated by the fact that on the basis of its distributions to shareholders the stock yields better than 7%. Dividends and bonuses have been at the rate of 50% per annum, or $12.50 per share. Based on earnings of the past two years and the indicated rate for the current year, the ratio of profits is close to 14% per share to the price.

Ith—the earnings close to 100% on the stock, the company may surely be regarded as being conservatively capitalized. It is accepted that some day the shares will be split. That the change should come soon, does not appear to concern the management. C.P.R. has a controlling interest in Smelters and the vast majority of the remaining shares is in a comparatively few strong hands.

The floating supply of stock is small. Its price is too high for the ordinary trader to play with, but it moves readily, when any buying or selling appears.

The Trail smelter has treated about 50,000 tons more ore this year to date than last year. The output of the nine months ended September 30th 1928 gains over 1927 in lead, zinc, copper, silver and cadmiunm, while gold production was reduced moderately. Prices of metals have been improving. Earnings for the second half of 1928 should be better, therefore, than the first half of the year.

Smelters is building for greater properties under control or option. ley smelters is being increased from 4,000 to 6,000 tons, while the zinc plant is being stepped up from 300 to 400 tons daily, and a sulphuric acid plant of 35 tons daily capacity is being erected. Power facilities are also being aded to materially to supply the increasing requirements of the company and the surrounding territories.

Smelters has over 24 different new properties under control or option, some of which are developing a big tonnage, which will supplement the enormous tonnage developed and in sight at the Sullivan which is estimated to have physical assets of close to a billion dollairs. These new subsidaries, Coast Copper, Big Missouri and George Copper are outstanding. The company also has several properties in Ontario and Quebec, and the Maritime and Newfoundland.

Take Sullivan ore, for instance The cost of mining this property is stated to be 25 cents per ton, while average values run close to $29.00 per ton.

Smelters is going into the fertilizer manufacture in a big way, from phosphate mines at Fernie. Manufacture of high grade iron and steel and alloys is another factor. The company has started recovery of tin from its ores.

Lead, zinc, copper, gold silver cadmium, tin, steel, fertilizer sulphuric acid—these are the chief products of the enterprise.

There is every indication that new developements are taking shape in connection with the company's enterprises in British Columbia that will prove starting to say the least A new smelter at the coast and another near the boundary line to handle Pend Oreille ores and those of adjacent companies is another possibility. Events by way of consolidation of existing developed mines in the several fields that stretch from Alaska to the 49th Parallel may be forthcoming.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

Mr. A. D. Miles, president of the Central Manitoba Gold Mines, has just returned from a trip to the company's property. Mr. Miles flew to the property from Winnipeg. Regarding mill performance and developments he states that: "The mill is running very smoothly and turned out $56,000 in bullion for September. Treatment of concentrate is now going on normally so that we will cyanide all the concentrates from now on, instead of storing them. We will probably average 150 tons a day during October and hope to increase this to 160 tons next month.

"The development work on the Tepe section has been very encouraging as the shaft and winze have been sunk now to the 250 foot level, all in ore, averaging about $12 per ton. The width of the vein, while not always full exposed, will average between four and five feet. Drifting will be started from the 250-foot level before the end of the month to determine the extent of the ore body at this horizon.

"A rope haulage-way is being installed this winter in order that we may transport the ore broken in development to the mill during the coming summer Sufficient ore has been developed already to justify this installation.

"In the Kitchener section the widths of the ore bodies now being stoped continue considerably wider than we had estimated. The grade is also somewhat higher than anticipated.

"During the month of September nearly one-third of the ore milled was taken from the surface ore dumps which we previously had estimated ran about $7.00 a ton. In spite of this the average grade milled during the month under review was something over $11 per ton. Losses in tailings for September were 84 cents per ton. During the first fifteen days of October tailings averaged 40 cents per ton, heads being maintained at practically the same as during September.

Drifting on the 520-foot level east and west from the winze, which was sunk from the 375-foot level, has been advanced 125 feet in each direction. The drift to the west should encounter the ore shoot located on the west end of the 375 footlevel. We are planning now also on getting west on the 375-foot level to a point below the Growler shaft in order to start development of the Growler ore shoot."

Current strength in Hollinger is attributed to reports of a rich strike made on lower levels. Word of average values has not been received but $30 to $30 has been mentioned.

The new daimond drill hole on the Newbec is now said to be down about 200 feet with drilling progressing at the rate of about 35 feet per day. As the favorable or horizon is expected at a depth of 450 feet, it will probably be about ten more days before any news can be expected. It is said that the new plant will be turned over on Monday when sinking will be recommenced.

Development of the Cryderman property in the Manitoba field is stated to be progressing favorably. It will be remembered that Mining Corporation had a working option on this property which was dropped recently. Mining men returning from the field now state that work done has shown the property in a much more favorable light.

POWER HOUSE FIRE TIES UP INDUSTRIES

Merrickville Plant Destroyed, Cutting Off Electricity from Three Towns.

MERRICKVILLE, Ont., Oct. 22. —(Canadian Press).—The power house here of the Rideau Power Company was completely destroyed by fire at midnight, entailing a loss of $80,000 and tieing up the largest industries of this town. The blaze cut off power and light facilities at Smith's Falls and Kemptville, as well as here, but the former places were soon being supplied by Hydro service. The local lines cannot be switched over to the Hydro, however, and the industrial works here will be closed for two days at least, until the damage is repaired. The fire is believed to have had its origin in a defective lighting arrester.

ada was still in the settlement stage and the settlers are too poor to buy their needs; they must be supplied to them.

Speaking on the foreign problem, he said there were just as many non-English speaking people in Saskatchewan as English speaking, but their grandchildren will all speak English. The children are bright and quick to learn The Byng medal for proficiency in scholarship went to a foreign girl, also the medal, at Dalhousie University.

Greater Union Predicted.

The speaker expressed the belief that the United Church would by example cause a great union of all Protestant churches, not for themselves but the better to help the weak.

The music supplied by the choir under the direction of G F. Liddle, was very effective. It consisted of anthems by the choir and solos by Mrs. G. F. Liddle, Signor Lamberti and Douglas Carlisle.

ANNIVERSARY AT ST. JAMES'

remember that God knows all about it. Material things may change all about us, but God is Everlasting, the same yesterday, to-day and forever, the Unchangeable One. He never leaves or forsakes those who put their trust in Him.

"Divine Power should keep us strong. Never mind if you feel you have no talents. God will find a way to use you. The story is told of a great violinist who was to play for some friends. One of them, jokingly took the violin from the case and replaced it with another. When the violinist opened his case he saw at once what had been done, but he determined to show his friends that the music depended not on the instrument but on the man. Let us be instruments in the hands of God. It is our business just to keep the channels free so that God may play on us.

"Then, there is the Divine Promise, 'I will be your strength'. There are two way of helping a man you meet carrying a heavy burden. You may offer to carry his burden for him, or you may take him along too. A man once took another, who was carrying a large bundle, into his car, but seeing his passenger still holding the bundle on his back, told him to make himself more comfortable and let the bundle rest on the seat. The man replied that he thought it enough to be given the lift himself without having his burden carried too. Just so, we are praying to God to help us, but we still carry our own burdens."

The Male Quartette concluded this service by singing very feelingly "O Wandering Child Come Home."

Evening Service

The evening session, which began at 6:45, was a service of praise led by the Maple Leaf Quartette, a junior Choir and the St. James' Orchestra. This service consisted of old familiar hymns and was like a benediction on that which followed. The Rev. H. M. Manning, the first pastor of St. James, led in the opening prayer, and the pastor read the evening scripture lesson from the 5th chapter of St. John's Gospel beginning at the 19th verse.

Memories of childhood days were stirred in the hearts of all by the beautiful rendering by the Quartette of the old, but ever new song "The Little Brown Church in the Vale" to the largest congregation that had ever gathered in St. James Church.

Other numbers sung by the Quartette, each a sermon in itself, were "The beautiful garden of Prayer" and "The old rugged Cross."

For his evening sermon, Rev. Mr. Dudgeon took for his theme the 24th verse of the chapter previously read. "Verily, verily I say unto you, He that heareth my word and believeth on Him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation, but is passed from death unto life." Feeling that the message given by the choir and the Quartette in song was more profitable than a long sermon, he spoke but a few minutes, saying that he wished to leave with his people the words of the Master and not his own.

"Just outside the door" was the very appropriate selection by the Quartette, who sang throughout the service without accompaniment.

The St. James' choir, under the able leadership of Frank Stevens, the organist, rendered two beautiful Anthems. In the morning they sang "I will sing of the Mercies of the Lord," and in the evening, "O clap your hands together," the solo part being taken very effectively by Mrs. Ernest Kitney.

The closing prayer was sung by the Male Quartette.

The Maple Leaf Male Quartette will be at the concluding anniversary service on Monday evening, when they will have charge of the entire program. Those hearing them on Sunday will be sure to hear them again at this last service.

WOMAN NOT MEANT AS CLINGING VINE

Men and boys will always measure up to the standards set by women." Here Mrs. Macoun quoted the youth who said to her "Pity the boy" when she was advising him with regard to his conduct toward girls and he told her that the young women of this generation did not set their standards high enough.

The speaker asserted that women could also do much to imbue the important idea of thrift in the minds of their children and thus do much to lessen the great curse of debt under which the nation labors at all times. They could, too, mould public opinion toward the furtherance of their own endeavors.

Mrs. Macoun concluded her interesting, brief address with an adjuration to use all the little opportunities that come to hand. "No person ever wants for anything who uses the little things that come to hand at every turn, and the little opportunities to do good and kindly acts."

Mrs. J. F. Allan

"Women of the Victorian Era," was the subject of an inspiring lecture by Mrs. J. Forbes Allan.

"Some men would have us believe that the woman of the Victorian Era was far and above the modern woman, claiming that she has lost her charm in being too self-assertive," she said. To-day, the woman is taking a broader interest in wrongs and needs of society, but she knows that her home life must not necessarily suffer because of this larger interest and awakening. Looking into the life of the Victorian woman one sees how frail, how limited, how clinging was the full life of the woman. Any social or reform work was outside of her narrow activities, which consisted mainly of needle and fancy work. Swooning seems the weapon used to shirk the responsibility of a real problem.

To-day woman is taking a wider, bigger part in the world's activities. This is due, said the speaker, first to the gradual increase of enlightenment of civilization and facilities for travel; second, to the advance in medical science which prescribes both mental and physical activity, discarding the old view that physical and mental vigor were things to be avoided and concealed if possessed, and third, women have proved their fitness to take a part in the solving of life's problems. Progress lies in the realization of the equality of men and women and the development of all the powers of the latter.

Changes Come Slowly

Equality does not mean identity, said the speaker. Great changes and developments have only come slowly and have always been accompanied by drawbacks and temporary overthrowing of cherished beliefs. Only by degrees does the sham drop off, as the few poor imitations of men in dress and manner by some women.

A woman taking an active interest in public affairs should be womanly, said Mrs. Allan. The gifts of women are her own, and they may differ in their order and prominence from men but still history and experience have taught that she is man's equal and mate, both together to form a whole. This equality should no more prevent a man from being chivalrous than it should prevent a woman from nursing a man when he is ill.

"Woman's place in the home I exalt to absolute supremacy," said the speaker. But given a home carefully looked after, it is necessary to have some outside work for which the woman is gifted or by which she can serve others. Women have always been recognized as good workers with greater endurance than man, and when roused to fight their fight to the end.

Politics, because they control, through government, taxation, the disposal of a good portion of the money necessary to the home, should be of interest to the woman. This interest can be taken without loss of charm or relinquishment of her finer qualities. The woman of to-day is better educated and reads more than the Victorian woman and therefore can discuss and appreciate the work of her husband and sons, thus drawing a closer circle of interest around the home life.

The woman of to-day in spite of all her shortcomings and her excesses, is making a more worthy and notable contribution than the woman of any previous generation, said the speaker in finishing.

Mail Plane Crashes In Take-Off

PILOT AND PASSENGERS RECEIVE MINOR INJURIES PLANE DESTROYED BY FIRE

Hit Air Bump While Taking Off From Stubble Field.

NEAR CALGARY.

Forced To Make Landing Owing To Leaky Gasoline Tank.

CALGARY, Alta., Oct. 24 (Canadian Press).—Hitting an air bump while taking off from a stubble field seven miles east of Calgary at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the DeHaviland air mail biplane of the Western Canada Airways crashed into a bank on the and burst into flames. It was destroyed. The passengers and pilot escaped with minor injuries and burns.

The machine, which inaugurated the nine-hour mail service between Winnipeg and Calgary on Monday, made a forced landing in a field on a farm owned by S. S. Ellis, about seven miles east of Calgary about 5.30 on Monday afternoon. This landing was caused by a faulty feed from the auxiliary gasoline tank which was turned on when the machine ran short of fuel.

Tore Wing on Fence

In landing, the low wing of the machine came in contact with a barbed wire fence, which tore the fabric considerably.

The fabric was repaired yesterday morning and an attempt was being made to left the ship with the intention of completing the flight to Edmonton when the accident occurred. The machine raced down the stubble field, but it failed to gather the proper momentum. It struck a bump on the ground and swerved to the right. It tore through two fences and crashed over the road, the spine of the machine cracking under the impact. The nose plunged into a bank on the side of the road and at once the huge craft burst into flames.

Pilot Buchanan, at the instant of the crash, leaped from his cockpit and rushed to the door of the cabin which he threw open. This permitted the other passengers to escape instantly and their injuries were few.

Plane Destroyed

Witnesses of the wreck declared that the machine would be a "write-off." They said that, had the passengers remained in the ship another fifteen seconds their rescue would have been impossible.

The passengers were taken to the farm of M. D. Carlyle and from there were brought to Calgary where they communited at once with the head office of the Western Canada Airways at Winnipeg.

The value of the plane was $30,000.

Passengers aboard the plane were: T. N. Clayton, manager of the North Star Oil Company; A. D. McNeil, manager of the Western Oil Company; S. Leonard, Marconi Company operator; P. Down, of James Richardson and Sons, Winnipeg; and a mechanic. W. J. Buchanan was at the controls.

FEARS TANKER HAS FOUNDERED

Ship Reports Finding Only Oil Streaks On Answering S.O.S. Call.

45 MEN ON LOST SHIP.

BOSTON, Oct. 24 (Canadian Press)—Fear that the American tanker, David U. Reid, with 45 men aboard, foundered in mid-Atlantic during a heavy gale on October 12, was expressed here by Captain Thomas F. German and the officers of the American steamship West Carnifax, in from Alexandria, Egypt.

Captain German reported that on the afternoon of October 14, the West Carnifax picked up an SOS from the Reid saying that she was sinking in Latitude 26 degrees, 16 minutes, north, Longitude 38 minutes, 45 degrees west a position not far from the Azores. The West Carnifax had been hove to because of the severity of the storm, but at once proceeded under forced draught, but it was not until the following morning that she arrived on the scene when no trace of the Reid could be found, but instead the sea was covered for miles with oil streaks and a large vegetable box was sighted.

While cruising about the West Carnifax was joined by the Leyland line steamer Delilian and the Dutch tank steamer Rotterdam, both of whom had picked up calls for help.

ROME, Oct. 24.—Canon Saponari appeared before the Bar Tribunal here charged with murdering his father with a scythe. Police testified that he cut off his father's head when the 80-year-old man refused to grant demands for money. The accused was about to enter his church when the arrest was made.

Magistrate Objects To Use Of Influence

"Any person who attempts to influence me on the bench will be prosecuted," declared Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning when he was hearing evidence in the case of a girl who had pleaded guilty to two theft charges. As the court was entering the plea of guilty on the information a letter was placed on his desk which, from his remarks, indicated that he was being asked to deal with clemency in the case. His Worship appeared annoyed and said in the past he had always handed the letters to the Crown-Attorney, but in the future action would be taken against the writers.

CLAIMS REPLY FROM MARTIAN

Dr. Robinson, Telepathist, Says He Had to Decode Message.

OPERATORS HEAR NOTHING.

LONDON, October 24 (Canadian Press).—After paying thirty-six cents a word for Government radiograms to be sent to a woman on Mars, and after listening for replies, Dr. Mansfield Robinson, telepathist, announced to-day that certain messages had been received but would have to be decoded.

Operators at the Saint Alban's radio station who had listened for the reply, said that nothing had been heard from the distant planet.

The messages sent by Dr. Robinson were despatched into space by the Rugby Station early to-day and were addressed to Comaruru, a big-eared Martian woman with whom Dr. Robinson said he had had telepathic communication.

Dr. Robinson said he had received a reply at the laboratory of a friend. "There will be some ginger behind their reply," remarked the doctor reassuringly. "This is the greatest event in the history of the human race."

BISHOP SETS OUT PROGRAM

Langsner Finds Out

Claims He Knows the Most Guilty Party in Small Case.

REMAINS AT TASK.

Operations Are Being Carried On in Rosedale Dump By Criminologist.

TORONTO, Oct. 24.—(Special).—Dr. MacMillian Langsner is an early riser. At the first peep of dawn this morning he emerged from his palatial apartment and went out to look for Ambrose Small.

There is nothing new in the theories which the doctor seeks so mysteriously to guard. His idea coincides if it is not actually built upon the theory of the Small sisters and Patrick Sullivan that Ambrose J. Small's body was buried in the Rosedale dump.

In the course of an extensive interview with The Examiner later, Dr. Langsner said: "I know who is the most guilty party in connection with the death of the late Ambrose Small, and I also know that today that party is weakening. It is more than probable that in a short while a sensational announcement in connection with the case will emanate from another city. I expect that this announcement with be made before long."

The nature of the criminologist's operations about the Rosedale dump were not known.

Inspector Austin Mitchell, of the Toronto police who has directed the search for the missing millionaire for nine years when asked regarding the belief of the Small sisters and Pat Sullivan that the body was in Rosedale dump, merely said: "We used the steamshovel there for two weeks."

Talks With Commissioner.

For well over two hours Dr. Langsner discussed the case with Acting Commissioner of Provincial Police Alfred Cuddy at Queen's Park to-day. The utmost secrecy prevailed regarding the conference. Neither Dr. Langsner, Commissioner Cuddy nor any official of the Attorney-General's Department would make any comment regarding the visit. During the meeting no message or telephone call would be put through to the Commissioner's office, and he declined to make any definite statement after the mysterious visitor had left.

Deputy Attorney-General E. W. Bayly, who talked to Dr. Langsner yesterday, was not present at to-day's conference. It is understood, however, that he unfolded the same theory and the same facts to Commissioner Cuddy that he did to the Deputy-Minister yesterday.

Attorney-General W. H. Price frankly admits that he does not know whether there is anything new that is important in Dr. Langsner's story or not. He merely says that the crime expert's story will have to be investigated.

"I want Mr. Cuddy to look into it," Col. Price states. "I do not know how long it will take. It might be three or four days."

Government Willing To Pay.

The doctor, it is said, entertains wild and fantastic ideas as to the value of his services. Strange as it may seem, the authorities are willing to pay some money, but on this consideration that he can add to what the Small sisters and Sullivan know by the production of witnesses. The Province says: "Bring along your witnesses and then perhaps we can talk money."

The Government, it is understood, is not by any means adverse to giving financial support to any one who has a reasonable chance of cleaning up the Small mystery. It is a well-known fact that Queen's Park has never been unduly elated over the work which was done by the city police in their efforts to solve the Small case.

Dr. Langsner told The Examiner to-day that he was the criminologist who settled the question as to how Lord Carnarvon met his fate at the entrance to the tomb of King Tut in Egypt. He possesses pictures showing himself with a group of gentlemen standing before the tomb of the famous king.

Insect Killed Carnarvon

The investigator of the Small mystery declares that he caught an insect similar to the one whose bite was supposed to prove fatal to the British explorer. A cat was used for experimental purposes and after the insect had bitten the cat the animal died in 16 seconds.

Dr. Langsner said that in the course

War Memorial Committee Desires Citizens To Make Contributions At Early Date

With the war memorial to be unveiled on Armistice Day the committee is anxious that contributions to the fund by those who wish to assist in the erection of this handsome memorial be made at just as early a date as possible.

Subscriptions are being received daily, but there is still needed to complete the fund about $4,000.00. It will be greatly appreciated by the committee if those intending to subscribe would do so at once.

YOUNG OFFICERS THREATEN POLICEMAN WITH SWORDS

Three Men Arrested Following Brawl in Hamilton Club Early To-day.

DRUNK ON ARRIVAL.

Policeman Called By Club Officials Forced To Draw Gun For Protection.

HAMILTON, Ont., October 24 (Special to The Examiner). — John P. O'Reilly, 136 Herkimer Street, Milton Knowles, 942 Main Street East, and George Morrison, 18 Mountain Avenue, all officers of the 3rd Canadian Machine Gun Battalion, were arrested during a drunken brawl at the Thistle Club, on Robinson Street, early to-day, and charged with being drunk and disorderly.

An additional charge of assaulting a police officer was laid this morning when Chief Coulter received the report of the officer.

None of the accused appeared in Police Court this morning. Their names were entered on the roster, but a remand of one week was requested.

In Military Uniform.

It is alleged that the young men, who were in military uniform, had brandished their swords and struck P.C. Barkwell, who had to draw his gun to force them back.

The Thistle Club is an exclusive business men's club, and officials reported the brawl to the police about 1.30 a.m.

It is alleged that the three young officers were intoxicated when they entered the club. They made their way to an upstairs room and started to fight, it is said. When P.C. Barkwell arrived the fight was in full swing, and they had all drawn their swords, it is alleged.

An official of the club intervened and persuaded them to leave, but no sooner were they out on the street than they started in again, it is said. Constable Barkwell stated in his report that epithets were used. They fought furiously, took off their tunics, and tore each other's shirts. Swords flashed in the air, but luckily no one was injured.

When they tried to get into their car the officer, who was in plain clothes, took a hand. Up to this time the brawl had taken place on the club's property, and persuasion had been used to get the young men to leave quietly.

Instead of leaving, it is alleged, they went back into the club room and again started to fight. Morrison and O'Reilly being the centre figures in the melee, while Knowles is alleged to have stood ready with his drawn sword.

Turn on Policemen.

Glasses, windows, and furniture were smashed. Constables Barkwell and Green, who had by this time answered the call, tried to persuade them again to leave the club, but the trio are alleged to have turned on them.

Constable Green was struck and knocked backwards. The trio backed Barkwell into the corner. He shout-

Chinese Student Held For Murder

CARLISLE, England, Oct. 24 (Canadian Press). — A young Chinese law student from New York was on trial here yesterday, charged with the murder of his bride, Wai Sheung Miao, said to be the daughter of a wealthy Chinese merchant. The murder was committed when the couple were on their honeymoon. Chung Yi Miao denied his guilt and all knowledge of the killing.

The bride was found strangled in a wood near Keswick last June, shortly after the arrival of the couple in England after their marriage in New York.

The defendant said that they had lived with his wife's relatives at Buffalo for a short time, proceeding then to England. On the afternoon of the tragedy, he declared, his wife had set out alone for Keswick. He himself retired to bed on account of a bad cold. His wife was a much travelled woman, he explained, and often toured alone. She was fond of wearing jewelry. He told of suspicious looking Orientals he had seen watching them in Glasgow and Edinburgh, and also at Grange, a watering place.

The hearing was adjourned until to-day.

OTTAWA RIVER AGAIN IN FLOOD

High Water Hinders Logging Operations and Lessens Power Output.

BRIDGE CARRIED AWAY.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 24 (Canadian Press).—Rising steadily for the past few weeks, the water of the Ottawa River has now reached a height which handicaps the lumber industry at the Chaudiere Falls. Below the Falls the river is now about twice the depth it was last fall, and along the upper reaches the water is proportionately high.

It was found necessary to place the steam plant at the J. R. Booth sawmill in operation, owing to high water forcing the closing down of the regular power.

It was stated that the height of water backing up in the tail races has caused a lessening of the power for the operation of the mills.

Along the Upper Ottawa reports of flooding came from Fort Coulogne and Campbell's Bay, and some residences have been rendered inaccessible. The bridge between Kazubazua and Gracefield over the Pickanock River was carried away yesterday by the high water.

French-Canadians To Make Tour Of Continent Handcuffed To Bicycles

VICTORIA, B.C., October 24 (Canadian Press). — Louis Degagnier and Geo. Fraser, both originally of Montreal, were yesterday handcuffed to their bicycles, and are now ready to start on a six months' tour, which is planned to bring them to their home city, where they will be released from their vehicles. Chief of Police John Fry locked the handcuffs on the two men and the key is being sent to the Chief of Police in Montreal, who will release them there. One handcuff is fastened on the left arm of each of the cyclists and to the end of a six-foot chain which is secured to the bar of the bike.

The two men say they are "studying nature" through the medium of their bicycle tour. Degagnier has been riding a bicycle all over Canada and the United States for the past seven years and Fraser has been doing the same for two years. They recently formed a partnership when they met in Vancouver. Their proposed route will be by way of Vancouver, Seattle, San Diego, thence across the continent to Florida and then to New York and Montreal.

Asks For Help of Laity

Anglican Projects For Near Future Outlined To Laymen.

AT LUNCHEON MEETING.

Prayers and Work Appealed For By Rt. Rev. Bishop Sweeny.

Setting forth the church's program for the next few years, the Right Rev. J. F. Sweeny, Lord Bishop of Toronto, appealed to the Anglican Laymen of the city for their prayers and support when he addressed a large number of men at a luncheon in the Empress Hotel at noon to-day.

His Lordship, who has just finished a strenuous week of visits among the outlying parishes of this part of the diocese, referred to the evidences of the good work of the Peterborough Anglican Laymen's Association among the churches of this district, also congratulating President Charles Lacheur, who was chairman, on other efforts which he had enumerated.

Bishop Sweeny was accompanied on his tour by A. H. Cuttle, Finance Commissioner of the Diocese, who was also present at to-day's luncheon. Among those at the head table were W. J. Kent, vice-president of the Association, Rev. C. A. G. Bonnor of Apsley, Rural Dean of Peterborough, His Worship Mayor Denne, E. A. Peck, M.P., and W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P.

Grateful to Laymen.

His Lordship, who was introduced by E. A. Peck, M.P., as the hardest working man in the province of Ontario, said there were three reasons why he was pleased to meet the laymen of the city at such a meeting. First was that he might know them better and that they might know him better. Secondly, he wished to express his appreciation of the work done by the Laymen's Association. He had been very much interested in the report of its activities which had just been read by the president. He was grateful for the visits paid to country parishes and for the good fellowship engendered.

The Bishop recounted the large number of places at which he had conducted services during the past week. The roads had been rough and muddy, but he had been carefully piloted by the Rural Deans of Peterborough and Haliburton.

borough and Haliburton and other clergy.

The third and most important reason for His Lordship's pleasure was the opportunity to go over the program that is before the church, not only in this diocese, but in all Canada. He wanted to dwell on some of the activities in which every clergyman and layman should be engaged.

The Intensive Campaign

The first is the Intensive Campaign. This is a movement to raise in the Canadian Church the sum of $310,000 for the M.S.C.C. in the next three years, principally for work in Canada among the new settlers, the Indians and Eskimos of the north, the Orientals in British Columbia, and the Jews in Eastern Canada. Those who had heard the appeals of the bishops of the missionary dioceses had come back deeply moved. He was asking the people of his diocese to contribute an extra 25 per cent in order that the banner diocese of Toronto might raise $100,000 of this sum.

His Lordship asked his hearers to think, pray, and work for this cause. Each clergyman is being asked to form prayer circles in his parish and to preach at least two missionary sermons during the winter. The Bishop said he had been told that they would preach to empty pews, but he believed that if they approached the subject full of fire and zeal for the extension of Christ's Kingdom they would have larger congregations than usual.

Cathedral Construction

His Lordship's second appeal was for the completion of the diocesan Cathedral of St. Alban the Martyr, in Toronto. It was his hope, he said, to live to see it finished, and he would be very happy if it could be completed and opened with majestic ceremonies in 1930, when he celebrates the 50th anniversary of his ordination.

The Church Army

The decision of the Synod to establish the Church Army in Canada was His Lordship's next subject. It had been decided that the work should be started in Toronto and al-

Hunters Bring Back Deer From North

Claude Rogers and W. A. Richardson returned last evening from the deer hunt in Northern Ontario.

They arrived in front of The Examiner office about six o'clock, the proud possessors of a buck and doe, which they had obtained north of Mattawa after just a few days' hunt.

They left Mattawa Monday, North Bay yesterday morning and reached here last evening.

We have no authority for the statement, but some of the Rotarians can imagine venison roast for next Monday's meeting.

Messrs. Rogers and Richardson have the distinction of being the first local hunters to bring home a deer this year.

QUARREL ENDS IN TWO DEATHS

Man Who Shot Two Others, One Fatally, Commits Suicide.

AT MANCHESTER.

MANCHESTER, England, Oct. 24.—(Canadian Press).—Dramatic scenes occurring here last night, in which one man was murdered, another seriously wounded, and a third, the murderer, committed suicide, have aroused attention throughout the country.

Three men were playing billiards in a saloon opposite the Town Hall, when the quarrel began, and a fourth man, without warning, drew a revolver and fired six shots. Alfred Mace, a book-maker, one of the players, was killed, and a second player seriously wounded. The assailant, another book-maker, named Joe Fenton, shot himself afterward when detectives attempted to arrest him in his home.

LONDON CLERGY HOLDING SYNOD

First Since Reformation Held to Hear Report from House of Bishops.

SECRECY OBSERVED.

LONDON, Oct. 24. —(Canadian Press).—Fourteen hundred clergymen under the chairmanship of the Bishop of London met at St. Martin in the Fields Church to-day for the first Synod of clergy held in the diocese since the reformation.

Great secrecy was observed. It was understood, however, that the Bishop intended to report on the decisions taken by the House of Bishops at their recent meetings and to ask that the Diocese pledge itself to carry them out. These decisions include a ruling that use of the revised prayerbook which was rejected by the House of Commons should be left to the decision of the individual parishes.

WOMAN FIRES AT INTRUDERS

Police Think Two Men Were Pants Burglar and Confederate.

ONE MAN WOUNDED.

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 24—(Canadian Press).—Wakened by noises in the cellar, Mrs. J. Herrod, Burlington, early this morning seized a rifle, went downstairs and fired point blank at two men she saw emerging from the cellar stairs. One man lurched as if he was wounded. The two turned fled down the cellar, and disappeared through a window. Mrs. Herrod called Chief Lee Smith, who in turn telephoned Hamilton officers. Search of the district failed to reveal any trace of the marauders.

Hamilton officers are inclined to believe that the marauders were the "pants burglar" and his confederate and are still searching in hope of picking up the trail of the wounded man.

WILL SUBMIT RECOMMENDATIONS FOR DEVELOPMENT OF JUVENILE IMMIGRATION TO DEPARTMENT

Resolutions Arrived at Meeting of Government Officials and Societies.

GIVEN FREE PASSAGE.

Recommend Institution of Similar Method For Training 'Teen Age Girls.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct 24.—(Canadian Press).—The development of training schools for prospective juvenile immigrants under the empire settlement scheme and more effective methods for their selection in the British Isles and their placement in Canada are among the recommendations which will be made to Hon. Robert Forke, Minister of Immigration as a result of a conference yesterday between British Immigration as a result of a con-Welfare organizations and Federal and Provincial immigration officials. This was stated to be the first time that all bodies interested in juvenile immigration have met in conference.

The use of training schools for British boys wishing to make their homes on Canadian farms met with unanimous approval. Under this scheme boys are given free passage to Canada after spending several months in schools in the British Isles where they are trained in the work which they will take up here. The institution of a similar method of training "teen-age girls in household tasks was recommended.

Work in Co-operation

While the conference was held in camera it is understood that some opposition developed to the proposal that Canadian child welfare so-cieties should play a greater part in the choice and supervision of children brought out by British migration societies. The latter organizations felt that control should remain with themselves in the main, but it was agreed that the resources of the Canadian societies might be utilized in some co-operative way. The methods of co-operation are to be worked out at later meetings between the different bodies.

The legal relationship of the societies to their respective wards should be definitely determined, it was decided and the recommendation was made that uniform legislation be passed by the various provinces defining their legal rights.

At yesterday morning's session the members approved the recommendation that the selection of the children in the British Isles should be under the supervision of a Canadian official and that rigid medical examinations be carried out as well as investigations into their family background.

The Agenda for discussion at the conference largely corresponded with recommendations published by the Canadian Council in child welfare as a result of a recent survey of juvenile immigration.

STUDENT PILOT FALLS TO DEATH

INSTRUCTOR RIGHTS PLANE.

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 24.—(Canadian Press.)—Don Strevett, a youthful student pilot of the Border Cities Aero Club, fell from one of the club's moth planes about eight o'clock this morning.

According to early reports of the accident, Strevett was at the controls of the plane with the club instructor, R. H. Soundy, flying with him. Suddenly the plane went into a vertical dive and Strevett fell out. Soundy also fell from the fuselage but succeded in catching a wing and pulled himself back into the plane, which was then fying upside down. He righted it and made a successful landing at the Walker airport.

Strevett's body was found just outside of the village of Maidstone at 10.45 o'clock. It had crashed into a tree and was badly crushed.

LARGE CONGREGATIONS GATHER AT ANNIVERSARY SERVICES FOR BAILIEBORO UNITED CHURCH

Rev. Carpenter of Cavan is the Special Speaker For Occasion.

THANK OFFERING RECEIVED.

Bensfort Choir and Local Songsters Provide Special Music.

BAILIEBORO, Oct. 24 (Examiner Correspondence).—One of the largest crowds that the local United Church has ever had present at an anniversary service gathered at the anniversary services on Sunday morning at eleven o'clock and at the evening service at seven o'clock.

At the morning service the church was filled to capacity, but at the evening service the church was packed to the doors and many turned away from the service when they found the church so crowded.

Rev. Carptenter of Cavan conducted both services, taking for his morning text, "But now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three, but the greatest of these is charity," found in the 13th verse of the 13th chapter of Corinthians. Mr. Carpenter's evening text, was "Pushing out from the shore," taken from 5th chapter of the gospel of St. Luke.

The local choir conducted the morning song service Several beautiful anthems were ably rendered, while Miss Audrey Box of Port Hope rendered a beautiful solo, "Thy Will Be Done."

The Bensfort choir was present at the evening service and the splendid music provided by the visiting choir was much appreciated.

The thankoffering asked for by the elders of the church was two hundred and fifty dollars, and one hundred and thirty dollars was received at the morning service.

Suggests Home For Under-Privileged Girls

SARNIA, Ont., Oct. 24 (Canadian Press).—A school and home for under-privileged girls, similar to the Bowmanville school for boys, was suggested yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Howard Fallis, Ladies' Liberal-Conservative organizer, of Peterborough, Ont., when she addressed the local Ladies' Conservative Association. Mrs. Fallis in her address outlined the record of the Ferguson administration and gave a resume of Federal conditions.

Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 24.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Keller left yesterday morning for a motor trip to Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, and also to Bay Mills near the Soo, where Mr. Keller's brother resides. They will be gone from three weeks to a month and will make the return journey through the United States along the route of the Dixie Highway. Mr. Keller is the owner and manager of the well-known summer resort, Rest-a-While, at Healey Falls.

After hearing the lecture on the rules of the road and motor car driving at the Regent Theatre last night, a motorist when coming from the theatre managed to cut in and crumple a couple of fenders about two blocks from the theatre. Aside from the dented fenders there was no serious damage done.

WAR VETERANS IN CHARGE OF FUND

Committee From Canadian Legion in Charge of Arrangements For Memorial.

(Examiner Correspondence)

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 24.—A committee of comrades of the Canadian Legion are in charge of arrangements for a suitable memorial to be placed in the village square to stand forever as a silent witness of the war sacrifice of Lakefield and the district. A 'clock" has been placed in the doorway of the Dickson store and this will indicate from time to time the progress of the fund which should mount rapidly for in those anxious days when tear blurred eyes studied the casualty lists for familiar names, how many families were not interested—few and those who showed no interest were regarded with distrust This a time when every man woman and child should bear a part, the diminutive nickle has its place, twenty of them make a dollar, and should not be despised, as a gift from a child who denies itself the ice cream cone or chocolate bar to have the privilege of helping in a big thing. While the small contribution is not despised, there are many who could easily give a good round sum which would make the hands of the clock register quickly and the objective would soon be reached. The value of the small contribution and the need of the large one should be realized by every man, woman and child of our village. The effort should not be left entirely to the members of the Legion, they have already given of their young manhood and to them and to those who lie in France and Flanders do we owe our present safety and prosperity.

Let us one and all do our bit (as they did) and the hands of the clock will soon point to the required sum and the people of Lakefield can hold up their heads and say "We do not forget."

Anniversary Services.

The anniversary services of Knox United Church will be held on Sunday next, October 28th, both morning and evening with Rev. David Wren of Trinity United Church, Peterborough as the special preacher.

On Monday evening, October 29th, there will be a concert held in the Memorial Hall at which local and Peterborough talent will be heard.

A delightful afternoon tea was held on Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Payne, Queen street, where the fancy work com-

Traveller Enjoys Big Fowl Supper; First Real Meal In Weeks, He Declares

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 24—(Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Sincere appreciation simply expressed is welcomed by most people or organizations who attempt to please. While those who attended St. John's United Church fowl supper in Davidson's Arena last night would explain their presence there by practically as many reasons—at least one man went in search of a real good home-cooked meal. Apparently he did not seek in vain.

"We eat in restaurants and sleep in trains," he said. "Our stay in any one place or hotel is short and a complete night's sleep is something we get about once in two weeks. When I heard about the supper to-night, I was determined to go and see if I couldn't get a real meal. Boy, I ate till I was ashamed of myself. A young lady who seemed to know that I was from out of town and probably thought I looked hungry, brought me all kinds of things to eat. I had three wings, two drumsticks and then she brought me a great big piece of breast. I did my best with it and finished off the meal with two pieces of lemon pie. These suppers are certainly wonderful things."

FOUR CASES IN CAMPBELLFORD POLICE COURT

Ray Copperthwaite Committed For Trial On Three Charges.

THEFT AND ESCAPING.

Liquor Case, Forgery Charge Against Juvenile and Disorderly Charge Heard.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 24 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—There was more than the usual amount of business for the local police court yesterday afternoon when four people appeared to answer to various offenses. Counties Magistrate Floyd of Cobourg presided over the proceedings. W. F. Kerr, County Crown Attorney, appeared in the interests of the Crown.

The first case was one of the breach of the Liquor Control Act, the charge being brought against a local man of having liquor other tha ni na lawful place. He pleaded guilty and was fined $125 and costs, amounting in all to less than one hundred and fifty dollars.

The second case was that of a girl not yet fifteen years of age, who was charged with forging a cheque and purchasing goods with the money thus acquired. The amount of the cheque was thirty-five dollars, and the girl, it appears, purchased a wrist watch, a purse, and other smaller and less expensive articles. She apparently did not realize the enormity of her offense, and was allowed to go under suspended sentence after being given a serious talking to by the magistrate.

Disorderly conduct under sections 86 and 238 of the Criminal Code was the next charge to be heard. This time the accused was Victoria Mack of Seymour Township. She pleaded not guilty. The case arose from a broken window in the home of John L. Hay, Front street, which she was supposed to have broken.

Witnesses told of previous trouble with the girl, who was remanded to Cobourg for eight days for mental observation and if at the end of that time, she is pronounced sane, she will appear in court in Cobourg.

Ray Copperthwaite Committed.

Ray Copperthwaite was the fourth person to appear. There were three charges preferred against him, and to the first two he elected trial by jury. For the third offence, he elected to be tried by the magistrate, but since he had already elected to be tried on the other charges by a jury, the court

WINGS DRAWS CROWD.

Regent Theatre at Campbellford Filled For War Film.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence).

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 24. — One of the most realistic of war pictures was presented at the Regent Theatre last night in the form of 'Wings,' the Paramount production. A special orchestra accompanied the picture, and the music added greatly to the appeal of this sensational offering. It is a story of the Great War featuring the part played in it by the air forces. There is, of course, a romance interwoven with the trend of events. Even at the greatly increased prices, every seat in the theatre was sold and every seat was reserved. With prices ranging as high as one dollar in a town of this size, the popularity of the picture may be judged by the demand for tickets and the numbers who were unable to gain admittance. There was a matinee in the afternoon for the purpose of catering to some of those who were either unable to get seats or attend the evening showing.

BIG ENTRY LIST AT BACON FAIR

Entries Made in Every Class—Large Attendance of Farmers.

HOGS OF GOOD QUALITY.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 24.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence).—The interest shown yesterday afternoon at the Bacon Hog Fair held on the Seymour Agricultural grounds indicates the growing popularity of this comparatively new phase of education for farmers. This is the second fair to be held here under the auspices of the Northumberland County Bacon Hog Breeders Association. While the event of last year was considered successful, this year's fair was much more so. Every class was considered successful, this year's fair was much more so. Every class of bacon hog entered on the list was present and in some of the classes there were as many as eight to ten entries. This is especially noteworthy when the weather for the last week or ten days is taken into account. At times during the afternoon there was a fine drizzle of rain which added considerably to the discomfort of both man and beast.

The market class udging was done by L. W. Pearsall, Toronto, and D. A. MacKinnon, Peterborough. Both Judges are associated with the live-stock branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. I. B. Martin, Toronto, was the judge of the breeding classes exhibited. Mr. Martin is associated with the Live Stock Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Walter H. Smith, distric trepresentative of the Department of Agriculture, expressed the opinion that the fair yesterday was the most successful of many. He pointed out that there was an entry in every class and in most cases as many as eight to ten. In the market classes there were one hundred and sixty hogs entered. Much credit is due the president, William Ross and the secpresicent, William Ross and the secretary, Nelson Stone.

BETHEL CHURCH WELL FILLED AT ANNIVERSARY

Rev. A. E. Thornley is Special Preacher For the Occasion.

INSPIRING SERMONS.

Decorations Make the Church Beautiful—Choir Provides Suitable Music.

(Examiner Correspondence)

WARSAW, Oct. 24.—Bethel anniversary services were held on Sunday, morning and evening. The church was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves, plants, cut garden flowers, fruits and vegetables.

The attendance in the morning was slightly larger than in the evening, but in both cases the church was fairly well filled. Rev. A. E. Thornley, of Mark Street Church, Peterborough, preached. He believed the Bible inspired and spoke as only one holding that belief can.

The evening text was taken from Revelations III., v. 20, "Behold I stand at the door and knock. If any man hear my voice and open the door I will come in to him and sup with him and he with Me."

Some of Mr. Thornley's points were that he believed the word of God, and that was why thirty-five years ago he was consecrated as a minister. The word of God liveth and abideth forever. It is given by inspiration to give light and life. The Lord Jesus Christ is spoken of as the Word. Isaiah looked forward hundreds of years and told of Jesus as the wonderful, councillor, prince of peace, in the ninth chapter. In the fifty-third He is spoken of as a tender plant growing out of the dry ground. In the fifty-fifth, it is said, "Ho! every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters."

Mr. Thornley repeated much of each of these chapters; wherever he made a reference he not only gave the reference but the context, and he repeated it, or rather told the story convincingly in the words of Scripture.

After the passing of centuries, the promised Saviour came. To the shepherds the glad story was told. The Bible tells of His birth, but practically nothing of the first thirty years of His life, and the speaker advised his hearers to read John Oxenham's "The Hidden Years."

"During the three years of ministry we see a wonderful life and a world being transformed. Christ came to minister, but the climax was His voluntary offering of Himself and bearing in His own body on the cross the sins of the whole world. But He rose triumphant; and because He

SERMON SUBJECT HOPE OF NEXT LIFE

Order of Eastern Star Attends Church Service—Special Music.

HAVELOCK, Oct. 24.—(Examiner Correspondence)—"Life and Destiny was the subject of the address given by Rev. J. Lennox in Knox Church on Sunday evening when Prosperity Chapter O.E.S. was in attendance.

After extending a welcome to the members of the Eastern Star Mr. Lennox said while it was usually the custom to select some of the women of the Bible on whom the order was founded as the subject for the address he thought they might welcome a change therefore he decided to take the above subject.

In dealing with life in general he called attention to the old testament on while so many people build a possible theory regarding life in a future state and referring to Soloman who notwithstanding all his wisdom and wealth was very much like ourselves sometimes on the mountain top and sometimes in despondency. In the latter state he had said as recorded in third chapter of Ecclesiastes that there is a season for everything and near the end of the chapter says: "For the which befalleth man befalleth beasts; as the one dieth so dieth the other, so that man hath no preeminence above a beast for all is vanity." Later to dignify man above the beast says the body returns to the dust and the spirit to God who gave it.

Job also is in this state of despondency when after being deprived of wealth, friends and health says "man that is born of women is of a few days and full of trouble" and later on exclaims "If a man die shall he live again?". In the Psalms there is the more hopeful man who says: "Thou will not leave my soul in the grave." Paul in the New Testament is more optomistic and tells us that Christ hath abolished death and brought life and immortality to light through the gospel". Our Saviour says "I am the way, the truth and the life. He that believeth on me shall never die." Mr. Lennox laid particular emphasis on the word never and advised all who want to have the greatest and sweetest beauty of life to go to the new testament which tells of being born again and also of Christ's promise: "I go to prepare a place for you that where I am there ye may be also." In closing he spoke of the seriousness of the situation in regard to the future state.

Special music was rendered by the choir assisted by Mr. Joseph Abercrombie of Campbellford who gave a vocal solo.

Lone Sheep Takes Up Residence On Veranda

(Examiner Correspondence)

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 24.—On Saturday afternoon Mrs. O. A. Langley heard a slight noise on her verandah, and on investigation found a friendly sheep had encamped there and positively refused to "shoo," and to any request to do so merely replied "Baa-a." Mrs. Langley went down to the postoffice and enquired of any persons she saw if they could explain the probable ownership of the visitor. F. C. Crawford was appealed to, and on investigation found that the animal belonged to him and had strayed away. The story enlivened Saturday afternoon for all those who were lucky enough to hear it.

DOG DOESN'T LIKE HUSBAND; WIFE DENIED ALIMONY PLEA

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Hostility of her dog for her husband was not denied by Mrs. Louise Doehler, and therefore Supreme Court Justice Norman S. Dyke yesterday denied her petition for temporary alimony. Justice Dyke said:

"The husband denies he ever induced his wife to marry him. He denies that he desired to live with her relatives and her mother and father, and sets forth pethetic allegation that would, if true, justify his breaking away from close companionship with his wife.

"One of the allegations he makes was in relation to a black and white shepherd dog, who was unfriendly to me. My wife insisted on permitting this dog to sleep in bed with us.' This charge of a canine triangle is not denied, and, if true, might be the last straw that broke the continuity of this unhappy marriage contract."

The court concluded by suggesting that only a divorce trial would determine the issues in the case.

FINE CONCERT AT ST. JAMES

Good Program By Maple Leaf Quartette For Anniversary Event.

MUCH APPRECIATED.

The anniversary services in St. James' United Church were continued on Monday evening with a splendid concert given by the Galt Maple Leaf Quartette to a capacity audience.

The pastor, Rev. J. H. Dudgeon, introduced the performers with a few words of appreciation for their services of Sunday, and anticipation for the evening. In response L. C. Fleming, leader of the quartette, expressed their pleasure in being in St. would enjoy a pleasant evening.

The first number on the program James' church an dthe hope that all was a stirring patriotic song by the quartette, "The March of the Guard."

"Profundo Basso," a comedy sketch, in which the singers endeavored to show their superiority to each other, was cleverly given as an encore.

The leader next introduced Charles McGregor, who appeared in the solo, "Queen Amang the Heather." The Highland costume, Mr. Fleming explained, wa susually worn in this number, but to-night it had been omitted, excepting "the face," which the singer could not help!

As a recall number, Mr. McGregor gave a humorous Scotch song entitled "Soosie McLean."

As the audience had received the Scotch music so well, Mr. Fleming announced another brand of 'Scotch,' in the form of a reading by himself, "The Bellman," in which the rhythmic strokes of the bell were interspersed with the views of the ringer concerning a new organ for the kirk, was most entertaining.

A tenor solo, "The Captain's Ditty," a dashing sailor song by Howard Henselwood, was followed by a lyric number, "The Summer Wind."

In introducing the next group, Mr. Fleming promised some songs of the Sunny South. The first that of a negro mammy crooning her pickaninny to sleep was "The Kentucky Babe."

Between the yawns of the singers the next very humorus number, "Two Unemployed," was given with great applause.

Sweet memories of lullaby days were recalled by the rendering of "Grandfather's Clock" by the perfectly blended voices of the quartette. Exceedingly comic was the ditty called "Little Tommy" given as a recall.

In announcing the next solo, Mr. Fleming declared that no program was complete without some reference to Mother Love. This was sung with tender feeling by Earle Hetherington in "Little Mother of Mine," and was followed by a quiet little selection, "Down Here" by which our thoughts were drawn to the God of Peace.

LeVieux Temps.

Mr. Fleming, himself of French Canadian blood, carried away his listeners to French Canada, with his very excellent rendering of Dr. Drummond's beautiful poem, "Le Vieux Temps." This picture of the life of the French Habitant, given by an old man, was at once amusing and pathetic.

Before giving his encore, "Little Bateese," Mr. Fleming explained that this name was a corruption of John the Baptist, who was a Patron Saint of Quebec. In an annual procession one man is always chosen to represent "Jean Baptiste," so it came about that in almost every French Canadian home there is a boy of that name. In this touching little poem the Grandpere speaks of his devotion for "Little Bateese."

Mr. McGregor again took his hearers back to Bonnie Scotland in his song, "There's a Wee Hame in the Hielands." His next offering with an American title "Ohio" was nevertheless a Scotch love song, in the chorus of which the other members of the Quartette joined.

Just preceding the closing numbers of the program, Elmer Frost, on behalf of the program committee and the Board of Stewards of St. James United Church, tendered their thanks for the splendid program given and for their music at the Sunday services. Mr. Spence seconded the motion of thanks to which the audience responded heartily with a clap of hands. Rev. Mr. Dudgeon in a few cordial words extended this vote to the quartette. In replying the leader expressed the appreciation of the quartette for the great courtesy they had received fro mthe program committee, the pastor of the church and the large audiences which had greeted them at all services where they had sung. He also moved a vote of thanks on behalf of his quartette and the audience to the accompanist, G F. Liddle, organist of George street United church, whose performance was both artistic and very acceptable.

Fifteen Years On Road.

Mr. Fleming said that for fifteen years the Maple Leaf Quartette of Galt had been roaming all over Ontario and Quebec without advertisement and without ever having solicited an engagement. During the first three years of their work they had given their services entirely to spiritual work only, in churches, hospitals and instiutions, asking only in reutrn their expenses. In concluding his remarks he paid tribute to the fine work he had seen evidenced during his short stay in St. James' church, and urged for the hearty co-oepration of the congregation with their pastor.

A medley of "Sweet Southern Airs" by the quartette showed to splendid advantage the range and sweetness of the different voices.

By special request the quartette were happy to give the sacred number entitled "The Wayside Cross" which was a very fitting conclusion to the St. James' anniversary services.

Helpless With Pain In His Back

Vancouver man thinks Gin Pills wonderful

Right in the midst of the local Horse Show, Mr. J. S. Russell, of Vancouver, B.C., was completely laid up by severe pains in the small of his back. He could not sit on a chair, let alone on a horse. "I was compelled to go to bed," he says.

Here a most awkward and painful problem was solved by a friend who advised Gin Pills, which quickly corrected the trouble according to Mr. Russell, whose letter ends—"and I was able to ride again in 24 hours. Gin Pills are wonderful."

Gin Pills positively give relief, not only in cases of severe backache, but in even more acute kidney conditions. Gin Pills soothe the inflamed kidneys and end the misery. How much better to obtain a 50c. box from your druggist than to take chances. The symptoms of kidney trouble are unmistakable—backache, dizziness, headaches, swollen joints, brick dust in urine, spots before the eyes, a burning sensation attendant on scanty or too frequent urination. ODD SIZES COST NEEDLESS EXPENSE

Standardization of Parts Goal of Committee of Engineers.

New York.—In the great Baltimore fire several nearby towns rushed their apparatus to aid the stricken city, only to be foiled by the fact that their hose would not quite fit the Baltimore hydrants. Fall River, Mass., would have had almost an identical experience in its more recent disastrous fire, when apparatus was called from neighboring places, but for the fact that its hydrants had been standardized only a few weeks previously.

These instances were cited today by Sumner Blossom, editor of Popular Science Monthly, as typical examples of the losses and dangers which may come from lack of standardized uniformity among articles and machines in common use.

"Almost everyone," he said, "is a sufferer, in one way or another, amid the evils of odd sizes, unmatched parts, fitless bolts, and attachments that don't jibe. It is possible that a man may have sixty wrenches, and not one that fits the bolts on his automobile carburetor so that he can take it off and clean it.

"It is a scandal that we have not revolted long ago against the dragon of wasteful diversity. However—and thanks be—that dragon is on the run. The chase for him has become keen and well organized since the World War, and specially during the last five years. The leaders in this crusade are the United States Department of Commerce, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and the American Engineering Standards Committee. Yet, at this moment, despite all improvement, about half the productive energy of the United States is thrown away through lack of uniform and simple method. This means about thirty billion dollars wasted every year. It means that half our annual labor is a total loss. With a four-hour day and standardization we could have as much wealth as our present eight-hour day produces. And that statement is not made by a wild Utopian or a naughty red. It comes from a sober body of engineers under the presidency of none other than Herbe t Hoover."

Among the men engaged in the crusade against this waste is Prof. Collins P. Bliss, Associate Dean of the College of Engineering, New York University, Director of Popular Science Institute of Standards, and a member of the American Engineering Standards Committee.

"As the result of four years' effort," said Professor Bliss, "all steam, water, gas, oil—in fact almost any kind of flowing matter—now can be conveyed in systems whose parts are absolutely interchangeable. And when new or repair parts are ordered, the user knows they will fit and conform to all requirements for strength and safety.

"Every householder can see the benefit of uniformity and simplicity in house plumbing. A committee is now being formed to standardize this field.

"Standards for mechanical refrigeration of the home type are being studied, insuring a simple, better and more economical refrigerator within the near future. For non-mechanical refrigerators, standard sizes of ice cakes in weights of 25, 50, 75, 100 and 150 pounds, along with specified dimensions, have been adopted this year."

During the last year, pipe fittings, bolts and rivets succumbed to standardization. Dry cells for radio and flashlights were commanded to conform in size and conduct. Fire hazard in electrical devices was lessened. How to test lubricating oil was a step toward aid of the motorist, now baffled by conflicting claims. A code for brick masonry was studied. Sizes of film and ways to take and project moving pictures were laid down.

Among other articles which have been made to conform to definite standards of size and quality are paving bricks, bed springs and mattresses, metal lath, hotel chinaware, files and rasps, range boilers, woven wire fencing, bed blankets, paint brushes, sterling silver and lumber.

Over 500 men are engaged in the construction of the Canadian Steamship hotel at Murray Bay, the new Manior Richilieu, which when completed will have accommodation for more than 600 guests. The building will be in the French Manior style of architecture with a gray stone color and copper roof. A stone flagged terrace will extend to the edge of the cliff on which the Manior is situated, commanding a fine view of the river. An open air swimming pool, a dance hall, bridle paths and a golf course will comprise some of the attractions of the hotel when it is completed. The architect for the building is John Archibald, Montreal, the construction company is Wilde and Brydon of Toronto, and the consulting engineer is J. B. Carswell.

HEAT FROM OCEAN TO PRODUCE POWER

French Engineer Will Run Turbine by Using Temperature Variations.

Power from the sea—power in vast, incalculable quantities—is the glittering promise held out by Georges Claude, famous French physicist with revolutionary industrial successes already to his credit. For at an experimental plant on the Meuse River, near Liege, Belgium, Claude has just reported that he is successfully drawing forty kilowatts of electric power directly from the water's natural heat.

And now he is proposing to harness the ocean to drive dynamos and yield electric power in a manner startling in its ingenuity.

No fickle tide would drive his machines, writes Edwin Ketchum in the October issue of Popular Science Monthly. Instead, Dr. Claude points out, there is a far more dependable source of energy. The top of the ocean is hot in comparison with the bottom, which is cold. That difference in temperature, he says, will run a turbine.

Some months ago Dr. Claude exhibited a glass model to show how the scheme would work. He showed how water could be made to boil at the temperature of surface tropic sea water if atmospheric pressure above it were reduced to a near-vacuum. He explained how limitless supplies of warm water in the tropics might furnish steam in this way to run giant turbines; and how, after the machines were set running, cold water pumped from the depths, would condense the used steam and maintain a suction that would yield fresh vapor.

Later, on the Meuse River, he found the surface water just forty-six degrees hotter than that at the bottom, and there he set up a miniature turbine and a generator of fifty kilowatts capacity—enough to supply a small factory with all the power it needed. Following his tests, he announced that he could obtain power up to four fifths of the dynamo's capacity from the heat of the river.

Now Dr. Claude proposes first a larger experimental station, and then a full sized commercial plant. One of his projects is to establish floating power stations, great islands of steel, to dot the tropic oceans and, riding on anchored pontoons, to supply electric power by submarine cable to distant coasts. Such stations would be of huge capacity, possibly as much as 150,000 horsepower each. In more immediate prospect are coastal stations of perhaps 15,000 horsepower, distributing cheap power from the sea to neighboring cities and villages. Cuba, the Bahamas Hawaii and Ceylon afford admirable sites, Claude says.

Montreal, Que.—"I was very weak and unable to do my work. I could not sweep my house without sitting down three or four times and could not digest even water. For three years I could not get any relief and I was discouraged as I am the mother of six children. I read in the papers of the results obtained with Lydia E. THE PERIOD OF SILENCE.

The fact that November 11, the anniversary of the signing, of the Armistice that ended hostilities in the Great War, falls on Sunday this year makes it somewhat difficult for church-goers to observe the King's request for a two-minute period of silence at 11 o'clock.

An effort is being made to overcome that difficulty through the co-operation of those churches whose morning services usually commence at 11 o'clock, and it is believed that on this occasion many churches will begin their service at 10.30 in order that the period of silence may be observed without the interruptions that would almost inevitably be caused by late-comers.

This simple and impressive tribute to the memory of the soldiers who gave their lives in the Great War is a ceremony that should be entered into by Canadians wherever they may be, and it is felt that in view of the significance of the occasion and the earnestness of the King's request for a general observance of the period, the suggested change in the hour of commencing church services might well be adopted.

The Examiner is satisfied that church-goers would approve of the earlier hour in order that there may be a seemly and solemn carrying out of the Armistice Day ceremony.

BRING ON THE INQUIRY.

The explanation is made by Deputy-Commissioner Cuddy of the Provincial Police that R. C. Brien, the ex-constable whose charges in regard to the enforcement of the Liquor Control Act in Waterloo County, was dismissed because he has made no effort to pay his just debts.

We rather fancy, however, that the public is not so much concerned with the reason for the officer's losing his position as it is about whether or not the charges he has made are true.

Brien's attitude in financial matters may not have approached the standard considered desirable as a member of the Provincial Police force, but that does not alter the fact that he has made certain definite, detailed accusations of political interference in the enforcement of the Liquor Control Act in the county that has been under his jurisdiction.

And up to the time this article was written these definite, detailed charges had not been definitely dealt with.

The Examiner believes that a proper judicial inquiry into the whole affair is the only course that will satisfy the people of the Province.

General denials from department heads will not be accepted as a substitute for an investigation in which Brien would be given a chance to substantiate his claims or forced to admit that there is nothing in them.

THE OLD BOYS' REUNION.

The committee appointed by the City Council to consider the advisability of staging an old boys' reunion in Peterborough next summer has approved of the scheme and will recommend its adoption to the Council.

Should the report be adopted, as seems likely, there is no reason to doubt the willingness of the citizens generally to co-operate in making the reunion a huge success, or the enthusiasm with which the city's old boys and old girls scattered all over the continent will greet the announcement.

They are always glad to come back, those men and women who look upon Peterborough as their home city, and they will be particularly happy to come at a time when Peterborough will be en fete and when they can count upon renewing old acquaintances with scores of friends they have not seen for years.

An old boys' reunion is a big event; it will require hard work and enthusiasm to make it a complete success, and the community spirit behind it will have to be as wholehearted as it was in support of last year's Diamond Jubilee celebration.

But it can be done—and The Examiner believes it is well worth while doing.

THE SCOUT MOVEMENT.

The progress that is being made by the Scout movement in Peterborough, as evidenced by the fact that the enrollment has doubled in the past year, the membership jumping from 75 to 150, is gratifying to those who have made even a tentative investigation into what Scout work really means.

There are some old-fashioned individuals who apparently regard the Scout movement as camouflaged militarism.

It is, of course, nothing of the sort.

It is merely a successful effort to turn the gang spirit that exists in every boy into channels that lead to manliness and useful citizenship.

It converts the corner gang into a body of lively, active lads, banded together under a simple code that makes them better boys and better Canadians, and gives them an all-round training that will keep them out of trouble later on.

There is so much that is good and so little that is wrong in the Scout movement that it is a matter for general satisfaction to know that it is thriving mightily in Peterborough.

It would be all the better for the community if next year's annual report should show a membership of 300 Scouts.

PROMISING POLICY.

There are the most gratifying indications that the Government is really getting somewhere in its immigration policies. Premier Mackenzie King's recent assurance to the British public that Canada desires above everything to encourage the settlement of Old Countrymen on Canadian soil has been backed up with definite action in this country in proof of the assertion. Perhaps the most hopeful project which has recently been evolved is that decided upon in Edmonton the other day, when Hon. Robert Forke, Federal Minister of Immigration and Colonization, entered into arrangements with the Premier of Alberta, Mr. J. E. Brownlee, which ensures a steady flow to the Province of British men and women, who will come out fully prepared to do the special work which has to be done, and trained in schools erected for the purpose in the Motherland. There is also provision for housing the settlers and financial arrangements which should prove satisfactory. The women immigrants will be required to enter domestic service, for the most part.

This appears to be the very best method of handling the problem, and the experiment will be watched with the closest interest. The expense will be shared by the British, Dominion and Alberta Governments, if the scheme goes through in its present form, and this would seem to be the fair arrangement. Another feature which should especially commend itself to all parties concerned, is the regulation of numbers by the Alberta Government, so that there will be no danger of an excess of workers, entailing hardship to themselves and increasing the severity of the unemployment problem. Hon. Mr. Forke intends to visit all the Western Provinces and consult with their Governments as to the best means of carrying out a more progressive immigration policy. There is every hope, judging from developments in Alberta, that his tour will prove eminently successful.—Hamilton Spectator.

HIGHWAYS—JOBS.

Sir Thomas White, a former Minister of Finance, makes the interesting and reasonable suggestion that one way to encourage immigration is to embark upon a national highway building program that will provide employment for a large number of men. Most of the schemes put forward for retaining settlers he regards as altogether too costly. The main thing, Sir Thomas believes, is to offer jobs, and an extensive program of highway construction would fit in.

Sir Thomas recalled, in a speech before the Empire Club in Toronto, that in the '80's and '90's and in the first few years of the present century, there had been a heavy influx of newcomers to Canada, due to the important railway construction then in progress and the great demand that existed for labor. Much the same effect could be secured now, he believed, by commencement of road building on a large scale. Besides opening up new land for development, the construction of highways would provide employment for a large number of immigrants. Sir Thomas added that the grants made by the Dominion authorities to highway construction, at the end of the war, had been productive of much benefit to the country, and he intimated that it would be an excellent idea for Ottawa to return to the discarded system or to initiate a road building program on its own account.
